A BRIEF CHAPTER OF CRIME.

A Married Man Seduces a Girl and Elopes with Her.

From the Cleveland Leader, June 22.

We have refrained, several days, from publishing an aggravated elopement case—the scene of which was laid in Elyria and this city—because the police here had plans and purposes in view which would have been frustrated by giving the affair publicity. The facts in the case are briefly these: On Tuesday night, the 13th inst., Richard Hodshon, of Elyria, drove a daughter of Thomas Collier, of that village, a girl about sixteen or seventeen years old, to Rocky river, where they were to be met by Samuel Pinkett, a butcher, and a long time resident of that place. The driver took the wrong road, and as a consequence the parties did not meet at the appointed rendezvous. The couple pushed on to this city, and about eight o'clock next morning found Pinkett at a certain hotel on the West side. Taking breakfast there, Hodshon left the party and went back to Elyria, while Pinkett took the girl over to the establishment No. 88 Orange St., kept by Dr. Judson. It may be stated here that Pinkett had come out here a day or two previous, and engaged accommodations for this girl whom he had seduced, and who was enciente, and that he had engaged his friend Hodshon to drive her to the rendezvous aforesaid.

Of course there was great excitement n the Collier household next morning. when it was discovered the girl was missing, and also a lot of silver ware, ewelry, clothing, etc. The news spread abroad, and when Hodshon returned about three o'clock Wednesday afternoon, he was suspected and arrested on a warrant issued by Justice Metcalf, on a charge of grand larceny, and lodged in ail.

Meantime the father of the girl, with lepnty sheriff Wilson, came on to this ity, and the police here took the mater in hand, and two days were spent ruitlessly in the search for the guilty arties. It was feared at the time that hey had eloped for good; that Pinkett ad deserted his wife and four children, nd taken, for better or for worse, this eak child, and had made for Canada. Ir. Collier, wearied out with over-excitement and terrible suspense, had gone n the Saturday morning train but a ispatch from Marshal Schmitt, that afernoon, announcing that the girl had een found here and was very sick, reailed the anxious father that evening. Ie proceeded at once, on his arrival, to he house above mentioned, and stayed ith his erring child that night. Sunay morning Marshal Schmitt called at he establishment, and satisfied himself rom the "Doctor's" own admissions, hat the girl had been put under treatent for effecting an abortion.

Pinkett was arrested here by the poice, but escaped. He passed through idgeville about two o'clock Sunday norning, was seen and identified, and ollowed to Elyria by a man who inormed Sheriff Hitchcock. About nine 'clock that evening, the Sheriff, with our assistants, proceeded to Pinkett's ouse. One of the party said that there as no light in the dwelling: that two f them guarded the front door, while e sheriff and the rest of the braves ent around to the rear of the house, nocked, entered, called for a light, but ere told by Mrs. P. that she had no andle. She protested, over and over, hat Pinkett was not at home. The herif happened to have matches in his ocket, and he soon struck up light nough to guide him to the bed-room oor. He entered, looked in and under e bed—no Sam was there. He push l the door back, when lo! it would not o clear back without reducing to pulp nd pumice the body of Pinkett! He ad got out of bed, and was hardly preentable in mixed society. He took the iscovery in quite a jovial mood, and, ke Mrs. Jeff. Davis, wanted time to ress. The Sheriff managed affairs unl he had got irons on the wrist of Samel, the butcher. He was soon encased n breeches, and marched off to jail.

The girl is still here at the 'Doctor's,' nd is now much improved. She will hortly bear removal to the home and mily which she has disgraced. We o not know as to the degree of her uilt. She is young, and doubtless ielded in a moment of weakness, to the ase importunings of this married retch, who deserves, if man ever derved, the infliction of the heaviest penly known to law. We trust that both se scoundrels, he and his friend, will ave the chance of soon seeing the inde of the penitentiary, and long may ey wave there.

AN Illustrated Catalogue, containing full description of style, and testimonials of the most eminent Musicians, as to the superior excellence of our instruments—will be sent free to any address.

THE AUTOMATIC ORGAN

In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly announce the greatest triumph in musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments, with double bellows, and two pedals for the feet to operate but the want of the reversed or Exhaustion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated.

Another objection to this method of blowing was that, both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell Within the past two years, instrumetsn constructed on this European plan of 'double blowers," have been manufactured in this country, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an appendage is nearly impossible.

Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of tone. We predict for this invention a brilliant future.

THE MELODEON & SCHOOL ORGAN.

For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly. With our increased facilities, we feel warranted in assuring our patrons that their orders will be promptly met, and solicit a continuance of their patronage.

Caution to purchasers.

All our instruments have upon the name board, in full, "GEO. A. PRINCE & Co." When a dealer represents any other instrument as "the same as ours," it is usually a mere attempt to sell an inferior instrument, on which he can make a larger profit.

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

Helmbold's

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA,

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the Skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect HELMBOLD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA. It cleanses and renovates the Blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought for, and now, for the first time the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

O

HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH,

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upwards of 30,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basis, Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works:

See Dispensatory of the United States.

See Professor Dewees' valuable works on the Practice of Physic.

See remarks made by the celebrated Dr. Physic, Phila.

See remarks made by Dr. Ephraim McDowell, a celebrated Physician and Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland, and published in the Transactions of the King and Queen's Journal.

Execution of the Assassins of President Lincoln.

Payne, Harold, Mrs. Surratt and Atzerot Hung.

FULL PARTICULARS.

FROM WASHINGTON,

The Sentence of the Assassination Conspirators—How it was Received by the Prisoners.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Republican.

WASHINGTON, July 6.

The announcement of the findings of the military commission in the cases of the conspirators, made to-day about noon, completely absorbed public attention during the remainder of the day. Scarcely anything was talked of in the streets, hotels, and in every place where citizens mostly congregate. The general sentiment seemed to justify the findings of the commission; but the short period allowed the prisoners between the announcement of the sentences and their execution did not generally appear to meet public approval. This, however, is in accordance with the practice of courts martial, sentences in such cases being executed almost immediately after the findings are officially published. It was intended that the announcement should have been made this morning in the papers throughout the country by the Associated Press, the decision of the President having been made yesterday; but owing to some misunderstanding, it was not announced until to-day.

The President having nearly recovered from his indisposition, yesterday invited Judge Advocate General Holt to the White House, and, after mature deliberation, the President approved the findings and sentences in each case as rendered by the commission.

About noon to-day General Hancock, who is charged with the execution of the sentences, proceeded to the penitentiary, and in company with Major General Hartsauft, visited each prisoner, and informed each that the verdict had been rendered. No one was present at this interview but the two Generals and the turnkey.

Mrs. Surratt on learning her fate, was intensely depressed and wept bitterly. She was alone, her daughter having left her a short time before, not knowing that the sentence was to be announced to her mother to day.

Payne seemed to regard it as a foregone conclusion, and manifested little or no emotion. He has evidently nerved himself to meet his death with firm resolution.

Atzeroth, was violently agitated and almost paralyzed with fear. He evidently hoped for a different result; but it is difficult to see how he could have expected it to have been otherwise.

Harold listened to the reading of the order in his case with boyish indifference: but soon after became impressed with the solemnity of his situation, and appeared more serious, asking that his sisters might be allowed to visit him.

Payne asked that Dr. Stracker, a Baptist clergyman of Baltimore, be sent for, which was done, and that gentleman arrived here this morning, and is in attendance upon the prisoner.

Mrs. Suratt asked that Fathers Haltes and Wigel, Catholic priests, of Baltimore, be sent for. Her wish was immediately complied with, and both these clergymen arrived this morning and were admitted to her cell.

Atzeroth could name no clergyman he wished to attend him; but, upon General Hartsauf naming Rev. Mr. Butler, a Lutheran clergyman of Washington City the prisoner desired that he might be sent for, and he was in attendance upon the prisoner early in the afternoon.

The four prisoners will be hung tomorrow between 10 and 2 o'clock, probably about 12.

Five of Harrold's sisters visited him this afternoon at the prison, and the scene was truly distressing. After they left him they wept bitterly in the entrance room down stairs. Two are grown ladies; the others are young misses; but they all seemed to realize the dreadful situation of their brother. One of them brought a small basket of cakes and little delicacies for the prisoner, which was in charge of Gen. Hartsauf to be examined before being given to him. One of his sisters sat down and wrote a note to her father, which was also left in charge of Gen. Hartsauf to give Harold.

The scaffold is being built this afternoon in the south yard of the prison, and will be large enough to execute all at one time. The coffins and burial clothes are being prepared this afternoon and evening at the Arsenal.

Harold's sister called at the White House this afternoon, pleading for mercy, and Father Walker and Mr. Aiken, one of Mrs. Surratt's counsel, also called on behalf of Mrs. Surratt; but the President declined to see any of them, and refered them all to Judge Holt. It would seem to be the determination of the President to decline interfering in the matter, and there is no doubt that all those condemned to death will be executed to-morrow,—Mrs. Surratt among the number. Mr. Aiken says he has some after-discovered testimony to offer favorable to her case, but it is not probable that the President will relent.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—In accordance with the finding and sentence of the Military Commission, which President Johnson approved yesterday, David E. Harold, Lewis Payne, Mrs. Mary E. Surratt and George A. Atzerot are to be hung to morrow by the proper military authorities.

Dr. Mudd, Samuel Arnold and O'Laughlin are to be imprisoned for life. Spangler is sentenced to six years imprisonment at hard labor in the Penitentiary at Albany.

WASHINGTON, July, 7.—All the condemned conspirators sentenced to be hung were executed to-day

On petition of Mary E. Surratt, through her counsel, Messrs. Aiken and Clamsett, Judge Wylie, of the Supreme Court of this District directed an issue of habeas corpus to Gen. Hancock, commanding him to produce in court at 10 o'clock this morning the body of Mary E. Surratt, with cause and day of detention. The writ was served on Gen. Hancock at the Metropolitan Hotel at 8 o'clock this morning by United States Marshal Gooding.

He immediately consulted with the Attorney General and Secretary of War. At 10:30 the General had not obeyed the writ.

This was brought to the notice of the court by her counsel, and the judge said he had not power to enforce the writ.

Early to-day guards were placed all around the arsenal grounds to prevent the intrusion of persons to the scene of execution, none being admitted excepting those previously supplied with tickets from Gen. Hancock.

The relations of Mrs. Surratt and Harold spent several hours with them during the forenoon, and they were also attended by their spiritual advisers, as also were Payne and Atzerot.

A few minutes after one o'clock the outer prison door was opened, and Mrs. Surratt was suported on her way to the gallows by military officers. Next followed Atzerot, Harold and Payne, accompanied by a guard and their respective ministers of the gospel. Front seats were provided for them in the following order:—Mrs. Surratt, Payne, Harold and Atzerot. The officers entrusted with the execution and the ministers occupied intermediate positions.

Major General Hartsuff, who has been from the commencement in charge of the proceedings, came forward and read the order of the War Department, approving the sentence and ordering the penalty of death to be inflicted.

A heavy guard was stationed on the walls surrounding the grounds, while below soldiers were formed on two sides of the square. Perhaps several hundred civilians were present, anxious spectators of the scene.

One of the priests attending on Mrs. Surrat repeated a short prayer, to which Payne, who was seated next to her, attentively listened.—The minister who had been administering to Payne, expressed in the name of the latter his sincere thanks to Gen. Hartsuff and the officers and soldiers who had charge of him for their personal kindness. They had not uttered an unkind word nor given an unpleasant gesture but seemed to compassionate his misfortune.

The minister then uttered a brief prayer, asking for Payne the forgiveness of all his sins and a passage out of this world into the joys of Heaven.

The minister who attended Harrold also returned thanks for the kind treatment of the prisoner, and offered a prayer that God would receive his soul. Harrold was affected to tears.

The minister who attended Atzeroth also returned thanks for him to Gen. Hartsuff and other officers for kind attention, and then invoked the mercy of God upon the prisoners.

The condemned were then required to rise from their seats, when the chairs were removed. They were now all on the drops. Their hands were fastened behind them and their legs bandaged both below and above the knees and white caps placed over their heads.

Atzerot, while being prepared for the execution exclaimed: "Gedtlemen, farewell! Take care and good bye, gentlemen now before me!"

One of the clergymen standing near exclaimed—"May we all meet in the other world!"

As soon as the ropes were put around their necks, Mrs. Suratt's being the last one adjusted, the section of the platform on which they had been standing suddenly fell, and the culprits were hanging several feet from the ground.

Mrs. Suratt and Payne scarcely moved a muscle. Atzerot exhibited some twitching, but Harold showed more nervous sensibility than any of the others.

The bodies hung until life was extinct and were afterwards given over for burial, the rough coffins being already at hand for that purpose. The arrangements for the execution were perfect. Major General Hancock was present throughout the proceedings.

It is said Payne last night made a statement in behalf of Mrs. Suratt, exonerating her from complicity, and that another person subscribed to an affidavit impeaching the testimony of an important witness against her.

Strong efforts were made to induce the President to reprieve Mrs. Surratt by her counsel and the Roman Catholic clergy, but to no purpose. The President was firm but courteous. It is reported that Mrs. Suratt handed her spiritual adviser a statement or confession.

The World in its account of the execution, says Atzerot made the following statement yesterday morning:

"He took a room at the Dirkwood House on Thursday in order to get a pass from Vice-President Johnson to go to Richmond. Booth was to leave the Richmond Theatre and the President was to be invited to attend it when visiting Richmond, and captured there. Harrold brought the pistol and knife to the room about two and a half o'clock on Friday. He (Atzerot) said he would not have anything to do with the murder of Johnson, when Booth said that Harrold had more courage than Atzerot, and he wanted Atzerot to be with Harrold to urge him to to do it. There was a meeting at a restaurant about the middle of March, at which John Suratt, O'Laughlin, Booth, Arnold, Payne, Harrold and myself were present, when a plan to capture the President was discussed.

They had heard the President was to visit a camp, and they proposed to capture him coach and all, drive through old fields to T. B. where the coach was to be left and fresh horses were to be got, and the party proceed to the river and take the boat.

Harrold took a buggy to T. B. in anticipation that Mr. Lincoln would be captured and he was to go with the party to the river.

Slavery had put him on the side of the South—as he had heard it preached in church that the curse of God was upon the slaves, for they were turned black. He always hated the nigger and felt that they should be kept in ignorance.

He had never received any money from Booth, although he had been promised that if they were successful they should never want: that they would be honored throughout the South, and they could secure the exchange of prisoners and the reorganization of the confederacy.

Washington specials say the bodies of Mrs. Surratt, Payne, Atzerot, and Harold still remain in the graves to which they were consigned yesterday. The graves are guarded by sentinels. The military authorities had not decided this morning whether or not the remains should be delivered to their friends.

Mudd, O'Laughlin, Arnold and Spangler will be taken to the Penitentiary at Albany on Monday.

The Time's account of the execution says Harold made a statement yesterday to the effect that in the original plot his part was to shut off the gas in the theatre, and he had once rehearsed his part with Booth. Afterwards, however, he was required to be in waiting near the Navy Yard Bridge, to assist Booth in his escape.

Payne, the night before the execution, said, so far as he knew, Mrs. Surratt had nothing to do with the assassination plot.

Thrilling Developments.

THE CHICAGO CONSPIRACY.

From the Atlantic Monthly for July.

The question was soon answered. About this time Lieut. Col. B. H. Hill, commanding the Military District of Michigan, received a missive from a person in Canada, who represented himself to be a Major in the Confederate service. He expressed a readiness to disclose a dangerous plot against the Government, provided he were allowed to take the oath of allegiance, and rewarded according to the value of his information. The Lieutenant Colonel read the letter, tossed it aside, and went about his business. No good, he had heard, ever came out of Nazereth. Soon another missive of the same purport, and from the same person, came to him. He tossed this aside also, and went again about his business. But the Major was a Southern Yankee—the "cutest" sort of Yankee. He had something to sell, and was bound to sell it, even if he had to throw his neck into the bargain. Taking his life in his hand, he crossed the frontier; and so it came about, that, late one night, a tall man, in a slouched hat, rusty regimentals, and immense jack-boots, was ushered into the private apartment of the Lieutenant Colonel at Detroit. It was the Major. He had brought his wares with him. They had cost him nothing, except some small sacrifice of such trivial matters as honor, fraternal feeling, and good faith towards brother conspirators, whom they might send to the gallows; but they were of immense value,—would save millions of money, and rivers of loyal blood. So the Major said, and so the Lieutenant Colonel thought, as coolly, with his cigar in his mouth, and his legs over the arm of his chair, he drew the important secrets from the rebel officer. Something good, might, after all, come out of Nazareth. The Lieutenant Colonel would trust the fellow—trust him, but pay him nothing, and send him back to Toronto to worm out the whole plan from the rebel leaders, and to gather the whole details of the projected expedition. But the Major knew with whom he was dealing. He had faith in Uncle Sam, and he was right in having it, for, truth to tell, if Uncle Sam does not always pay, he can always be trusted.

It was not long before the Major reappeared with his budget, which he duly opened to the Lieutenant Colonel. Its contents were interesting, and I will give them to the reader as the Union officer gave them to the General commanding the Northern Department. His communication is dated August 16th. It says:

I have the honor to report that I had another interview last evening with Major ——, whose disclosures in relation to a rebel plot for the release of the prisoners at Camp Douglas I gave you in my letter of the 8th instant. I have caused inquiries to be made in Canada about Major ——, and understand that he does possess the confidence of the rebel agent, and that his statements are entitled to respect.

"He now informs me that he proceeded to Toronto, as he stated he would when I last saw him; that about 200 picked men, of the rebel refugees in Canada, are assembled at that place, who are armed with revolvers and supplied with funds and transportation tickets to Chicago; and that already 150 have proceeded to Chicago. That he (Major) and the balance of the men are waiting for instructions from Capt. Hines, who is the commander of the expedition; that Capt Hines left Toronto last Thursday for Chicago, and at this time is doubtless at Niagara Falls, making the final arrangements with the chief rebel agents.

"Major ——— states that Sanders, Holbrook and Col. Hicks were at Toronto while he was there, engaged in making preparations, etc. The general plan is to accomplish the release of the prisoners at Camp Douglas, and in doing so they will be assisted by an armed organization at Chicago. After being released, the prisoners will be armed, and being joined by the organization in Chicago, will be mounted and proceed to Camp Morton (at Indianapolis,) and there accomplish a similar object in releasing prisoners. That for months Rebel emissaries have been traveling through the North West, that their arrangements are fully matured; and that they expect to receive large accessions of force from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. They expect to destroy the works at Ironton.

'Major——— says further that he is in hourly expectation of receiving instructions to proceed to Chicago with the balance of the party; that he shall put up at the City Hotel, corner of Lake and State-sts., and register his name as George———; and that he will then place himself in communication with Col. Sweet, commanding at Chicago.'

The Major did not 'put up at the corner of Lake and State-sts.,' and that fact relieved the Government from the trouble of estimating the value of his services, and, what is more to be deplored, rendered it impossible for the Commandant to recognize and arrest the Rebel leaders during the sitting of the Chicago Convention. What became of the Major is not known. He may have repented of his good deeds, or his treachery may have been detected and he put out of the way by his accomplices.

It will be noticed how closely the Rebel officer's disclosures accorded with the information gathered through indirect channels by the astute Commandant. When the report was conveyed to him, he may have smiled at this proof of his own sagacity; but he made no change in his arrangements. Quietly and steadily he went on strengthening the camp, augmenting the garrison, and shadowing the footsteps of all suspicious newcomers.

At last the loyal, Democrats came together to the great Convention, and with them came Satan also. Bands of ill-favored men, in bushy hair, bad whisky, and seedy homespun, staggered from the railway station and hung about the street corners. A reader of Dante or Swedenborg would have taken them for delegates from the lower regions, had not their clothing been plainly perishable, while the devil wears everlasting garments. The had come, they announced, to make a Peace President, but they brandished bowie-knives, and bellowed for war even in the sacred precincts of the Peace Convention. But war or peace, the Commandant was ready for it.

For days reinforcements had poured into camp, until it actually bristled with bayonets. On every side it was guarded with cannon, and day and night mounted men patrolled the avenues to give notice of the first hostile gathering. But there was no gathering. The conspirators were there, 2,000 strong, with 5,000 Illini to back them. From every point of the compass—from Canada, Missouri, Southern Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, New York, and even loyal Vermont, bloody-minded men had come to give the Peace candidate a red baptism. But "discretion is the better part of valor." The conspirators saw the preparations and disbanded. Not long afterward one of the leaders said to me, "We had spies in every public place—in the telegraph office, the camp itself, and even close by the commandant's headquarters, and knew hourly all that was passing. From the observatory, opposite the camp, I myself saw the arrangements for our reception. We outnumbered you two to one, but our force was badly disciplined. Success in such circumstances was impossible; and on the third day of the Convention we announced from headquarters that an attack at that time was impracticable. It would have cost the lives of hundreds of the prisoners, and perhaps the capture or destruction of the whole of us." So the storm blew over, without the leaden rain, and its usual accompaniment of thunder and lightning.

A dead calm followed, during which the Illini slunk back to their holes; the prisoners took to honest ink; the bogus "Butternuts" walked the streets clad like Christians, and the Commandant went to sleep with only one eye open. So the world rolled round into November.

The Presidential election was near at hand—the great contest on which hung the fate of the Republic. The Commandant was convinced of this, and wanted to marshal his old constituents for the final struggle between Freedom and Despotism. He obtained a furlough to go home and mount the stump for the Union. He was about to set out, his private Secretary was ready, and the carriage waiting at the gateway, when an indefinable feeling took possession of him, holding him back, and warning him of coming danger. It would not be shaken off, and reluctantly he postponed the journey till the morrow. Before the morrow facts were developed which made his presence in Chicago essential to the safety of the city and the citizens. The snake was scotched, not killed. It was preparing for another and a deadlier spring.

On the 2d of November, a well known citizen of St. Louis, openly a secessionist, but secretly a loyal man, acting as a detective for the Government, left that city in pursuit of a criminal. He followed him to Springfield, traced him from there to Chicago, and on the morning of November 4th, about the hour the Commandant had the singular impression I have spoken of, arrived in the latter city. He soon learned that the bird had again flown.

'While passing along the street' (I now quote from his report to the Provost-Marshal General of Missouri), and trying to decide what course to pursue—whether to follow this man to New York or to return to St. Louis—I met an old acquaintance, a member of the order of 'American Knights,' who informed me that Marmaduke was in Chicago. After conversing with him awhile I started up the street, and about one block further on met Dr. E. W. Edwards, a practicing physician in Chicago, (another old acquaintance), who asked me if I knew of Southern soldiers being in town. I told him I did; that Marmaduke was there. He seemed very much astonished, and asked how I knew. I told him. He laughed, and then said that Marmaduke was at his house, under the assumed name of Burling, and mentioned, as a good joke, that he had a British passport, vised by the United States consul under that name. I gave Edwards my card to hand to Marmaduke (who was another 'old acquaintance'), and told him I was stopping at the Briggs House.

'That same evening I again met Dr. Edwards on the street, going to my hotel. He said Marmaduke desired to see me, and I accompanied him to his house.' There in the course of a long conversation. 'Marmaduke told me that he and several Rebel officers were in Chicago to cooperate with other parties in releasing the prisoners of Camp Douglas and other prisons, and in inaugurating a rebellion at the North. He said the movement was under the auspices of the 'Order of American Knights' (to which order the Society of the Illini belonged], and was to begin operations by an attack on Camp Douglas on election day.'

The detective did not know the commandant, but he soon made his acquaintance and told him the story. "The young man," he says, "rested his head upon his hand, and looked as is he had lost his mother." And well he might!

A mine had opened at his feet; with but 800 men in garrison it was to be sprung upon him. Only seventy hours were left! What would he not give for twice as many? Then he might secure reinforcements. He walked the room some time in silence, then, turning to the detective, said, "Do you know where the other leaders are?" "I do not."

'Cant you find out from Marmaduke?'

'I think not. He said what he did say voluntarily. If I were to question him he would suspect me.' That was true, and Marmaduke was not of the stuff that betrays a comrade on compulsion. His arrest, therefore, would profit nothing, and might hasten the attack for which the commandant was so poorly prepared. He sat down and wrote a hurried dispatch to his General. Troops! troops! for God's sake, troops! was its burden. Sending it off by a courier—the telegraph told tales—he rose and again paced the room in silence. After a while, with a heavy heart, the detective said 'Good night,' and left him.

What passed with the commandant during the next two hours I do not know. He may have prayed—he is a praying man—and there was need of prayer, for the torch was ready to burn millions of property, the knife whetted to take thousands of lives. At the end of two hours, a stranger was ushered into the apartment where the Commandant was still pacing the floor. From the lips and pen of this stranger I have what followed, and I think it may be relied on.

Progress of Pacification and organization.

From the Columbia Cor N. Y. Herald.

Negro Suffrage.

There is one subject upon which it is impossible to talk with the Southern people without at once raising a breeze, and upon which it is impossible to reason with them; and that is, the policy of granting negroes the right of suffrage.

On this they are united. No amount of reasoning can convince them of the right or justice of the plan, and nothing but the force of arms will ever induce them to submit to it. They say they give up their slaves willingly; but, when you come to put him upon a social or political equality with us, it is more than we can stand. In time they may be induced to grant the privilege upon certain conditions, such as for instance being able to read and write, and the owner of a thousand dollars in government securities. I doubt the feasibility of church membership qualifications, as nine-tenths of them are members of the church.

As far as South Carolina is concerned, I think it would be perfectly safe to place it upon the ground of being able to read and write, at the same time restricting the whites to the same test; for in the first year there will be more negroes who possess that accomplishment in the State than white people. The negroes certainly are very desirous of enlightenment, and the first use of their freedom, as far as my experience goes, is to learn to read. Their opportunities, as yet, are very limited, as the citizens do all in their power to discourage it; but it is frequently the case that I see negroes who by some means have learned to read, seated by the roadside teaching their less enlightened brethren and sisters the alphabet. Schools will undoubtedly be established as soon as the wants of this class are known at the North.

Upon my arrival in Columbia yesterday I found the citizens very much excited in consequence of a negro mass meeting, which was being held in a grove near the town. Upon inquiry of some of them upon their return as to the object of their gathering, I learned it was for the purpose of making arrangements for the proper celebration of the Fourth of July. Several hundred of this class of people were present dressed in their holiday garb, made speeches, passed resolutions, and concluded arrangements for celebrating the Fourth. After much discussion it was finally settled that their celebration should consist of a dinner to the Federal officers and soldiers doing garrison duty there, as a token of their appreciation of the part taken by them in elevating and protecting the colored race. The sum of four hundred dollars was raised on the spot for the purpose.

Ford's Theatre—The Brandy Booth Drank.

Ford's Theatre inside presents a scene of the wildest confusion. All the properties, wardrobes, furniture, etc., are piled upon the stage, preparatory to packing and removing. The purchasers propose to pay $10,000 to Mr. Ford this week, when the property will be conveyed to them. Strangers in the city are continually calling and asking admission to the building; but thus far none have been admitted, save a few members of the press. Notwithstanding the close surveillance of the guards who have had the theatre in charge, the building has been roughly used. Curiosity-seekers have completely whittled away the bench upon which 'Peanut John' sat whilst holding booth's horse, and about a yard square has been cut away from the green baize carpet, surrounding the spot where Booth's feet struck when he jumped upon the stage, after he murdered the President. One of these curious visitors entered the saloon adjoining the theatre, where Booth took his last drink of brandy just before he murdered Mr. Lincoln. The visitor inquired of the barkeeper: 'Have you the same bottle on hand out of which Booth drank on the night of the assassination?' 'Yes, sir.' 'And the same brandy in it?' 'Yes, sir,' 'Can I have a drink of that same brandy out of that same bottle?' 'Yes, sir.' 'Let's have it.' The visitor tastes the brandy, makes a very wry face and continues; 'And that's the same brandy Booth drank?' 'Yes, sir.' 'Well, I don't wonder that he killed the President. A drink of that brandy would make a man kill his grandmother.'—Washington Letter.

ankato, Minn, Friday July 14, 1865

The counterpart of the national gedy which was enacted last April Fords' theatre, was performed at ashington on Friday last. By refei g to our first page a detailed account y be seen. Spangler is sentenced to x years imprisonment, Dr. Mudd, muel Arrold, and O'Laughlin to im- isonment for life, and David E. Har- l, Lewis Payne, Mrs. Mary E. Surratt, l George E Atzerott, paid the death alty for the assassination of Presi- t Lincoln, Amen!

ATLANTIC CABLE.

Twenty three hundred miles of the lantic telegraph cable have been put the Great Eastern and will be paid t from Trinity Bay westward as soon arrangements are completed. The mpany have already announced their tes which are so enormously large at more than ten times the cost of the legraph will be realized in one year. They had better not count their chick- s too soon; accidents will happen in e best regulated families, and there is assurance that the cable can be suc- ssfully laid. We shall soon hear how e enterprise progresses.

THE OTHER SIDE.

We are in possession of a letter from ol. Pfaender which he requests should given to the public, as explanatory the motive which prompted the com- unication of Capt. T. M. Smith, which peared in our columns on the 23d ult. We are not personally acquainted ith either of these gentlemen, but fair ay suggests the propriety of inserting e following communication, the space r which is cheerfully granted, ditor Mankato Union.

Allow me to inform you, that an ar- cle published in your issue of the 23d lt. purporting to be "on frontier de- nces." was in fact gotten up by T. M. mith formerly Capt. of Co. F 2d Min. av., for my special benefit, and is easi- y explained if I state, that he considers e the cause of the termination of his ilitary career.

I deem it unnecessary to say a word reply to the gross misrepresentations f the Captain, but would simply say to our readers, that I have no reason to ear a rigid investigation of my manage- ment of the command that has been trusted to me.

WILLIAM PFAENDER,
Lieut Col. 2d Minn, Cav.

ort Ridgely July 3d 1865.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

President Johnson has issued a proc- amation relative to South Carolina, imilar to the ones appointing Gover- ors in the other rebellious States. Ben- min F. Perry is appointed Provisional overnor. All the States are now sup- lied with Governors excepting Flori- a.

FROM TEXAS.

We have been shown a letter from Capt. W. C, Durkee, son of Dr. Benj. Durkee, of this city, who is now acting as Assistant Adjutant General at Brownsville, Texas. From it we take the following interesting items.

"Weitzels corps is now at Brazor, and troops are also being landed at Galvestin and other posts in this State. What this is all for you can Judge as well as I can. I presume little Max, has received marching orders before this time and has his knapsack packed ready for leaving. If not, he had better, for go he must. It is surprising what unanimity exists among all classes, soldiers and citizens, rebel and union men in regard to this. Most of the rebels are as anxious to go into this enterprise as we are. The Teutonic Mexicano authorities just across the river are full of trouble, and realize the fact that they cannot resist us in Mexico. As yet we have open communication with them, and appear on the best of terms. Yesterday we sent a regiment up the river about 500 miles, the first troops who have yet gone into the interior. The inhabitants are all glad to see us coming, as neither life nor property is safe from the hands of marauders who fill the State of Texas. To day is Sunday. It is very warm, of course, but with the assistance of a good shade and ice I can manage to keep cool. I have just been to Catholic church. It was interesting enough and there was a mongrel audiance varying from the prettiest of castillion damsels to the most horrid specimens of Mexican humanity, and with this latter class Indians bear no comparison. Schools are being established and every thing is running as regularly as though no army were present."

STATE TREASURER.

The following response to our proposition for the nomination of Major E. H. Smith as State Treasurer, we clip from the St. Peter Tribune:

We heartily endorse the Union's election for this office. The Minnesota Valley is entitled to at least this much favor in the making up of a State ticket, and, as far as we are concerned, we are willing to concede to our sister town Mankato, the priviledge of selecting the man. Major Smith is a man eminently qualified for the position, and as Blue Earth county seems to be a unit in favor of him, let Nicollet county be, also. We presume that Mr. Shaeffer will not seek the position again. Six years in the department ought to satisfy his ambition for the present. Smith, of Mankato, will be urged for the nomination by the Republicans of the Minnesota Valley.

POST OFFICE.

Further developments supported by the representations of the Record of last week, confirm us in the belief, and render it a fact beyond dispute, that the remonstance spoken of by the Record against the appointment of Mr. Gude for post master, did originate with the simon pure democracy of this town. It was both penned and circulated by a democrat, and nothing but a plain spoken falshood can dodge this charge.

There doubtless was, as we said last week, some rivalry for the appointment which opened to the unterrified an opportunity for driving a distracting wedge, into the republican ranks. The cross grained party didn't split though, for the reason which is true, the Record to the contrary notwithstanding, that there was no applicant for the office at the time Mr. Gude received his appointment. Some American republicans we are informed signed the remonstrance, but they were mostly newcomers, or quasi republicans and were ignorant of the services rendered to the party by Mr. Gude for many years past, and through the recent campaigns against the copperhead democracy. The old and tried, as well as most respectable of our party such as Judge Waite, Dr Wickersham, and Captain J. J. Thornton, and others would'nt touch the unclean thing. We are also informed that, to induce the German democrats to sign the remonstrance it was represented that it was a petition to continue Mrs. Sibley in office, and this is verified by the statement of the Record that the contest was between Mr. Gude and Miss. Sibley, neither of which in fact was true at that time.

The makeshift that Mr. Gude is not a German, and therefore not a representative of the German element, we hardly thought would be resorted to so long as it is well known that he is accepted as such by every German republican in town who together number over sixty voters. There is no Turner association in town of 20 or 30 men, to whom the Record asserts, pledges were made for his appointment, but sixty, which is about all the German republicans we have, were unanimously in favor of his appointment, if we may except one who perhaps desired the appointment himself. Mr. Gude's bondmen, are among the most respectable men in this city and represent a capital of nearly fifty thousand dollars. Will you deny that Mr. Record? The "imposition practiced" and the "pledges of Mr. Wilkinson" etc etc. mentioned by the Record all help to fill up a paper, and were only a rehash of old stereotyped charges usually kept on hand by the "outs."

As for the promise of the post office to Mr. Gude, if he was promised it, he should have it. We believe in rewards and punishments, both here and hereafter, and while we have an opportunity to reward a man for standing by the Union through good and evil report, we would welcome an opportunity to punish just such copperheads as the Record has had the pleasure of supporting. Provided, however, that such rewards do not compromise the public welfare. In the present case the integrity and industry of the appointee is not questioned. His more intimate friends vouch for other qualifications. If the appointing power has been deceived the fact will probably be discovered in due time.

—The 11th Reg. have arrived at Ft. Snelling and are being paid off. The 2d is expected in St. Paul to-morrow. The 1st is expected next week, and the 8th is also en route.

—It is thought that Jeff. Davis will be tried by a military commission for complicity in the Presidents assassination.

The discovery of more evidence confirming his guilt is the cause of the transfer to military jurisdiction.

—The St. Paul papers say that there are many strangers visiting the city, and that their numbers are daily increasing.

Miss Harris, the woman who shot and killed Mr Burroughs at the Treasury building in Washington last winter is now on trial. Last Saturday a witness testified that Miss Harris after shooting him admitted that the deceased had seduced her and that the homicide was premeditated.

—The seventh annual session of the Minnesota State Sabbath School association we are informed will meet at the Congregational Church in Lake City, on Tuesday July 18th 1865 at 11 oclock A.M.

—The first copy of the St. Peter Advertiser a new Democratic journal, just issued at that place is received. It is a five column sheet, but on account of the width of the column, it takes the size of a six column paper. We quite like its appearance, and as a newspaper wish it success; but in its advocacy of modern democratic principles we cannot bid it God speed. It is published by J. M. Perry & Son.

The Fourth at Sterling

For the Union.

The Fourth of July! And what is it more than any other day? Had you been in Sterling on the late Fourth you would have thought that if it had not been for the Fourth there would never have been a Fifth, or any other day in America,

Permit me to tell you' Mr. Editor, and the readers of your paper, what sort of a day we had. The day, physically, was a smiling one. Not too hot, or too cold, neither sultry nor windy. The place selected was a beautiful point of timber extenning into the lake, so that on three fifths of the circle of the horizon we had a lookout upon the water.

Four weeks before the auspicious day the inhabitants of Sterling met at P. O., and expended nearly all their energies in appointing committees. This preparatory work was done so thoroughly that most of us thought that nothing more was necessrry. I, in fact, quite forgot that I was on the committee on music; hence this most delightful part of the days exercises was unprovided for. At 10 o' clock the gray headed looked daggers at me as well they might.

The committee on speaking had done rather better, though for a time, perhaps the proper time, that committee had been quiescent, yet for a few days previous to the Fourth, Mankato, Garden City, Vernon Center, Shelbyville and Winnebago City had been solicited to furnish an orator of the day, but no favorable response.

At one time we heard that it was likely that Mr. Griswold, of the "Union" would probably be with us—of this I was glad. The name was familiar, his father I once knew, and the editor too, though then a stripling.

But short stories to interest. We had good speakers and plenty of them.

It was announced at an early hour that Dr. Welcome was on the ground, and would be the principal orator of the day. Welcome news! About the hour of eleven, Elder Craven of Mankato, and the Rev. Mr. Hathaway of Shelbyville came on to the ground. Dr Welcome spoke well. He struck the right note and kept the key save on one piont:—he thought that Virginia did right in hanging John Brown whose "soul goes marching on". I think some among the audience doubted the well-doing of Gov Wise and his compatriots in that death work. In no one act, perhaps could he, or any other man, more effectually have killed slavery, and ruined the South, than by hanging John Brown.

Next on the platform was Rev. Mr. Hathaway. I know from the physiognomy of the man, and every muscle that lies about his fat sides, that he can give or take a joke well, and so I have no fears but the next time we meet we shall shake hands in friendship, the liberties I take notwithstanding.

Mr. Hathaway was born an orator.

One proof of it is that he can begin a speech at either end or in the middle. Some men, if they don't begin right are never right—not so with Mr Hathaway.

If half of his utterances were wrong or antagonistic, still the whole would be good. He says so many right things in the right place, that all defects are covered up; and, then again, he is so thoroughly Union in every fiber of his soul and body he can but make a good Union speech on every occasion. He venerates the Declaration of Independence more than most men do their Bibles. The Old Flag is to him an emblem, I don't know but I might say an assurance of salvation to all that fight under it. Nay more, his charity stops not here, he thinks that many a poor boy that has beat the drum to inspire the rebels to fight will come out "all right" at the end of the journey of life.

But when he came to descant upon the end of the leading rebels, here his faith staggered, his analogies failed—for them he has no salvation. It is like that hoped for from a spurious and defunct Democracy, well compared by him to salvation from "Anguintum". Not only can Bro. Hothaway pronounce a Fourth of July oration, but it is said that he is equally at home in Politics and Religion, and on Temperance few are his equal.

After the close of his speech we indulged our gastric propensities on roast beef, chickens and turkies, and, as to the pastries, there was no end to them even after we had eaten and were full. After refreshments, other speakers were called out and did credit to themselves. In order they were, Elder Craven, Rev. J. E. Conrad, John Kellet and Elder Case.

Space forbids that I should even drop a remark upon the themes they introduced save that they were all interesting and found a hearty reciprocation in the congregation. Granting the elective franchise to the Black-man was advocated by nearly all the speakers. It was thought that, as he has been so thoroughly loyal and has rendered such important service to the country, turning the scale in our favor, that it would be cruel in the extreme to deny him this natural right of an American citizen.

Finally we had a good time—plenty of speaking and toasts—plenty to eat and good cold water to drink.

Educational.

Punctual Attendance of Scholars at School.

There is no greater evil pertaining to our schools than irregularity of attendance. It interferes with the whole order and system of the school; is fatal to the right training and progress of such scholars, and a fruitful source of annoyance and discouragements to teachers.

Did parents rightly understand the importance of the punctual attendance of children, the magnitude of the toils resulting from the lack of it, they would not keep them out a single day for the purpose of doing some trifling errand, picking berries or visiting, but they would by all means secure their constant and seasonable attendance. When a scholar has been registered to attend school that should be regarded as his business and no other should be allowed to interfere with it. Otherwise the pupil will come soon to regard the advantages of his school as of little account.

As a general rule children should attend school regularly or not at all. The habits of the children are of more consequence than any mere book knowledge he can learn. When he goes to school that is his business and he should not only be allowed, but made to attend to it; thus forming the habit of strict attention to business and punctual attendance to engagements. This with other good habits, forms no small part of the education in every well organized school.

A TEACHER.

Lura Prairie, June 26th 1866.

MEMORIAL.

The Educational Convention which met at Winona on the 29th and 38th ult, memorialized the Legislature of Minnesota in the following words.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Minnesota:

We the undersigned County Superintendents, and Examiners of Schools, assembled in Convention, would most respectfully represent to your honorable body, that it is our unqualified opinion that the great cause of the inefficiency of our public schools is justly attributable to the incompetency of the Teachers employed therein.

And further that we recognize the Teachers' Institute as one of the most powerful agencies in elevating the character of such teachers on account of the facilities which it affords for their better qualification.

Among the many benefits to be derived therefrom may be mentioned the following: It tends to incite among teachers a healthy emulation, a community of interest and purpose, and to create within them a consciousness of the importance of their relation to the State. It also increases their fund of information and gives them practical facility in its application to their work as teachers. Another result is the stimulating influence which it exerts upon the people. It awakens them to the importance of education, and discloses to them the proper qualifications which the instructors of their children should possess.

Therefore, having in view the highest good of the Common Schools of the State, we would earnestly request that you would make such an appropriation for the support of Teachers' Institutes as the wants of the State demand, and for which in duty bound we will ever pray.

Being Curtailed.

The fractional currency is undergoing the process of curtailment. Large quantities are redeemed daily at the Treasury Department in Washington, and at the various Sub treasuries. It must be put up in packages when sent for redemption, containing even hundreds of pieces that is to say, each package of five cent pieces must contain five dollars; of ten cent pieces, ten dollars, &c. Different varieties of the same denominations of currency must be sent in separate packages, faced uniformly upwards, and mutilated currency must be sent separately from the whole.—Thus arranged, if these packages be addressed to the Treasurer of the United States at Washington, and registered at the Post Office, returns by cheeck may be expected in from eight to ten days.

The Saw Mills located on this side of the river are in full operation. They turn out some three hundred thousand feet of manufactured lumber per day, thus giving active employment to hundreds of operatives, as well as dozens of teams. If any one is desirous of witnessing a lively locality, let him visit the Falls just now.

The Lake City Times, in a column and a half article, presents the name of Colonel John T. Averill for Governor.

The new State road leading from Bloomington in this county to Chaska in Carver county, is nearly ready for travel. It it located on the north side of the Minnesota river, immediately under the river bluffs, and will be one of the best and most important roads in the county.

FROM WASHINGTON.

NEW YORK, July 8.—A Washington special says the bodies of Mrs. Surratt, Atzerott, Payne and Harold still remain in the coffins to which they were consigned yesterday. The graves are guarded by soldiers. The military authorities had not decided this morning whether the remains should be delivered to their friends or not.

Mudd, Arnold and Spangler will be taken to the penitentiary at Albany on Monday.

The Times' account of the execution says: Harrold made a statement yesterday to the effect that in the organized plan of the plot it was to be his part to shut off the gas, and he had once rehearsed his part with Booth. Afterwards, however, he was required to be in waiting near the navy yard bridge to assist Booth in his escape.

Payne, the night before the execution, said that so far as he knew Mrs. Surratt had nothing to do with the assassination plot

The health of the President is much better. He attended a long meeting of the Cabinet last evening.

The Post's special says Secretery Seward was also present at the Cabinet meeting last evening.

Gen. Slough has been relieved from his duties as military governor of Alexandria' and ordered to Colorado.

The Herald's Washington special of the 8th says. No order has yet been issued for the removal of the conspirators whose lives have been spared. They were notified of the death of their comrades on Saturday morning.

It appears that no objection is made to an order allowing the bodies to be delivered to the family and friends claiming them for the purpose of quiet burial.

The authorities will not consent to any demonstrations or regular funeral, which it appears was intended by the relatives of Mrs. Surratt, Harrold and Atzerodt.

Miss Surratt to-day sent a note to Gen. Hartsonf thanking him in most heartfelt terms for the kindness she has received at his hands and the facilities he has afforded for remaining in the society of her mother while still in prison.

The surgeons who examined the bodies state they do not think the necks of any but Mrs. Surratt were broken.

The Herald's Washington says the delegation from Florida, consisting of Messrs. Brooks of Apalachicola, and Hopkins of Lagrange, are in the city, and hope to see President Johnson tomorrow concerning a provisional gov't for that State. The two gentlemen are understood to favor the appointment of ex-Judge Marvine for Governor.—Mr. Marvine was for over twenty years Judge of the U. S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida. Although now residing in New York city, he is represented as a suitable person for the position. Florida has been the last to apply for assitance in reconstruction, and is the only one of the seceding States without a provisional government.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The bodies of the four executed on Friday yet remain in their graves within the arsenal grounds, no order permitting their families to obtain possession of them having yet been issued.

—On Saturday last Colonel Averill received intelligence that orders have been issued for the muster out of all the remaining regiments of the Army of the Tennessee. We are not informed that this order will include any more of the Minnesota regiments, and we hardly think it does, because the papers at the Capital in mentioning the order say nothing of its effect upon the remaining regiments of this state.

AN Illustrated Catalogue, containing full description of style, and testimonials of the most eminent Musicians, as to the superior excellence of our instruments—will be sent free to any address.

THE AUTOMATIC ORGAN

In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly announce the greatest triumph in musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments, with double bellows, and two pedals for the feet to operate but the want of the reversed or Exhaustion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated.

Another objection to this method of blowing was that, both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell Within the past two years, instruments constructed on this European plan of 'double blowers," have been manufactured in this country, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an appendage is nearly impossible.

Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of tone. We predict for this invention a brilliant future.

THE MELODEON & SCHOOL ORGAN.

For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly. With our increased facilities, we feel warranted in assuring our patrons that their orders will be promptly met, and solicit a continuance of their patronage.

Caution to purchasers.

All our instruments have upon the name board, in full, "GEO. A. PRINCE & Co." When a dealer represents any other instrument as "the same as ours," it is usually a mere attempt to sell an inferior inferior instrument, on which he can make a large profit.

Public Schools.—A log cabin of limited dimensions is the only external evidence of a popular educational system in Mankato. We have material, physical, mental, and moral, out of which may be carved an educational fabric second to none in the State, but, notwithstanding this, there seems to be a want of community of interest, and a lethargy in those who should be active in supplying a public necessity. It is not sufficient that a committee is appointed to manage the erection of a building at such time and expense as may seem advisable. "We the people," must press the committee to immediate and energetic action. The various religious denominations are putting forth every effort, by way of picnics, festivals, mite societies, and other entertainments to complete the organizations of their societies, buy lots and build edifices. Every week do we hear reports of the success of this or that undertaking which is intended for the advancement of a certain church. Do the people propose to go into committee of the whole upon the state of churches, and leave the educational interests with a committee of three, or lay on the table, or indefinitely postpone the petition of three hundred children, whose claims for a guarantee of educational privileges is answered by crowding them into unsafe buildings, deserted store rooms, and log shanties? The education of the head must at least keep pace with moral culture, and if the people of Mankato had worked with half the zeal in behalf of a new school building as they have for the promotion of spiritual privileges, our long projected school building could by this time as easily have reached its second story as the buildings of Charles Heilbern, or Stephen Lamm. We are not only disgracing ourselves, but impoverishing ourselves when such utter indifference to educational progress is manifested. Now, gentlemen, don't fly in a passion and say, "If I hadn't paid my subscription in advance, I'd stop the Union," but drop in at your neighbors and tell them that "Grizzle" will ruin the educational reputation of Mankato, unless some tangible evidence is quickly given that the school building will be erected forthwith.

It is urged that the building cannot be built entire this season on account of its size, which is intended to be 64 by 44 feet, and three stories high, and to seat 450 scholars. We question the policy of building so large, as a building to accommodate 300 scholars will meet our present requirements, while another building will soon be demanded to meet the requirements of upper town. We seldom see public school buildings more than two stories high, and indeed a third story is unsafe for young scholars. We therefore suggest that a building 60 by 40 feet, two stories high take the place of the present estimate. If the work is pushed it can be completed before cold weather this fall.

A Rare Chance.—We are not authorized to advertise the chances, which, upon a view of the ground, there seems to be in Mankato for the fair ones to realize "the ch ef end of woman" But screening ourselves behind the gallantry of the bachelors of our town, who would hardly object to our conveying even contraband news to the ladies at their request, we have canvassed the place, and as the result of our investigations should say that Mankato ever suffered much from the draft, or else our dilibate friends had passed that point in life, e attaining of which has for the last three ears been "the chief end of man." Or, third ', it may that the ladies, the dear souls, from nder sympathy, volunteered as substitutes, aving these fine old gentlemen at home to ke care of the children, and milk. But whater did occasion the unusual influx of gentlemen without affinities, it is a fact beyond dispute that Mankato will furnish more substan l business men who are unmarried than any ner town in the State. Let us see: There is on Pine street the firm of B & C. on Olive reet, and—but we haven't room to enumerate, after exhausting the entire alphabet we ouldn't be half through, and some of our est looking and most anxious inquirers would ke exceptions to being left out of the market. hese gentlemen are all among our best business men, and the not-to-be-overlooked fact that they are making money, should command e attention of such as are not already wedded to the romance of love in a (log) cottage. entlemen over forty-five will be advertised parately if desired.

Card.—The undersigned returns thanks those who have generously aided in the purchase of lot three (3) block ten (10) in War on's additi n to Mankato. Also, he would inform the public that he has assurance of assistance from abroad to near the amount of one housand dollars, if generous donations can be obtained in Mankato, for the purpose of erecting a Church edifice upon the above lot. A ubscription for said purpose will be circulated t an early day.

JOHN G. CRAVEN,
Pastor of First Baptist Church.

It will be seen by the above card that efforts e to be made to place upon the lot purchased y the Baptist organization, a church edifice d that subscriptions will soon be solicited r that purpose.

The energy with which the various church astors of Mankato are pushing the claims of ligion upon our citizens, is certainly commendable, though in the numerous applicans for aid they can hardly expect to realize once as large sums as may be desirable. t each denomination however, make its best ort, and eventually success will crown every dertaking. The nucleus of nearly every demination is formed among us, and we care t how soon a score of the pinnacles of divine rship pierce the azure vault of heaven, nding as watchful sentinels over the natur depravities of mankind.

County Map.—A beautiful and correct Map the county of Blue Earth is just published y C. H. Slocum, Esq., and is for sale at this ffice. This map was compiled by Charles A. hapman, formerly our County Auditor, which act is a guarantee of its correctness. It is nicely mounted, and is both ornamental and useful, d for sale cheap. It should be in the hands every landholder in the county. Mr. S. has ared no pains or expense in getting up this ap, and the result is a work highly creditable to his enterprise, and of great use to our unty. Single copies, mounted, $1.75: unmounted $1 25. Orders sent by mail prompt- filled.

Wanted.—We desire to obtain the following back numbers of the Union: One copy of No. 4, one of No. 13, one of No. 17, five of No. 20, and six of No. 38, of volume one. One copy of No. 7, five of 43, five of 45, three of 46, and two of 47, of volume two. The retail price will be paid for any of these odd numbers upon delivery at this office. Will our subscribers do us the kindness to look over their files and bring them in.

Go and See.—A new broom sweeps clean Fresh goods and new styles, with low prices will attract. See Johnson's advertisement on the "north-east" corner of our second page, and then drop in to his new store next to Bradley's We should judge that the Bradley's intend to divide the trade with him as they have leased him the adjoining building It is not necessary for us to ask for him public patronage because we know that our people "look before they leap," and that his new goods will not escape their notice.

River.—The late rains raised the river nearly six inches, but it has again receded to the old point. The St. Paul papers say that at the rapids the river is twenty inches higher, and that small boats are again passing over them. The Mississippi has risen more than two feet, and is still rising. Large boats continue to arrive at St Paul from below, and small boats are again booked for St. Peter.

Just Received.—By express, another lot of new goods, consisting of doeskin and cassimere pants for men and boys, cotton and woolen half hose, suspenders, neck-ties, and collars, also a nice stock of hats from the finest fur to a cheap wool, and will be sold to suit the times by Randall & Smith, at the clothing emporium. Give them a call

Removal.—Dr. C. E. Butts has removed his dental rooms up street over Johnson's new store, near Bradley's, where he will be happy to serve those wanting anything in his line. As the Doctor has made a permanent settlement here, and is all that could be desired in his profession. we bespeak for him a liberal patronage. See his advertisement.

Sidewalks.—It seems to us that our sidewalks are rather bad for corns. This fact is verified if you once "put your foot in it" What do you say, father Wise? Walk down as far as Shaubut's store and see for yourself. Besides brother Brown, of Faribault says we are not on a par with that town in a display of neatness, comfort and thrift.

In Town.—We noticed in town on Wednesday, Major Smith, Paymaster in the Army, en route for St. Paul. He has been along the line of defenses, paying off the troops. Capt. Mix, inspecting officer of this District is also in town having accompanied the Major in a tour of inspection. He inspects Capt Davy's command before leaving town.

Sale.—Mr. Marks has sold 31 feet front, next to his store with an old building thereon, to a Mr. Montgomery, of Fillmore county, for the snug sum of $1600. It is the intention of Mr. M. to erect a three story building on the lot next summer, meantime he will temporarily fit up the old building for a store.

Reinstated.—We are glad to learn that Captain P. B. Davy is again at his post. His trial at St. Paul resulted in an order to report for duty, which the Captain speedily complied with, and is now in command of this post.

Auction.—A sale of horses, buggies, wagons oxen, reapers &c., &c, will take place at Garden City, a week from next Saturday, July 22d, E Middlebrook, auctioneer. See the advertisement in another column.

Whiskers.—Those wishing a fine set of whiskers, a nice moustache, or a beautiful head of glossy hair, will please read the card of Thos. F. Chapman, in another part of this paper. 36-3m

Personal.—F. M. Cramer of South Bend, and late of the 9th Regt. has received a First Lieutenancy in a Negro regiment and enters the service for five years. He is selling off his household goods preparatory to removing South. Success attend him.

Returning.—Quite a number of Co. C. 11th Minn, arrived yesterday and the evening previous. From their haste to come and go we judge they are bound to see home as quickly as possible. May joy attend them.

Tableaux.—We understand, through the Record, that the ladies of the Episcopal Society will give a Tableaux Entertainment this evening, at City Hall. We have no official information of the fact, but presume it is so.

Progressing.—That gooseberry pie at the Mankato House was very good. We notice that "Colonel" Burt has extended his tables some ten or twelve feet. More business, probably.

Apples.—We notice that green apples are for sale by the peck or barrel at Winona. Won't some of our enterprising grocers send for some.

Gone East.—E. P. Freeman, Esq, our County Attorney, left last Monday on a visit to Connecticut, the State of his birth. He will spend five or six weeks visiting his friends, and then return.

Crops.—The crops in this county never looked better than now, and if we can escape the rust, the yield will be large. In about two weeks harvesting will commence.

For Sale.—Old files of the Union, and other papers, suitable for wrappers, for sale at this office.

—A theater is announced to take place some where in town to night.

ARRANDALE & CO., Manf'g Agts.
No. 167 Broadway, New York.

Announce that all of the above list of goods will be sold for One Dollar each.

In consequence of the great stagnation of trade in the manufacturing districts of England, through the war having cut off the supply of cotton, a large quantity of Valuable Jewelry, originally intended for the English market has been sent off for sale in this country, and must be sold at any sacrifice. Under these circumstances, Arrandale & Co., acting as agents for the principal European manufacturers, have resolved upon a great Gift Apportionment to be divided according to the following regulations:

Certificates of the various articles are put into envelopes indiscriminately, sealed up, and when ordered, are taken out without regard to choice, and sent by mail, thus showing no favoritism. On receipt of the certificate, you will see what you are to have, and then it is at your option to send the dollar and take the article or not Purchasers may thus obtain a gold watch, Diamond Ring, or any set of Jewelry on our list for One Dollar.

Send 25 Cents for Certificate.

In all transactions by mail, we shall charge for forwarding the certificates, paying postage and doing the business, 25 cents each, which must be enclosed when the certificate is sent for. Five certificates will be sent for $1, eleven for $2, thirty for $5, sixty-five for $10; one hundred for $15

What the "Press" Say of Us.

The Lafayette (Ind) Daily Courier, March 18 1865, says: A better selected, more varied or fashionable assortment of jewelry cannot be found on the continent than Arrandale & Co., are now offering. Messrs. Arrandale & Co., occupy a high position in commercial circles as men entirely above the common trickery of trade. Their statements may be implicitly relied upon, both as to the character of their goods and the manner of disposal. Ladies especially, in all parts of the country, are realizing handsome profits as agents, and if any of our fair readers desire to interest themselves in this enterprise they may do so with perfect confidence.

We have inspected, at the office of Arrandale & Co's Agency for European Manufacturing Jewellers, a large assortment of valuable and fashionable jewelry of the newest patterns. We also noticed a large quantity of silver plate and understand that the whole of these newly imported articles are to be disposed of on a novel principle giving great advantage to buyers, and affording extensive employment to agents We know the firm in question to be very respectable and thoroughly worthy of public confidence, and recommend our friends to read their advertisement.—N. Y. Albion, September 3, 1861.

The British Whig, of Kingston, C. W. says Nov 26th, 1864; One of our lady subscribers became an agent for Arrandale & Co. and by request brought some twenty articles sent as prizes for her agency, to this office for inspection and without hesitation we can state that each and all of the articles were worth treble the amount of cost to the recipients, and some of them six times.

AGENTS—We want agents in every regiment, and in every town and county in the country, and those acting as such will be allowed ten cents on every certificate ordered by them, provided their remittance amounts to one dollar, also other inducements which can be learned on application. Agents will collect 25 cents for every Certificate, and remit fifteen cents to us, either in cash or postage stamps.

U. S. 7-30 LOAN.

THIRD SERIES.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury the undersigned, the general Subscription Agent for the sale of United States securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three-tenths per cent interest per annum, known as the

7.30 LOAN.

These notes are issued under date of July 15th, 1865, and are payable three years from that time, in currency, or are convertible, at the option of the holder the

U. S. 5-20 Six per cent.
Gold Bearing Bonds!

These bonds are now worth a handsome premium, and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds, from State, County, and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent. per annum, to their value, according to the rate levied on other property. Interest is payable semi-annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker.

The interest at 7.30 per cent amounts to

One cent per day on a $50 note.
Two cents " " " $100 "
Ten " " " " $500 "
20 " " " " $1000 "

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.

The notes of this third series are precisely similar in form and privileges to the Seven-Thirties already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying interest in gold coin at 6 per cent, instead of 7 3-10ths in currency. Subscribers will deduct the interest in currency up to July 15th, at the time when they subscribe

The delivery of the notes of this third series of the Seven thirties will commence on the 1st of June, and will be made promptly and continuosly after that date.

The slight change made in the conditions of this THIRD SERIES affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in Gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three tenths per cent in currency. This is now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the great

THE ONLY LOAN IN MARKET.

POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Less than $250,000,000 of the Loan authorized by Congress are now on the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within sixty days, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other loans

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and private bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

Dr. W. W. CLARK,
Has resumed practice at his old office,
MANKATO, - - - - MINNESOTA.

Club held its regu- ng at its room at the stitute on Tuesday afternoon, June 6th, the President, N. C. Ely, Esq. in the chair.

Profits of Strawberry Culture—Mr. Bergen stated that the statistics of the strawberry culture in Burlington County, N. J., and to or three of the adjoining counties, had been collected, and it was found that the average yield per acre was 58 bushels, and that the average price was $6 per bushel. The average yield of blackberries is 48 bushels to the acre, and the average price $4 per bushel. The yield of strawberries seemed to the speaker very small, as we have had accounts of 300 or 400, and 700 bushels to the acre. But he supposed the statistics embraced all the fields, good and poor.

He remarked further that experience had taught him that it was unwise to attempt to gather more than one crop of strawberries from the same plants. Set the plants in the spring and take good care of them through the season; then gather the crop the next year, and turn the vines under.

Mr. Carpenter confirmed this opinion, except where strawberries are cultivated in hills; then they should be richly manured every fall, the manure spaded in the spring, and the ground should be mulched. In regard to the profits of strawberry culture, a friend of Mr. Carpenter's, in Burlington county, was having 1,500 quarts picked per day for the Philadelphia market, and they sell for 40 cents per quart. A neighbor of his is gathering 2,500 quarts per day, thus receiving more than $1,000 daily for strawberries. In both these cases the variety cultivated is the French seedling, a large, early and productive kind.

The Way to Get Rid of Rosebugs.—Mr. Solon Robinson observed that he was very much troubled with rosebugs this year, his grapes being threatened with total destruction by them. He had however, a plant of spirea.—the Spirea Lindlianna—which is so attractive to the rosebugs that they all collect upon it, it is then very easy to pull them off and roast them—the only mode of destroying them that he had found effectual.

Live and Dead Weight in Sheep.—The English rule is to weigh sheep when fatted, and devide the weight by seven and call it quarters. Thus, a sheep weighing one hundred and forty lbs, would give twenty lbs. a quarter as the dead weight. If the sheep are in good condition, this rule is sufficient for all proposes. Poor sheep will fall below the mark, and extra ones go over it.

Vegetable Flannel is largely manufactured in Germany from the silver pine. A great number of persons are employed in the various processes of separating the fibre from the oil. The fibre, locally called wold-wold, is spun, knitted and woven in various fabrics. It is said to be highly efficacious in restoring the function of the skin to its normal condition.

Catching Sheep.—Never seize a sheep by the wool on the back; it is very hurtful to the animal, particularly in warm weather, when he is fat. The best way to catch a sheep is by its hind leg, or by the neck. The animal is easiest held by placing one hand under the lower jaw and the other back of its ears, and slightly raising its head.

AN Illustrated Catalogue, containing full description of style, and testimonials of the most eminent Musicians, as to the superior excellence of our instruments—will be sent free to any address.

THE AUTOMATIC ORGAN

In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly announce the greatest triumph in musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments, with double bellows and two pedals for the feet to operate but the want of the reversed or Exhaustion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated.

Another objection to this method of blowing was that, both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell Within the past two years, instrumetsn constructed on this European plan of "double blowers," have been manufactured in this country, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an appendage is nearly impossible.

Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of tone. We predict for this invention a brilliant future.

THE MELODEON & SCHOOL ORGAN.

For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly. With our increased facilities, we feel warranted in assuring our patrons that their orders will be promptly met, and solicit a continuance of their patronage.

GEO. A. PRINCE & CO.

Caution to purchasers.

All our instruments have upon the name board, in full, "Geo. A. Prince & Co." When a dealer represents any other instrument as "the same as ours," it is usually a mere attempt to sell an inferior inferior instrument, on which he can make a large profit.

HELMBOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATIONS.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED" COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings.

This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the matter of calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for men, women and children.

H

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

For weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion, attended with the following Symptoms:

Indisposition to Exertion,
Loss of Memory,
Weak Nerves,
Horror of Disease,
Dimness of Vision,
Hot Hands,
Dryness of the Skin,
Universal Lassitude,
Loss of Power,
Difficulty of Breathing,
Trembling,
Wakefulness,
Pain in the Back,
Flushing of the Body,
Eruptions of the Face,
Pallid Countenance,
Muscular System.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes), soon follow—

FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c.,

in one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the Insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

E

In many affections peculiar to Females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, and for all complaints incident to the sex, or in the

BLOOD! BLOOD! BLOOD!

Helmbold's

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA,

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the Skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect Helmbold's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla. It cleanses and renovates the blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought for, and now, for the first time the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

O

HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH,

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upwards of 30,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basis, Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon. Being now used to the exclusion of all other Bitters in more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the U. S. government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞ They are made of ingredients well known and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strengthening properties to correct the bilious derangement of the system and act like a charm when taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases;—Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Affections, Jaundice, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirit, Sallow Complexion.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity; so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞ Ladies who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system. If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters have him send for him. Remember the name and take no other.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞ The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical journals, and having been adopted as a standard remedy by the Medical Profession are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Exempt from Stamp Duty.

Thrilling Developments.

THE CHICAGO CONSPIRACY.

From the Atlantic Monthly for July.

He was a slim, light-haired young man, with fine, regul[illegible] tures and that [illegible] good breed- [illegible] mandant by [illegible] the eagle on his sh[illegible], he said, 'Can I see you alone sir?' 'Certainly,' answered the Union officer, motioning to his secretary to leave the room. 'I am a colonel in the Rebel army,' said the stranger, '[illegible] have put my life into your hands, to warn you of the most hellish plot in history.' 'Your life is safe sir,' replied the other, 'if your visit is an honest one. I shall be glad to hear what you have to say. Be seated.'

The rebel officer took the proffered chair, and sat there till far into the morning. In the limits of a magazine article I cannot attempt to recount all that passed between them. The written statement the Rebel Colonel has sent to me covers fourteen pages closely written foolscap; and my interview with him on the subject lasted five hours, by a slow watch. He disclosed all that Judge Holt has made public, and a great deal more. Sixty days previously he had left Richmond with verbal dispatches from the Rebel Secretary of War to Jacob Thompson, the rebel agent in Canada. These dispatches had relation to a vast plot, designed to wrap the West in flames, sever it from the East, and secure the independence of the South. Months before, the plot had been concocted by Jeff. Davis at Richmond; and in May previous, Thompson, supplied with $250,000 in sterling exchange, had been sent to Canada to superintend its execution. This money was lodged in a bank at Montreal, and had furnished the funds which fitted out the abortive expeditions against Johnson's Island and Camp Douglas. The plot embraced the order of 'American Knights,' which was spread all over the West, and numbered 500,000 men, 350,000 of whom were armed. A force of 1 200 men—Canadian Refugees, and bushwhackers from Southern Illinois and Missouri—was to attack Camp Douglas on Tuesday night, the 8th of November, liberate and arm the prisoners, and sack Chicago. This was to be the signal for a general uprising through the West, and for a simultaneous advance by Hood upon Nashville, Buckner upon Louisville, and Price upon St. Louis. Vallandigham was to head the movement in Ohio, Bowles in Indiana, and Walsh in Illinois. The forces were to rendezvous at Dayton and Cincinnati in Ohio, New Albany and Indianapolis, in Indiana, and Rock Island, Chicago, and Springfield, in Illinois; and those gathered at the last named place, after seizing the arsenel, were to march to aid Price in taking St. Louis. Prominent Union citizens and officers were to be seized and sent South, and the more obnoxious of them were to be assassinated. All places taken were to be sacked and destroyed, and a band of a hundred desperate men was organized to burn the larger Northern cities not included in the field of operations. Two hundred Confederate officers, who were to direct the military movements, had been in Canada, but were then stationed throughout the West, at the various points to be attacked, waiting the outbreak at Chicago. Capt. Hines, who had won the confidence of Thompson by his successful management of the escape of John Morgan had control of the initial movement against Camp Douglas: but Colonel Grenfell, assisted by Colonel Marmeduke and a dozen other rebel officers, was to manage the military part of the operations. All of these officers were at that moment in Chicago, waiting the arrival of the men, who were to come in small squads, over different roads, during the following three days. The rebel officer had known of the plot for months, but its atrocious details had come to his knowledge only within a fortnight. They had appalled him; and though he was betraying his friends, and the South which he loved, the humanity in him would not rest till he had washed his hands of the horrible crime.

The Commandant listened with a nervous interest to the whole of this recital, but when the Southern officer made the last remark, he almost groaned out,—

'Why did you not come before?

'I could not. I gave Thompson my opinion of this, and have been watched.

I think they have tracked me here. My life on the streets to-night would'nt be worth a bad half-dollar.'

'True but what must be done?'

'Arrest the 'Butternuts', as they come into Chicago.'

That I can do; but the leaders are here, with five thousand armed Illini to back them. I must take them. Do you know them?

'Yes, but I do not know where they are quartered.'

At two o'clock the Commandant showed the rebel officer to his bed, but went back himself, and paced the floor until sunrise. In the morning his plan was formed. It was a desperate plan; but desperate circumstances require desperate expedients.

In the prison was a young Texan who had served on Brag's staff, and under Morgan in Ky. and was, therefore, acquainted with Hines, Grenfell, and the other rebel officers. He fully beleived in the theory of State Rights, that is, that a part is greater than the whole, but was an honest man, who, when his word was given, could be trusted.

One glance at his open, resolute face showed that he feared nothing; that he had, too, that rare courage which delights in danger, and courts heroic enterprise from pure love of peril. Early in the war he had encountered Col. De Land, a former commandant of the post, on the battle fiield and taken him prisoner A friendship then sprang up between the two, which, when the tables were turned, and the captor became the captive, was not forgotten. Col. De Land made him chief clerk in the medical department, and gave him every possible freedom. At that time it was the custom to allow it[illegible]s free access to the camp, and [illegible]ong the many good men and women who came to visit and aid the prisoners was a young woman, the daughter of a well known resident of Chicago, She met the Texan, and a result as natural as the union of oxygen and hydrogen followed. But since Adam courted Eve, who ever heard of wooing going on in a prison? 'It is not exactly the the thing,' said Col De Land; 'had you not better pay your addresses at the lady's house, like a gentleman?

A guard accompanied the prisoner; but it was shrewdly guessed that he staid outside, or paid court to the girls in the kitchen.

This was the state of things when the present Commandant took charge of the camp. He learned the facts, studied the prisoners face, and remembered that he, too, once went a courting. As he walked his room that Friday night, he bethought him of the Texan. Did he love his State better than he loved his affianced wife? The Commandant would test him.

'But I shall betray my friends! Can I do that in honor?' asked the Texan.

'Did you ask that question when you betrayed your country?' answered the Commandant.

'Let me go from camp for an hour. Then I will give you my decision.'

'Very well.'

And, unattended, the Texan left the prison.

What passed between the young man and woman during that hour I do not know, and could not tell, if I did know, for I am not writing romance, but history. However, without lifting the vail on things sacred, I can say that her last words were, 'Do your duty. Blot out your record of treason.' God bless her for saying them! and let 'Amen' be said by every American woman!

On his return to camp, the Texan merely said, "I will do it," and the details of the plan were talked over He was to escape from the prison, ferret out and entrap the rebel leaders. How to accomplish the first part of the dangerous programme was the query of the Texan. The commandant's brain is fertile. An adopted citizen, in the scavenger line, makes periodical visits to the camp in the way of his business, and him the commandant sends for.

"Arrah, yer Honor," the Irishman says, "I hai'nt a traitor.. Bless your beautiful sowl! I love the kintry; and besides it might damage me good name and me purty profession!"

He is assured that his name will be all the better for dieting a few weeks in a dungeon, and—did not the same thing make Harvey Birch immortal?

Half an hour before sunset the scavenger comes into camp with his wagon. He fills it with dry bones, broken bottles, decayed food, and the rubbish of the prison; and down below, under a a blanket, he stows the Texan. A hundred comrades gather round to shut off the gaze of the guard; but out side is the real danger. He has to pass two gates, and run the gauntlet of half a dozen sentinels. His wagon is fuller than usual; and the late hour—it is now after sunset—will of itself excite suspicion. It might test the pluck of a braver man; for the sentries' bayonets are fixed and their guns at the half-trigger, but he reaches the outer gate in safety. Now St. Patrick help him, for he needs all the impudence of an Irishman The gate rolls back; the commandant stands nervously by; but the sentry cries out—

'You can't pass; it's agin orders, No wagins kin go out arter drum-beat'

'Arrah, don't be a fool! Don't be after obstructin' a honest man's business,' answered the Irishman, pushing on into the gateway.

The soldier is vigilant, for his officer's eye is on him.

'Halt!' he cries again. 'or I'll fire!'

'Fire! Waste yer powder on yer friends, like the bloody-minded spalpeen ye are!' says the scavenger, cracking his whip, and moving forward.

It is well he does not look back. If he should, he might be melted to his own soap grease. The sentry's musket is leveled; he is about to fire, but the Commandant roars out,—

'Don't shoot!' and the old man and the old horse trot off into the twilight.

Not an hour latter, two men, in big boots, slouched hats, and brownish butternuts, come out of the Commandant's quarters. With muffled faces and hasty strides, they make their way over the dimly lighted road in the city. Pausing, after a while, before a large mansion, they crouch down among the shadows. It is the house of the Grand Treasurer of the Order of American Knights, and into it very soon they see the Texan enter. The good man knows him well, and there is great rejoicing. He orders up the fatted calf, and soon it is on the table, steaming hot, and done brown in the roasting. When the meal is over, they discuss a bottle of Champaigne and the situation. The Texan cannot remain in Chicago, for there he will surely be detected. He must be off, to Cincinnati by the first train; and he will arrive in the nick of time, for worm work is daily expected. Has he any money about him? No, he has left it behind, with his Sunday clothes, in the prison. He must have funds; but the worthy gentleman can lend him none, for he is a loyal man; of course he is! was he not the 'people's candidate, for Governor? But no one ever heard of a woman being hanged for treason. With this he nods to his wife, who opens her purse, and tosses the Texan a roll of greenbacks. They are honest notes, for an honest face is on them. At the end of an hour goodnight is said, and the Texan goes out to find a hole to hide in. Down the street he hurries, the long, dark shadows following him.

He enters the private room of a public house, speaks a magic word, and is shown to a room in the upper story.—Three low, prolonged raps on the wall, and—he is among them. They are seated about a small table, on which is a plan of the prison. One is about forty-five—a tall thin man, with a wiry frame, a jovial face, and eyes which have the wild roving look of the Arab's. He is dressed after the fashion of English sportsmen, and his dog—a fine gray bloodhound—is stretched on the hearth-rug near him. He looks a reckless, desperate character and has an adventurous history.* In battle he is said to be a thunder-bolt—lightning harnessed and inspired with the will of a devil.—He is just the character to lead the dark, desparate expedition on which they are entered. It is St. Leger Grenfell.

At his side sits another tall, erect man, of about thirty, with large prominent eyes, and thin black hair and mustache. He is of dark complection, has a sharp thin nose, a small, close mouth, a coarse, harsh voice, and a quick, boisterous manner. His face tells of dissipation, and his dress shows the dandy; but his deep, clear eye, and pale, rinkled forehead, denote a cool, crafty intellect† This is the notorious Captain Hines, the right-hand man of Morgan, and the soul and brains of the Conspiracy. The rest are the meaner sort of villains. I do not know how they looked, and if I did, they would not be worth describing.

Hines and Grenfell spring to their feet, and grasp the hand of the Texan. He is a godsend—sent to do what no man of them is brave enough to do—lead the attack on the front gate-way of the prison. So they affirm with great oaths as they sit down, spread out the map, and explain to him the plan of operations.

Two hundred rebel refugees from Canada, they say, and a hundred "Butternuts" from Fayette and Christian counties, have already arrived; many more from Kentucky and Missouri are coming; and by Tuesday they expected that 1,000 or 1,200 desperate men, armed to the teeth, would be in Chicago. Taking advantage of the excitement of election night, they propose, with this force, to attack the camp and prison. It will be divided into five parties. One squad, under Grenfell, will be held in reserve a few hundred yards from the main body, and will guard the large number of guns already provided to arm the prisoners. Another—command of which is offered to the Texan—will assault the front gateway and engage the attention of 800 troops quartered in garrison square. The work of this squad will be dangerous, for it will encounter a fource four times its strength, well armed and supplied with artillery; but it will be speedily relieved by the other divisions. Those under Marmeduke, Col. Robert Anderson of Kentucky, and Brig. Gen. Chas. Walsh of Chicago, Commander of the American Knights, will simultaneously assail three sides of prison square, break down the fence, liberate the prisoners, and, taking the garison in rear, compell a general surrender. This accomplished, small parties will be dispatched to cut the telegraph-wires, and seize the railway stations; while the main body, reinforced by the 8,000 and more prisoners, will march into the city and rendesvous at the court-house-square, which will be the base of further operations.

Secretary Seward Rapidly Recovering.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The Secretary of State continues his duties in almost perfect health. The novel and extraordinary splint was removed from his face by the order of his surgeons, and proved to have been a marvelous success; and very few traces are to be seen of the original accident and the subsequent assault of the baffled assassin, with the exception of a slight swelling on the side of his right cheek.

Mr Seward rose this morning, dressed himself, performed his toilet even to shaving, without assistance, for the first time since his accident. His friends and the country will be glad to learn that he has entirely recovered the use of his arms, one of which was fearfully maimed when he was thrown from the carraige.

For seventy days, of three months, of suffering, Mr. Seward's mind has been engaged in the transaction of public business, a fact which will enable him with comparative ease to resume the active and laborious duties of his office.

The Methodist Episcopal Church South, in Missouri, have resolved to maintain separate ecclesiastic association, regarding such action 'as of paramount importance.'

To the Editor of the Standard:

Letter from Wendell Phillips

Let me call your attention and that of the country, to the danger pointed out in the following extract from the letter of an acute and vigilant friend:

'President Johnson is rapidly issuing proclamations for the reorganization of all the rebel states. The Governors appointed are old politicians who know all the ropes. It is now their design and will they not be able before next December, to make all their new constitutions, and elect new Governors and full congressional delegations? Then what is to prevent those states from presenting themselves, fully accredited, on the floor of the new Congress, and participating in its organization? They will claim, as President Johnson does, that their States have never been out of the Union; that the Government declares (as it will) the rebellion suppressed and military occupation withdrawn, and that they now resume their relations with the Federal Government, which have been only temporarily suspended.

'In this claim they will be backed by the whole power of the Administration, and this is the trap to be sprung on us. The Clerk of the House, you remember, presides until a new Speaker is elected. If he had firmness enough to refuse to receive the credentials of these rebel members, and to refuse to count their votes, this danger might be averted. But can we count on so much virtue in any politician? We may, prehaps, baffle this plan in the Senate. That body being always organized, no members can be admitted without the concurrence of the rest. But how long would even the Senate stand up against the action of the House of Representatives and enormous pressure of every other kind?

'I believe that this attempt will be made at the next meeting of Congres. Possibly South Carolina might be kept out, but even that is doubtful. I may exaggerate the importance of this matter, but that the attempt will be made there can be no doubt.'

The importance of these suggestions can not be over-estimated, and every means should be taken to avert this peril. We have been counting on the possibility of rallying a majority of the legally elected members of Congress to keep the members from rebel states out of Congress, at least till they consented to certain conditions—ratifying the anti-slavery amendment and other matters. Some sanguine friends believe they can be kept out until they agree to give the negro the right to vote. But according to this rebel plot, the Southern members may enter Congress without agreeing to the anti-slavery amendment or to any other conditions. Once inside the doors they may take part in all the discussions and votes affecting themselves and their claims, and may checkmate the anti-slavery amendment sitself. In fact our fate rests in the hands of the Clerk of the House of Representatives. I know nothing about him; but how many men in the nation could be trusted to stand firm in such a post! The whole North should be roused to guard against this danger. If the rebel states, in their present mood can in any way get inside Congress, and wield eighty-four votes there, and more especially if they can get there unpledged to any conditions, and wield those votes, then truly the "South," will be as strong as ever, and the negro almost as defenseless.

Yours,
Wendell Phillips.

Initial Proceedings of the "Confederacy."

New York, July, 3d.—An Athens, (Georgia) correspondent says; 'Some light is thrown upon the hitherto secret history of the initial proceeding of Jeff. Davis' Southern Confederacy by Gen. Wilson's recent capture in Georgia of documents and archives containing a record of the proceedings of the rebel provisional government at Montgomery Alabama. They show that the rebels lost no time, when once they got fairly at work, in organizing their provisional government, which they had in full operation in less than five weeks from the assembling of their National Congress or Convention. In the work of forming their constitution, the documents show that they had considerable tinkering and discussion.

There was a strong feeling in favor of naming their southern establishment the Republic of Washington, which was only defeated by a majority of one vote in favor of the titled, Confederate States of America. There were long debates over propositions to insert in the preamble of the constitution a recognition of the divinity of both the Old and New Testaments of the Bible and in the body thereof a provision enforcing the observance of the Christian Sabbath. The former is understood to have been voted down out of respect to Judah P. Benjamin, and the latter in deference to the wishes of the people of Louisiana and Texas. Many other curious disclosures, besides these noted, are made by these documents.

Admiral Dupont's relatives contradict the report that he bequeathed his prize money for the foundation of an asylum for orphans of soldiers and sailors, and declare that the amount of such money does not exceed $50,000,

The rebel Generals Kirby Smith, Magruder, Price, Shelby, Hindman, and Lee, with ex-Governors Moore and Allen, of Louisiana, and Murrah, of Texas, are en route for Mexico. They disclaim any intention of uniting with either party in that country.

JEFF DAVIS.

NEW YORK, July 12.—A Washington special says: 'A gentleman just from Fortress Monroe reports the health of Jeff. Davis much better than it has been at any time during his incarceration.

His meals are sent direct faom the table of Dr. Craven, his attendant physician, by his daughter, and by her delivered to the officer having immediate charge over him. The Doctor is keeping an accurate journal of his profession [illegible] interviews with Davis, which will, hereafter throw some interesting rays of light on the imprisonment of the arch-traitor.

'The following is a copy of a letter addressed to 'His Excellency, President Davis,' and recently received by the commandant at the Fortress:

"'MY DEAR OLD FRIEND—You must, by this time, be nearly out of money. I send you the inclosed. Take it and pay your fare to hell with it.'

'The inclosure consisted of $15 in Confederate money. The writer of the letter is an ex rebel soldier, and, if slightly heartless and a trifle profane, his letter serves to show the feelings of thousands of J. D.'s dupes and victims.

'The report that Davis and Clay are to be tried by a military commission does not seem to be without confirmation. It is on good authority that at least one of the members of the former court has received an order assigning him as one of the new commission.'

Government Finances—Applications for Pardon.

NEW YORK, July 12.—A Washington special says: "The receipts of the treasury from the internal revenue bureau fall a little short of a half million daily.

The sale of 7.30's cannot be expected to keep pace with the unprecedented expenditure. The Secretary has, therefore, decided to pay but twenty-five per cent, of allowed claims in currency, and to tender the creditors of the government the remaining seventy-five per cent, in certificates of indebtedness. The operation of this rule began this morning."

"Mr Gentry, of the Tennessee rebel Legislature, sometimes styled 'The Eagle Orator,' who contested the Governorship of the State with Andy Johnson in 1853, is reported in the city, desiring pardon. Among other rebels of greater or less magnitude, said to be now in Washington for the same purpose, are Senator Garland and Congressman Roylston, of Arkansas; Gilmer and Bridges, of the lower House from North Carolina; a Mr. Smith, ('not Grumping Bill'), an ex-member of the Federal Congress, and a member of the rebel Congress from the beginning of the war, and Col. Hunt, of Shelby county, Tenn., late of the rebel Ordnance Department.

W. T. Avery, member of the Federal Congress from the Memphis district from 1858 to 1860, obtained his pardon to-day."

VIRGINIA.

NEW YORK, July 11.—A correspondent from Southern Virginia represents society and industrial affairs in that region as still in a very crude condition, consequent, to a considerable extent, on the planters and the freedmen not yet fully understanding their altered relations, or, at least, not recognizing them, and much annoyance is thereby caused to the miltary authorities in efforts to adjust difficulties between the respective parties. The planters, in many cases, are disposed to insist on their authority to punish the negroes for disobedience, while numbers of the latter do not yet realize that freedom does not mean idleness, and are disposed to desert the plantations.

With regard to the loyalty to the national government of the white Virginians generally, the correspondent expresses the opinion that it is not of the genuine type. The people admit that they have been overpowered and forced to yeild, but do not express regret for their rebellious course. They still, too, cling to their old semi civilized ideas of chivalry, regarding labor as dishonourable, and cannot yet understand that a new order of things is estabished, under which he who would prosper must work.

Troops are still being mustered out of service in the department of Virginia in large numbers.

Mr. Bowden, Attorney General of Virginia under Gov. Pierpont, has submitted an opinion regarding who will be qualified to exercise the elective franchise at the approaching election in that state, in which he says that all adult white citizens, six mouths' residents in a county, who have not held office under the rebel government, and who are not excluded by the Presidents amnesty proclamation, may vote on taking the oath.

In one county of the state, a man has offered himself as a candidate for Sheriff, who urges as a recommendation in his favor, that he has served four years in the rebel army.

Governor Brownlow, of Tennessee, has issued a proclamation declaring the franchise law the supreme law of the state, and denouncing as rebels those who attempt to appose its execution.

The only corps now left in the army are the 4th, in the Department of the Gulf, the 13th, going to Texas, the 16th, in Alabama and Mississippi, the 23d, in North Carolina, the 26th in Virginia, and the 25th, in Texas.

The President of the Golden Circle, in confinement at Fort Warren, has issued an 'order' suspending the operations of the Circle until July, 1870, when a 'congress' will assemble at Washington and lay the corner stone of 'the Saxon University.'

SOUTHERN ITEMS.

Mr. Thomas C. Eppes, a well known citizen of Richmond, was arrested on Wednesday night at his house, on the charge of beating and stabbing a soldier named John Hayes, of Company D, 39th Illinois regiment, on the 4th inst., so severely that he died in a few hours afterwards. He was committed to Castle Thunder to await examination.

A radical change has been inaugrated in the management of the freedmen's village at Arlington since the 1st of May. Previous to that its inhabitants were supplied at Government expense with wood, clothing, and rations, and were allowed their house rent free. Since then they have received nothing, and have been charged a nominal rent for their tenements. Instead of remaining a source of expenditure, the village now affords a small income.

Lynchburg must be a cheap place to live at in these times. A gentlemen just from there states that beef and mutton are selling at 10@12½ cents; butter, 25@30 cents; potatoes, 10@12 cents; cabbage, 10 cents per head, with a great profusion of cucumbers, shaps, cimblines, beets, and all kinds of berries.

The Orange and Alexandria Railroad is so far repaired that the road will be in operation to Richmond, by way of Gordensville, by Monday.

The railroad bridge over Little river will be finished in a day or two, and the road completed to Fredericksburg in about four weeks.

The Charleston correspondent of the Boston Advertiser says there are no elements in South Carolina out of which to construct a state; nothing but disloyal whites and ignorant blacks, neither being sound material.

The Provost Marshal of Augusta, Georgia, has issued an order that all negroes found in the streets of that city after 9 o'clock at night, will be arrested by the Provost guard and city police. All whites and all negroes found loitering about the streets and wharves of Augusta are to be arrested as vagrants.

It is reported that Atlanta, Ga., is being rebuilt much more rapidly than could have been anticipated. Business is beginning to be quite brisk. Many families which went North after General Sherman's evacuation, are about returning.

The Tuscumbian of the 30th says: A force is at work repairing the Memphis and Charleston railroad, between Corinth and Memphis, and the cars will be running to Corinth from Memphis in a short time. There are four bridges to build between here and Corinth. The track was relaid by, and used by Gen. Hood last December, and is in tolerable good order.

The same paper says: We are sorry to learn that bushwhacking and robbing is still prevalent in the mountains between here and Tuscaloosa.

The planters near the mouth of Red River have decided on the following plan with regard to labor. It is to let lands out for cultivation to any one black or white, for a certain per cent, of the products, whatever they may be, say one fourth, if cotton, and if corn, such proportion as is charged in other parts of the country. It is believed that the plan will work well and equitably.

Within one week, recently, two duels were fought in the rear of New Orleans. The parties were all Creoles, and one well known individual was a principal in both affairs. He came off winning in both, killing his opponent in one instance and probably fatally wounding the other in the abdomen. The cause seems to have arisen out of the war, the two injured men being returned Confederates who twitted the victor as a stay-at home, he never having been in the army.

THE CHICAGO CONSPIRACY.

From the Atlantic Monthly for July.

He was a slim, light-haired young man, with fine, regul tures and that [redacted] s good breeding mandant by the eagle on his sh , he said, 'Can I see you alone sir?' 'Certainly,' answered the Union officer, motioning to his secretary to leave the room. 'I am a colonel in the Rebel army,' said the stranger, 'I have put my life into your hands, to warn you of the most hellish plot in history.' 'Your life is safe sir,' replied the other, 'if your visit is an honest one. I shall be glad to hear what you have to say. Be seated.'

The rebel officer took the proffered chair, and sat there till far into the morning. In the limits of a magazine article I cannot attempt to recount all that passed between them. The written statement the Rebel Colonel has sent to me covers fourteen pages closely written foolscap; and my interview with him on the subject lasted five hours, by a slow watch. He disclosed all that Judge Holt has made public, and a great deal more. Sixty days previously he had left Richmond with verbal dispatches from the Rebel Secretary of War to Jacob Thompson, the rebel agent in Canada. These dispatches had relation to a vast plot, designed to wrap the West in flames, sever it from the East, and secure the independence of the South. Months before, the plot had been concocted by Jeff. Davis at Richmond; and in May previous, Thompson, supplied with $250,000 in sterling exchange, had been sent to Canada to superintend its execution. This money was lodged in a bank at Montreal, and had furnished the funds which fitted out the abortive expeditions against Johnson's Island and Camp Douglas. The plot embraced the order of 'American Knights,' which was spread all over the West, and numbered 500,000 men, 350,000 of whom were armed. A force of 1 200 men—Canadian Refugees, and bushwhackers from Southern Illinois and Missouri—was to attack Camp Douglas on Tuesday night, the 8th of November, liberate and arm the prisoners, and sack Chicago. This was to be the signal for a general uprising through the West, and for a simultaneous advance by Hood upon Nashville, Buckner upon Louisville, and Price upon St. Louis. Vallandigham was to head the movement in Ohio, Bowles in Indiana, and Walsh in Illinois. The forces were to rendezvous at Dayton and Cincinnati in Ohio, New Albany and Indianapolis, in Indiana, and Rock Island, Chicago, and Springfield, in Illinois; and those gathered at the last named place, after seizing the arsenel, were to march to aid Price in taking St. Louis. Prominent Union citizens and officers were to be seized and sent South, and the more obnoxious of them were to be assassinated. All places taken were to be sacked and destroyed, and a band of a hundred desperate men was organized to burn the larger Northern cities not included in the field of operations. Two hundred Confederate officers, who were to direct the military movements, had been in Canada, but were then stationed throughout the West, at the various points to be attacked, waiting the outbreak at Chicago. Capt. Hines, who had won the confidence of Thompson by his successful management of the escape of John Morgan had control

One glance at his open, resolute face showed that he feared nothing ; that he had, too, that rare courage which delights in danger, and courts heroic enterprise from pure love of peril. Early in the war he had encountered Col. De Land, a former commandant of the post, on the battle field and taken him prisoner. A friendship then sprang up between the two, which, when the tables were turned, and the captor became the captive, was not forgotten. Col. De Land made him chief clerk in the medical department, and gave him every possible freedom. At that time it was the custom to allow iti s free access to the camp , and ong he many good men and women who came to visit and aid the prisoners was a young woman, the daughter of a well known resident of Chicago, She met the Texan, and a result as natural as the union of oxygen and hydrogen followed. But since Adam courted Eve, who ever heard of wooing going on in a prison ? 'It is not exactly the the thing,' said Col De Land ; 'had you not better pay your addresses at the lady's house, like a gentleman ?

A guard accompanied the prisoner ; but it was shrewdly guessed that he staid outside, or paid court to the girls in the kitchen.

This was the state of things when the present Commandant took charge of the camp. He learned the facts, studied the prisoners face, and remembered that he, too, once went a courting. As he walked his room that Friday night, he bethought him of the Texan. Did he love his State better than he loved his affianced wife ? The Commandant would test him.

'But I shall betray my friends ! Can I do that in honor ?' asked the Texan.

'Did you ask that question when you betrayed your country ?' answered the Commandant.

'Let me go from camp for an hour. Then I will give you my decision.'

'Very well.'

And, unattended, the Texan left the prison.

What passed between the young man and woman during that hour I do not know, and could not tell, it I did know, for I am not writing romance, but history. However, without lifting the vail on things sacred, I can say that her last words were, 'Do your duty. Blot out your record of treason.' God bless her for saying them ! and let 'Amen' be said by every American woman !

On his return to camp, the Texan merely said, "I will do it," and the details of the plan were talked over He was to escape from the prison, ferret out and entrap the rebel leaders. How to accomplish the first part of the dangerous programme was the query of the Texan. The commandant's brain is fertile. An adopted citizen, in the scavenger line, makes periodical visits to the camp in the way of his business, and him the commandant sends for.

"Arrah, yer Honor," the Irishman says, "I hai'nt a traitor.. Bless your beautiful sowl ! I love the kintry ; and besides it might damage me good name and me purty profession !"

He is assured that his name will be all the better for dieting a few weeks in a dungeon, and—did not the same thing make Harvey Birch immortal ?

Half an hour before sunset the scavenger comes into camp with his wagon. He fills it with dry bones, broken bottles, decayed food, and the rubbish of the prison ; and down below, under a blanket, he stows the Texan. A hun-cinnati by the first train ; and he will arrive in the nick of time, for worm work is daily expected. Has he any money about him ? No, he has left it behind, with his Sunday clothes, in the prison. He must have funds ; but the worthy gentleman can lend him none, for he is a loyal man ; of course he is ! was he not the 'people's candidate, for Governor ? But no one ever heard of a woman being hanged for treason. With this he nods to his wife, who opens her purse, and tosses the Texan a roll of greenbacks. They are honest notes, for an honest face is on them. At the end of an hour goodnight is said, and the Texan goes out to find a hole to hide in. Down the street he hurries, the long, dark shadows following him.

He enters the private room of a public house, speaks a magic word, and is shown to a room in the upper story.—Three low, prolonged raps on the wall, and—he is among them. They are seated about a small table, on which is a plan of the prison. One is about forty-five—a tall thin man, with a wiry frame, a jovial face, and eyes which have the wild roving look of the Arab's. He is dressed after the fashion of English sportsmen, and his dog—a fine gray bloodhound —is stretched on the hearthrug near him. He looks a reckless, desperate character and has an adventurous history.* In battle he is said to be a thunder-bolt—lightning harnessed and inspired with the will of a devil.—He is just the character to lead the dark, desparate expedition on which they are entered. It is St. Leger Grenfell.

At his side sits another tall, erect man, of about thirty, with large prominent eyes, and thin black hair and mustache. He is of dark complection, has a sharp thin nose, a small, close mouth, a coarse, harsh voice, and a quick, boisterous manner. His face tells of dissipation, and his dress shows the dandy ; but his deep, clear eye, and pale, rinkled forehead, denote a cool, crafty intellect † This is the notorious Captain Hines, the right-hand man of Morgan, and the soul and brains of the Conspiracy. The rest are the meaner sort of villains. I do not know how they looked, and if I did, they would not be worth describing.

Hines and Grenfell spring to their feet, and grasp the hand of the Texan. He is a godsend—sent to do what no man of them is brave enough to do—lead the attack on the front gate-way of the prison. So they affirm with great oaths as they sit down, spread out the map, and explain to him the plan of operations.

Two hundred reb l refugees from Canada, they say, and a hundred "Butternutts" from Fayette and Christian counties, have already arrived ; many more from Kentucky and Missouri are coming ; and by Tuesday they expected that 1,000 or 1,200 desperate men, armed to the teeth, would be in Chicago. Taking advantage of the excitement of election night,they propose, with this force, to attack the camp and prison. It will be divided into five parties. One squad, under Grenfell, will be held in reserve a few hundred yards from the main body, and will guard the large number of guns already provided to arm the prisoners. Another—command of which is offered to the Texan—will assault the front gateway and engage the attention of 800 troops quartered in garrison square. The work of this squad will be dangerous, for it will encounter a fource four times its strength, well armed and

To the Editor of the Standard :

Letter from Wendell Phillips

Let me call your attention and that of the country, to the danger pointed out in the following extract from the letter of an acute and vigilant friend :

'President Johnson is rapidly issuing proclamations for the reorganization of all the rebel states. The Governors appointed are old politicians who know all the ropes. It is now their design and will they not be able before next December, to make all their new constitutions, and elect new Governors and full congressional delegations ? Then what is to prevent those states from presenting themselves, fully accredited, on the floor of the new Congress, and participating in its organization ? They will claim, as President Johnson does, that their States have never been out of the Union ; that the Government declares (as it will) the rebellion suppressed and military occupation withdrawn, and that they now resume their relations with the Federal Government, which have been only temporarily suspended.

'In this claim they will be backed by the whole power of the Administration. and this is the trap to be sprung on us. The Clerk of the House, you remember, presides until a new Speaker is elected. If he had firmness enough to refuse to receive the credentials of these rebel members, and to refuse to count their votes, this danger might be averted. But can we count on so much virtue in any politician ? We may, prehaps, baffle this plan in the Senate. That body being always organized, no members can be admitted without the concurrence of the rest. But how long would even the Senate stand up against the action of the House of Representatives and enormous pressure of every other kind ?

'I believe that this attempt will be made at the next meeting of Congres. Possibly South Carolina might be kept out, but even that is doubtful. I may exaggerate the importance of this matter, but that the attempt will be made there can be no doubt.'

The importance of these suggestions can not be over-estimated, and every means should be taken to avert this peril. We have been counting on the possibility of rallying a majority of the legally elected members of Congress to keep the members from rebel states out of Congress, at least till they consented to certain conditions—ratifying the anti-slavery amendment and other matters. Some sanguine friends believe they can be kept out until they agree to give the negro the right to vote. But according to this rebel plot, the Southern members may enter Congress without agreeing to the anti-slavery amendment or to any other conditions. Once inside the doors they may take part in all the discussions and votes affecting themselves and their claims, and may checkmate the anti-slavery amendment itself. In fact our fate rests in the hands of the Clerk of the House of Representatives. I know nothing about him ; but how many men in the nation could be trusted to stand firm in such a post! The whole North should be roused to guard against this danger. If the rebel states, in their present mood can in any way get inside Congress, and wield eighty-four votes there, and more especially if they can get there unpledged to any conditions, and wield those votes, then truly the "South," will be as strong as ever, and the negro almost as defenseless.

JEFF DAVIS.

NEW YORK, July 12.—A Washington special says: 'A gentleman just from Fortress Monroe reports the health of Jeff. Davis much better than it has been at any time during his incarceration.

His meals are sent direct from the table of Dr. Craven, his attendant physician, by his daughter, and by her delivered to the officer having immediate charge over him. The Doctor is keeping an accurate journal of his profession al interviews with Davis, which will, hereafter throw some interesting rays of light on the imprisonment of the arch-traitor.

'The following is a copy of a letter addressed to 'His Excellency, President Davis,' and recently received by the commandant at the Fortress :

" 'MY DEAR OLD FRIEND—You must, by this time, be nearly out of money. I send you the inclosed. Take it and pay your fare to hell with it.'

'The inclosure consisted of $15 in Confederate money. The writer of the letter is an ex rebel soldier, and, if slightly heartless and a trifle profane, his letter serves to show the feelings of thousands of J. D.'s dupes and victims.

'The report that Davis and Clay are to be tried by a military commission does not seem to be without confirmation. It is on good authority that at least one of the members of the former court has received an order assigning him as one of the new commission.'

Government Finances—Applications for Pardon.

NEW YORK, July 12.—A Washington special says : "The receipts of the treasury from the internal revenue bureau fall a little short of a half million daily.

The sale of 7.30's cannot be expected to keep pace with the unprecedented expenditure. The Secretary has, therefore, decided to pay but twenty-five per cent, of allowed claims in currency, and to tender the creditors of the government the remaining seventy-five per cent, in certificates of indebtedness. The operation of this rule began this morning."

"Mr Gentry, of the Tennessee rebel Legislature, sometimes styled 'The Eagle Orator,' who contested the Governorship of the State with Andy Johnson in 1853, is reported in the city, desiring pardon. Among other rebels of greater or less magnitude, said to be now in Washington for the same purpose, are Senator Garland and Congressman Roylston, of Arkansas ; Gilmer and Bridges, of the lower House from North Carolina ; a Mr. Smith, ('not Grumping Bill'), an ex-member of the Federal Congress, and a member of the rebel Congress from the beginning of the war, and Col. Hunt, of Shelby county, Tenn., late of the rebel Ordnance Department.

W. T. Avery, member of the Federal Congress from the Memphis district from 1858 to 1860, obtained his pardon to-day."

VIRGINIA.

NEW YORK, July 11.—A correspondent from Southern Virginia represents society and industrial affairs in that region as still in a very crude condition, consequent, to a considerable extent, on the planters and the freedmen not yet fully understanding their altered relations, or, at least, not recognizing them, and much annoyance is thereby caused to the miltary authorities in efforts to adjust difficulties between the respective parties. The planters, in many cases,

SOUTHERN ITEMS.

Mr. Thomas C. Eppes, a well known citizen of Richmond, was arrested on Wednesday night at his house, on the charge of beating and stabbing a soldier named John Hayes, of Company D, 39th Illinois regiment, on the 4th inst., so severely that he died in a few hours afterwards. He was committed to Castle Thunder to await examination.

A radical change has been inaugrated in the management of the freedmen's village at Arlington since the 1st of May. Previous to that its inhabitants were supplied at Government expense with wood, clothing, and rations, and were allowed their house rent free. Since then they have received nothing, and have been charged a nominal rent for their tenements. Instead of remaining a source of expenditure, the village now affords a small income.

Lynchburg must be a cheep place to live at in these times. A gentlemen just from there states that beef and mutton are selling at 10@12½ cents ; butter, 25@30 cents ; potatoes, 10@12 cents ; cabbage, 10 cents per head, with a great profusion of cucumbers, shaps, cimblines, beets, and all kinds of berries.

The Orange and Alexandria Railroad is so far repaired that the road will be in operation to Richmond, by way of Gordensville. by Monday.

The railroad bridge over Little river will be finished in a day or two, and the road completed to Fredericksburg in about four weeks.

The Charleston correspondent of the Boston Advertiser says there are no elements in South Carolina out of which to construct a state ; nothing but disloyal whites and ignorant blacks, neither being sound material.

The Provost Marshal of Augusta, Georgia, has issued an order that all negroes found in the streets of that city after 9 o'clock at night, will be arrested by the Provost guard and city police. All whites and all negroes found loitering about the streets and wharves of Augusta are to be arrested as vagrants.

It is reported that Atlanta, Ga., is being rebuilt much more rapidly than could have been anticipated. Business is beginning to be quite brisk. Many families which went North after General Sherman's evacution, are about returning.

The Tuscumbian of the 30th says : A force is at work repairing the Memphis and Charleston railroad, between Corinth and Memphis, and the cars will be running to Corinth from Memphis in a short time. There are four bridges to build between here and Corinth. The track was relaid by, and used by Gen. Hood last December, and is in tolerable good order.

The same paper says : We are sorry to learn that bushwhacking and robbing is still prevalent in the mountains between here and Tuscaloosa.

The planters near the mouth of Red River have decided on the following plan with regard to labor. It is to let lands out for cultivation to any one black or white, for a certain per cent, of the products, whatever they may be, say one fourth, if cotton, and if corn, such proportion as is charged in other parts of the country. It is believed that the plan wi'l work well and equitably.

Within one week, recently, two duels were fought in the rear of New Orleans. The parties were all Creoles, and one well known individual was a principal in both affairs. He came off winning in both, killing his opponent in one instance and probably fatally wounding the other in the abdomen. The cause seems to have arisen out of the war, the two injured men being returned Confederates who twitted the victor as a stay-at home, he never having been in the army.

'Certainly,' answered the Union officer, motioning to his secretary to leave the room. 'I am a colonel in the Rebel army,' said the stranger, 'I have put my life into your hands, to warn you of the most hellish plot in history.' 'Your life is safe sir,' replied the other, 'if your visit is an honest one. I shall be glad to hear what you have to say. Be seated.'

The rebel officer took the proffered chair, and sat there till far into the morning. In the limits of a magazine article I cannot attempt to recount all that passed between them. The written statement the Rebel Colonel has sent to me covers fourteen pages closely written foolscap; and my interview with him on the subject lasted five hours, by a slow watch. He disclosed all that Judge Holt has made public, and a great deal more. Sixty days previously he had left Richmond with verbal dispatches from the Rebel Secretary of War to Jacob Thompson, the rebel agent in Canada. These dispatches had relation to a vast plot, designed to wrap the West in flames, sever it from the East, and secure the independence of the South. Months before, the plot had been concocted by Jeff. Davis at Richmond; and in May previous, Thompson, supplied with $250,000 in sterling exchange, had been sent to Canada to superintend its execution. This money was lodged in a bank at Montreal, and had furnished the funds which fitted out the abortive expeditions against Johnson's Island and Camp Douglas. The plot embraced the order of 'American Knights,' which was spread all over the West, and numbered 500,000 men, 350,000 of whom were armed. A force of 1 200 men—Canadian Refugees, and bushwhackers from Southern Illinois and Missouri—was to attack Camp Douglas on Tuesday night, the 8th of November, liberate and arm the prisoners, and sack Chicago. This was to be the signal for a general uprising through the West, and for a simultaneous advance by Hood upon Nashville, Buckner upon Louisville, and Price upon St. Louis. Vallandigham was to head the movement in Ohio, Bowles in Indiana, and Walsh in Illinois. The forces were to rendezvous at Dayton and Cincinnati in Ohio, New Albany and Indianapolis, in Indiana, and Rock Island, Chicago, and Springfield, in Illinois; and those gathered at the last named place, after seizing the arsenel, were to march to aid Price in taking St. Louis. Prominent Union citizens and officers were to be seized and sent South, and the more obnoxious of them were to be assassinated. All places taken were to be sacked and destroyed, and a band of a hundred desperate men was organized to burn the larger Northern cities not included in the field of operations. Two hundred Confederate officers, who were to direct the military movements, had been in Canada, but were then stationed throughout the West, at the various points to be attacked, waiting the outbreak at Chicago. Capt. Hines, who had won the confidence of Thompson by his successful management of the escape of John Morgan had control of the initial movement against Camp Douglas: but Colonel Grenfell, assisted by Colonel Marmeduke and a dozen other rebel officers, was to manage the military part of the operations. All of these officers were at that moment in Chicago, waiting the arrival of the men, who were to come in small squads, over different roads, during the following three days. The rebel officer had known of the plot for months, but its atrocious details had come to his knowledge only within a fortnight. They had appalled him; and though he was betraying his friends, and the South which he loved, the humanity in him would not rest till he had washed his hands of the horrible crime.

The Commandant listened with a nervous interest to the whole of this recital, but when the Southern officer made the last remark, he almost groaned out,—

'Why did you not come before?

'I could not. I gave Thompson my opinion of this, and have been watched.

I think they have tracked me here. My life on the streets to-night would'nt be worth a bad half dollar.'

'True but what must be done?'

'Arrest the' Butternuts', as they come into Chicago.'

That I can do; but the leaders are here, with five thousand armed Illini to back them. I must take them. Do you know them?

'Yes, but I do not know where they are quartered.'

At two o'clock the Commandant showed the rebel officer to his bed, but went back himself, and paced the floor until sunrise. In the morning his plan was formed. It was a desperate plan; but desperate circumstances require desperate expedients.

In the prison was a young Texan who had served on Brag's staff, and under Morgan in Ky. and was, therefore, acquainted with Hines, Grenfell, and the other rebel officers. He fully beleived in the theory of State Rights, that is, that a part is greater than the whole, but was an honest man, who, when his word was given, could be trusted.

One glance at his open, resolute face showed that he feared nothing; that he had, too, that rare courage which delights in danger, and courts heroic enterprise from pure love of peril. Early in the war he had encountered Col. De Land, a former commandant of the post, on the battle field and taken him prisoner A friendship then sprang up between the two, which, when the tables were turned, and the captor became the captive, was not forgotten. Col. De Land made him chief clerk in the medical department, and gave him every possible freedom. At that time it was the custom to allow it[illegible]s free access to the camp, and [illegible]ong the many good men and women who came to visit and aid the prisoners was a young woman, the daughter of a well known resident of Chicago, She met the Texan, and a result as natural as the union of oxygen and hydrogen followed. But since Adam courted Eve, who ever heard of wooing going on in a prison? 'It is not exactly the the thing,' said Col De Land; 'had you not better pay your addresses at the lady's house, like a gentleman?

A guard accompanied the prisoner; but it was shrewdly guessed that he staid outside, or paid court to the girls in the kitchen.

This was the state of things when the present Commandant took charge of the camp. He learned the facts, studied the prisoners face, and remembered that he, too, once went a courting. As he walked his room that Friday night, he bethought him of the Texan. Did he love his State better than he loved his affianced wife? The Commandant would test him.

'But I shall betray my friends! Can I do that in honor?' asked the Texan.

'Did you ask that question when you betrayed your country?' answered the Commandant.

'Let me go from camp for an hour. Then I will give you my decision.'

'Very well.'

And, unattended, the Texan left the prison.

What passed between the young man and woman during that hour I do not know, and could not tell, if I did know, for I am not writing romance, but history. However, without lifting the vail on things sacred, I can say that her last words were, 'Do your duty. Blot out your record of treason.' God bless her for saying them! and let 'Amen' be said by every American woman!

On his return to camp, the Texan merely said, "I will do it," and the details of the plan were talked over He was to escape from the prison, ferret out and entrap the rebel leaders. How to accomplish the first part of the dangerous programme was the query of the Texan. The commandant's brain is fertile. An adopted citizen, in the scavenger line, makes periodical visits to the camp in the way of his business, and him the commandant sends for.

"Arrah, yer Honor," the Irishman says, "I hai'nt a traitor,. Bless your beautiful sowl! I love the kintry; and besides it might damage me good name and me purty profession!"

He is assured that his name will be all the better for dieting a few weeks in a dungeon, and—did not the same thing make Harvey Birch immortal?

Half an hour before sunset the scavenger comes into camp with his wagon. He fills it with dry bones, broken bottles, decayed food, and the rubbish of the prison; and down below, under a a blanket, he stows the Texan. A hundred comrades gather round to shut off the gaze of the guard; but out side is the real danger. He has to pass two gates, and run the gauntlet of half a dozen sentinels. His wagon is fuller than usual; and the late hour—it is now after sunset—will of itself excite suspicion. It might test the pluck of a braver man; for the sentries' bayonets are fixed and their guns at the half-trigger, but he reaches the outer gate in safety. Now St. Patrick help him, for he needs all the impudence of an Irishman The gate rolls back; the commandant stands nervously by; but the sentry cries out—

'You can't pass; it's agin orders, No wagins kin go out arter drum-beat'

'Arrah, don't be a fool! Don't be after obstructin' a honest man's business.' answered the Irishman, pushing on into the gateway.

The soldier is vigilant, for his officer's eye is on him.

'Halt!' he cries again, 'or I'll fire!'

'Fire! Waste yer powder on yea friends, like the bloody-minded spalpeen ye are!' says the scavenger, cracking his whip, and moving forward.

It is well he does not look back. If he should, he might be melted to his own soap grease. The sentry's musket is leveled; he is about to fire, but the Commandant roars out,—

'Don't shoot!' and the old man and the old horse trot off into the twilight.

Not an hour latter, two men, in big boots, slouched hats, and brownish butternuts, come out of the Commandant's quarters. With muffled faces and hasty strides, they make their way over the dimly lighted road in the city. Pausing, after a while, before a large mansion, they crouch down among the shadows. It is the house of the Grand Treasurer of the Order of American Knights, and into it very soon they see the Texan enter. The good man knows him well, and there is great rejoicing. He orders up the fatted calf, and soon it is on the table, steaming hot, and done brown in the roasting. When the meal is over, they discuss a bottle of Champaigne and the situation. The Texan cannot remain in Chicago, for there be will surely be detected. He must be off, to Cincinnati by the first train; and he will arrive in the nick of time, for worm work is daily expected. Has he any money about him? No, he has left it behind, with his Sunday clothes, in the prison. He must have funds; but the worthy gentleman can lend him none, for he is a loyal man; of course he is! was he not the 'people's candidate, for Governor? But no one ever heard of a woman being hanged for treason. With this he nods to his wife, who opens her purse, and tosses the Texan a roll of greenbacks. They are honest notes, for an honest face is on them. At the end of an hour goodnight is said, and the Texan goes out to find a hole to hide in. Down the street he hurries, the long, dark shadows following him.

He enters the private room of a public house, speaks a magic word, and is shown to a room in the upper story.—Three low, prolonged raps on the wall, and—he is among them. They are seated about a small table, on which is a plan of the prison. One is about forty-five—a tall thin man, with a wiry frame, a jovial face, and eyes which have the wild roving look of the Arab's. He is dressed after the fashion of English sportsmen, and his dog—a fine gray bloodhound—is stretched on the hearth-rug near him. He looks a reckless, desperate character and has an adventerous history.* In battle he is said to be a thunder-bolt—lightning harnessed and inspired with the will of a devil.—He is just the character to lead the dark, desparate expedition on which they are entered. It is St. Leger Grenfell.

At his side sits another tall, erect man, of about thirty, with large prominent eyes, and thin black hair and mustache. He is of dark complection, has a sharp thin nose, a small, close mouth, a coarse, harsh voice, and a quick, boisterous manner. His face tells of dissipation, and his dress shows the dandy; but his deep, clear eye, and pale, rinkled forehead, denote a cool, crafty intellect † This is the notorious Captain Hines, the right-hand man of Morgan, and the soul and brains of the Conspiracy. The rest are the meaner sort of villains. I do not know how they looked, and if I did, they would not be worth describing.

Hines and Grenfell spring to their feet, and grasp the hand of the Texan. He is a godsend—sent to do what no man of them is brave enough to do—lead the attack on the front gate-way of the prison. So they affirm with great oaths as they sit down, spread out the map, and explain to him the plan of operations.

Two hundred rebel refugees from Canada, they say, and a hundred "Butternutts" from Fayette and Christian counties, have already arrived; many more from Kentucky and Missouri are coming; and by Tuesday they expected that 1,000 or 1,200 desperate men, armed to the teeth, would be in Chicago. Taking advantage of the excitement of election night, they propose, with this force, to attack the camp and prison. It will be divided into five parties. One squad, under Grenfell, will be held in reserve a few hundred yards from the main body, and will guard the large number of guns already provided to arm the prisoners. Another—command of which is offered to the Texan—will assault the front gateway and engage the attention of 800 troops quartered in garrison square. The work of this squad will be dangerous, for it will encounter a fource four times its strength, well armed and supplied with artillery; but it will be speedily relieved by the other divisions. Those under Marmeduke, Col. Robert Anderson of Kentucky, and Brig. Gen. Chas. Walsh of Chicago, Commander of the American Knights, will simultaneously assail three sides of prison square, break down the fence, liberate the prisoners, and, taking the garison in rear, compell a general surrender. This accomplished, small parties will be dispatched to cut the telegraph-wires, and seize the railway stations; while the main body, reinfourced by the 8,000 and more prisoners, will march into the city and rendesvous at the court-house-square, which will be the base of further operations.

CONCLUDED NEXT WEEK.

Secretary Seward Rapidly Recovering.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The Secretary of State continues his duties in almost perfect health. The novel and extraordinary splint was removed from his face by the order of his surgeons, and proved to have been a marvelous success; and very few traces are to be seen of the original accident and the subsequent assault of the baffled assassin, with the exception of a slight swelling on the side of his right cheek.

Mr Seward rose this morning, dressed himself, performed his toilet even to shaving, without assistance, for the first time since his accident. His friends and the country will be glad to learn that he has entirely recovered the use of his arms, one of which was fearfully maimed when he was thrown from the carraige.

For seventy days, of three months, of suffering, Mr. Seward's mind has been engaged in the transaction of public business, a fact which will enable him with comparative ease to resume the active and laborious duties of his office.

The Methodist Episcopal Church South, in Missouri, have resolved to maintain separate ecclesiastic association, regarding such action 'as of paramount importance.'

To the Editor of the Standard:

Letter from Wendell Phillips

Let me call your attention and that of the country, to the danger pointed out in the following extract from the letter of an acute and vigilant friend:

'President Johnson is rapidly issuing proclamations for the reorganization of all the rebel states. The Governors appointed are old politicians who know all the ropes. It is now their design and will they not be able before nex December, to make all their new constitutions, and elect new Governors and full congressional delegations? Then what is to prevent those states from presenting themselves, fully accredited, on the floor of the new Congress, and participating in its organization? They will claim, as President Johnson does, that their States have never been out of the Union; that the Government declares (as it will) the rebellion suppressed and military occupation withdrawn, and that they now resume their relations with the Federal Government, which have been only temporarily suspended.

'In this claim they will be backed by the whole power of the Administration, and this is the trap to be sprung on us. The Clerk of the House, you remember, presides until a new Speaker is elected. If he had firmness enough to refuse to receive the credentials of these rebel members, and to refuse to count their votes, this danger might be averted. But can we count on so much virtue in any politician? We may, prehaps, baffle this plan in the Senate. That body being always organized, no members can be admitted without the concurrence of the rest. But how long would even the Senate stand up against the action of the House of Representatives and enormous pressure of every other kind?

'I believe that this attempt will be made at the next meeting of Congres. Possibly South Carolina might be kept out, but even that is doubtful. I may exaggerate the importance of this matter, but that the attempt will be made there can be no doubt.'

The importance of these suggestions can not be over-estimated, and every means should be taken to avert this peril. We have been counting on the possibility of rallying a majority of the legally elected members of Congress to keep the members from rebel states out of Congress, at least till they consented to certain conditions—ratifying the anti-slavery amendment and other matters. Some sanguine friends believe they can be kept out until they agree to give the negro the right to vote. But according to this rebel plot, the Southern members may enter Congress without agreeing to the anti-slavery amendment or to any other conditions. Once inside the doors they may take part in all the discussions and votes affecting themselves and their claims, and may checkmate the anti-slavery amendment aitself. In fact our fate rests in the hands of the Clerk of the House of Representatives. I know nothing about him; but how many men in the nation could be trusted to stand firm in such a post! The whole North should be roused to guard against this danger. If the rebel states, in their present mood can in any way get inside Congress, and wield eighty-four votes there, and more especially if they can get there unpledged to any conditions, and wield those votes, then truly the "South," will be as strong as ever, and the negro almost as defenseless.

Yours,
Wendell Phillips.

Initial Proceedings of the "Confederary."

New York, July, 3d.—An Athens, (Georgia) correspondent says; 'Some light is thrown upon the hitherto secret history of the initial proceeding of Jeff. Davis' Southern Confederacy by Gen. Wilson's recent capture in Georgia of documents and archives containing a record of the proceedings of the rebel provisional government at Montgomery Alabama. They show that the rebels lost no time, when once they got fairly at work, in organizing their provisional government, which they had in full opperation in less than five weeks from the assembling of their National Congress or Convention. In the work of forming their constitution, the documents show that they had considerable tinkering and discussion.

There was a strong feeling in favor of naming their southern establishment the Republic of Washington, which was only defeated by a majority of one vote in favor of the titled, Confederate States of America. There were long debates over propositions to insert in the preamble of the constitution a recognition of the divinity of both the Old and New Testaments of the Bible and in the body thereof a provision enforcing the observance of the Christian Sabbath. The former is understood to have been voted down out of respect to Judah P. Benjamin, and the latter in deference to the wishes of the people of Louisiana and Texas. Many other curious disclosures, besides these noted, are made by these documents.

Admiral Dupont's relatives contradict the report that he bequeathed his prize money for the foundation of an asylum for orphans of soldiers and sailors, and declare that the amount of such money does not exceed $50,000,

The rebel Generals Kirby Smith, Magruder, Price, Shelby, Hindman, and Lee, with ex-Governors Moore and Allen, of Louisiana, and Murrah, of Texas, are en route for Mexico. They disclaim any intention of uniting with either party in that country.

JEFF DAVIS.

NEW YORK, July 12.—A Washington special says: 'A gentleman just from Fortess Monroe reports the health of Jeff. Davis much better than it has been at any time during his incarceration.

His meals are sent direct faom the table of Dr. Craven, his attendant physician, by his daughter, and by her delivered to the officer having immediate charge over him. The Doctor is keeping an accurate journal of his profession al interviews with Davis, which will, hereafter throw some interesting rays of light on the imprisonment of the arch-traitor.

'The following is a copy of a letter addressed to 'His Excellency, President Davis,' and recently received by the commandant at the Fortress:

" 'MY DEAR OLD FRIEND—You must, by this time, be nearly out of money. I send you the inclosed. Take it and pay your fare to hell with it.'

'The inclosure consisted of $15 in Confederate money. The writer of the letter is an ex rebel soldier, and, if slightly heartless and a trifle profane, his letter serves to show the feelings of thousands of J. D.'s dupes and victims.

'The report that Davis and Clay are to be tried by a miltary commission does not seem to be without confirmation. It is on good authority that at least one of the members of the former court has received an order assigning him as one of the new commission.'

Government Finances—Applications for Pardon.

NEW YORK, July 12.—A Washington special says: "The receipts of the treasury from the internal revenue bureau fall a little short of a half million daily.

The sale of 7.30's cannot be expected to keep pace with the unprecedented expenditure. The Secretary has, therefore, decided to pay but twenty-five per cent, of allowed claims in currency, and to tender the creditors of the government the remaining seventy-fiive per cent, in certificates of indebtedness. The operation of this rule began this morning."

"Mr Gentry, of the Tennessee rebel Legislature, sometimes styled 'The Eagle Orator,' who contested the Governorship of the State with Andy Johnson in 1853, is reported in the city, desiring pardon. Among other rebels of greater or less magnitude, said to be now in Washington for the same purpose, are Senator Garland and Congressman Roylston, of Arkansas; Gilmer and Bridges, of the lower House from North Carolina; a Mr. Smith, ('not Grumping Bill'), an ex-member of the Federal Congress, and a member of the rebel Congress from the beginning of the war, and Col. Hunt, of Shelby county, Tenn., late of the rebel Ordnance Department.

W. T. Avery, member of the Federal Congress from the Memphis district from 1858 to 1860, obtained his pardon to-day."

VIRGINIA.

NEW YORK, July 11.—A correspondent from Southern Virginia represents society and industrial affairs in that region as still in a very crude condition, consequent, to a considerable extent, on the planters and the freedmen not yet fully understanding their altered relations, or, at least, not recognizing them, and much annoyance is thereby caused to the miltary authorities in efforts to adjust difficulties between the respective parties. The planters, in many cases, are disposed to insist on their authority to punish the negroes for disobedience, while numbers of the latter do not yet realize that freedom does not mean idleness, and are disposed to desert the plantations.

With regard to the loyalty to the national government of the white Virginians generally, the correspondent expresses the opinion that it is not of the genuine type. The people admit that they have been overpowered and forced to yeild, but do not express regret for their rebellious course. They still, too, cling to their old semi civilized ideas of chivalry, regarding labor as dishonorable, and cannot yet understand that a new order of things is estabished, under which he who would prosper must work.

Troops are still being mustered out of service in the department of Virginia in large numbers.

Mr. Bowden, Attorney General of Virginia under Gov. Pierpont, has submitted an opinion regarding who will be qualified to exercise the elective franchise at the approaching election in that state, in which he says that all adult white citizens, six months' residents in a county, who have not held office under the rebel government, and who are not excluded by the Presidents amnesty proclamation, may vote on taking the oath.

In one county of the state, a man has offered himself as a candidate for Sheriff, who urges as a recommendation in his favor, that he has served four years in the rebel army.

Governor Brownlow, of Tennessee, has issued a proclamation declaring the franchise law the supreme law of the state, and denouncing as rebels those who attempt to appose its execution.

The only corps now left in the army are the 4th, in the Department of the Gulf, the 13th, going to Texas, the 16th, in Alabama and Mississippi, the 23d, in North Carolina, the 26th in Virginia, and the 25th, in Texas.

The President of the Golden Circle, in confinement at Fort Warren, has issued an 'order' suspending the operations of the Circle until July, 1870, when a 'congress' will assemble at Washington and lay the corner stone of 'the Saxon University.'

SOUTHERN ITEMS.

Mr. Thomas C. Eppes, a well known citizen of Richmond, was arrested on Wednesday night at his house, on the charge of beating and stabbing a soldier named John Hayes, of Company D, 39th Illinois regiment, on the 4th inst., so severely that he died in a few hours afterwards. He was committed to Castle Thunder to await examination.

A radical change has been inaugrated in the management of the freedmen's village at Arlington since the 1st of May. Previons to that its inhabitants were supplied at Government expense with wood, clothing, and rations, and were allowed their house rent free. Since then they have received nothing, and have been charged a nominal rent for their tenements. Instead of remaining a source of expenditure, the village now affords a small income.

Lynchburg must be a cheep place to live at in these times. A gentlemen just from there states that beef and mutton are selling at 10@12½ cents; butter, 25@30 cents; potatoes, 10@12 cents; cabbage, 10 cents per head, with a great profusion of cucumbers, snaps, cimblines, beets, and all kinds of berries.

The Orange and Alexandria Railroad is so far repaired that the road will be in operation to Richmond, by way of Gordensville, by Monday.

The railroad bridge over Little river will be finished in a day or two, and the road completed to Fredericksburg in about four weeks.

The Charleston correspondent of the Boston Advertiser says there are no elements in South Carolina out of which to construct a state; nothing but disloyal whites and ignorant blacks, neither being sound material.

The Provost Marshal of Augusta, Georgia, has issued an order that all negroes found in the streets of that city after 9 o'clock at night, will be arrested by the Provost guard and city police. All whites and all negroes found loitering about the streets and wharves of Augusta are to be arrested as vagrants.

It is reported that Atlanta, Ga., is being rebuilt much more rapidly than could have been anticipated. Business is beginning to be quite brisk. Many families which went North after General Sherman's evacution, are about returning.

The Tuscumbian of the 30th says: A force is at work repairing the Memphis and Charleston railroad, between Corinth and Memphis, and the cars will be running to Corinth from Memphis in a short time. There are four bridges to build between here and Corinth. The track was relaid by, and used by Gen. Hood last December, and is in tolerable good order.

The same paper says: We are sorry to learn that bushwhacking and robbing is still prevalent in the mountains between here and Tuscaloosa.

The planters near the mouth of Red River have decided on the following plan with regard to labor. It is to let lands out for cultivation to any one black or white, for a certain per cent, of the products, whatever they may be, say one fourth, if cotton, and if corn, such proportion as is charged in other parts of the country. It is believed that the plan wi'l work well and equitably.

Within one week, recently, two duels were fought in the rear of New Orleans. The parties were all Creoles, and one well known individual was a principal in both affairs. He came off winning in both, killing his opponent in one instance and probably fatally wounding the other in the abdomen. The cause seems to have arisen out of the war, the two injured men being returned Confederates who twitted the victor as a stay-at home, he never having been in the army.

THE UNION.

Mankato, Minn. Friday July 21, 1865

THE "LOYAL" SOUTH.

Experience puts to the test all theories, and reveals conclusions of fact, which are in no other manner demonstrable. If President Johnson has thought that a wholesale exercise of the pardoning power, and an appointment of sontherners to southern positions, would convert the southern instincts into a fervent love of northern men, and a proper recognition of the rights of the manumitted black man, he may be able to discover the treachery of his own reasoning by a perusal of the statement of the condition of things in Mississippi, published by the Chicago Tribune.

It seems that Judge Sharkey. Provisional Governor of that State, appointed by the President, was sent as a commissioner to Washington by the rebel legislatnre and succeeded in gaining the appointment. Upon his arrival home he appoints the old town and county officers, who are as graceless a set of rebels as ever escaped the gallows. Already a writ of habeas corpus has been issued to military authorities at Vicksburg, for the delivery of military prisoners. The negroes are told that they must work for their masters or leave the State. Officers are arrogantly told by civilians that their commands will not be allowed to remain there, as they propose to manage their own affairs. What few loyal men there are have become disgusted and avow their intention to go north.—What few remain, together with the helpless blacks, are thus to be left to the mercy of insolent traitors, whose sole aim will be to visit upon the weak, their villainous wrath, and drive from the State a large element of true loyalty which is now seeking permanent settlement in the Southern States. A remedy for this gloomy prospect is within the grasp of our Government. It must not release its military grasp nor ignore the state of war which has brought the country to the revolution through which it is now passing. Once withdraw the military power from over the conquered States, and it cannot be reinstated except by open hostility. The States must be held in subjection upon the theory that the war is not yet settled, nor will be, until equal right shall prevail, until a fraternal feeling is evinced by the revolting States, neither of which will ever transpire until a true loyal sentiment is kindled and spreads, and drives miscreat treason to the Gulf, through the aid and instrumentality of military protection to the few white loyalists, and the many of dark hue.—Every private who voluntarily took up arms againet the Government merits disfranchisement as much as his superior, but while northern men must make oath that they never have either directly or indirectly, aided the rebellion, [before assuming official position,] these miserable loafers are admitted to citizenship simply upon the oath that they will not again rebel, and will respect the proclamation concerning slavery.

COMMISSIONER DOLE.

Hon. Wm. P. Dole has resigned his position as Commissioner of Indian affairs, and Judge D. N. Cooley, of Dubuqne, Iowa, has been appointed in his stead. Mr. Cooley is the present Tax Commissioner for South Carolina.

This poposition, we believe, is one to which M. Wilkinson formerly of Mankato, has been aspiring, since his defeat for the United States Senate. We are not informed how many friends he has in this vicinity, to condole with him on this second disappointment, but surely he has by continued absence so far lost his identity with the people of this locality, that a loss sustained by him, will hardly be felt by us. The mission to which Commissioner Dole was appointed in connection with the settlement of the Indian war on our borders, of course, will not be performed by him, but is to be left to a committee of Congress, which probably will be the same committee now visiting the Indian tribes furher south. Until a treaty of peace be declared between the Government and the bordering tribes, public confidence cannot be fully restored. We trust that to whomsoever this work may be delegated nothing may interpose a delay of negotiatoons, whereby an early guaranty of safety may be secured.

Arrivals.—The first and second regiments have arrived at St. Paul, and after being feted by the citizens of that place marched to Ft. Snelling where they will soon be mustered out and paid.

The eigth regiment left Pittsburgh last Sunday, and drobably reached St. Paul last night. Other regiments are expected and will be announced as they arrive.

Just Received.—We sent several weeks since the Union as an exchange to the Quincy Ill. Whig and Republican and are to-day in receipt of that paper.

Next to a tried friend do we welcome the Whig to our sanctum, not only because it is in sympathy with our political views, but reflects the transactions of a beautiful city wherein our early years were spent, and for which our attachment has not entirely abated. Thank you, Messrs. Langdon and Holt.

FISKS EXPEDITION.

In the month of May Capt. James L. Fisk, who for several years past has been engaged in assisting fugitives from the draft in escaping their obligations to the Government, by piloting them beyond its reach, issued a circular placing himself at the head of an association, to be formed for the colonization of the Yellowstone country, and the speedy enrichment of its members, by staking out town sites, mining claims, and agricultural fields.

Having but little faith, at the present juncture of frontier matters, in the successful issue of such an enterprise, we have declined until now making any mention of it. Our announcement of the fact, we trust comes too late in the season to arouse any one, even to entertaining a thought of joining a "wild goose chase, so long as gold, in the richness of Minnesota soil can be found in greater quantities than will be realized by ninety-nine of every hundred joining the expedition. Those who have already experienced the leadership of this man Fisk and have returned from the West, have no such glowing accounts of the wealth of the Yellowstone country, or of the prospects of rapid accumulations, which are reported and seem to dazzle the vision of the credulous. Those who have passed through Mankato this spring have no intention of returning, which indicates that fortunes are not more easily made there than here.

The press of St. Paul is doing a large business in duping people into the belief that many of the most distinguished men in the land are to accompany this expedition, but while for the past month everything concerning this expedition was prospering swimmingly, stock readily subscribed and paid, persons daily joining the expedition, and of course paying their passage in advance; yet today we see that the citizens of St Paul are now called upon to contribute their mite to relieve the Captain from pecuniary en barrassment, replenish his pocket-book, and help him out of town.

This wide-awake, self-supporting, enterprise, or rather humbug, is, as in fact it always has been, dependent upon the cold charities of an unapreciative community.

DETROIT CONVENTION.

Convention of the Merchants and business men of the country has been in session at Detroit, which had for its object the advancement of the commercial interests of the States, and such action as would bring about terms of reciprocity with Canada. After a stormy session of wrangling and jealous debate, a sett of resolutions were adopted the substance of whic may be stated as follows:

1st—That the proper improvement of the great navigable sreams of the country, and the improvement of the harbors on the lakes, should be made by the general government whenever its means will justify it, and the importance of the proposed works imperatively demand it.

2nd. That the government of the United States did right in abrogating the reciprocity treaty, and that it would be proper for the government to negotiate another treaty that would be unobjectionable to all the interests os the contracting parties.

The Rebel Indians.

New York, July 16.—A statement is published regarding affairs in the Indian territory, the transactions of the Indians lately in alliance with the rebels, and an account of important negotiations recently entered into between them and the United States officers sent out by General Herron. On the 21st of June, in the Choctaw Nation, they were met by Colonel Pitchlyn Chief of the Choctaws, General Stand Watie, Chief of the Cherokees, and several other Indian leaders. A temporary treaty was entered into with the Cherokees, Choctaws, Chickasaws, Seminoles, and Creeks. These tribes bound themselves to cease hostilities against the United States and against tribes which had taken part with the government during the rebellion. These and other nations of Indian Confederates in the council previously held, had resolved to send delegates to Washington to negotiate a treaty of amity with the government. On the arrival of General Herron's commissioners they were urgently solicited by the Indians to consent that, instead of sending a delegation, they should be met in their own country by government commissioners empowered to enter into permanent arrangements. This was conceded, and the conference will take place on the 1st of September at Armstrong Academy, in the Choctaw Nation. Colonel Pitchlyn immediately issued a proclamation to that effect. It is anticipated that 50,000 Indians will be present at the council,

The masses of Indians all through the region traversed by General Herron's commissioners appeared overjoyed at the prospects of peace.

Ex-Rebel Congressmen—Carl Schurz on a Mission South.

New York, July 15.

"Ex-Rebel Congressmen Garnett' of Virginia, and Avery and Henry, of Tennessee, are in Washington applying for pardons. All these gentlemen were formerly in the United States Congress.

"General Carl Schurz has been sent by the President to travel through the South on a tour of observation as to the working of emancipation, the loyalty of the whites, the condition of the blacks, and the fitness of the States for immediately restoration to their status prior to secession. He will visit every State lately in revolt, Texas included.

The Boston banks have made an arrangement to loan the United States Treasury $10,000,000 for thirty days, at 5 per cent.

REMEMBER THE SOLDIERS.

Editor Mankato Union.

If there is one class of our citizens more entitled to Political Emoluments than an other, it is obviously the men who in the hour of our country's greatest trial, in the hour when Treason raised its hideous, and deformed head in defiance of the laws of the land, when armed rebellion thirsting for the life's blood of the Nation, stepped boldly forth and voluntarily bared their breasts for the leaden storm aimed at the vitals of the country.

How well those men have discharged that duty. How they have sacrificed time, money, the comforts of a peaceful and happy home, and all that is near, and dear to the hearts of freemen for the dreary camps and smoky fields of blood and carnage in known not only here but every when all over the civilized world their deeds and actions have been recorded and received the hearty approval of the nations of the earth, they have endured and accomplished too much to have their claims and rights ignored,

Have they not defended, maintained and upheld our Government when assailed by cruel and relentless foes, led by subtile and ambitious men? To be brief have they not by their brave, and valient conduct saved this nation Our Nation from disgrace and ruin? then reward them. You have State, County, and Town Officers to be filled, then do not hesitate but give them to the soldier.

Prove to him that you do appreciate his services, surely he who in the hour of conflict shouldered his musket, and buckled on his saber and went out to battle for the right will not flinch in a civil position to do his duty. You can trust him, for his record is clear, and the brightness of his deeds will live in the memory of generations yet to inhabit this Great Republic. Trust him, he will not betray you now, more than when battling for our national existence on the fields of Sioloh, Corinth, Vicksburg, Missionary Ridge, and a thousand other sanguinary fields yet fresh to our memory from the fraternal blood so generously sacrificed in our behalf.

The mealy mouthed oil tongued political demagogue who in the dark days that recently enveloped us, remained at home safely sheltered beneath the homestead roof, enjoying the luxuries of home and its surroundings, not even offering a heartfelt prayer for our country's weal and thinking more of personal agrandisment than "God and his Country," bribing surgeons, and adopting every feasible means to avoid the draft made for the nations benefit, in fact defeating as far as practicable the efforts of the Government to suppress the rebellion from selfish motives, cannot, and shall not have my vote or support for the most subordinate, and inferior positions, while the claims of more worthy men are unadjusted.

The time to punish Copperheads, and stay-at home traitors, has arrived and to better secure this object, I would suggest a soldiers convention be held at no distant day, either in your town or some other convenient locality in the Valley, with the avowed purpose of insuring concert of action that will defeat the aspiring ambitions of selfish and dishonest Politicions, and secure the election of loyal, honest and worthy men to the position of trust, honor and profit, of this district. Hoping this suggestion may meet with your co operation Mr Editor,

I have the honor to be,
Very Respectfully
Your Obedient Servant

FROM TEXAS.

New York, July 15.

Matamoras advices of the 8th from Imperialist sources, state the Mexican republicans under Negrete had finally been effectually scattered, and they had disbanded, and that the greater number of them had sought refuge in Texas.

The indications of approaching trouble between our forces in Texas, and the Imperialists were increasing.

The Herald's Galveston correspondent gives additional accounts of the exodus of rebels from Texas to Mexico. The rebel General Shelby with 3,000 of his followers, and accompanied by ex-Govs. Moore and Allen of Lonisiana, and other extinguished political luminaries of the late confederacy, were on the way. They had transportation and supplies for six months, and all were armed with the weapons which they failed to surrender to the national government, in accordance with the terms of Kirby Smith's capitulation. They professed, though, that they were merely going to Mexico as emigrants, and not to fight for either republicans or imperialists. Many of the Texas people who choose, or are compelled to remain in their own State, are much embittered against these fugitives, and especially the leaders who flee from the troubles into which they have succeeded in getting their helpless dupes. Those who are staying behind, are deeply engrossed and agitated just now, over the reconstruction, amnesty, and free-labor questions, and are casting about for ways and means to surmount the general prostration in which war has left all manner of industry in the State.

It it is estimated that there still remains in Texas from 100,000 to 150,000 bales of the old crop of cotton, while owing to various unfavorable circumstances, it is thought that this year's crop will not exceed 50,000 bales. It is also calculated that there are within the State, accumulated during the war, 5,000,000 pounds of wool.

STATE NEWS.

"Tis Finished"—Logs, logs, logs, have been the cry from the first breaking up of the ice in the spring, until the early part of this week when the last log that will in all probability be brought down this year went by. With them goes a treasure for local reporters in valley papers, and the material for the most magnificent sights with which we were ever favored and perhaps ever will be.—Long the resort of artists and pleasure seekers—the Big Jam, crowded into one of the most wild and romantic dalles of the northwest, now a thing of the past, will long be impressed upon the minds of all who were fortunate enough to witness it. It is estimated that about 100,000,000 feet of logs have gone over the dam at this place this season, and that there are now only about 10'000,000 feet remaining on the tributaries of the St. Croix above here. —Taylors Falls Reporter.

—Ground has been broken for the erection of the Episcopal Church in this place, and we are led to believe that the building will be pushed along with vigor. Col. Ide has exhibited a well drawn plan of the edifice, and if the plan is followed, the building will be an ornament to our village.—Wilton News.

New Bank.—A new bank, under the auspices of Col. J. L. Thorne, has been established in this city, to be known as the Merchants' National Bank of Hastings. It has a capital of $100,000, and its bills will be issued in a few days. John L. Thorne is President, and S. Mills Jr., Cashier.—Hastings Ind.

Lumber.—It is wonderful to watch the stream of lumber that goes out of this city daily. Some days a hundred wagon loads find their way into the country.

This indicates the steady advance of the country, and that new fields are being opened, new homes made and new people coming. We are glad to know that the country is going right ahead. Agriculture is the base of all substantial prosperity.—Hastings Ind.

The Rochester, N. Y., papers notice the discovery of a mail bag from the west, on the 7th inst., in that city, which had been robbed of its contents. The letters found were principally from Minnesota and Michigan. One of the letters contained a note for $250 given by H. C. & L. B. Chase, and dated Minnesota June, 29th 1865.—Press.

Beat it.—Willie Dustin brought to this office yesterday, a stalk of corn grown in the garden of his father, Wm. Dustin, Esq., which upon measuring we found to be eight feet and five inches in length. This is about the average of the field. This stalk has two ears in the silk and far advanced. Can any beat it.—Blue Earth City Advocate.

Painful Affair.—On last Sabbath, Mr. A. Stone, of Fort Abercrombie, engaged in business in that place, accidentally shot his father under the following circumstances: Mr. Stone was capping a loaded bistol with which to shoot a diseased horse, when the hammer accidentally slipped from his finger, discharging the load, which entered the head of his father at that moment passing by. At the time the messenger left the injured man was still alive, but could not recover. He had just come from the east to pay a brief visit to his son.—St. Cloud Democrat.

To be Mustered Out.—We learn that the 1st U. S. Volunteers—ex-rebs—are to be mustered out. Several companies are at Ft. Ripley, Sauk Centre, Ft. Abercrombie, and others of the military posts in this State. Gen. Sibley will retain them until their places are filled by other troops. It is stated that it is the intention of the Department to have all the posts in Minnesota garrisoned exclusively with cavalry, several regiments of which will soon be in the State.—St. Cloud Democrat.

The Second Regiment passed up the river yesterday morning on the McClellan. On the arrival of the boat at this place, the regiment, seven hundred and fifty strong, came ashore, and after marching through several streets, were formed in a square, and welcomed in short speeches by several of our citizens, which were responded to by Gen. Bishop, after which the boys were fed by the noble ladies of the city, and left feeling as happy as school girls.—Winona Democrat.

Discovery of Valuable Minerals on Lake Superior.

Mr. John A. Bailey, Superintendent of the Ashland Mining Company, near Bayfield, discovered a few days since one of the largest and most promising veins of silver lead ever found in this country. Some of our citizens, Major Cullen and Hon. Henry M. Rice, in connection with parties from the East, were fortunate enough to secure an interest in the property before its great value was positively known. The vein is supposed to be the one discovered in 1847 by Dr. Houghton, Michigan State Geologist, who was lost on Lake Superior the same season with all his books and papers.—Pioneer, July 19.

National Commercial Convention.—In the session of the National Commercial College Convention, held in Chicago on the 14th inst., the extention of special facilities to returned soldiers for a commercial educatson, was a prominent topic of discussion. Letters were read from Gov. Oglesby, Dean Richmond, Millard Fillmore, Prof. Edwards of Illinois, Newton Bateman and other friends of education. The meeting on the 15th was addressed by Prof. Wilder of the State National History Survey, and School Superintendant Picard, of Chicago. The sum of $3,500 is to be raised for a Lincoln testimonial.

An eminent coroner in London recently declared that there were 12,000 mothers in the metropolis who murdered their children.

Secretary Harlan has contracted for the extension of the Congressional Library, at an expense of $146,000.

A vessel arrived at Charleston on the 4th inst. from Bermuda;—the first foreign arrivals since the opening of the port.

FROM THE SOUTH

New York, July 15.

The steamer Fulton brings Savannah and Charleston dates to the 11th.

The Savannah Herald contains an address by ex-Gov. Brown to the people of Georgia, in which he urges them to support not only the Government of the United States but the administration of the present Chie Magistrate. He appeals to them to take the amnesty oath and observe it in good faith He argues that slavery is now dead forever.

As to his slaves he will at once emancipate them and treat them as free, giving them a part of the crop, or wages for their labor. To those who cannot support the constitution he suggests emigration from the country.

The Fourth of July was celebrated in Augusta by a colored procession with banners, on which were inscribed, 'Death of Disunion and Slavery.' and 'Freedom and Equality.'

In the afternoon the troops paraded, and in the evening fireworks.

Railroads are being completed in the interior, and communication established. Large numbers of negroes are dying in and around Macon, destitute of medical aid and the necessaries of life.

The Charleston Courier complains of riots and breaches of the peace, saying that the people cannot walk the streets at night without fear of being robbed and killed. This condition of affairs appears to have arisen from the distinction of color maintained there. Negroes attack white citizens and white citizens attack negroes. The white and black soldiers also attack each other.

Republican On Dit.

It is rumored that letters have been received from Col. Wm. R. Marshall, of the Seventh Regiment, announcing his gracious assent to the use of his name as candidate for Governor. It seems to be a foregone conclusion that the candidate must be a soldier, and consequently the military aspirants are numerous. Among those whose claims and chances are freely canvassed are Gen John B. Sanborn, Gen. L. F. Hubbard, Col. Wm. Colville, Col. John T. Averill, Col. Wm. R. Marshall, Lieut. Col. Jennison and Lieut. Col. Rogers. Military men are also to be represented in the balance of the State ticket. We would suggest to our Republican friends that the private soldiers are entitled to some recognition as well as the field officers, in the distribution of official honors.—Pioneer.

THE HARRIS TRIAL.

In the trial of Miss Harrris for the murder of Barrough, the evidence for the prosecution is about complete, and consists mainly of the simple proof of the circumstances of the murder as heretofore detailed. The counsel for Miss Harris set up the defense of insanity, and proposed the introduction of the correspondence which passed between the parties in former years to show the relations which existed between them, and then to shew that it was the breaking off their relations which produced a state of insanity on the part of the accused. The letters number ninety-seven and date from Nov., 1858, to August, 1863. Several depositions were read from parties residing at Burlington, Iowa, to show the cause of insanity by exhibiting her state of mind at remote period.

The question of admitting positive proof of insanity was held in abeyance by Judge Wylie.

Senator Wilkinson was at Saratoga Springs on the 7th, and was tendered the compliment of a serenade.—Press.

THE AUTOMATIC ORGAN

In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly announce the greatest triumph in musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments, with double bellows and two pedals for the feet to operate but the want of the reversed or Exhaustion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated.

Another objection to this method of blowing was that, both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell Within the past two years, instrumetsn constructed on this European plan of "double blowers," have been manufactured in this country, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an appendage is nearly impossible

Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of tone. We predict for this invention a brilliant future.

THE MELODEON & SCHOOL ORGAN.

For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly. With our increased facilities, we feel warranted in assuring our patrons that their orders will be promptly met, and solicit a continuance of their patronage.

TABLEAUX.—The entertainment of Friday and Saturday evenings last, in behalf of the Episcopal society, was edifying, amusing, and we guess profitable. For amateur performers, the tableaux were extremely well executed, and are well worth a rehearsal. While each performer acted well his part it may not be invidious to mention that the parties to the "Bridal Scene seemed a little more undisturbed and fixed in their position which, of course, embellished the effect somewhat. The parties to this interesting scene were two old hickory chairs with a riding bridle hung gracefully between them.

THE LADIES FRIEND—This favorite of the ladies leads off in its August number with a beautiful steal engraving called "Grandpa's Darling"—the face of the old man, with its deep, thoughtful eyes, strikes us as particularly fine Among the figures of the Colored Steel Fashion Plate, we note a Bridal Dress, very chaste and pretty. The other engravings of this number are, "The Children and the Rain drops," "Jacket a Bandeaux (front and back view,)" "Bonnets," "Gentleman's Shirt," Grecian Waist with Braces (front and back view.)" "Gimp Ornament," "Watt au Skirt Supporters." &c., &c. The music for this number is the fine piece, "Best, Noble Chieftain!" The literary contributions are unusually attractive.

Price $2,50 a year; 2 copies $4,00. To those desirous of making up clubs, specimen numbers will be sent for 15 cents. Wheeler & Wilson's celebrated Sewing Machines are furnished as premiums. Address Deacon & Petersen, 319 Walnut st. Philadelphia.

GRASSHOPPERS.—We have late reports from Judson and Butternut Valley where the recent grasshopper raid thretened to destroy everything living. Since the raiders have left, and the smoke cleared away, it is discovered that nothing near the amount of damage has been done as was supposed. Instead of the destruction of the crops of the entire town of Butternut Valley, only about a mile in wedth along the river has been disturbed, and in Judson still less damage has been done. We presume this is the case in other localities where these insects have been. Some of our State papers appear so grasping for a "local," that the impression has already gone abroad through our exchanges that Minnesota is subject to such scourges when in fact such cases are very exceptional.

TRIP TO BLUE EARTH CITY.—Time forbids us at present to do more than refer to a trip which we had the pleasure of making to Winnebago and Blue Earth cities this week. Behind two black steeds and in company with three very white gentlemen, we crossed the Reservation to Shelbyville where Elder Hathaway regaled us with every thing to eat and drink except whiskey At Winnebago we were introduced to several gentlemen whose business showed that they were live men in a live town. Blue Earth is a little larger and seems to be fully up to the spirit of the age

While there a gentleman by the name of Tompkins was brought in a corpse. He had been watching his grain two miles from town, was taken with a fit and died. We understand he formerly drove stage between that city and Mankato. Of the country through which we passed we can say that the garden of Eden pales into insignificance before it. Thousands of acres unoccupied lands, are now open to the homestead settler, which if once seen would be eagerly taken.

SOLDIERS' RECEPTION.—We are pleased to announce that an effort is in progress for the reception, by the citizens of Mankato, of our returning heroes who may be present or reside in the Blue Earth Valley. The arrival of Company H. of the Second Regiment will be made the occasion of receiving and entertaining all soldiers who may have arrived up to that time. Upon the arrival of Company E. of the Ninth or Company H of the Fourth it is intended to receive publicly, all soldiers of these and other companies or regiments as shall have arrived home.

A meeting for this purposes was held at the school rooms on Front street, Monday evening last. A. D. Seward Esq., was called to the chair, and Capt J. R. Beatty chosen secretary. Mr. C. H. Slocum having announced the objects of the meeting, moved that a public reception be given to all returned soldiers upon the arrival of the members of Company H of the 2nd Minn. Vet Vol, Infty. It was moved by Mrs. Sibley, that two receptions be given, the second for such soldiers as shall return subsequent to the arrival of those of the Second regiment. S. F. Barney Esq., moved to amend so as to give one grand reception for the whole. It was finally decided to leave it to the ladies only, who determined to adopt the motion of Mrs. Sibley, without Mr. Barney's amendment.

Messrs. Slocum, Conner, and Loring were appointed a committee to procure powder and fire a salute.

The following ladies and gentlemen were appointed a committee of arrangements

Rev. Mr. Craven, S. S. Higgins, D. H. Tyner, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Sibley, Mrs. Wise, Miss Frisbie, and Miss Dornburg.

The committee have doubtless ere this, completed their arrangements.

Later—Since the above was in type, we are informed that the programme is somewhat changed, and that but one general reception will be given, and this will include all who have served since the beginning of the war.—The time for this entertainment will be duly announced, in order to gather in every soldier of the Blue Earth Valley, who may feel disposed to participate. We believe this arrangement gives more general satisfaction to all concerned.

A BANK—While numerous small inland towns, of not half the importance of Mankato, are favored with two or more banking institutions which seem to live and thrive, we are not even blessed with ordinary exchange facilities, and it is with much difficulty that safe remittences can be made, unless by express at exhorbitant rates. We are told that parties from Winnebago City after despairing of obtaining drafts here, returned home and procured them at a small exchange office in a town of less than one-sixth the inhabitants of Mankato.—The lack of banking facilities here, is not caused by a lack of business, but is probably attributable to the want of capital. The majority of our business men came here poor in purse but rich in hope, and are now so far emerged from the difficulties attending the commencement of business without capital, as to be able to offer to the public. full and well assorted stocks of goods; and as competition increases, each merchant feels the necessity of employing all his capital, in keeping good his assortment of merchandize. But the time cannot be far distant when its necessity will press upon our business men the establishment of a bank, unless fortunately some capitalist sees the propitious moment and enters soon upon this branch of commercial intercourse The commercial interests of Mankato demand a first class national bank in which the people may repose their entire confidence, and its success is beyond question. To those having the means, no such opening can be found in Minnesota, as this now presents; in this village If some capitalist should chance to read this article, we charge him that to overlook this opportunity would be to treat with indifference a competency within easy grasp.

A PRESENTATION.—In the parlor of the Mankato house on last Saturday evening were convened, by invitation of C. H Slocum Esq, a a number of young ladies, to each of whom was presented a volume of Headley's History of the Rebellion. Thirteen volumes of this work beautifully embellished, were presented through Mr. Slocum by members of Company H 2nd Regt., to as many young ladies of this vicinity, who by their kindness had ingratiatiated themselves into the favor of the "boys in blue." Capt Dickerson, of Judson, was present, together with a few other invited guests. After spending a time in social chat and in discoursing patriotic airs, the company was called to order and Mr. Slocum spoke as follows:

MY FRIENDS: Many of you are doubtless anxious to know for what purpose you have been called together this evening. I am glad that the time has at last arrived when I can explain away the mystery. I am this evening the representative of a portion of Company H. of the 2nd Minn. Regt., and am delegated by them to discharge a duty that is in many respects a pleasant one, and in this other respect an unpleasant one, because I feel myself unable to discharge it in a manner befitting the occasion. But you will take the will for the deed, without further apology.

About the 10th of January last, I received a letter from William G. Wheeler, of Company H. as follows:

SAVANNAH, GA, Jan. 1st, 1865.

Mr. Chas. H. Slocum:

Sir:

Since the commencement of the late southern Rebellion, there have been a number of young ladies in and around your city, who have taken a great interest in our welfare. While we have been suffering the hardships of the soldiers' life and fighting the enemy in the field, they have been fighting Treason at home, and have done much to encourage us, and have shown themselves worthy of our highest regards.

Although some of us are comparative strangers, we feel it our duty as well as privilege to show them that they are not forgotten, and as a token of our sympathy we have ordered thirteen volumes of Headley's History of the Rebellion to be shipped to you for distribution. The following are the ladies designated to receive the books:

Miss Josie Parsons,	Miss Delia Flower,
" Clara McKenney,	" Susie Parrot,
" Amie Patterson	" Sallie Stock.
" Carrie Pease,	" Melissa Wirt,
" Louisa Dickerson,	" Amanda Gail,
" Anna Sibley,	" Annie M. Kent

The extra volume we present to you as a token of our esteem for the kindness shown us through your excellent paper.

Should there be other loyal ladies which we have overlooked, we would be happy to know who they are, as we wish to show no partiality whatever. Therefore, if we have overlooked any, we beg pardon.

Hoping that the ladies will accept them as a New Years present, we subscribe ourselves

Your Sincere Friends.
VETERANS,
Co. H. 2nd Minn. V. V. I.

This letter was dated at Savannah. Through some unaccountable delay, the books, which were shipped by express did not reach me until March 20th, and upon opening them, I found to my disappointment, that all the copies were in the German language. A mistake had evidently been made by the shippers; but not knowing from whose publishing house they were sent, and having no communication with the Company, it being in South Carolina, I could do nothing more than to keep them and wait "for some thing to turn up."

On May 27th after the Company had reached Washington, I received another letter from Mr. Wheeler, making inquiry in regard to them I explained the matter and soon received an answer stating where they were ordered from. I immediately returned them to have the mistake corrected, and last Saturday the books came to hand all right

They are intended as a New Year's Present, and though some what late, I am confident you will prize these beautiful gifts none the less on this account, nor cease to hold in greatful remembrance the true and gallant donors, who have sacrificed the comforts of happy and peaceful homes, to defend the old flag, and receive the leaden bullets of the enemy that were aimed at our nation's heart.

After nearly four years of sufferings and hardships, of marching and fighting, many of them are soon to return and will receive, I hope, a warm welcome from you all.

It may be interesting for you to know to whom you are indebted for these gifts, so I will read their names, which you will also find on a blank leaf in each copy.

Of the twelve ladies to whom these books were presented, nine were present. The remaining books are subject to the orders of the donees.

To add to the entertainment of the evening Mr. Slocum lavished upon the company ice cream, canned peaches, cake, raisins, nuts etc, to their hearts' content. As a representative of the company, Mr. Slocum certainly did ample justice to his agency.

MARRIED.

On Tuesday Evening, July 18th, at the house of Rev. Thos. Day, Mankato—Mr. James H. Hazer, to Miss Anna Travis, both of the County of Watonwan.

ARRANDALE & CO., Manuf'g Agts,
No 167 Broadway, New York.

Announce that all of the above list of goods will be sold for One Dollar each.

In consequence of the great stagnation of trade in the manufacturing districts of England, through the war having cut off the supply of cotton, a large quantity of Valuable Jewelry, originally intended for the English market, has been sent off for sale in this country, and must be sold at any sacrifice Under these circumstances, Arrandale & Co., acting as agents for the principal European manufacturers, have resolved upon a great Gift Apportionment to be divided according to the following regulations:

Certificates of the various articles are put into envelopes indiscriminately, sealed up, and when ordered, are taken out without regard to choice, and sent by mail, thus showing no favoritism On receipt of the certificate, you will see what you are to have, and then it is at your option to send the dollar and take the article or not. Purchasers may thus obtain a gold watch, Diamond Ring, or any set of Jewelry on our list for One Dollar.

SEND 25 CENTS FOR CERTIFICATE.

In all transactions by mail, we shall charge for forwarding the certificates, paying postage and doing the business, 25 cents each, which must be enclosed when the certificate is sent for. Five certificates will be sent for $1, eleven for $2, thirty for $5, sixty five for $10; one hundred for $15

WHAT THE "PRESS" SAY OF US.

The Lafayette (Ind) Daily Courier, March 18 1865, says: A better selected, more varied or fashionable assortment of jewelry cannot be found on the continent than Arrandale & Co., are now offering. Messrs. Arrandale & Co., occupy a high position in commercial circles as men entirely above the common trickery of trade. Their statements may be implicitly relied upon, both as to the character of their goods and the manner of disposal. Ladies especially, in all parts of the country, are realizing handsome profits as agents, and if any of our fair readers desire to interest themselves in this enterprise they may do so with perfect confidence.

We have inspected, at the office of Arrandale & Co's Agency for European Manufacturing Jewellers, a large assortment of valuable and fashionable jewelry of the newest patterns. We also noticed a large quantity of silver plate and understand that the whole of these newly imported articles are to be disposed of on a novel principle giving great advantage to buyers, and affording extensive employment to agents We know the firm in question to be very respectable and thoroughly worthy of public confidence, and recommend our friends to read their advertisement.—N. Y. Albion, September 3, 1864.

The British Whig, of Kingston, C. W. says Nov. 26th, 1864; One of our lady subscribers became an agent for Arrandale & Co. and by request brought some twenty articles sent as prizes for her agency, to this office for inspection and without hesitation we can state that each and all of the articles were worth treble the amount of cost to the recipients, and some of them six times.

AGENTS—We want agents in every regiment, and in every town and county in the country, and those acting as such will be allowed ten cents on every certificate ordered by them, provided their remittance amounts to one dollar, also other inducements which can be learned on application. Agents will collect 25 cents for every Certificate, and remit fifteen cents to us, either in cash or postage stamps.

U. S. 7-30 LOAN.
THIRD SERIES.
$230,000,000.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury the undersigned, the general Subscription Agent for the sale of United States securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three-tenths per cent interest per annum, known as the

7.30 LOAN.

These notes are issued under date of July 15th, 1865, and are payable three years from that time, in currency, or are convertible, at the option of the holder the

U. S. 5-20 Six per cent.
Gold Bearing Bonds!

These bonds are now worth a handsome premium, and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds, from State, County, and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent per annum, to their value, according to the rate levied on other property, Interest is payable semi-annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker.

The interest at 7.30 per cent amounts to

One cent per day on a $50 note.
Two cents " " "	$100	"
Ten " " " "	$500	"
20 " " " "	$1000	"
$1 " " " "	$5000	"

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.

The notes of this third series are precisely similar in form and privileges to the Seven-Thirties already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying interest in gold coin at 6 per cent, instead of 7 3-10ths in currency. Subscribers will deduct the interest in currency up to July 15th, at the time when they subscribe

The delivery of the notes of this third series of the Seven thirties will commence on the 1st of June, and will be made promptly and continuously after that date.

The slight change made in the conditions of this THIRD SERIES affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in Gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three tenths per cent in currency. This is now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the great

THE ONLY LOAN IN MARKET.

POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Less than $230,000,000 of the Loan authorized by Congress are now on the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within sixty days, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other loans

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and private bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhoea or seminal weakness Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity; Impediments to Marriage, etc, also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

DEFECTIVE PAG

Foot Rot in Sheep.

Pare the hoof well, taking all the loose horn off. Put butter of antimony on the sore first, then ordinary blue vitriol, dissolved in water; then tie up the foot with a rag, to keep dirt out of the sore; keep the sore foot from the ground, and repeat this operation once or twice a week, and I will guarantee a cure for the worst cases. The ordinary blue vitriol will do for common cases. The difficulty is, where the cavity in the foot is put bare on the ground, even after the disorder has been removed, dirt works up into the cavity, and irritation and soreness ensue again.

☞A Prolific Pig Story.—The first of April, 1864, a female swine under the barn of Edward Earl, in Worchester, had a litter of thirteen pigs, eleven of which, when six weeks old, sold for $14. In August following, the same animal had thirteen more, and raised nine of them, which sold for $45. The 24th of February, 1865, to cap the climax, she brought forth seventeen more fine, healthy pigs, (although she had only twelve teats for them,) making in all three litters, within thirteen months, of forty-three pigs.—Worcester Transcript.

Contrivance for Hiving Bees.—Mr. Amos Taber, of Albion, has left at our office, an apparatus for hiving bees, contrived and used by himself for several years with universal success. It consists of a board a foot wide and twelve feet long, elevated at an angle of about 45 degrees, the upper end of which is perforated with holes about two inch, apart, into which long corn cobs are inserted, projecting downward. Bees when swarming, readily alight upon the cobs, as they afford an excellent opportunity for them to hold on upon, from which they can be hived without difficulty or danger, as the board can readily be placed immediately under the hive. A sample of the contrivance can be seen at this office, and we regard it as a simple and practical affair—one which every bee keeper can make and use himself with little or no trouble.—Maine Farmer.

☞Lice on Hogs.—The swine louse is readily destroyed by a strong decoction of quassia wood; tobacco water is also used but requires especial caution in its application. A little benzine, dissolved in alcohol, applied with a shaving brush or piece of sponge, is said to be a certain cure, but, like tobacco water, requires care in its use.—Amer. Ag.

To Stop Chipmucks Pulling Corn.—'S. M. T.' says his neighbors 'soak their corn in a decoction of tobacco, and it has invariably put a stop to the depredations of the Chipmucks.'—Am. Ag.

☞Grease the Implements.—A correspondent of the Prairie Farmer truly says that the application of grease (unsalted) to plows, cultivators, hoes, spades, &c., would save much labor in scouring. Whenever any implement is to remain unused for a short time, let the grease rag be used at once.

Currant Jelly.—Pick fine red and large ripe currents from the stems, bruise them and strain the juice from a quart at a time through thin muslin, pressing them slightly to get all the liquid. Put a pound of white sugar to each pound of juice; stir it until it is all dissolved; set it over a gentle fire; let it become hot and boil for fifteen minutes; then try it by taking a spoonful into a saucer.—When cold, if it is not quite firm enough boil it for a few minutes longer. It may be made by standing in the sun without boiling, if put in a very warm place, and is generally of a much better color than when cooked by the fire.

Rhubarb Wine.—Dr. Marsh, of the United States Sanitary Commission, gives the following receipt for making rhubarb wine: Peel and slice as for pies; put a very small quantity of water in the vessel, only just enough to cover the bottom; cover the vessel and gradually bring it to the boiling point; then strain, pressing out all the liquid; to this liquid add an equal quantity of water; to each gallon [after mixing] add from four to five pounds of brown sugar; set aside, ferment and skim like current wine, leave in the cask and bulk as long as possible before sending away. All wine is better kept in casks.

Raspberry Vinegar.—Take three or four quarts of raspberries, put them in a stone crock and cover them with vinegar. Let them stand twenty-four hours. Then strain this juice through a jelly-bag and pour it on to fresh berries, letting this stand another day. Repeat this process until you have the quantity you desire. Add to each pint of juice one pint of sugar. Put it into a preserving kettle and allow it to heat sufficiently to melt the sugar. When it is cold put it into bottles. It will keep several years.

Currant Wine.—One quart of currant juice, two quarts of water, three pounds of crushed sugar, and to each gallon of the mixture, add one gill of pure brandy. Place a cask upon its side with the bung up, and fill it entirely. It will require replenishing, as it wastes by fermentation, and the cask should always be kept full.

Gen. Steele has demanded of the Mexican Imperialists the surrender of the ordnance given to them by the rebel Gen. Slaughter.

The arrest of Emerson Etheridge has been approved, and he will be prevented from placing any further obstacles in the way of reconstruction.

Collector Draper, of New York, paid into the Treasury, July 12th $4,200,000—proceeds of the sales of cotton and other seized or abandoned rebel property.

The late storms in Iowa caused damage to the Dubuque and Sioux City Railroad to the extent of $150,000. The Des Moines Valley Road was injured to the amount of $25,000.

☞Thirty vessels were sold at New York July 12th, by the government, at auction, most of them being steamers. The amount realized was $933,000.

FINKLE & LYON'S

SEWING MACHINES.

These Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do: will Hem, Fell Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tention, or making any adjustment of Machaine whatever!!!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood; and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

These are peculiar facts, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

Please call and examine, or send for Circular.

MORSE'S EXPECTORANT

Is warranted to break up the most troublesome cough in an incredibly short time. There is no remedy that shows more evidence of its merit than this for curing

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Difficulty in Breathing, Asthma, Bronchitis, Laryngitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of patients in the advanced stage of the disease.

Morse's Expectorant is a vegetable anodyne, prepared expressly to meet the constant demand for a safe and efficient remedy for diseases of the

THROAT AND LUNGS,

Diseases of those organs are so prevalent and dangerous that a reliable Medicine is a necessary safeguard in every community. In such a remedy for family use, the absolute absence of danger from accidental overdoses, freedom from poisons, and the adaptation to patients of every age and condition, of either sex, is indispensible. These qualities are most combined in this preperation, and so admirably is it adapted to the cure of all diseases for which it is recommended, that its entire influence is bro't to bear against them, and so perfectly assist nature in its efforts to rid the system of disease, that the most delicate constitution can use it with perfect safety and a fixed certainty that a RELEIF AND A CURE WILL SPEEDILY FOLLOW

As Time—the great developer of Events—advances, these truths becomes wider and better known, and this Medicine has already become a simple necessity, with a growing demand, unprecedentd in the history of Medicine—the natural results of its INTRINSIC MERITS.

A single trial is all that is necessary to establish the fact that it is the most efficiencious remedy ever offered to suffering humanity.

This medicine is put up in 50,75 and $1,00 bottles and warranted to contain more and better material than any similar medicine introduced to the public in a medicine.

For sale by Druggists generally. July 1 y

HELMBOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATIONS.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED" COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings.

This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the matter of calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for men, women and children.

H

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

For weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion, attended with the following Symptoms:

Indisposition to Exertion,	Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory,	Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves,	Trembling,
Horror of Disease,	Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,
Hot Hands,	Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin,	Eruptions of the Face,
Universal Lassitude,	Pallid Countenance,

Muscular System.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes), soon follow—

FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c.,

In one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

E

In many affections peculiar to Females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, and for all complaints incident to the sex, or in the

DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE,

☞ See Symptoms above.

☞ No Family should be without it.

L

Take no Balsam, Mercury, or unpleasant medicine for unpleasant and dangerous diseases.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

AND

IMPROVED ROSE WASH

Cures Secret Diseases

In all their stages little expense, little or no change of diet, no inconvenience, and NO EXPOSURE.

M

USE HELMBOLD'S

EXTRACT BUCHU

For all affections and diseases of these organs, whether

EXISTING IN MALE OR FEMALE,

From whatever cause originating, and no matter how long standing. Diseases of these organs require the aid of a diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

Is the Great Diuretic.

And it is certain to have the desired effect in all diseases for which it is recommended.

B

BLOOD! BLOOD! BLOOD!

Helmbold's

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA,

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the Skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect Helmbold's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla. It cleanses and renovates the Blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the Blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought for, and now, for the first time the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

O

HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH,

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upwards of 30,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basis, Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon. Being now used to the exclusion of all other Bitters in more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only a popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the U. S. government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞They are made of ingredients well known and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strengthening properties to correct the bilious derangement of the system and act like a charm when taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases:—Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Affections, Jaundice Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirit, Sallow Complexion.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞Ladies who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system. If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters have him send for him. Remember the name and take no other.

A DREAM.

BY W. J. WETMORE, M. D.

I dream'd last night of my early days,
When life had not a care—
The friends now sleeping in the tomb,
I fancied all were there;
We talk'd of scenes long pased and gone—
Scenes that we e once so dear;
It seemed there had been no decay—
'Twas childhood's happy year.

The merry laughter of the young—
Each joyous sport and game—
The lively joke, the merry song,
And each familliar name;
The grand old tree before the door
With broad and ample shade,
Waves its strong branches to the breeze
The same, still undecay'd.

And down upon the placid lake
Rocked lightly Pleasure's boat;
Around it many a ripple play'd—
And, hark! the robin's note;
The song birds whistle in the trees—
I heard the cooing dove—
The breezes kissed my boyish brow—
'Twas youth, and home, and love!

My father's voice was still as kind,
As earnest, as of yore;
My mother sang the same sweet song
I'd heard so oft before;
And brothers, sisters, all were there;
Our hearts beat high with mirth,
And there we sat and talked as when
'Round boyhood's happy hearth.

Oh, why should sleep call up such scenes?
Such pleasures never last!
They only for a moment shine—
A meteor, quickly past.
So 'tis with life—'tis all a dream—
A moment to us given;
But when life's pilgrimage is done
May we all meet in Heaven!

Thrilling Developments.

THE CHICAGO CONSPIRACY.

From the Atlantic Monthly for July.

(CONCLUDED FROM LAST WEEK.)

The first blow struck, the insurgents will be joined by the 5,000 Illini, [American Knights,] and, seizing the arms of the city—six brass field-pieces and 800 Springfield muskets—and the arms and ammunition stored in private ware-houses, will begin the work of destruction. The banks will be robbed, the stores gutted, the houses of loyal men plundered, and the railway-stations, grain-elevators, and other public buildings burned to the ground. To facilitate this latter design, the water-plugs have been marked, and a force detailed to set the water running. In brief, the war will be brought home to the North, Chicago will be dealt with like a city taken by assault, given over to the torch, the sword, and the brutal lusts of a drunken soldiery. On it will be reaped all the havoc, the agony, and the desolation which three years of war have heaped upon the South; and its upgoing flames will be the torch that shall light a score of other cities to the same destruction!

It was a diabolical plan, conceived far down in hell amid the thick blackness, and brought up by the arch-fiend himself, who sat there, toying with the hideous thing, and his cloven foot beating a merry tune on the death's-head and cross-bones under the table!

As he concludes, Hines turnes to the new comer—

'Well, my boy, what do you say?—Will you take the post of honor and of danger?'

The Texan draws a long breath, and then, through his barred teeth, bursts out—

'I will.'

On those two words hang thousands of lives, millions of money.

'You are a trump!' shouts Grenfell, springing to his feet. Give us your hand on it!'

A general hand shaking follows, and during it, Hines and another man announce that their time is up:

'It is nearly twelve. Fielding and I never stay in this d——d town after midnight. You are fools, or you would not.'

Suddenly, as these words are uttered, a slouched hat, listening at the key hole, pops up, moves softly through the hall, and steals down the stairway. Half an hour later the Texan opens the private door of the Richmond House, looks cautiously around for a moment, and then stalks on towards the heart of the city. The moon is down, the lamps burn dimly, but after him glide the shadows.

In a room at the Tremont House, not far from this time, the commandant is walking and waiting, when a door opens, and a man enters. His face is flushed, his teeth are clenched, his eyes flashing. He is stirred to the depth of his being. Can he be the Texan?

'What's the matter?' asks the commandant.

The other sits down, and, as if only talking to himself, tells him. One hour has swept away the falacies of his lifetime. He sees the Rebellion as it is—the outbreak and out-working of that spirit which makes hell horrible. Hither to, that night, he has acted from love, not from duty. Now he bows only to the All-Right and All-Beautiful, and in his his heart is the psalm of work, sung by one of old and by all true men since the dawn of creation. 'Here am I Lord. Send me.'

The first gray of morning is streaking the east, when he goes forth to find a hiding place. The sun is not up, and the early light comes dimly through the misty clouds, but about him still hang the long dark shadows.

Soon the Texan's escape is known at the camp, and a creat hue and cry follows. Handbills are got out, a reward is offered, and by that Sunday noon his name is upon every street corner.—Squads of soldiers and police ransack the city and invade every rebel asylum. Strange things are brought to light, and strange gentry dragged out of dark closets; but no where is found the Texan.—The search is well done, for the pursuers are in dead earnest; and, Captain Hines, if you don't trust him now, you are a fool, with all your astuteness!

So the day wears away, and the night cometh. Just at dark a man enters the private door of the Tremont House, and goes up to a room where the commandant is waiting. He sports a light rattan, wears a stove-pipe hat, a Sunday suit, and is shaven and shorn like unto Sampson. What is the commandant doing with such a dandy? Soon the gas is lighted, and lo, it is the Texan! But who in creation would know him? The plot, he says, thickens. More 'Butternuts' have arrived, and the deed will be done on Tuesday night, as sure as Christmass is coming. He has seen his men—two hundred, picked, and every one clamoring for pickings. Hines, who carries the bag, is to give him ten thousand greenbacks, to stop their mouths, and stuff their pockets, at nine in the morning.

'And to-morrow night we'll have them sure! And, how say you, give you shackles and a dungeon?' asks the commandant, his mouth wreathing with grim wrinkles.

'Anything you like. Anything to blot out my record of treason.'

He has learned the words—they are on his heart, not to be razed out forever.

When he is gone, up and down the room goes the commandant, as is his fashion. He is playing a desperate game. The stake is awful. He holds the ace of trumps—but shall he risk the game upon it? At half past eight he sits down and writes a note to his General. In it he says:

'My force is, as you know, too weak and much over worked—only eight hundred men, all told,—to guard between eight and nine thousand prisoners. I am certainly not justified in waiting to take risks, and mean to arrest these officers, if possible, before morning.'

The dispatch goes off, but still the commandant is undecided. If he strikes to-night, Hines may escape, for the fox has a hole out of town, and may keep under cover until morning. He is the 'king-devil,' and much the commandant wants to cage him. Besides, he holds the bag, and the Texan will go out of prison a penniless man among strangers. Those ten thousand greenbacks are lawful prize, and should be the country's dower with the maiden. But are not Republics greatful? did not one give a mansion to Gen. McClellan?—Ah, Capt. Hines, that was lucky for you, for, beyond a doubt, it saved your bacon!

The commandant goes back to camp, sends for the police, and gets his bluecoats ready. At two o'clock they swoop to the prey, and before morning a hundred birds are in the talons of the eagle. Such another haul of buzzards and night-hawks never was made since Gabriel caged the Devil and the dark angels!*

At the Richmond House, Grenfell was taken in bed with the Texan. They were clapped into irons, and driven off to the prison together. A fortnight later, the Texan, relating these details to a stranger, while the commandant was sitting by at his desk writing, said:

'Words cannot describe my relief when those hand-cuffs were put upon us. At times, before, the sense of responsibility almost over powered me.—Then I felt like a man that has just come into a fortune. The wonder to me now is, how the Colonel could have trusted so much to a rebel.'

'Trusted,' exclaimed the commandant, looking up from his desk. I had faith in you; I thought you would not betray me; but I trusted your own life in your own hands, that was all. Too much was at stake to do more. Your every step was shadowed, from the time you left this camp, till you came back to it in irons. Two detectives were constantly at your back, sworn to take your life, if you wavered for half a second.'

'Is that true?' asked the Texan in a musing way, but without moving a muscle. 'I didnt know it, but I felt it in the air.'

In the room at the Richmond House, on the table around which were discussed their hellish plans, was found a slip of paper, and on it, in pencil, was scrawled the following:

'Colonel: You must leave this house to-night. Go to the Briggs House to-night. J. FIELDING.

Fielding was the assumed name under which the rebel who burrowed with Hines out of town where not even his fellow fiends could find him. Did the old fox scent the danger? Beyond a doubt he did. Another day, and the Texan's life might have been forfeited. Another day, and the camp might have been sprung upon a little too suddenly! So the commandant was none too soon; and who that reads this can doubt that through it all he was led and guided by the good providence that guards his country?

But what said Chicago when it awoke in the morning? Let one of its own organs answer:

'A shiver of genuine horror passed over Chicago yesterday. Thousands of citizens, who awoke to the peril hanging over their property and their heads, in the form of a stupendous foray upon the city from Camp Douglas, led by Rebel officers in disguise, and Rebel guerrillas without disguise, and concocted by home Copperheads, whose houses had been converted into rebel arsenals, were appalled as though an earth-quake had opened at their feet. Who can picture the horrors to follow the letting loose 9,000 rebel prisoners upon a sleeping city, all unconcious of the coming avalanche? With arms and ammunition stored at convenient places; with confederates distributed here and there, ready for the signal of configration, the horrors of the scene could hardly be paralleled in savage history. One hour of such a catastrophe would destroy the creations of a quarter of a century, and expose the homes of nearly 200,000 souls to every conceivable form of desecration.'—[Chicago Tribune, Nov. 8. 1864.]

But the men of Chicago not only talked, they acted, They went to the poles and voted for the Union; and so told the world what honest Illinois thought of Treason.

More arrests were made, more arms taken, but the great blow was struck and the work over. Its head gone, the conspiracy was dead, and it only remained to lay out its lifeless trunk for the burial. Yet, even as it lay in death, men shuddered to look on the hideous thing out of which had gone so many devils.

* Since the foregoing was written the commandant's official report has been published. In reference to these arrests he says, in a dispatch to Gen. Cook, dated Camp Douglas, Nov. 7, 4 o'clock, a. m.:

'Have made during the night the following arrests of rebel officers, escaped prisoners of war, and citizens in connection with them:

'Morgan's Adjutant General, Col. G. St. Leger Grenfell, in company with J. T. Shanks, (the Texan,) an escaped prisoner of war, at Richmond House; Col. Vincent Marmaduke, brother of Gen. Marmaduke; Brig. Gen. Chas. Walch, of the 'Sons of Liberty;' Capt. Cantril, of Morgan's command; Chas. Traverse (Butternut.) Cantrill and Traverse arrested in Walsh's house, in which were found two cart loads of large size revolvers, loaded and capped, 200 stands of muskets loaded, and ammunition. Also seized two boxes of guns concealed in a room in the city.—Also arrested Buck Morris, Treasurer of the 'Sons of Liberty.' having complete evidence of his assisting Shanks to escape, and plot to release prisoners at this camp.

'Most of these rebel officers were in this city on the same errand in August last, their plan being to raise an insurrection and release prisoners of war at this camp. There are many strangers and suspicious persons in the city, believed to be guerrillas and rebel soldiers. Their plan was to attack the camp on election night. All prisoners arrested are in camp. Capt. Nelson, and A. C. Coventry, of the police, rendered very efficient service.

'B. J. SWEET,
'Colonel Commanding.'

In relation to the general operations I have detailed, the commandant in his report, writes as follows:

Adopting measures which proved effective to detect the presence and identify the persons of the officers and leaders and ascertain their plans, it was manifest that they had the means of gathering a force considerably larger than the little garrison then guarding between 8,000 and 9,000 prisoners of war at Camp Douglas, and that, taking advantage of the excitement and the large number of persons that would ordinarily fill the streets on election night, they intended to make a night attack on and surprise this camp, release the prisoners of war cut the telegraph-wires, burn the railroad depots, seize the banks and stores containing arms and ammunition, take possession of the city, and commence a campaign for the release of other prisoners of war in the States of Illinois and Indiana, thus organizing an army to effect and give success to the general uprising so long contemplated by the 'Sons of Liberty.''

Impudence.

A correspondent at Fortress Monroe, notices two late instances of rebel impudence which would be astounding, were they not specimens but rare exceptions. The United States Quartermaster recently seized some wood which had been cut by order of the rebel authorities. Finding that it had been taken without leave from the land of a loyal Virginian, the Quartermaster paid the owner. The rebel contractor who cut it had received no pay from Jeff. Davis, has just sent in his contract and bills to be paid by the United States. The Quartermaster sent back the bills unpaid and endorsed with the words 'not much.' A demand for rent of the Libby Prison from April 3, 1865, was also sent in last week. It is not very likely to be paid. The work of confiscation now going on in the late rebel capitol will be apt to open the eyes of some of these impudent rebels, and remind them that their true position, just now, is not that of injured citizens, but suppliants for pardon — Win. Rep.

—A person who has been traveling through Northern Alabama, states that the region is almost one continued field of cotton. The planters have given their attention almost exclusively to the business this year as in Ante-Rebellion times, and the growing crop looks very fine. The negroes are working for their former masters for wages, and the new system appears to progress very well.

—Encouraging accounts are being received of the prospects of restoration in North Carolina, and it is stated that a majority of her planters are pursuing a humane and judicious course towards the late slaves.

Educational.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

Mr. Editor,

I noticed in your paper an article, signed "A Teacher", upon the subject of school attendance. The idea advanced by the writer that a scholar should punctually attend school in order to educate him to attend to his business, is one that I had not contemplated, but I conclude that it is a very good one indeed. This part of the education of our children is too often overlooked. For the purpose of educating my children in the branches taught in the common schools I am not sure but I might as well keep them at home. I have sent a child to school five terms punctually: he knew his letters when he commenced, and now he cannot call the words at sight in sentences of words of three or four letters, and from observation I find many scholars so situated. Will some teacher explain why it is that scholars learn no faster?

A Teacher.

What it is to Educate.

TO EDUCATE is to teach how to think and perform. It is a great mistake to suppose when a student has committed to memory the lessons of a text book and recited them well that such a one is necessarily educated; or to suppose when one has informed the scholar what is in the text book, that therefore he has been teaching—has been performing the great duties of educating. One great object of school instruction, should be to develop thought, and however much the text may have been studied, or however well committed to memory, unless that study has taught the student to think, and to think independent of the text book, it has not been studied aright. Any course of study—any system of instruction or method of discipline which fails to elicit thought, to develop independent thought, must be essentially defective.

Moreover, though thought may have been developed by the study, yet the instruction must still be regarded as essentially defective, if it has failed to make or to induce a practical application of that thought to practical purposes. Of what account to us is it that we learn all science, if we do not learn to think and apply? Are we to enter the practical and real business of active and useful life, with a book of forms, rules and formulas under our arms? Nay, verily!

From the first rudimental rule or definition or principle learned, to the last lesson in science or art, the students mind should be carried beyond the lesson, and he should be instructed to ask and answer these questions. What are the relations of this thought? How, to what, and when am I to make a practical application of this lesson and these principles? Less than this is not educating.

Our Future Policy Towards the Indians.

The folowing important communication has been addressed to the new Commissioner of Indian Affairs by Secretary Harlan, defining the policy to be pursued in dealing with the Indians hereafter:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, July 11, 1865

SIR—It is deemed proper, and it will be the policy of the department in the future management of our Indian relations with the tribes or bands in hostility to the United States to subordinate its action and intercourse with them to the policy and operations of the War Department pending such hostilities; and and on the other hand, with respect to Indians in amity with the United States, it is expected and not doubted that the officers of the War Department will co operate with the peaceful intercourse of this department with those tribes.

I have, therfore, to request that you will instruct the several superintendents and agents not to deliver goods, money or other property to any Indian nation, tribe or band while they are in hostility to the government, and to suspend all intercourse with such Indians, excepting so far as the same may be sanctioned by the officers of the War Department.

In enforcing the civil policy of the government towards the Indians who are at peace with the United States you will direct the superintendents and agents when necessary to request the assistance and co-operation of the proper military authorities. They should also be instructed to refrain from publishing any facts in relation to Indian affairs, or imparing to any one information on the subject with a view to its publication. They should also be directed to communictte all such information to this department or to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for such action as may be considered necessary.

Should any superintendent or Indian agent at any time entertain the opinion that the officers of the army are innocently or othewise improperly interfering with the rightful authority and prerogatives of this Department in its management of Indian affairs, he should report the facts to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs or to the Secretary of the Interior, and the Department will confer with the Secretary of War upon the subject if it should be deemed necessary.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES HARLAN, Secretary.
D. N. Cooley, Esq.,
Commissioner Indian Affairs.

THE WELSH NATION IN AMERICA, AND THE WAR.

Editors Chicago Tribune:

The recent terrible crisis which the United States has survived, has to a great extent developed the genuine characters of the nations of which the American Republic is composed, insomuch that sympathy with the government, enmity to treason, and hatred of traitors who have aimed at the vitality of the government, elevates an individual or a nation of such a character to the honorable position of loyalty and Christianity, whilst aid in words or deeds to the late gigantic rebellion, partiality to Southern fire eaters, and consolation to such hell-deserving villians as Jeff. Davis, Forrest & Co., brands such person or nation with the abominable character of polluted traitors and co-workers in the destruction of the Union.

The scarcity of the Welsh in this country has prevented them from having a conspicuous character as the defenders of the "Old Flag." They were not selfish enough, in the beginning of the war to make an effort to constitute a brigade. or regiment, thoroughly Welch, to sustain the Union, and whilst their leaders were agitating such a movement, the young heroes of the nation rushed intrepidly to the salvation of their adopted and beloved country, and the blood of hundreds of them has consecrated the alter of Freedom.

Their heroism and bravery is to be determined by the promotions of many of them, from company officers to Majors, Colonels and Generals, in the Union army.

Politically, the Welsh are almost unanimously Republicans, in fact they are religiously dictated to such principles; of the 70,000 Welsh voters in the United States, 99 per cent of them vote the Republican ticket. In Wisconsin there are 9,000 Welsh voters, so the victory of the Union ticket depends wholly on them.

The only Welsh newspaper printed this side the Atlantic, is issued at Utica, New York, it is called the Dryeh, which signifies Mirror; this is a sound Union sheet, and most ably edited by J. Wm. Jones, Esq., of the same place. It is independent in all things, but wholly devoted to the Union of the States and freedom to all mankind, without distinction to either race or color. In consideration of the foregoing facts I claim them to be a national honor aud pride to the Welsh.

Only look at the Irish of this country. After fleeing from their native country to avoid the oppressions of the Brittish aristecracy, and arriving here to enjoy liberty to themselves and their descendents, yet they have bound themselves soul and body to defend, to sustain and abet, in their votes and sentiments, the most damnable atrocious and fearful oppression that ever polluted our planet with its heaven-cursed and diabolical principles, to-wit: Southern slavery. They have been the leaders of the New York riot, they have harbored traitors and deserters, in fact they have disgraced the Union with the manifestation of their treacherous designs. Pretending to be democrats, they were a pack of rebellions mobocrats. Pretending to be Catholic in principles when they were an ignorant set of fanatical secessionists.

Such, we publicly assert, is the general character of the Irish nation in America. But of course there are most worthy and honorable exceptions, but they are, individually, the Sheridans, Mulligans, Corcorans, etc., etc., but the foregoing unrefutable assertions attach to the Irish as a nation.

The most prominent men of the Welsh can boast of their Union sentiments. We will mention ex Governor Bebh, of Ohio; Gen. Thomas, who is of Welsh descent; and the Vaughans, Owens, Jones, etc., etc. They have bravely instanced to exchange the Stars and Stripes from being a "flaunting lie" to be the true emblem of liberty and freedom.

May that glorious banner forever wave on the wings of the gentle breeze, embracing within its ample folds, liberty to all mankind and equality to all races. H. O. ROWLANDS.

THE SOUTH.

Advices from Shreveport say the crops were looking well. Cotton arrived there slowly, planters being afraid that it would be gobbled up by speculators.

Seventeen steamboats arrived within a week with full cargoes.

Col. J. S. Fullerton, of Major Gen. Howard's staff, has gone South on business connected with the Freedmen's Bureau. He intends to visit different points along the Atlantic coast for the purpose of indicating more specifically to the Assistant Commissioners the policy of General Howard, and of obtaining such information as will tend to to guide and facilitate the operations of that bureau.

The Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel says that a few days since the citizens of Macon and Bibb counties, Georgia, hold a meeting to consider the state of the country, at which it was

"Resolved, That we have confidence in the integrity, patriotism, and statesmanship of his excellency Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, and that we will cheerfully co-operate with the authorities of the United States in the restoration of civil order, tranquility, and happiness to the people, and do submit to the laws and authority of the same."

THE UNION.

Mankato, Minn., Friday July 28, 1865

TRIAL OF JEFF. DAVIS.

It is reported that evidence of the complicity of Jeff. Davis in the assassination of President Lincoln has lately accumulated, and that probably a military court will be ordered to try him for that offence. The occasion of a delay in his trial is yet a matter of conjecture, but it may be that the Government is in search of further evidence sufficient to convict him of murder. There can be no lack of evidence to convict him of treason, and why the Government should hesitate to arraign him for this offence and grope about for the means of convicting him of a lesser one, is not altogether clear. If there ever was an occasion for bringing treason to the gibbet and an opportunity of testing the vitality of the statute punishing that offence, we have it in the person of Jeff Davis.

It is true that this arch traitor is so loaded with infamy that a "true bill" for almost any offense could be found against him, but we owe to posterity the establishment of a precedent, which will stand for all time a monument of warning to all who are seditiously inclined.

Trason must be punished as treason, and as this is the highest offence known to human law, let it be known that the Government will settle this account with Jeff Davis first, and in the vindication of this law which is paramount in importance to every other. he will expiate on the gallows all crimes inferior to this, and the Government will escape the accusation of imbecility in avoiding the punishment of traitors as the law directs.

The objection may be interposed that if one is hung, all are guilty and all deserve a similar fate, and no dividing line could be drawn. To this our rejoinder is that all officers who surrender as prisoners of war under Gen. Grants terms, will be protected by the terms of parole, and as to others, if Jeff. is punished for treason, grass will not grow under the feet of his coadjutors who are yet at liberty to escape arrest, and the Government will forever rid itself of a clan of scoundrels who, under other treatment, may again become intriguing citizens of a republic they sought to destroy.

REBELLION BY BALLOT.

We may felicitate ourselves upon the belief, which is predicated only upon rumor, and a desire that it may be so, that the present policy of reorganization is only tentative, serving to draw out the disposition of our revolting neighbors, since military supremacy has forced them to lay down their arms.

It were well if it be so, for, evidence continues to accumulate, confirming us in what we have previously avowed, that the disloyal element of the Southern States, unless checked by severer tests of loyalty than the oath required by the President's proclamation, will substitute te ballot box instead of the bullet, as a weapon to cripple the restoration of fraternal feeling between the States, and the present rupture to fresh outbreaks of sanguinary hostility.

Tennessee has advanced further in the work of restoration than any other State. A Provisional Governer was first appointed, and under military protection a constitutional convention was called, the members of which were elected by the few loyalists, udder military regulations which forbade the disloyal from going to the polls. Under the constitution framed by this convention, laws regulating the elective franchise were passed, and a civil Governor was elected in the person of Parson Brownlow. It is made the duty of the County Clerks to register all voters who were entitled to vote under the new laws, but as by so doing many of the prominent rebels would be debarred the privilege of either voting or holding office, these clerks refuse to open books for this purpose and boldly declare such laws unconstitutional and void. They even advise the people to hold their elections without any regard to the law. The city council of Memphis have decided that the law of the State does not apply to the election of city officers, and rebel officers will doubtless be elected. Candidates for Congress refuse to observe the franchise law and make open war upon it. A rebel Colonel who has recently been released as a prisoner of war is nominated for Congress. It is easy to see whither the power of the rebel State governments will tend under the present loose regime practised by the General Goverement. So long as rebels in Tenessee were prevented from voting by the military power. there was no difficulty in erecting a loyal State government, and enacting laws which, if enforced, will place the State in a correct attitude toward the General Government. But now the reign of military law is withdrawn, the secession element waxes defiant and boldly ignores the laws enacted by the loyal few of the State. Tennessee should have been continued under military rule until every office from Congressman to town clerk was filled by men of unquestioned loyalty, and by this means and no other can the present franchise law of the State so obnoxious to rebels, be faithfully executed and the disloyal excluded from the polls and from office.

The Harris Verdict.

The jury in the case of Miss Harris, who deliberately shot Mr. Burroughs, in the Treasury Department last winter, brought in a verdict of "Not Guilty."—The usual stereotyped plea of insanity, so common to crimes in which love, matrimony, or infidelity figures as the cause, it seems, was successfully interposed. As a legal sequence of this proof of insanity, she must now be proved to be sane, or go to the lunatic asylum. The former course will doubtless be adopted, and Miss Harris restored to liberty.

With this decision, if our exchanges are faithful mirrors of public sentiment, the people are satisfied. We dislike to run counter to the public voice, but we cannot, in every particular agree with the opinions of the press, concerning this individual case. The St. Paul Press says: "We are glad to see the precedent established that it is no crime for the injured woman to inflict the punishment which the law unjustly refuses to do." We exclaim with the counsel for the prosecution, "Great God," have we come to such a subvertion of the law that wrongs are to be redressed and punishments inflicted without judge or jury? Has the Press so far lost sight of personal safeguards, as to argue the right of men to hear and determine their own grievances, and inflict their own penalties? The meanest lawyer in the land has more respect for our courts of justice, than to attempt to justify her offense in the eye of the law. The most that could be done was to excuse the crime, not on account of the hardships in her case, but on the legal excuse of insanity.

We have no sympathy with Mr. Burroughs, as he was doubtless a rascal, and yet, judging him to be such, we have no right for that reason to assassinate him. Miss Harris was duly warned by her parents that Mr. Burroughs was unreliable, and had she yielded to their entreaties like a sensible girl, this tragic era in her life, and her cup of bitterness, would have passed from her.—From the evidence in the case, many lessons in the exercise of discretion may be learned, by young ladies who are receiving the company of young men, but let it never be said that this case stands as a precedent for trampling under foot the majesty of the law whose vindication is our only protection from debauchery and crime.

That Expedition.

We can furnish our readers this week a little stronger proof of the motive actuating the press of St. Paul in their glowing representations of the certain success of Fisk's proposed expedition.—The concern needs a little rubbing up—one spark of vitality which the blowers of Fisk say will cost St. Paul at least one thousand dollars. But the money will be raised, and here is the motive. clipped from the Pioneer of July 22d:

"We hope the merchants and business men of St. Paul will generally attend the meeting called for Monday evening, to encourage in some manner the proposed expedition of Capt. Fisk. The benefits derived in the way of outfitting, etc., by the city, are alone sufficient to demand encouragement for such expeditions."

The benefits derived to St. Paul in the way of outfitting are a sufficient reason for the papers of that city to humbug their subscribers, who pay their money for honest, reliable news are they? They would seduce from their quiet homes such as are credulous enough to take stock in those dreamy tales of a golden harvest, just to fill the coffers of St. Paul with ill-gotten gain. If the namesake of that saintly city could return to earth, and make it a visit, following the example of his superior, he would overturn the tables of the money changers, and pronounce them a den of thieves.

A Patriarch.

An exchange says that Rev. Eliphalet Nott, President of Union College, is now 92 years of age. Incidental to this fact it may not be uninteresting to state that Elijah Griswold, the father of the proprietor of the Union, who is now 70 years of age, graduated under President Nott at the age of 25 years, and in the same class with William H. Seward.—Twelve years elapsed before his marriage, which took place at the age of 37. Twenty-three more long years passed away, and his eldest son, W. N. Griswold, received his diploma at the hands of the same venerable president. Nine years more. which brings us to the present date, and the third son, J. V. Griswold, younger than the writer, takes his degree this week at Union College, under the same President Nott. Probably no man in public life in the United States can show a greater number of consecutive years of public service than Dr. Nott.

Democratic Convention

The Democratic State Convention for this State is called to convene at Ingersoll's Hall in the city of St. Paul, on the 16th day of August next, at 12 m, for the purpose of nominating candidates for State offices.

Shipments of arms, ammunition, gray uniforms, and gray cloths may hereafter be made to and within the State of Tennessee.

Jefferson Davis.

The Herald correspondent from Fortress Monroe, writes a long letter about Jeff Davis, that would possess considerable interest if the reader could only divest himself of an impression that it was manufactured for a sensation, instead of being a veritable record of the daily life of the arch-rebel. The account states that Jeff sits at the barred embrasnio all day sullen, silent and speechless; that health has left him, hope is gone, the proud spirit broken, and that he will not live six weeks longer! He sent for a Chaplain, and greeted him with warmth, remarking—"it is to you and this book," (holding the Bible in his hand,) "I must look," he said, "for consolation now." He reads the Bible a great deal, and professes to have made it the ruling guide of his life. In conversation he has betrayed an anxiety and even determination to discuss the subject of the impossibility of ever convicting him of treason. He throws himself back upon the question of States rights as his main point of defence. The recent marked change in his appearance is attributed to a belief that the execution of the assassination conspirators in Washington has been communicated to him within the past three or four weeks.

WHISKEY TAX.

The following "loyal" method of avoiding a loss on whiskey, without seeming to defraud the government, has been just invented:

A. is a distiller, and holds one hundred barrels of whiskey, on which the tax (two dollars per gallon) has not been paid.—Whiskey is selling at $2,03 per gallon, tax paid and cost of whiskey included. A. wants to get out whole; so he goes to B., a confidential friend, says that he does not intend to pay a dollar of tax on his whiskey. B. becomes informer, and, as such, is entitled to half the proceeds of the sale. The whiskey is seized and sold at auction, brings $1,95 per gallon cash. B. receives 97½ cents per gallon for his share, as informer. A. makes out the cost of the whiskey, say 45 cents per gallon, which deducted from the 97½, and the balance is equally divided between A. and B., and Uncle Sam gets 97½ cents instead of two dollars per gallon.

Acquittal of Miss Harris.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Miss Harris has been declared not guilty. The jury were out only ten minutes. There was great enthusiasm and much cheering in the court room when the announcement was made.—The interest in the trial was intense. The court-room was crowded to here Mr. Voorhees' speech in behalf of the prisoner, which occupied two hours, and was a brilliant effort. District Attorney Carrington submitted an argument upon the part of the prosecution, in the course of which he spoke disparagingly of Miss Mary Devlin, when he was reprimanded by the Judge and threatened with arrest. The case was then given to the jury, who, after ten minutes' absence, rendered a verdict of not guilty. The court room was wild with excitement, waving of hats, shouts, and congratulations. The prisoner's counsel kissed her, when she fainted, and was taken into another room, but soon recovered.

More Arrivals

Since our last issue, the Eighth Regiment has arrived in St. Paul, and are now undergoing the tedious process of being paid off. As with other regiments, this one received the hospitalities of St. Paul.

The Fourth Regiment also reached St. Paul Monday evening, on the steamer Northern Belle. Of its reception the Press says:

The lowness of the water in the river prevented the arrival of the regiment at the hour appointed, and the inclemency of the weather was also unfavorable to a general reception of the war-worn veterans. In spite, however, of delay and rain, the gallant Fourth was received with warm demonstrations of welcome. The booming of cannon announced the approach of the vessel bearing to their homes Minnesota's brave sons, and as she landed at our wharf, the Fourth was received by the usual Committee of Arrangements, the Great Western Band enlivening the scene with its excellent music, and the firemen in their gay uniforms, were promptly on hand to escort the troops to the Capitol.

GEN TOURTELOTTE

Col. Tourtelotte (since Brevet Brigadier General), the accomplished and popular commander of the Fourth a few weeks ago, resigned his position on account of physical disability, having received an injury from a fall at Washington. Few officers have held a higher place in the hearts of those they commanded, and the officers and men of the Fourth speak in the highest terms of their late excellent commander.—Press.

Gen. Tourtelotte entered the service from Mankato, and in this misfortune has the sympathy of many friends in this vicinity. The same gentlemanly bearing which he has observed toward his men has characterized the man as a citizen in former days.

Immigration to North Carolina.

NEW YORK, July 21.—North Carolina is making active exertions to secure emigration to her territory. Colonel J. M. Heck, and Kemp P. Battle are at the Saint Nicholas Hotel, for the purpose of opening offices in the North to furnish information and encourage emigration. They say the people of North Carolina are anxious to have the state filled with Northern settlers, and desire to have their resorces fully developed. The feeling is very strong in favor of the new system of labor, and a large majority express gladness at the abolition of slavery. They offer for sale or lease, large quantities of land, gold, iron and lead mines, and water power, and offer liberal inducements to emigration.. This is the first step of the kind undertaken by any state.

STATE NEWS.

SAD ACCIDENT.—Mr. Geo. Turner met with a severe accident on Thursday last, by cause of which his leg had to be amputated. He was in the employ of Rich & Tozer, and with another man was grinding a saw, the belt run off from the grind stone, and not thinking he stepped into it as the belt was spread open, and throwing another off which caught the one that was around his leg, consequently drawing him to the shaft, breaking his leg and crushing the flesh in all shapes, as soon as caught, he threw himself upon the floor, grasping a beam and holding himself. Had he not done this he would no doubt have lost his life. He is a single man about 25 years of age. He is stopping with his brother-in-law, Pearson, and is reported to be doing well.—Hastings Conserver July 18th.

C. F. Buck, Esq., has been notified by the Department at Washington that he has received the appointment of postmaster at Winona, vice Mr Blanchard, present incumbent.—Winona Republican.

EARLY WHEAT.—We were shown today a specimen of Winter wheat cut on the 13th of this month by Mr. Lynn of Burus Valley. The berry is large and well filled, doing the best of credit to Minnesota soil- Is anybody else ahead?—Winona Republican July 21.

The Press says Joel Sherburne, son of Judge Sherburne, of St. Paul, was seriously and perhaps fatally injured week before last in Jansen Bros.' chair factory. He was caught in the machinery, and one of his legs completely cut off, and his head and body mangled in a frightful manner.

A FINE PAINTING.—We had the pleasure of inspecting at the Capitol yesterday, an elegant oil portrait of Gov. Miller, just completed by that talented artist, Ben Cooley, esq. The protrait is nearly full length, the figure being seated.

The above mentioned portrait was ordered by some friends of Gov. Miller's and extra care was taken with it. It is in a frame of great size and richness, and the total cost (with frame,) we learn, is $500.

Mr. Cooley has commissions from the same source to paint all the past Governors of the State and Territory, and will at once proceed with the work. The pencil of so fine an artist ought not to be idle.—Pioneer, July 23.

—Major R. H. Rose, of Fort Wadsworth, writes under date of June 12, that all is quite on the frontier. He has just had new proof that all the Indians making the recent raid, were cut off, and among them were found some articles with the names of the Jewett family on them.—Press.

FROM THE EXPEDITION.—We heard from Gen. Sully's expedition several times within the past few days; but are unable to gather any items of interest.—The destination of the expedition is not yet made public, and we are unable to conjecture, among the multiplicity of rumors, what its future course will be. The command left Fort Sully on the 5th for Fort Rice, with fifteen days rations.—Sioux City Journal.

—The population of Scott county as returned by the assessors and reported by the Argus, is 8,912. The census of 1860 gave a population of 4,589. There are about 600 more males than females. The whole number of colored people is nine, of blind four, dumb three, deaf one, insane eight.

THE SEVENTH REGIMENT.—A letter, dated Selma, July 7th, says the health of the 7th Regiment is very bad. There are only 180 men fit for duty. The sick are sent off to the hospitals daily—some to return no more. Jonas Swan, of G, died on the 6th, and was buried with military honors; and Frank Hood, of Co. —, was joined in wedlock. There were no rations in Selma but bread and coffee. The boys had not heard that they were to be sent home at once, and were settled in the belief that they would be kept until the expiration of their time.

—The heavy rains of the last three days are expected to raise the river.—Navigation is becoming somewhat poor. Yesterday five boats were aground at Robinson's bar at once. The Enterprise and Mellie Mohler ran during the day between the city and the bar, and transferred the passengers and mails.—Pioneer, July 25th.

—We have seen some specimens of brick recently made at the yard of Messrs. Wilson & Howland near this city. They are almost as strong as granite, solid and substantial, perfectly fit for building purposes. So far the enterprise has been an experiment, which, having been successful, larger quantities are in process of manufacture.—Blue Earth City Advocate, July 25th.

—The St. Peter Tribune says: Prof. Hall, a Geologist from New York, has returned from an examination of the coal region of the Upper Minnesota country. He says he finds a coal vein three feet in depth outcropping in the Red Wood, and in other locations in the neighborhood. Its particular quality he does not state, but proposes to analize the specimens he took with him, on his return to New York. He believes that coal exists on the eastern side of the Minnesota from above Red Wood to Fort Ridgley, perhaps. Since Prof. Hall returned, several of our citizens have visited this region, and bring back reports of new discoveries in new localities. The one in the bluff of the Minnesota, near the Lower Agency, is said to contain a very good specimen of stone coal, that is, very good for western and northwestern coal. When used in blacksmith's forges it serves a better purpose, it is said, than charcoal.

HANCOCK'S CORPS.—Two companies of Hancock's Corps arrived yesterday, making about 140 men in all. They are in command of Captain Murgenthaler, and are to form the post guard for Fort Snelling. They are armed with heavy rifles, which shoot sixteen times without reloading. They are all hearty and thorough veterans.—Pioneer, July 25th

The New Jersey Republican State Convention met at Trenton yesterday. General Judson Kilpatrick presided. Marcus L. Ward was nominated for Governor.

The United States military telegraph lines in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Texas, and a part of Georgia, have been placed in charge of Capt. W. L. Cross, formerly of Springfield, Illinois.

THE Government has sent an officer to Andersonville, Ga., to make a special investigation into the brutal and inhuman treatment of Union prisoners during the war, with a view of bringing to trial, before a military committee, the rebels who had charge of our soldiers when the barbarous treatment was practiced. Parties are already in the custody of the Government.

Ford has commenced a suit against the government for damages, on account of the enforced closure of his theatre; and has employed Henry Winter Davis, Thomas Ewing, and William Schley, as his counsels.

Charles J. Faulkner had an interview with the President yesterday, and was told that there were many applicants for executive clemency who had precedence of him, and that he must wait until his turn should arrive.—Chicago Republican July 21st.

—Mr. Shepard, Engineer of the Central informs us that the track is laid to within four miles of Northfield.

We understand that Gov. Miller, Gen. Meagher and Gen. Sibley have united in a request to the President for a competent military escort for Capt. Fisk's train to the gold regions, which request will undoubtedly be granted.

Capt. Fisk decides positively to start on his expedition during the first week of August, from St. Cloud, and will leave St. Paul on Tuesday next.—St. Paul Pioneer.

—The Kasota Ferry has been moved down to the new crossing, a half mile or so below the old one. The new road, although considerably shorter than the old one, is not as good, except that it avoids the hill. It is very sandy, but undoubtedly it can and will be improved.—St. Peter Tribune.

General Canby is now in command of the Department of Louisiana and Texas,—reporting to General Sheridan, commanding the division of the Gulf.

Gen. Meagher.

GEN. T. F. Meagher, the distinguished soldier and orator, arrived in St. Paul on Monday last, and is stopping at the Merchants Hotel. The journals of that city say that he is to accompany Fisk in his expedition to the Yellow Stone, but in a speech made by him at a meeting called to encourage Fisk in his undertaking, he makes no mention of his intention to go. He does, however, counsel encouragement to Fisk, not upon the mercenary ground that St. Paul is to reap a benefit by outfitting the expedition, but for the purpose of opening new States and adding to the glory, wealth and strength of our country.

Richmond Whig Suppressed.

Gen. Terry has issued the following order. "Whereas, in the issue of the Richmond Whig of the 11th, 1865, a certain clause in the merciful amnesty proclamation of the President of the United States, pardoning certain traitors is stigmatized as "heathenish," and a law of this kind, duly enacted by Congress and approved by the President, is characterised as "mean, brutal and cowardly—revolting absurd and atrociously unjust;" it is ordered that the Provost Marshal General of this Department seize and hold in his posession the office, presses, type, and other property belonging to the proprietors of said paper, and prevent henceforward, the publication thereof.

Appointments—A Pardon

WASHINGTON, July 20—The President has made the following, among other appointments of Collectors of Customs: Andrew Jamerson, Alexandria, Virginia; Roland Fisher, Bath, Maine; Owen K, Chedbourne, Saco, Maine. Also the following appointments of Surveyors of Customs: Leo Kischner, Troy New York; Richard J. Howard, St. Louis; James Newman, Alton, Illinois; Charles J. Talbot, Portsmouth and Falmouth. Maine; and A. Edwards, Register of to the Land Office at Montgomery, Alabama.

The President, for satisfactory reasons has pardoned George M. Howard, who was convicted, and sentenced to imprisonment for five years, for passing a counterfeit treasury note.

From Alabama.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Correspondence from Alabama says there is a deplorable state of society in the capitol of that state, resulting from the lax administration of affairs by General Smith. There are fears of a general negro insurrection. There is a complete and terrible desolation in the country.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

GET BARRETT'S
LIFE OF LINCOLN!
THE ONLY WORK FOR WHICH MR LINCOLN HIMSELF FURNISHED ALL THE MATERIAL FACTS OF HIS EARLY LIFE.

THE ONLY MATURE PRODUCTION OF THE KIND.

It was commenced over four years ago, the author enjoying all the while a personal intimacy with the President, which elicited and placed at his command every source of information required to make the work reliable, full and complete.

IT WILL BE THE CHEAPEST WORK OF THE KIND PUBLISHED.

Instead of containing 700 pages, as was promised to subscribers in the prospectus, it will contain 840, and instead of eight engravings as was promised, it will contain twelve, while the superior mechanical execution and the original low price will be maintained.

It will not be a mere political history of Mr. Lincoln's life and administration, but will be a full and complete biography, culled from the choicest materials, written under the most favorable circumstances, and by one who, of all others was best qualified for the task.

It will fill every requirement of the public expectation and desire, and leave small room for other biographers.

It is now all stereotyped, and will soon be ready for delivery.

It is sold exclusively by our duly authorized agents, and can be had through no other source. It will not be for sale in the book stores, and cannot be had of the publishers directly. Hence, those desiring to secure a copy for their libraries, should subscribe promptly when the opportunity is presented. We will guarantee that they shall be well served at the hands of our agents. The success of agents now at work, shows an unusual readiness on the part of people to subscribe. Judging from the reports that have thus far been received, 150,000 copies will be sold in the next ninety days.

AN Illustrated Catalogue, containing full description of style, and testimonials of the most eminent Musicians, as to the superior excellence of our instruments—will be sent free to any address.

THE AUTOMATIC ORGAN

In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly announce the greatest triumph in musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments, with double bellows, and two pedals for the feet to operate but the want of the reversed or Exhaustion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated.

Another objection to this method of blowing was that, both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell. Within the past two years, instrumetan constructed on this European plan of "double blowers," have been manufactured in this country, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an appendage is nearly impossible.

Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of tone. We predict for this invention a brilliant future.

THE MELODEON & SCHOOL ORGAN.

For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly. With our increased facilities, we feel warranted in assuring our patrons that their orders will be promptly met, and solicit a continuance of their patronage.

Caution to purchasers.

For Sale.—One splendid, new two-horse wagon. Inquire at Ulman's Hotel, Mankato. July 19th, 1865

—See the advertisement of Isaac Woods. He has a good farm for sale.

—See the notice of Barrott's "Life of Abraham Lincoln",

—See the account of an exciting "mowing match" between different reapers and mowers West Union, Iowa.

Good Again.—The August number of the Godey's Lady's Book is received, and contains its usual variety of rare literary contributions, and is embellished with several engravings of superior merit. This popular magazine continues as a lady's companion, to out-Godey Godey himself.

Sale of Land —Mr. W. H. Miller has just disposed of three forty acre tracts of land lying in Rapidan Township, about five miles from Mankato, for the sum of twelve hundred dollars, to Mr. John Morrow, of Howard County, Indiana. On this land is a lime kiln which Mr. Morrow takes possession of, and will furnish this article for sale soon. Mr. Miller thinks this lime will be of a superior quality to that generally used in this vicinity.

Another Sale.—The lower saw mill, owned by Rockey & Bierbauer has just been sold to Mr. Goodnow of Winnebago City. Mr. Goodnow is one of the founders of Winnebago City, and having sawed out a respectable little town for Faribault county, returns to give Mankato a new impetus in the shape of cheap lumber. The price paid for the mill is three thousand two hundred and fifty dollars.

Church —The Presbyterian Church approaches completion. The painting is in progress, and the steeple leaps aloft with rapid stride. It is expected that every thing will be completed for dedication on the 20th of August next.

Another Candidate.—We are authorized to announce the name of L. G. Barott, high private in the rear rank, Co. E. 9th Minn. Vols., as a candidate for Sheriff of Blue Earth county, subject to the decision of the Republican County Convention.

School Meeting —The object of the school meeting called for to-morrow evening, we are told, is to consider the proposals made for building the school edifice. The proposals are at higher figures than was anticipated, and perhaps a smaller building must satisfy our present wants.

A Call —We were pleased to receive a call this week from Edward Russell Esq., the editor of the Davenport Daily Gazette. Mr. Russell is on a visit to his father who lives in the town of Sterling and whose name is familliar to many of us. These gentlemen were in town on Saturday last hoping to meet a brother of the editor, who is a soldier in Co. H. of the 2nd regiment. Our thanks are due to Mr Russell for late copies of the Daily Gazette.

Episcopal —We learn that the Rev. Mr Tanner is quite sanguine that the Episcopal society will yet be able to erect a church edifice this fall. Aid will be secured from the friends of this society east, if a proper effort is made to raise funds here.

Money turned Politician.—Rumor has it that about five hundred dollars of Charlie Schaffer's money has been shipped to Mankato for the purpose of securing the delegates of Blue Earth county for that gentleman at the State Convention, he desiring a re-election as State Treasurer. Not that delegates are to be paid for their votes, but certain politicians who control the money, are to manage to control the votes of the delegates. If money is to "make the mare go," and the contest between him and Major Smith is to be settled upon Kilkinny-cat principles, Charlie will probably win, as his tail—or rather his cat's tail—is doubtless the longest. But we deprecate this plan of using money for the purchase of delegates, and hope our citizens are too manly to be bought out by a man whose interests are foreign to those of this section. We want a man who is identified in interest with us.

Mail Detention.—We are informed that delays frequently occur in the receipt of the Union and other mail matter at the Sterling Post office. Our paper leaves Mankato punctually every Friday morning and should be distributed throughout the entire southern mail route on the evening of the same day. Wherever the fault lies, it may be easily corrected, if the various post masters on the route, and especially where the mail changes, will take the pains to discover where the difficulty is.

Loyal Ladies —We understand that some of our "loyal ladies" who were not presented with a copy of "Headley's History" by members of Company H 2nd Minn,, were not pleased with a paragraph in the company's letter of presentation, which might be construed to mean that there were few ladies in Mankato, outside of those who received the books, that were loyal. We are authorized to say that there was evidently an omission in the letter, as it was written in haste. The paragraph should have read thus: "Should there be other loyal ladies who have interested themselves in our individual welfare, whom we have overlooked, we should be happy to know who they are, etc." By supplying the words "who have interested themselves in our individual welfare," which was the intention of the writer, the apparent reflection upon the general loyalty of Mankato ladies is explained. Will the Record please notice the explanation.

Arrival —We notice the arrival of Mr Shank, and the son of Senator Porter of the 4th Regiment. They are furloughed until the 5th. of August when they will report for payment and final discharge.

Pottery Clay.—We are informed that Mr. Ben. McGibben, of South Bend, has discoved a bed of superior pottery clay at that place.—The proprietor of the pottery here in Mankato, has examined the article, and pronounces it the best in this vicinity. He has ordered fifty to a hundred loads of it to be supplied for his factory.

A Change.—Johnson has made a little change in his advertisement. He offers choice tea for sale, etc., etc. Take a look at it, and give him a call.

Nunc pro Tunc.—Owing to a temporary affection of "Winnebago and Blue Earth Cities on the brain" we last week omitted to mention the arrival of Capt. T. E. Potter, of Company C, Eleventh Minnesota, who has returned to resume the duties of civil life among us.—The Captain brought with him six bloodhounds, which are to be turned over to the credit of Mr. E. P. Evans, who is still on the scent of "dogs," in Alabama. He is largely interested in a drove of 2,000 sheep, which his brother is now driving here from Michigan.

Side Walks —These man traps on Front Street, we are told, are soon to become a superfluity. The civil engineer of the Winona and St. Peter Railroad, will be here next week, to establish the grade of the streets and we are to have some new pavements. Already two-thirds of the citizens of some of the blocks, as required by law, have petitioned for new walks. Such petitions, we are sure, will not be disregarded. The old rotten boards will be given a place among the things that were, and broad twelve feet pavements will grace our doors. This information we gain from brother Wise, who is also our father, (city father of Mankato.)

Roll of Honor.—Would it not be a slight tribute to the memory of the dead, and a mark of appreciation to the living returned soldiers of Mankato, to place upon record, either in the town or county office, a list of all soldiers enlisting from the beginning of the war to its close, giving the name, age, regiment, term of service, their death and cause, wounds and cause thereof, and the degree of promotion they may have attained during the war. Other interesting facts might be stated, such as capture, imprisonment, or the branch of service engaged in, together with their re-enlistments. Such a record would not only be valuable of itself, but would serve as a public mark of respect to the gallant warriors who saved the day and nation. For one we would contribute toward the expense of the undertaking, as freely as to any public object now presented to our citizens Such a record might be made up and filed in the clerk's office of every town.

Magnetic Globe.—We have been shown by Judge Wilcox, superintent of schools for this county, a beautiful invention called a magnetic globe. This globe displays upon its surface the position of the continents, oceans, and islands of the earth's surface, and revolves upon a pivot. The new feature of this globe, however, is that it is made of soft iron, and possesses the power of attraction. A box which goes with the globe contains a dozen objects, which, by magnetic attraction adhere to the globe while it revolves, and represent the attraction of gravitation. The wonderful phenomena of an interesting centrifugal force created by the revolution of the earth upon its own axis, is, by means of this globe, easily explained to the incredulous school boy. An idea, accompanied by illustration, is more easily understood by the learner, and hence their utility. Mr Wilcox will provide these globes for the various school districts in this county, at lower rates than they can otherwise be had. The Mankato district has ordered one, and no school district should be without them.

See for Yourselves —The semi-annual report of the Minnesota Mutual Insurance Company, of Mankato, may be seen in our advertising columns. The report shows that the finances of the company are in a condition to meet many heavy losses without depleting its treasury. Composed of our most reliable men, we can safely recommend it to those wishing to insure, as a well regulated, and responsible home company. This company insures against the loss of stock, and its benefits may be seen by perusing the following communication:

South Bend, Minn, July 20th, 1865.

To the Editor of the Mankato Record:

An agent of the Minnesota Mutual Insurance Company, located at Mankato, called on me several times last spring, and urged me quite hard to insure my property in said company. At last, thinking perhaps that it was the only way that I could get rid of him, I insured, not thinking at the time, that I would ever receive any benefit from the same. On the night of the 17th inst., one of my horses, which was worth at least two hundred dollars, was taken sick, and died on the morning of the 18th. I went to Mankato and notified the company the same day, and without any complaint, and without putting me to any trouble or expense, I received my pay in less than two hours from the time that I notified said company. Now I have but one word to say, and that is, farmers insure with said company without delay.

JOHN R. ROBERTS.

Sabbath School Celebration.—Point Independence was visited on Tuesday, the 18th inst., by the Sabbath Schools of Vernon, Green Valley, and Sterling. It proved to be one of the most pleasant occasions of the kind we ever attended. No pains was spared to make it interesting to all. The Grove was alive with children, who sought amusement in various ways, some by singing, others by climing trees, others by swinging, and some were on the lake shore gathering pebbles—in fact every one seemed to be in the very height of enjoyment. The exercises commenced with prayer by Rev. Mr. Hunt then Elder Bookwalter delivered an address which was very interesting and appropriate, and attracted the attention of all. The next speaker was William Russel, Sen., whose remarks were particularly addressed to the children, and were exactly suited to the occasion. Happily for the interest of the day, Rev. Thomas Neil, agent for the American Sabbath School Union, was discovered in the audience, and called out, whose remarks were very good. Then followed singing by the choir, which would have done honor to any assembly. The next thing in order was dinner, which was properly attended to, I assure you. The table was neatly arranged, and amply provided with every thing to please the eye and suit the taste. Dinner being over, each sought amusement in his own way for a short time, when the company dispersed.

E. T. F.

(The above communication was not accompanied with the full name of the writer, but the facts being within our own knowledge, we publish it. We wish, however, to see the name of our correspondents, not for publication, but in order to know who we are talking with.—Ed Union.)

Company H.—The members of this company arrived on Monday and Tuesday, mostly by stage, and were entertained by their lady friends at the Mankato House and the City Hall on Tuesday evening. The reception consisted of a general interchange of thought among their friends, with music &c. at the Hall. A brief address was delivered on behalf of the soldiers by Capt. Beaty, and responded to by the Rev. Mr. Marshall on the part of the ladies. A bountiful table was spread at the Mankato House, which, added to the social enjoyment rendered the entertainment highly satisfactory to all.

That's So.—Notwithstanding the continued high prices of goods east, and prospect of them keeping up until next spring, we would say that Randall & Smith at the Clothing Emporium, are selling off their present stock of Men's and Boy's wear, at less than the same goods can be replaced for, and are also receiving fresh goods to keep their stock compete. Now is your time to get good bargains.

SEVEN MOWERS IN THE FIELD!

The great Match came off on Hoyt's farm at West Union last Saturday A large number of spectators assembled to witness the trial. Seven mowers entered the lists and the trial was interesting and fairly conducted.

The following is a list of the Mowing Machines on trial—McCormicks—Kirby—Massilon—Buckeye—Cayuga Chief—Ohio Buckeye, and John P. Manny's Combined Machine did good work. The Judges decided that McCormick's Mower was the best for all kinds of grass and on all kinds of ground.

The McCormick Mower was engineered by Tommy Thompson, General Western Agent for the Machine. He challengts the world on Mowers, and farmers will not forget the McCormick is not only the best but the cheapest machine in use.

ARRANDALE & CO., Manf'g Agts.
No. 167 Broadway, New York.

Announce that all of the above list of goods will be sold for One Dollar each.

In consequence of the great stagnation of trade in the manufacturing districts of England, through the war having cut off the supply of cotton, a large quantity of Valuable Jewelry, originally intended for the English market, has been sent off for sale in this country, and must be sold at any sacrifice. Under these circumstances, Arrandale & Co., acting as agents for the principal European manufacturers, have resolved upon a great Gift Apportionment to be divided according to the following regulations:

Certificates of the various articles are put into envelopes indiscriminately, sealed up, and when ordered, are taken out without regard to choice, and sent by mail, thus showing no favoritism. On receipt of the certificate, you will see what you are to have, and then it is at your option to send the dollar and take the article or not. Purchasers may thus obtain a gold watch, Diamond Ring, or any set of Jewelry on our list for One Dollar.

Send 25 Cents for Certificate.

In all transactions by mail, we shall charge for forwarding the certificates, paying postage and doing the business, 25 cents each, which must be enclosed when the certificate is sent for. Five certificates will be sent for $1, eleven for $2, thirty for $5, sixty-five for $10; one hundred for $15.

What the "Press" Say of Us.

The Lafayette (Ind) Daily Courier, March 18 1865, says: A better selected, more varied or fashionable assortment of jewelry cannot be found on the continent than Arrandale & Co., are now offering. Messrs. Arrandale & Co., occupy a high position in commercial circles as men entirely above the common trickery of trade. Their statements may be implicitly relied upon, both as to the character of their goods and the manner of disposal. Ladies especially, in all parts of the country, are realizing handsome profits as agents, and if any of our fair readers desire to interest themselves in this enterprise they may do so with perfect confidence.

We have inspected, at the office of Arrandale & Co's Agency for European Manufacturing Jewellers, a large assortment of valuable and fashionable jewelry of the newest patterns. We also noticed a large quantity of silver plate and understand that the whole of these newly imported articles are to be disposed of on a novel principle giving great advantage to buyers, and affording extensive employment to agents. We know the firm in question to be very respectable and thoroughly worthy of public confidence, and recommend our friends to read their advertisement.—N. Y. Albion, September 3, 1861.

The British Whig, of Kingston, C. W. says Nov. 26th, 1864; One of our lady subscribers became an agent for Arrandale & Co. and by request brought some twenty articles sent as prizes for her agency, to this office for inspection and without hesitation we can state that each and all of the articles were worth treble the amount of cost to the recipients, and some of them six times.

AGENTS—We want agents in every regiment, and in every town and county in the country, and those acting as such will be allowed ten cents on every certificate ordered by them, provided their remittance amounts to one dollar, also other inducements which can be learned on application. Agents will collect 25 cents for every Certificate, and remit fifteen cents to us, either in cash or postage stamds.

U. S. 7-30 LOAN.

THIRD SERIES.

$230,000,000.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury the undersigned, the general Subscription Agent for the sale of United States securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three-tenths per cent interest per annum, known as the

7.30 LOAN.

These notes are issued under date of July 15th, 1865, and are payable three years from that time, in currency, or are convertible, at the option of the holder the

U. S. 5-20 Six per cent.
Gold Bearing Bonds!

These bonds are now worth a handsome premium, and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds, from State, County, and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent. per annum, to their value, according to the rate levied on other property. Interest is payable semi-annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker.

The interest at 7.30 per cent amounts to

One cent per day on a $50 note.
Two cents " " " $100 "
Ten " " " " $500 "
20 " " " " $1000 "
$1 " " " " $5000 "

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.

The notes of this third series are precisely similar in form and privileges to the Seven-Thirties already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the optiou of paying interest in gold coin at 6 per cent, instead of 7 3-10ths in currency. Subscribers will deduct the interest in currency up to July 15th, at the time when they subscribe.

The delivery of the notes of this third series of the Seven thirties will commence on the 1st of June, and will be made promptly and continuously after that date.

The slight change made in the conditions of this THIRD SERIES affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in Gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three tenths per cent in currency. This is now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the great

THE ONLY LOAN IN MARKET.

POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Less than $230,000,000 of the Loan authorized by Congress are now on the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within sixty days, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other loans

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and private bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

Jeff. Davis' Flight and Capture.

An alleged staff officer of the rebel President, has written a lengthy and detailed account of the flight of Jeff. Davis and his Cabinet from Richmond.—Davis made a show to keep up the Confederate Government at every town through which he passed, until he heard of Johnston's surrender. At Charlotte, North Carolina, the Cabinet commenced to fall to pieces, and when Benjamin suddenly and mysteriously disappeared, at Washington, North Carolina, there there was left only the Postmaster General, Reagan, with whom Davis and a few followers attempted to escape. Mrs. Davis, her three children, and her sister, had a wagon train some twenty-five miles distant from Davis' party, and the rebel President, hearing that they were to be attacked, determined to go to their rescue. On reaching them his wife rebuked him for exposing himself. Being tired and drowsy, Davis went to sleep in his wife's tent, intending to retrace his steps in the morning and pursue the route originally marked out.

The rebel historian then narrates how he was awakened by the firing of musketry; how Davis discovered the presence in his wife's camp of the Union cavalry, and how Mrs. Davis exclaimed with emotion, 'you are captured!' In a moment she caught an idea—a woman's idea—and as quickly as women in an emergency execute their designs, it was done. He slept in a wrapper—a loose one. It was yet around him. This she fastened ere he was aware of it, and then bidding him adieu, urged him to go to the spring, a short distance off, where his horses and arms were. Strange as it may seem, there was not even a pistol in the tent. Davis felt that his only course was to reach his horse and arms, and complied. As he was leaving the door, followed by a servant with a water-bucket, Miss Howell flung a shawl over his head. There was no time to remove it without exposure and embarrassment; as he had not far to go, he ran the chance exactly as it was devised for him. In these two articles consisted the womans attire of which so much has been spoken and written, and under these circumstances, and in this way, was Jeff. Davis going forth to perfect his escape. No bonnet, no gown, no petticoats, no crinoline, no nothing of all else.'

Barnum's Museum.

At a late fire in the city of New York the 'American Museum' of P. T. Barnum, was totally destroyed. The Herald's has the following concerning the rebuilding of that institution, by Mr. Barnum:

Mr. P. T. Barnum, 'Prince of Humbug,' is already engaged in the work of preparation for a new 'American Museum' in New York. When Mr. Barnum visited the ruins of his late museum, and gazed upon the blackened debris and the fragments of roasted whale and boiled anaconda that lay scattered about, the Herald says he was the most buoyant individual in the crowd.

Instead of alluding to or mourning over his loss, he spoke of nothing but the prospectus for his new museum. This, he asserts, will surpass anything of the sort ever attempted. The tendency of business up town prompts him to select Union Square, or some spot in the vicinity. 'I will now turn to building,' said Barnum, 'and such a building as will astonish the world. On the roof I will have my menagerie of wild beasts from all parts of the world. Its extent will be three times the size of my late establishment, and as for curiosities, there will be no such collection on this continent or upon any other.

Judge Catron's Vacancy.

New York, July 15.—A Washington special says: "No appointment has yet been made to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Catron. At present the succession appears to be between Attorney General Speed and Horace Maynard. The fact that the latter was cut out of the Tennessee Senatorship by a son in-law of the President is considered to increase his chances for the place. Rivalry never disturbed the pleasent relations so long existing betweeen Mr. Maynard and the President."

Government Clothing.

The Government clothing bureau, says the Philadelphia Press, took possession of all the material for clothing left in Richmond at the evacuation—Eight hundred hands, mostly girls, have been employed in spinning and weaving the wool, cotton, and yarn thus confiscated, and the cloth manufactured from it is devoted to clothing the colored troops in Texas. The sewing at thirty cents for pantaloons and the same for shirts, is eagerly sought for by the women and girls of Richmond.—About six hundred are employed in the work at their own residences, considering the rate of remuneration, which enables them to earn five dollars a week, satisfactory. Seven hundred shirts and three hundred pairs of pantaloons are given out daily, and many member of the most prominent families of Richmond are among the applicants for this work.

—Among the applicants for pardon are Ex-Gov. Letcher, of Virginia; Senator Henry, of Tennessee, Commodore Hollins; Gov. Magrath of South Carolina, and Gov. Moore, of Alabama.

—The Attorney General of Virginia has given an opinion that persons who held office under the 'Confederate' or any rebel government are not eligible to any constitutional office in Virginia.

—The United States Circuit Court at Pittsburg has decided that the act of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, in repealing the charter of the Connellsville Railroad Company is unconstitutional. This decission secures another outlet from the west to the east.

The Lynchburg papers show undisguised disloyalty, and make it a matter of boast that the most scrutinizing observer would have failed to find out that Tuesday was the Fourth day of July there.

SEWING MACHINES.

These Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do; will Hem, Fell Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tention, or making any adjustment of Machaine whatever! ! !

They are simple in construction, and easily understood; and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

These are peculiar facts, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

MORSE'S EXPECTORANT
FOR THE HEALING OF THE NATIONS

GOOD NEWS TO ALL MANKIND.

THE REMEDY FOUND AT LAST.

It will cure Influenza and Sore Throat.
It will cure Croup every time.
It will cure Asthma and relieve Consumption
It will cure Whooping Cough.
It will cure your Cough.
It will prevent Consumption.

It cures all if the directions are strictly followed, or the money will be refunded.

That Cough which you are neglecting may result in fatal Consumption, if some prompt remedy is not used.

Why sacrifice your life when your disease can be cured so quickly and at so small a cost?

What is the value of Money when compared to Health?

MORSE'S EXPECTORANT

Is warranted to break up the most troublesome cough in an incredibly short time. There is no remedy that shows more evidence of its merit than this for curing

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Difficulty in Breathing, Asthma, Bronchitis, Laryngitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of patients in the advanced stage of the disease.

Morse's Expectorant is a vegetable anodyne, prepared expressly to meet the constant demand for a safe and efficient remedy for diseases of the

THROAT AND LUNGS,

Diseases of those organs are so prevalent and dangerous that a reliable Medicine is a necessary safeguard in every community. In such a remedy for family use, the absolute absence of danger from accidental overdoses, freedom from poisons, and the adaptation to patients of every age and condition, of either sex, is indispensible. These qualities are most combined in this preperation, and so admirably is it adapted to the cure of all diseases for which it is recommended, that its entire influence is bro't to bear against them, and so perfectly assist nature in its efforts to rid the system of disease, that the most delicate constitution can use it with perfect safety and a fixed certainty that a RELEIF AND A CURE WILL SPEEDILY FOLLOW

As Time—the great developor of Events—advances, these truths becomes wider and better known, and this Medicine has already become a simple necessity, with a growing demand, unpreecedentd in the history of Medicine—the natural results of its INTRINSIC MERITS.

A single trial is all that is necessary to establish the fact that it is the most efficacious remedy ever offered to suffering humanity.

This medicine is put up in 50, 75 and $1,00 bottles and warranted to contain more and better materisl than any similar medicine introduced to the public in a medicine.

For sale by Druggists generally. July 1 y

HELMBOLD'S

GENUINE

PREPARATIONS.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED" COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings.

This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the matter of calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for men, women and children.

H

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

For weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion, attended with the following Symptoms:

Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Memory, Weak Nerves, Horror of Disease, Dimness of Vision, Hot Hands, Dryness of the Skin, Universal Lassitude; Loss of Power, Difficulty of Breathing, Trembling, Wakefulness, Pain in the Back, Flushing of the Body, Eruptions of the Face, Pallid Countenance, Muscular System.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes), soon follow—

FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c.,

in one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

E

In many affections peculiar to Females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, and for all complaints incident to the sex, or in the

DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE,

☞ See Symptoms above.

☞ No Family should be without it.

L

Take no Balsam, Mercury, or unpleasant medicine for unpleasant and dangerous diseases.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

AND

IMPROVED ROSE WASH

Cures Secret Diseases

In all their stages little expense, little or no change of diet, no inconvenience, and NO EXPOSURE.

M

USE HELMBOLD'S

EXTRACT BUCHU

For all affections and diseases of these organs, whether

EXISTING IN MALE OR FEMALE,

From whatever cause originating, and no matter how long standing. Diseases of these organs require the aid of a diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

Is the Great Diuretic.

And it is certain to have the desired effect in all diseases for which it is recommended.

B

BLOOD! BLOOD! BLOOD!

Helmbold's

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA,

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the Skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect HELMBOLD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA. It cleanses and renovates the Blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought for, and now, for the first time the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

O

HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH,

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upwards of 30,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basis, Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works:

See Dispensatory of the United States.

See Professor Dewees' valuable works on the Practice of Physic.

See remarks made by the celebrated Dr. Physic, Phila.

See remarks made by Dr. Ephraim McDowell, a celebrated Physician and Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland, and publishe in the Transactions of the King and Queen's Journal.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon. Being now used to the exclusion of all other Bitters in more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the U. S. government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞They are made of ingredients well known and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strengthening properties to correct the bilious derangement of the system and act like a charm when taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases;—Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Affections, Jaundice, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirit, Sallow Complexion.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity; so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their effiency.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞Ladies who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system. If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters have him send for him. Remember the name and take no other.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical journals, and having been adopted as a standard remedy by the Medical Profession are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Exempt from Stamp Duty.

Reciprocity with Canada.

There is now in session at Detroit a Convention of the Boards of Trade and other commercial associations of the various cities of the United States, and of the British American Provinces, to consider the best plan of intercommunication in trade and commerce, and the best plans to be adopted for securing transportation, and for fixing up a new treaty between Canada and the United States. New York, Philadelphia, Boston, and the several railroad managers from the cities westward, seem to represent interests conflicting with the western interests, and a good deal of ill feeling is produced in the convention thereby.—It is for the interest of Chicago and the west to secure the free navigation of the St. Lawrence river, and open a ship canal around the falls of Niagara, that freights may pass direct to Europe from the great lake ports, without going to the seaboard cities by routes requiring transhipment from lake to land transportation, and paying tribute of tolls at various stations, and finally in New York before getting underway for Europe. There is no doubt but the annexation of Canada to the Union would be a splendid thing for the western States. Our commerce would then have unobstructed channels to the Eastern continent. But notwithstanding this, there is a party who believe the surest way to secure annexation is to repeal all reciprocity treaties, and so force the Provinces to come into the Union to secure the benefits of such trade. Without a reciprocity treaty the west suffers, and the great eastern cities and railroads are the gainers, so that while the west wants the treaty and also annexation, the east wants neither treaty nor annexation. If the treaty is abolished, annexation will follow, which does not suit New York. If the treaty is maintained, the west is the largest recipient of its blessings, but the west wants annexation more than it does the treaty.—In this state of things the convention at Detroit is in a beautiful muddle, and we expect little or no good to result from its deliberations, for the representatives are men who only look at local and personal business interests. We b lieve the treaty will not be renewed, for there is a widespread desire to force the people of the British Colonies to annexation. Such would undoubtedly be the best for all parties, and the people, if the two countries are beginning to view annexation as the only peaceful and possible conclusion of the whole difficulty. England will not interpose her will against the wishes of her colonists. She has often said as much in Parliament and by her Ministry. The only drawback may be our national debt, which the colonists look upon with some dread, but the advantages of annexation are so great that the debt will ultimately be no obstacle.—Davenport Daily Gazette, July 17th.

The Rebel Commissary Department.

The Herald publishes the report made to the Rebel Congress of the working of the Rebel Commissary Department.—This report gives a view of the resources of the Confederacy at the commencement of the war, and of the difficulties encountered by the rebel government in the progress of the struggle in the matter of feeding its fources. It shows that it was utterly impossible for the Rebel States to produce supplies enough to sustain the rebel armies, and that they never did so. It also shows that many efforts that were made to feed those armies by meats that ran the blockade, were all crippled by the stupidity of Jeff. Davis and his associates.

The report makes some remarkable disclosures of the operations of men on our side of the line. It shows that there were on our side in 1862, a great many men ready to furnish the rebels with all the necessary army supplies, and that these men had sufficient influence with our Government to be able to get their loads of stores through the lines, and to evade all the watchfulness of the Treasury Department and Military Commanders at Memphis, New Orleans, and other points. They did business on so large a scale that they could contract to deliver at once 30,000 hogsheads of bacon, thousands of sacks of salt and flour, coffee in abundance, and all other neces-ary stores. Contracts were made between Northern men and the Southern Government, for the supply of the Southern armies, and Lee's Army was fed in that way to a great extent. Early in 1863, Jeff. Davis opposed the plan, it stated, in the belief that withholding cotton would compel recognition of the confederacy at an early day.

The report discloses the impatience, (?) in many points, of the rebel Government, and the errors and weaknesses of Davis. It discloses also the fact that the rebellion was kept alive and the war prolonged by villainies carried on from our side of the lines.

DEATH OF ONE OF JOHN BROWN'S RAIDERS.—A Rochester (N.Y.) paper of late date has the following: 'Last evening a colored man by the name of David Cunningham, who resided on the corner of Spring and Fitzhugh streets, died of typhus fever. He was one of the men concerned in the John Brown raid in Vriginia, and at the time of the arrest of that great Old Dominion terrified he fled to Pennsylvania. He afterwards went to the West, working in several different states, and a few years ago came to this city, where he has been employed mostly in cooking for the soldiers. Latterly he has been at the camp on the fair grounds. He was a man of great physical strength.'

Mrs. Swisshelm on Mrs. Surratt.

Mrs. Jane G. Swisshelm, in a letter to the Pittsburg Commercial, now that justice is satisfied, and there is no danger of an evil effect from an appearance of sympathy with Mrs. Surratt, thus defends that person's appearance and demeanor in Court:

It is customary to represent her as a monster, with an unlimited amount of cunning and cruelty in her face; but she is simply a representative Southern woman—no better nor worse than a majority of Southern women. I know those who have known her as the belle and beauty of her county, the petted, spoiled favorite of friends, the idol of parents, husband and children. Her face, and indeed her whole figure, while on trial, was soft, rounded, tender, and motherly. Her large grey eyes alone gave indication of reserved strength.—Her behavior, during that long and terrible ordeal, was full of delicacy and dignity. She made no scenes, as a weak or vain woman would have done. When her daughter came into court, and, with quivering lips and streaming eyes, appeared on the point of breaking down, with a gesture of command and entreaty she restrained her. All the long hot days she sat with her heavy mourning veil down, and a large palm leaf fan held between her face and the crowds who gathered and crushed and struggled to gaze at her, as if she had been an alligator—hundreds of persons in these crowds making the most insulting remarks in her hearing.

During all that time she leaned her head wearily against the wall, and by changing hands kept her fan steadily before her face, and every few minutes a low, stifled moan escaped her. Man and woman stood on tip-toe, and stretched and strained, or, having gained entrance, stood coolly and made such remarks as 'Where's Mrs. Surratt?' 'I want to see her!' 'Oh! goodness, just look if she isn't pretending to be modest!' 'I wish I could see her face better!' 'Isn't she a devil?' 'She looks like a devil!' 'Hasn't she a horrid face?' 'I hope they'll hang her—tee, hee, hee!' All these remarks and more such, some of them again and again, and often accompanied by coarse laughter, I heard during the two hours and a half that I sat near her, and she must have heard them as distinctly as I did. They were evidently meant for her.

It appeared to me so cruel, and cowardly thus to insult a prisoner in chains, that I could not refrain from answering, and several times said: 'She's not a bad face. She has a good face, and if she had not, it is cowardly to insult her!' She dropped her fan and looked at me with such an expression of gratitude as I shall never forget. I looked full into her eyes; mine were not dry, while hers were filled with heavy tears. Several asked me if I was a friend of Mrs. Surratt, so strange did any pity for her appear.

A Whole Family Murdered by Brigham Young's "Danites"

A private letter just received by a gentleman of our acquaintance from a reliable party in Utah, gives the details of a wholesale murder of a family of six persons by a gang of Brigham's 'Danites' or 'Destroying angels.' Our informant was intimately acquainted with the unfortunate victims, and says they had been the objects of relentless persecution by 'the brethren' for some time past. They had all been members of the church, in high standing, and familiar with the inside workings of Brighamism. Latterly, they had been seriously suspicioned of disloyalty to the church, and were supposed to be making preparations to get out of the territory, an event which the 'Angels' were instructed to prevent, as the people knew, and would probably say after leaving Zion, many things which the good name of the church would not permit to be made public. The parties knew they were watched, and took every precaution to elude the vigilence of the 'Danites.' They started, ostensibly for the purpose of changing their residence to the eastern part of the territory, but really intending to come on to the States, and were accompanied by two young men who were not members of the church. When they had been out several days and were encamped in a cannon about fifty miles from Salt Lake one of Young's bishops came to the camp and told them they must move immediately or they would all be murdered by the Indians; they were loth to start at first, but the bishop insisted, and they finally consented to follow him.—He led them to a 'secure camping place' several miles distant from the public road, and there left them.

The following night a company of men disguised as Indians, came upon the camp and murdered every member ber of the party except the two young men, who returned to the settlements and informed the friends of the family what had happened.

These statements may be relied upon as true; we are in possession of the names of all the parties, but not at liberty to make the same public, as the informers, if known to the 'Danites,' would share the same fate.

The North Missouri Railroad Company has decided to place $6,000,000 of 7 per cent. first mortgage bonds on the market, at 10 per cent. discount, for the purpose of completing the road to the Iowa state line, and the west branch to Macon City. Contracts have been let for building the Leavenworth and Lawrence Railroad.

The Negroes in Petersburg.

The following was issued by the military authorities at Petersburg, July 6:

'SIR—The Major General commanding directs that you adopt at once the most stringent measures to prevent the abuse of negroes by soldiers. Many complaints are made of their lawlessness and tyranny over negroes, and the practice must be stopped at every hazard. You will also require the negroes to be respectful and orderly on the streets. Complaints are made that they frequently do not yield any portion of the sidewalk, but crowd persons they meet, particularly ladies, into the street. Cause those who may be detected in doing this to be promptly arrested, and break up the practice. It would be well to request all persons having knowledge of these things to inform the nearest guard or officer, and in every way practicable to assist the proper authorities in the detection and prevention of such lawless practices. Order, also, a proper attention to decency in the matter of bathing in the river, and arrest all persons violating it.'

Eight Deaths in one Family

Two weeks ago we noticed the affliction in the family of Mr. Dennis Booney, residing between Liberty and Walkersville, Frederick county, Md., up to which time four of his children had died. Since then four more have died. There is now but one left. Thirteen brothers and sisters—The oldest not twenty—now lie side by side in the little graveyard. Such fatality in one family has seldom occurred. The disaster was diptheria. A number of the citizens went out on Saturday last, and harvested nearly the whole of Mr. Boone's crop, which the terrible affliction in the family had prevented him from touching. Other parties have been gathering his hay and doing other necessary work for the bereaved family.

Captain Hines.

From the Detroit Tribune, July 21.

The notorious Capt. J. Henry Hines, the rebel officer who dug the tunnel out of the Columbus, Ohio, State Prison, by which Gen. John Morgan made good his escape—crossed the river yesterday under a special permit from Gen. Hill, and took the oath of allegiance prescribed by the Amnesty Proclamation. He returns immediately to his home in Kentucky, a State never out of the Union even by the formalities of an ordinance of secession, but which he left to aid in destroying our Government. He finds himself considerable the poorer, and it is hoped, proportionately wiser, by his criminal venture.

ENGLISH OPINION OF THE CASE OF DAVIS.—The London Daily News is frank enough to admit that "European precedents" do not help those who contend that America, by executing Jeff. Davis, "would be guilty of an unparalleled crime." On the contrary, it concedes that European history cannot be quoted by those who protest against the proposed trial and punishment of the rebel leader. The News even utters those emphatic words: "If Mr. Davis is to be saved, it must be by the exercise of a magnanimity of which no State of European Christendom affords an example; and the Americans are a people of too much original ability not to be able to ascertain for themselves the course which best becomes their character in their present situation."

There is much fairness in this, and what we might expect from a journal that has from the first been disposed to be just toward us. We trust we may yet have it to record of British sentiments, that it admits the rebellion was nothing less than a stupendous crime, that the leaders are great criminals, and in that by aiding them the British Government compromises itself before the world, and blackened itself forever in history.

Tredegar Iron Works.

In the list of persons whose property is reported seized for confiscation at Richmond, we find the name of General Joseph R. Anderson, the well-known proprietor of the Tredegar Iron works. This gentleman graduated with distinction at West Point in 1836, and served for a time in the United States army, as an officer of Engineers, but resigned, to establish his residence at Richmond, where he acquired wealth by the manufacture of castings and machinery, and by lucky speculations in land. A person of unusual intelligence and information, of pleasing, aristocratic manners, he was popular and influential, but too moderate and cautious, and too deeply immersed in business to become a political leader, or to take any active share in bringing on a rebellion. But he heartily joined the rebellion after it was inaugurated, became a Brigadier General, and served in the army of Northern Virginia till after the battle of Fredericksburg, when he resigned in order to devote himself to making cannon. Probably no individual did more to help on the war against the United States than General Anderson through the Tredegar Iron Works. The heavy artillery and heavy ammunition of the rebels were mainly furnished from that establishment. He has made a special and urgent application for pardon, but President Johnson has not granted it, and we presume that he will never again be the owner of the great foundry and machine shop which he has so long and so disloyally controlled.

—Gov. Perry left Washingtn on the 25th, to enter upon his duties as Provisional Governor of South Carolina.

The Latest Dodge.

The latest trick is performed by a man and small child, the latter in rags, and the former in a well-worn uniform of blue, with one sleeve empty, the missing arm being carefully hidden away under the coat. The plan of the operators is for the man personating the soldier to sit in the ladies' cabin of the boat in such a way that the child, in its tour of begging, approaches him first, soliciting alms. The false soldier listens to the brief tale told in an under tone by the child, questioning him very loudly, and at last pulling a well-worn and well-filled pocket-book from his pocket, hands it to his nearest neighbor and asks him (being himself unable to handle the pocket-book with his single hand) to give the child ten or twenty-five cents. The beggar knows enough of human nature to know that this scene invariably excites the sympathy of the spectators, who are ashamed not to give after seeing the 'poor soldier' do so, and the child generally manages to get quite a respectable sum of postal currency.

This repeated once or twice a day at each ferry, about the city, gives the rascally pair a very nice income. Some of these people make from eight to ten dollars per day.—N. Y. Correspondet Cin. Gaz.

Increase of Political Power at the South.

It should never be forgotton that the Southern States, by the abolition of slaverp, obtain a great increase of political power over what they enjoyed previous to the rebellion. Hon. John Sherman, who has examined the matter, says they will gain fourteen new members of Congress and as many electoral votes. This comes from counting all the blacks in the basis of representation, and not three-fifths as before. It seems peculiarly hard, therefore, that the colored population can have no share in the exercise of this power which they are the means of augmenting in the hands of those who can, if they desire, wield it to their disadvantage. If such injustice is to be perpetuated, the late leaders of the rebellion may be made only the stronger by an act which was intended for their punishment.—Boston Journal.

From Washington.

NEW YORK, July 25.

The Times has the following:

The trial of Capt. Wise, late rebel commissioner of the Andersonville prison, which was set for to-morrow, before a military commission, has been indefinitely postponed.

The charge preferred against him, and for which it was intended to put him on trial to-morrow, is violations of customs of war, the specification being that he refused prisoners under his charge sufficient food, fed them on spoiled meat, and compelled them to drink water in which had been thrwon the refuse of the camp and out-houses.

The next term of the United States Circuit Court to be held at Norfolk, meets in October, when treason indictments against Gen. Lee and other rebels will be called up. It is understood here that these cases will be presented, but the President will direct nolle prosequi to be entered and dispose of each defendant as he proposes to dispose of other leading rebels, who have been active participants in the war, namely: by putting them on long probation, and then as condition precident to pardoning them, imposing such penalties and restrictions as may be justified by the circumstances.

From North Carolina.

Col. David Heaton, Treasury Agent, is now receiving at Newbern, for shipment North, a superior quality of copper, which the defunct rebel government obtained from the mines near Charlotte. There are also large quantities of iron, lead, coal, and sulphur, to be shipped North. The gold and silver mines are being worked by negroes, who are accumulating fortunes. Col. Heaton is also receiving large quantities of confederate cotton which is being sent North by every steamer.

The Raleigh Progress says the native element, including the aristocracy, are growing more defiant every day and now openly threaten to hang Union men and negroes as soon as the troops are withdrawn. It says the troops must be retained, and every consideration of justice and safety requires their presence in North Carolina, as well as in other rebellious States.

BARNUM'S NEW MUSEUM.—The great showman is receiving encouragement from all classes of the community in his design of erecting one of the finest museums ever built in America. Lieutenant General Scott has already presented Mr. Barnum with a valuable collection of personal relics, and many other citizens have sent in curiosities. One gentleman will contribute $3,000 worth of beautiful shells, which he makes a free gift, and several merchant princes have notified Mr. Barnum that they have given directions to all the captains of their ships to collect, and bring home, at the owner's expense, every curious article they can pick up during their cruise abroad. Ship captains have also sent word that they will endeavor to add something to the general stocks, thus manifesting the public interest that is felt in the necessity of having such a museum for the instruction of young people, students and the public generally. All donations are to be acknowledged by the name of the donor being attached to the article presented.

Frederick Seward is rapidly improving in health, and will leave Washington for Cape May next week.

HOSTILE INDIANS.

Information Relative to Their Whereabouts.

From the Red River Nor'Wester, July 4.

From the elder Mr. Urban Delorme and his interpreter, who have lately returned from their camps, we learn the following concerning the Sioux: At the Portage Laprairie and in that vicinity, there are 30 lodges of Little Six and Crow's band. Near the Sand Hills, 50 lodges of White Eagle's band. On the Sand Hills, 100 lodges of Standing Buffalo's band. Near the Mouse River, 500 lodges, under the chiefs Red Dog, Thunder, Buffalo, Wan-e-tah, Black Eyes, Big Head, and Matu-wa-koh. These, Mr. Dolorme believes to be the only Sioux on this side of the Missouri; and these Indians report American troops in the neighborhood of Turtle Mountain, marching their spies say, in two columns.

Most of the Sioux are badly off for provisions, and are living at present on roots, eggs, birds, &c.

In the camp of five hundred lodges, Mr. DeLorme found a strong inclination to visit the settlements, to see, they said, their great English Father (the Governor) and were preparing to leave their families and come in. Calling them together, he represented to them that their visit here would be fruitless as the Governor was away, and on one was sufficiently in authority to make them any presents. He also told them of the poor state of the country, and the general wish that they should not come; and so far succeeded in dissuading these Indians from coming in here, that they gave him their promise to go buffalo hunting and not come near us. The more certainly to prevent their visiting the settlement just now, Mr. DeLorme informed them that the settlers were displeased with them, because they got the traders and others into trouble by visiting the settlement. On account of their vtsits the Americans believed that the Red River people were helping the Sioux with ammunition to fight the troops. For this reason, explained Mr. DeLorme the States people have laid an embargo on all the powder coming into the settlement and otherwise annoyed and calumniated Red River traders. Mr. DeLorme also advised them to make peace with the Americans, who would, otherwise, exterminate them.

The settlement, we think, owes thanks to Mr. DeLorme and others who have exerted themselves in this way to keep off those Sioux pests.

The Andersonville Dead.

Captain James M. Moore, Assistant Quartermaster United States Army, arrived at Savannah on the 12th of July on his way to Andersonville. He left Washington under orders from the Secretary of War to proceed with an adequate working force to Andersonville, for the purpose of erecting headboards, fences, etc., to mark, in a fitting manner, the graves of the thousands of ill-fated Union prisoners who perished in the stockade prison there.

Captain Moore had with him 7,000 headboards, quantities of fencing ready to put together, and 14,000 feet of lumber to be used in the work of inclosing and distinguishing the resting places of the martyred Union soldiers. The material, altogether, composed the full cargo of the steamer Virginia.

The working party is under the supervision of Mr. Joseph S. Walker, and includes a force of fourteen carpenters, ten painters and letterers, four clerks, two orderlies, and five laborers.

All the materials—tools, paints, etc., Captain Moore took with him, and every thing was fully prepared for the work.

There is, however, a very serious obstacle to the farther progress of Captain Moore and his party, namely, entire lack of transportation. The resources of the Quartermaster's Department at Savannah are inadequate for the overland transportation of the shipload of material, and it will be equally impracticable to attempt to reach the destination by way of Macon, which is nearly eighty miles from Andersonville.

KENTUCKY PROSPECTS.—The Louisville Union Press says:

'The prospects of the Union party in Kentucky are truly encouraging. In the Sixth Congressional District the people are too well satisfied with the brilliant services of Gen. G. Clay Smith to think of sending any one else in August. General Fry is making a gallant canvass in the Ashland District, and is gaining ground rapidly. The indomitable Lowry, though weak in body, is strong in spirit, and is fighting the old prejudices of the people in the Third District will good effect. Grider stands no chance in an argument with him. From those who are watching the contest in the Second District we learn that Yeaman drives Ritter to the wall continually.'

RESIGNATIONS OF GENERAL OFFICERS.—The following general officers have resigned since June 1: Major General George Cadwallader, Stephen A. Hurlbut, F. J. Herron; Brigadier Generals B. F. Kelly, Joseph Bailey, A. Von Steinwehr, Robert A. Cameron, M. R. Patrick, A. J. Hamilton, O. S. Ferry, L. P. Bradley, G. F. Shepley, William H. Seward, Jr., F. B. Spinola, Frederick Vanderveer, Lys. Cutler, R. B. Hays, E. W. Hinks, P. H. Jones, Edward Harland, J. G. Mitchell, J. A. J. Lightburn, Morgan L. Smith.

If the list were five times as long, the country would be proportionately pleased.

THE UNION.

Mankato, Minn., Friday Aug. 4, 1865.

INVESTIGATION.

Congress at its last session appointed a committee to investigate the transactions of Government officials, civil and military with the Indian tribes. Hon. Wm. Windom as a member of such body has announced his intention to enter upon an examination of Indian affairs in this State at St. Paul on the 7th inst. His intention is to discover and expose any fraudulent practices, committed by officials or others with Indians, which has had a tendency to create strife between the whites and Indian tribes. If public opinion is any evidence of the corrupt practices sought to be developed, hardly any official connected with Indian affairs will escape this Congressional test of honesty. May the work be thorough, and followed up by a sweeping dismissal of all officers upon whom rests even the slightest suspicion of complicity with those who, we have every reason to beleive, have made it their especial business to fleece Goverment, Indians and citizens, without regard to the consequences which have visited the frontier for the last three years. It is not enough to discover what evils are now committed towards the Indians, because individuals have but little opportunity while remaining in a hostile attitude, to practice upon them deceit or flagrants wrongs, but it is necessary that the probe of research should extend to all transactions in years past and bring to light, what ever of intrigue may have driven the Indian tribes to repudiate their treaty obligations. The object of this investigation is doubtless to initiate a better understanding between the Government and Indians, by discovering wherein they have been wronged, by those in whom the Government had reposed a trust for their benefit. The out break took place in 1862 and the cause therefor was cotemporaneous with or antecedent to it, therefore investigations should be directed to those officials who were at that time acting as trustees of the Government. By thus first discovering the cause of Indian troubles, the Government may the more easily effect its removal and restore security peace and thrift to our borders. Mr. Windom requests that persons having in their possession any knowledge of such corruptions should communicate the same to him at St. Paul without delay.

KEEP HIM ON THE TRACK.

—The Winnebago paper settled the question as to Major E. H. Smith of Mankato being a candidate for State Treasury. So, perhaps the valley will not be represented on the State ticket unless we take some Union man for the sake of the spoils. The objection to the Major is that he has served his country in an Illinois regiment and has resided on our frontier only two years! It is well known in this region that he is a safe and reliable business man, and that Illinois regiments have done their full share in standing the brunt of the war. These are solid recommendations with the old pioneers in this valley and we hope the Mankato Union will keep its candidate on the track and unsettle the decision of Winnebago.—Blue Earth City Advocate.

We think neither the people nor the paper published at Winnebago City are opposed to the nomination of Major Smith for State Treasurer, but in the absence of Mr. Holley, editor of the Free Homestead, its columns were used by a resident of that place, objecting to Major Smith simply for purposes of his own. So long as no valid objection exists against him, we shall take the advice of the Advocate, and keep our candidate on the track.

Not Quite Right.

It is sufficient cause of complaint that no credit at all is given to local items clipped from the papers of the State.—but when its items are taken from one paper and credited to another of the same town, no one will charge us with a groundless complaint of shabby treatment by our cotemporaries. In June, the Pioneer clipped an article from the Union and credited it to the Record. In making the correction, as if still to ignore the Union, the article is made to come from the Independent. Later in the month the Le Sueur Statesman takes an important item from this paper and gives the Record credit for it. And lastly the Winona Republican, in mentioning what the press says of its enlargement, clips our article as coming from the Record when in fact that paper never in any manner noticed the enlargement. Whether this treatment is caused from carelessness or design, no one will pronounce it quite fair.

BLOOD HOUNDS.

We are informed that Mr. Evans, who has been south after bloodhounds, is at Jackson Miss. en route for home. He has not succeeded well in obtaining these animals and probably returns home satisfied that there is no place south, which our army has not visited and destroyed the "varmints."

INDIAN AFFAIRS.

Mr. E. B. Taylor of Omaha City Nebraska, has been appointed Superintendant of Indian Affairs, vice Clark W. Thompson. In consequence of the Winnebagoes having taken a part of the Omaha reserve by treaty, and being placed under the care of the Omaha agency, Major St. A. D. Balcombe, Winnebago Agent, has been removed and the agency discontinued.

Must be Heard.

Some three weeks since an article appeared in the Homestead, published at Winnebago City, disagreeing with the Union, and objecting to the nomination of E. H. Smith of Mankato for State Treasurer. The objection named was in its nature such as would draw from the Union a reply, and might have been written for that purpose. But as we passed the matter quietly by, not wishing to seek controvercy with our neighbors, the same barking cur arrests our attention by an ungenerous reflection upon us, contained in its issue of the 26th ult. To treat the article with the greatest degree of contempt would be to pass it unnoticed, but as it hardly merits the severest censure, and as all small children are flattered to be noticed, we will briefly advertise the Free Homestead for the benefit of its enterprising editor.

Our readers will remember the article in the Union of July 21st, concerning the absence of Mr. Wilkinson and his failure to receive the appointment of Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Of this the Homestead says:

"Only six months since, the Mankato Union was slobbering Mr. Wilkinson with laudations some what nauseating to stomachs out side of Blue Earth county, because of their insipidity, and we must say that this abuse of him now is very much out of place. One of the most loud blating friends in Mankato that Wilkinson had last winter, has lately been making a trip through the country with the writer of the above article soliciting Mr. Wilkinson's friends to support him for an office. Put this and that together, and it makes a 'bonum ovum' surely".

The Homestead man seems quite oblivious to the fact that nearly two months since the Union changed hands. We know that most of the business men of Winnebago City are wide awake fellows but it seems that one addle headed sleeper must yet awake to a realizing sense of the "situation" at Mankato.—we wish to inform Mr. H. W. Holley that neither Mr. C. H. Slocum or Mr. Wilkinson "or any other man" owns the Union or reflects his sentiments through its columns except the published editor and proprietor. Mr. Wilkinson is to us the same as any other citizen, no more, no less. We have not abused him, but simply criticised the conduct of a public man. Had the Union remained under the conduct of our predecessor, there might have been some ground for the charge of a change of base, but if the editor of the Homestead possessed one of those weak stomachs outside of Blue Earth county, which "soured on him" while imbibing the Union laudations of Mr. Wilkinson, his present defense of that gentleman reveals a change of base more flagrant than that charged upon us. But the proposition that no one can ever change his opinion of another, or cease to sing unmerited praise, is only entertained by those who are still voting for General Jackson. The "writer of the above article" did ride with Mr. E. H. Smith to Blue Earth City to view the country, and putting us together it makes a pretty good egg, that's so, but it's no more evidence that we are conspiring against Mr. Wilkinson, or any body else, than the fact of Mr. Holley's riding on a box of Bibles is proof that he is a friend to religion.

MURDERED BY A MANIAC.

A passenger on board the Anna Johnson while en route for St Paul was shot on Thursday the 20th ult by a fellow passenger, who is supposed to be laboring under a mental derangement. The unfortunate man who suffered death at the hands of a lunatic is named Nathan S. Roberts, and is thought to be from Syracuse N.Y. Among other papers of value found on his person was a check on a Syracuse bank for $1,000 and a memoranda of bonds to a large amount, from which it is inferred that he is a man of wealth. The shooting accurred nearly opposite Wabashaw and the body was taken to St. Paul and an inquest held resulting in finding that the deceased came to his death from a pistol shot wound inflicted by G. C. Stocking.

Mr. G. C. Stocking the murderer had shown signs of lunacy while on board but not enough to attract much attention or cause any alarm. He seemed to be laboring under the delusion that some one was plotting his life, and taking his pistol from his state-room he commenced on Mr. Roberts and then fired upon some soldiers wounding one before they succeeded in wresting the pistol from him. He was immediately arrested and taken to St. Paul along with the corpse of Mr. Roberts. An examination of the offender took place last Saturday but was continued, until the 12th inst. for the purpose of a medical examination of the prisoner touching his insanity.

RETURNING REGIMENTS.

A letter to the St. Paul Press from Selma, Alabama states that the 6th, 7th, 9th, 10th, Minnesota Regiments are ordered home, and will arrive at Fort Snelling about the 15th of this month. Members of these regiments whose terms do not expire previous to Oct last, have been transferred to the 5th, which for the present remains in the service.

Later.—The new recruits are not to be transferred to the 5th regiment, but are to return home with their own regiments.

Changes.

We notice that the Mower County Register, published at Austin, is enlarged from a six to a seven column paper.—The Wabashaw Herald, formerly owned by Mr. Shaver, has changed hands. A public pressure against it on account of its reconstruction policy, enfranchising traitors, and disfranchising loyal men, is said to be the cause. The Anoka Sentinel breathed its last a few weeks since. The cause alleged by its editor was that it did not receive the full support of its party, in consequence of triangular cliques formed within it, which could not see, think, or act alike. The Shakopee Argus is reduced from a seven to a six column, and the Rochester Republican presents only seven columns instead of eight as formerly. We cannot wonder at these reductions so long as paper remains at present prices. At 27 cents per pound at Mankato, our paper and ink for each subscriber costs more than one dollar per annum.

National Monument.

Most of our readers are doubtless aware that an association called the National Lincoln Monument Association has been formed, which is now making efforts to erect a suitable monument to perpetuate the memory of the late President Lincoln. The present Governor of Illinois, Hon. R. J. Oglesby, is president of this Association, and circulars giving a statement of the object to be reached thereby have been issued. From the circulars we take the following:

From time immemorial it has been the custom of a grateful people to raise to the memory of their great national benefactors, monuments which should not only carry down to posterity the name of the illustrious dead, but also be an evidence of the love and esteem in which he was held by his fellow men.

Actuated by feelings of this nature, a regularly incorporated association has been formed, for the purpose of erecting a National Monument over the remains of our lamented President.

All, from the poorest to the richest, are invited to contribute to this noble enterprise, and surely no one can regret having aided, so far as he was able, in perpetuating the name of Abraham Lincoln. We recognize no section. It is not an individual or a State project, but a National one; and, being such, we wish every city and hamlet in our broad land to be represented by the contributions of its citizens.

We are laboring earnestly to accomplish the ends of our association, but we are powerless without your assistance, and that of thousands of others. Shall the call be in vain, or shall the nation proudly point the stranger and foreigner to the last resting place of Abraham Lincoln, and ask "Where can you find a more magnificent testimonial to the genius of one man?"

It is the object of the association to build a monument in every way worthy of the fame of our late, President, and they depend upon the generosity of the people to enable them to carry out their desire.

As soon as the design is selected, steel plate copies will be sent to the various Schools and Societies which have contributed to the fund, and the receipts to individual donors will also contain a representation of the same.

The Board of Directors have ordered the following notice to be published: "It is deemed proper that the public should be officially apprised that, in accordance with the wishes of Mrs. Lincoln, the National Lincoln Monument Association have definitely decided to erect the National Monument to the memory of Abraham Lincoln, late President of the United States, over his remains at Oak Ridge, near the city of Springfield, Ill."

Destruction of Eight Whaling Vessels.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20.—Arrived, whaling bark Milo, in twenty-eight days from the Artic, with the crewr from several whalers destroyed by the Shenandoah last month. The Edward Casey, Hector, Abigal, Euphrates, William Thompson, Sophia Thornton, J. Irish and Susan were captured and mostly burned. The Milo was boarded for the purpose of taking off the crews.

The Shenandoah was continuing her whole sale destruction of whalers, and would probably soon destroy another fleet, numbering sixty vessels.

Her commander was informed of Lee's surrender and the collapse of the rebellion but he did not believe it. He believed Lincoln's assassination for he expected it.

The Shenandoah coaled last at Melbourne

She is manned by English and Irish. Some of the captured whalemen joined her.

Population of Winona.

The enumeration of the inhabitants of this city, under the State law, has just been completed, with the result following, which we obtained from Judge Powers, city assessor, viz:

First Ward,	1,462
Second Ward,	1,401
Third Ward,	1,576
Total population,	4,439

The whole number of families in the city is 751—thus giving an average of six persons to each family.

The population of the city of Winona in June, 1860, as ascertained by the United States census taken at that time, was 2,900. We have therefore gained during the interval, 1,539, or an increase of about fifty-five per cent. This is satisfactory enough. The increase is largely composed of substantial citizens, who have come here to do business and to stay. A like ratio of increase for the next five years, would give us a population of about 7,000 in 1870. We predict that it will be more than realized.—Winona Republican, July 25.

Miscellaneous Items.

From Chicago Rep, July 28.

—Kirby Smith and party were captured by the governor of Saltillo (Mexico), at Piedas Negras, on the 4th inst. and, with them, 4 cannon, 900 rifles, and 75 wagon-loads of ammunition and provisions. The captives were released, on parole.

—Two members of the Canadian government are en route for Washington, with the view of endeavoring to secure an assimilation of the tarriffs of the United States and the British provinces, or a renewal of the reciprocity treaty.

—A Galveston letter of recent date states that orders have been issued to officials at Matamoras to prepare cantonments for 35,000 Imperial troops, consisting of French, Austrians, and Algerines. The concentration of large bodies of United States soldiers at various points on the Rio Grande is given as the reason for this collection of Imperial forces.

Four hundred applications for pardon were received on Wednesday and yesterday. Among the applicants are Generals Dick Taylor and Roddy, both of whom are in Washington.

Jeff. Thompson has taken the amnesty oath before the mayor of New Orleans, and it is understood, has applied to President Johnson for a special pardon.

The Louisville Democrat estimates that over 60,000 slaves have crossed the Ohio river, under General Palmer's passes, since the 1st of May. At this rate the whole slave population of Kentucky will "pass away" in less than one year.

—The state sovereignty democracy of Ohio have called a state convention for the 17th of August. The in-search-of-an-issue democracy hold their state convention on the 24th of August.

—In a large proportion of the applications of families of deceased soldiers for pensions, cruel treatment at Andersonville or Salisbury is stated as the cause of death.

—Robert Barth has been recognized as Consul of Saxe-Weimar, for Iowa, Missouri, and the western territories.

—To day the mails from Washington will be transmitted to Richmond over the Orange and Alexandria railroad, via, Gordonsville. Regular mail communication will soon be established on other important southern railroads.

—At last advices, the Indian expedition under Gen. Sully had reached Fort Rice; and the hostile savages were encamped in force about a hundred miles above that place.

—The department of Louisiana—which, as constituted by the president's order of June 27th, embraced the states of Louisiana and Texas—has been divided into two departments,—that of Louisiana, to be commanded by General Canby, and that of Texas to be commanded by General Wright.

IMMIGRANTS.—About twenty-five immigrants from Sweden came up yesterday on the Favorite, and are destined for Cambridge, in Isanti county. They are from the Northern part of Sweden, adjoining Finland, and came by the way of Liverpool and New York.—Press July 28.

CENSUS.—The recent census returns show a population of 538 in the town of Taylor Falls; 274 males, and 264 females. The number of men in the service on the 1st of June was twenty seven.—Taylor Fall Reporter.

Last Friday a drove of sheep, numbering 200, we judge, passed through Wilton bound for Blue Earth, as we were told. The animals looked well.—Two emigrant wagons followed the flock.—Wilton News.

In a late number of the Hudson Star and Times, the population of that place is estimated at 1968 and of Prescott, 1,060, making a difference of nearly one half in favor of Hudson.

We have been shown a counterfeit twenty dollar bill of U. S. currency which would not be detected from a genuine unless a person was careful in examining it. The general appearance of the counterfeit is coarse, the green ink not of a fine quality, and the engraving of many of the small letters imperfect. The "i" in the word "United" at the lower right corner is not dotted. We presume the gang of thieves which infest the Mississippi Valley are trying to "shave," this counterfeit money, and it would be well to closely watch all bills of the above denomination. Winona Republican.

The Wabashaw Herald has changed hands. Its former editor, Mr. Shaver, took ground in favor of Johnson's reconstruction policy, enfranchising traitors and disfranchising loyal men. The people refused to support the paper and he sold out. Served him right. Loyal men are better than traitors.

ARRIVAL OF MR. DANA.—The Editor-in-Chief of THE REPUBLICAN, the Hon. Charles A. Dana, arrived in this city on Thursday evening last, and will assume, to-morrow morning, the editorial control of the paper.—Chicago Rep. July 22.

There is great excitement at Richmond concerning the sweeping enforcement of confiscation law, and business is completely stagnated in consequence. Efforts are being made to secure a suspension of the operation of the law until after action shall have been had upon all applications for pardon.

—Major General Milroy has tendered his resignation.

—General Sherman arrived at Cincinnati on Wednesday, and left yesterday, for Washington.

SCHOLARS ADVANCEMENT.

A writer in the last Union desires to know why he has sent a scholar five terms to school, and yet he cannot now call words of three or four letters at sight. I wish to say, that I have taken especial pains to make myself acquainted with the manner in which reading is taught. Under the plan pursued by most of our teachers, a person must not expect his child to learn to call words of four or five letters at sight in five terms at school. In fact some pupils who appear quite intelligent, do not learn this in ten or twelve terms. In nearly every school that I visit I find classes with readers from one to five years beyond their capacities, trying to learn to read. It can hardly be said that they are learning to read. The pupil pauses to spell the words, whispers, whines and turns the sound of one word into that of another, giving little or no attention to the pauses, not appearing to see the use or effect of them. They seldom ever read with a clear voice, ready and distinct utterance, or with anything like a proper accent. Very few pupils make use of accent at all. It must be evident that there is something wrong in the manner in which reading is taught What is the fault, and where does it exist? The fault is in the system of teaching and exists principally in the teacher. They desire to convince a District that they are keeping a good school, and seek to do so by calling for more advanced readers. This suits the pupil and the parent, and thus scholars get to reading books too far advanced for them. It requires a great effort on the part of teachers to abandon this evil. But the first great fault of a teacher is in putting a pupil to reading too soon, before the child can call the words in the lesson. The custom is to put the pupil to reading as soon as he has learned the alphabet, he being required to spell the words to himself and speak them aloud, and thus he is drilled until spelling the words becomes a habit. A scholar who thus reads cannot appreciate the pauses nor comprehend the sense of the subbject. No scholar should be allowed to try to read a sentence until he can call all the words in it at sight. Teachers do not seem to comprehend this. They pay so little attention to it that I seldom find one who has read the instructions to teachers in the National Readers upon this point. Another fault of the teacher is the neglect to train the voice of the pupil. In many schools this is wholly neglected. If parents desire their children to learn to read let them be sent to school with the spelling book. In this book the words are divided into syliables, the accent and sounds of the letters are indicated; here they can best learn words, which accomplished enables the pupil to become a very good reader in a few lessons.

Death of Martin N. Slocum.

Our readers will recollect the announcement made in our columns a few weeks since, of the assassination of Lieut. Martin N. Slocum, at Baton Rouge, Louisiana. His father and family live at Leavenworth, Brown county, and his wife and two children at Northfield. We are in possession of a letter from a lieutenant in the same regiment, to his wife, detailing an account of the murder, extracts from which we give below. The letter says:

Being the only officer of the 65th Regiment that was with him at the time the foul deed was committed, I think it my duty to give you a circumstantial account of the affair. It was also his request that I should do so, in case his wound proved mortal; and he enjoined me to tell you that he met his death in no quarrel or riot; but was deliberately shot by the traitor and assassin, apparently for no reason other than that he loved his country, and was a soldier in her service.

On the evening of May 30th, the Lieutenant and myself started out for a walk. Our camp was then situated in the suburbs of the city, Baton Rouge.—In the course of our walk we came into the business portion of the town. The evening being very warm and sultry, and having had nothing but river water to drink during the day, we went into a restaurant, to get a glass of ice water or lemonade. There were several officers of other regiments in the restaurant at the time. There were no harsh words passing between any one, in fact the conversation was so unimportant that I do not at this time recollect what was said. We were standing near together, the lieutenant on my right. Some officers of other regiments were standing near. I turned partially around to get my glass of lemonade, and I think the lieutenant turned at the same time. The report of a pistol from the direction of the door startled every one in the room. The lieutenant exclaimed, "I am shot shot through the bowels!" My attention was then directed to him, for I did not know that he was hit until he made the exclaimation, and that was three or four seconds after the report of the pistol, and as soon as I could get him into a chair, I drew my revolver and ran out to the street to find and shoot the assassin.

It has since been ascertained that the assassin was seen sneaking around the building, previous to our going in. The inference is that he wanted to kill some Federal officer, and coming up to the lattice door, and pushing it slightly ajar he saw a group of officers and fired, not caring, so that he hit some one. It is supposed that he then fell on the pavement to create the impression that he was shot, hoping that during the excitement he could get away unperceived.

Lieut. Slocum's death is sincerely mourned by the Regiment. He was a good officer, respected and esteemed by all the officers and men. I am not aware that he had an enemy.

His effects will soon be transmitted to you by the officer appointed to receive them.

THE AUTOMATIC ORGAN.

In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly announce the greatest triumph in musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments, with double bellows, and two pedals for the feet to operate but the want of the reversed or Exhaustion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated.

Another objection to this method of blowing was that, both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell. Within the past two years, instruments constructed on this European plan of "double blowers," have been manufactured in this country, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an appendage is nearly impossible.

Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of tone. We predict for this invention a brilliant future.

THE MELODEON & SCHOOL ORGAN

For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly. With our increased facilities, we feel warranted in assuring our patrons that their orders will be promptly met, and solicit a continuance of their patronage.

LEO LAMM.

PERSONAL.—Hon. M. S. Wilkinson arrived at St. Paul last week, and is expected in Mankato early next week.

BIRDS.—See the advertisement of Professor Wiederman, who has some splendid canaries for sale.

—Mrs. Ballou, inspirational speaker, has returned from Blue Earth City, and will lecture at the school room on Front street next Sabbath afternoon, at 3 o'clock p. m.

RAILROAD.—Track laying on the Minnesota Valley road is fairly under way, one half mile being laid daily. The road will doubtless reach Shakopee before cold weather.

MITE SOCIETY.—The Presbyterians will hold their Mite Society at the City Hall this (Friday) evening. The ladies will present several articles of their handiwork for sale. The prayer meeting at the school house will be omitted.

NOTICE.—The members of the Mite Society of the M. E. Church, will hold a Festival on Wednesday next, August 9th, at the City Hall. The Public are cordially invited to attend.

CHURCH AID SOCIETY.—The ladies of the Episcopal church, have organized a Church Aid Society, and intend holding a Fair and Festival during the holidays. They will meet semi-monthly, and most cordially invite all who feel an interest in the cause to join them. The society holds its first meeting on Thursday afternoon of next week, at Mrs. Sparrows.

By order of the Secretary.

MOVING IN.—Mr. Thomas, of South Bend, has moved into Mankato a two story frame house and placed it near the Clifton House. He will fit it up for a store, move down his family, and go into business as soon as the building can be completed.

CENSUS.—The census returns of Le Sueur county foot up a population of 7,919 against 5,300 in 1860. The increase is less than 50 pr cent. We have received sufficient returns from Blue Earth county to satisfy us that our rate of increase will be much more.

LOOKOUT for the place where you can do the best, which is at Randall & Smith's clothing Emporium, where you can get a Coat, Vest, Pants, Hat, or Cap. Gloves, socks, Shirt Collars. Neck ties, Suspenders, valises and Trunks, are sold for less than they can be replaced for at the present time by wholesale.—Also a fresh lot of goods just received.

CROPS, RAIN, AND RIVER.—The crops in this county were never better than they are this season but some complaint is heard of the late storms which have lodged the grain some, and prevent the use of machines. Fears are entertained that the crops will suffer damage, unless fair weather sets in soon. The rain of Tuesday night and Wednesday, was a perfect sea of water, and raised the river more than a foot, but as every thing that goes up must come down, we presume the river will recede in a few days.

THE ASSASSINS.—We are in receipt of a verbatim report of the testimony, trial, and argument of counsel on both sides, and the execution of the conspirators who murdered President Lincoln. It is the most complete work of the kind published, and can be had of T. B. Peterson & Brothers, 306 Chestnut street, Philadelphia. On the receipt of 50 cents it will be mailed free of postage to any part of the United States.

SOLD OUT.—Mr. R. H. Thurston, of Garden City Township, has recently sold at auction his furniture and stock, and has also sold the farm on which he resided, situated one and one fourth miles from Garden City, to Capt. Potter, late of the Eleventh Regiment, for the sum of $2,500. Captain Potter intends making this farm his headquarters, where he will preside over that brigade of sheep which is now coming from Michigan.—Mr. Thurston, we are informed, has purchased the farm of Col. Baker, adjoining, but will not occupy it at present.

THE DOG LAW.—We have a test case to report concerning the dog law which was amended at the last session of the Legislature. Constable Ranne complained of W. H. Burgess, for keeping two dogs without a license. The trial, which was by jury, took place before justice Hoerr, at the American Hotel on Saturday last. The jury found the defendant guilty as to one dog, and the court fined him ten dollars, and the costs, both of which amounted to about twenty-five dollars. An observance of the law would have saved all but one dollar of this fine, and we trust that its vindication will have the tendency to reduce the number of dogs to at least five to each family. The father of Mr. Burgess is also in court for the same offense, and will be tried before Justice Hoerr on the 29th inst.

A JEFF. DAVIS CAPTOR.—We have conversed with Mr. Chas. H. Warner, of the 1st Wisconsin cavalry, who was present at the capture of Jeff., and has since been discharged, and is now visiting with his brother W. F. Warner, who resides in this town. Mr. Warner says that Col. Pritchard takes the credit of his capture, while if Col. Harrington had been allowed to go on as he desired, he would have taken the prize, and the 1st Wisconsin partaken more of the glory. He confirms the statement that Jeff. tried to escape in disguise, having on a kind of gown and a shawl thrown over his head. He describes him as being some what dilapidated in appearance and his clothing soiled and seedy. Mr. Warner and brother are in search of land upon which they may open a farm, saying that Wisconsin cannot hold them so long as the fertile fields of Minnesota are open for settlement.

FROM VERNON CENTRE.—Messrs. Mason and Reed have received their portable saw-mill machinery; and will erect a mill at Vernon immediately. They hope to have it in readiness for sawing in about three weeks.

Mr Butterfield of the Watonwan Mills, met with a serious accident on Tuesday last. He was grinding a broad axe, and having finished the work was going from the stone and accidentally fell on the axe inflicting a severe wound in his right hip. Dr. Welcome dressed the wound which was five inches long and quite deep. It is thought his injuries will disable him for three or four moths.

COUNTY BUILDING.—The improvement which has been under way at the county rooms, is soon to be completed. It consists of two vaults built about eight feet square in the rear of the building, arched over, and to be covered with tin. The vault in the building will be taken down and arrangements made for the county Treasurer to keep his office in the same building. One of the new vaults will contain the books of registry, while the other will contain the treasurer's safe and the books of the Auditor.

RETURNED.—Among the passengers in the stage Tuesday morning, we noticed Capt. Jas. G. Thompson, late of the 68th U. S. Colored Infantry. Capt Thompson is a resident of this county, and entered the service in the fall of 1862, as a private in Company E. 9th Minn. He was promoted to the first vacancy in his company, and served with it until in June, 1864, when he received a Captain's commission in the Colored Service. Though not personally acquainted with Capt. T., the fact of his having risen to the position he so lately held, by examination before a military board, is sufficient evidence to us of his abilities.—At Guntown and Mobile he was among the fortunate, coming out unscathed, and now at the close of the war, and after three years' service, he returns to his family and the quiet and security of civil life.

A COMMODIOUS STOPPING PLACE.—Mr. S. T. Mills, living ten miles from Mankato, on the Garden City road is now erecting a building for public accommodation, which will for the present eclipse any thing of the kind west or south of Mankato. The ell part is nearly completed and is seventeen feet wide by forty four long, two stories high. The upper room will be used for a hall for public entertainment, parties, balls, etc. As soon as this part is finished, the log building in front will be torn away, and the main building, twenty-four by thirty-six feet, will be erected. Situated near a beautiful lake and within the limits of a pleasant drive from Mankato, it will doubtless prove a favorite resort of pleasure seekers. Mr. Mills has also on his farm an orchard of two hundred trees, which would have borne in abundance this season but for a late frost which killed many of the buds. A number of his trees will, however, yield fruit this season.—He has also ten thousand grafts, the most of which are doing well, and are the nucleus of a nursery which he is about to establish. The nursery of Mr. Stuart, at La Sueur is to be abandoned, and half the stock will be removed to the farm of Mr. Mills, the other half going to Minneapolis.

ST. PETER VS. MANKATO.—The St. Peter Advertiser says that there are three regular paint shops in that town, and that eleven painters are constantly employed. That in Mankato there are none, but a dobber runs on to the place and paints a day or two and leaves town. Thus far it may be correct except in the statement that there are no paint shops in Mankato. It is doubtless true that dobbers paint a day or two, just long enough for their employers to be satisfied that they don't understand their "biz.," and being discharged they leave town and bring up in St. Peter, which probably accounts for the swarm of "artists" in that village. We had but to inquire of but one painter in town in order to obtain the following names of persons who are painters, and keep shops for the purpose: Roberts, Caunon, Little & McKenney, Himmleman, Rose, and Hersey. We are told that other names can still be furnished, but we are satisfied with this number at present. But the Advertiser further says that St. Peter supports twenty-two masons "all the year round," and that some of them are going up to Mankato to help us out. Guess you've got your foot in it now. If you support twenty-two masons the year round, why are they coming to Mankato seeking employment? Glad to see them come, however, as we are in distressing need of them. There isn't a man here who proposes to go to St. Peter for employment, although we can count more than thirty masons who are industriously building up our little Eldorado of the West.

SCHOOL BUILDING.—An informal meeting of the citizens was held at the school room on Front street, last Saturday evening, to consider the course to be pursued concerning the proposed school building, for the erection of which $10,000 in bonds have been issued. It seems that Mr. Shiere of St. Paul was engaged to draw a plan of a building to cost not more than ten thousand dollars. The plan being submitted to contractors for proposals, their bids were opened and every bid exceeded the sum of $10,000 by from two to three thousand dollars. Mr. Shiere's bid was $2,700 more than the sum given him, to which he was restricted, in drawing the plan. As the meeting was only informal, after a limited discussion, it was adjourned to meet under a legal call of the District, which has been made, and the meeting takes place on the evening of the 10th inst. The general feeling seems to be that a house, plain and substantial, and large enough for our present requirements, can be built for six or seven thousand dollars. We agree with those who think it is rather putting on airs, for a young town like Mankato, to build an edifice which requires the price of an ordinary building for ornamental superfluities. What is wanted is a large, plain, ward school house. Any good mechanic can visit a ward school of St. Paul, and take the plan, which is simple, and proceed at once with the work. For the benefit of scholars, and the credit of the town, the building should be commenced at once, which can at least be enclosed before cold weather, if entrusted to energetic hands. Bear in mind that a log cabin of limited dimensions, is the only external evidence of a popular educational system in Mankato. It is almost knavery to announce it, but it must be kept before the people until the corner-stone of our new building is laid.

Great Mowing Match!!

West Union, July 15th, 1865.

MC'CORMICK AHEAD.

TOMMY THOMPSON TAKES THE SPOOLS.

SEVEN MOWERS IN THE FIELD!

The great Match came off on Hoyt's farm at West Union last Saturday. A large number of spectators assembled to witness the trial. Seven mowers entered the lists and the trial was interesting and fairly conducted.

The following is a list of the Mowing Machines on trial—McCormicks—Kirby—Massilon—Buckeye—Cayuga Chief—Ohio Buckeye, and John P. Manny's Combined Machine did good work. The Judges decided that McCormick's Mower was the best for all kinds of grass and on all kinds of ground.

The McCormick Mower was engineered by Tommy Thompson, General Western Agent for the Machine. He challenges the world on Mowers, and farmers will not forget the McCormick is not only the best but the cheapest machine in use.

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.

The notes of this third series are precisely similar in form and privileges to the Seven-Thirties already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying interest in gold coin at 6 per cent, instead of 7 3-10ths in currency. Subscribers will deduct the interest in currency up to July 15th, at the time when they subscribe.

The delivery of the notes of this third series of the Seven thirties will commence on the 1st of June, and will be made promptly and continuously after that date.

The slight change made in the conditions of this THIRD SERIES affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in Gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three tenths per cent in currency. This is

POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Less than $230,000,000 of the Loan authorized by Congress are now on the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within sixty days, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other loans.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and private bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

ARRANDALE & CO., Manf'g Agts.
No. 167 Broadway, New York.

Announce that all of the above list of goods will be sold for One Dollar each.

In consequence of the great stagnation of trade in the manufacturing districts of England, through the war having cut off the supply of cotton, a large quantity of Valuable Jewelry, originally intended for the English market, has been sent off for sale in this country, and must be sold at any sacrifice. Under these circumstances, Arrandale & Co., acting as agents for the principal European manufacturers, have resolved upon a great Gift Apportionment to be divided according to the following regulations:

Certificates of the various articles are put into envelopes indiscriminately, sealed up, and when ordered, are taken out without regard to choice, and sent by mail, thus showing no favoritism. On receipt of the certificate, you will see what you are to have, and then it is at your option to send the dollar and take the article or not. Purchasers may thus obtain a gold watch, Diamond Ring, or any set of Jewelry on our list for One Dollar.

SEND 25 CENTS FOR CERTIFICATE.

In all transactions by mail, we shall charge for forwarding the certificates, paying postage and doing the business, 25 cents each, which must be enclosed when the certificate is sent for. Five certificates will be sent for $1, eleven for $2, thirty for $5, sixty-five for $10; one hundred for $15.

WHAT THE "PRESS" SAY OF US.

The Lafayette (Ind) Daily Courier, March 18 1865, says: A better selected, more varied or fashionable assortment of jewelry cannot be found on the continent than Arrandale & Co., are now offering. Messrs. Arrandale & Co., occupy a high position in commercial circles as men entirely above the common trickery of trade. Their statements may be implicitly relied upon, both as to the character of their goods and the manner of disposal. Ladies especially, in all parts of the country, are realising handsome profits as agents, and if any of our fair readers desire to interest themselves in this enterprise they may do so with perfect confidence.

We have inspected, at the office of Arrandale & Co's Agency for European Manufacturing Jewellers, a large assortment of valuable and fashionable jewelry of the newest patterns. We also noticed a large quantity of silver plate and understand that the whole of these newly imported articles are to be disposed of on a novel principle giving great advantage to buyers, and affording extensive employment to agents. We know the firm in question to be very respectable and thoroughly worthy of public confidence, and recommend our friends to read their advertisement.—N. Y. Albion, September 3, 1861.

The British Whig, of Kingston, C. W. says Nov. 26th, 1864; One of our lady subscribers became an agent for Arrandale & Co. and by request brought some twenty articles sent as prizes for her agency, to this office for inspection and without hesitation we can state that each and all of the articles were worth treble the amount of cost to the recipients, and some of them six times.

AGENTS—We want agents in every regiment, and in every town and county in the country, and those acting as such will be allowed ten cents on every certificate ordered by them, provided their remittance amounts to one dollar, also other inducements which can be learned on application. Agents will collect 25 cents for every Certificate, and remit fifteen cents to us, either in cash or postage stamps.

A Mad Horse—An Interesting Case of Hydrophobia.

From the Lafayette Indiana Courier.

A large dun horse, formerly owned by Capt. Sale Fry, and more recently by Snyder & Parker, of the plaining mill, was bitten some weeks since by a dog supposed to be mad. A load of lumber had been hauled to the stable in the rear of Mr. Lingle's residence, on Ferry street, and while the team stood in the alley, a dog, foaming at the mouth, and evidently mad, ran in from the east end of the alley passing within a few feet of Mr. Samuel Favorite, but snapping at one of the horses, fastened his teeth and held on for some seconds. The horse was taken home immediately and closely watched for symptoms of hydrophobia, but weeks having elapsed without developing any indications, all apprehensions were dispelled until yesterday the horse snapped at Mr. Parker viciously and bit him on the side. His clothing, fortunately, was thick enough to prevent any laceration of the flesh. No other signs of Hydrophobia were manifested until in kitching him up or unhitching him, the animal made a sudden plunge at his mate, and bit him on the side, drawing blood. The wound is badly swolen, and it is anticipated that this horse will also go mad. The dun horse grows worse hourly. It is a clear case of hydrophobia. The horse foams at the mouth, and bites at every thing within his reach. Hundreds of our citizens have flocked to Mr. Parker's stable to-day, to see the animal. It will probably be shot this evening.

James Case, of the firm of Case & Brothers, the well known harness makers, relates a remarkable case of hydrophobia which occurred in Lockport, New York, some years ago. A gunsmith named Bronker, who always had a lot af dogs about him, while beating a bull terrier one day, was bitten by the dog, and in about nine days went stark mad. He was taken to the American hotel, in the place, and for about twelve hours was pinioned to his bed. The paroxisms were frightful. The unfortunate victim bit at the bed clothing, and foaming at the mouth, presented a terrible appearance. Upon consultation with the physicians and principle citizens of the place, it was thought best to drown him. A large bath tub was procured, and the unfortunate man untied. Mr. case and three stout men held him at arms' length, and, throwing him into the bath tub, strangled him to death.

Training the Tomato.

As soon as the plants are large enough transplant to rich, light soil, one in a hill, and at least five feet apart each way. At least once a week scoop the earth away from around the plant, and pour on a quart or more of soap suds. When the plant commences to branch, cut off the outer branches ; this will have a tendency to increase the size of the stock and cause it to grow bushy. After the plants are 16 or 18 inches high they should be provided with frames. I make mine by spliting standards from the pine boards, 5½ feet long, and sharpen their lower ends. To these standards are nailed slats made by sawing four feet laths into three pieces. The frames are made sixteen inches square, nailing the lower slats fifteen inches from the bottom of the standards, the upper ones at the top, with others midway between the two, Frames made in this way have been in use five years, and with a little repairing will last some years longer. When the branches extend beyond the slats and over the top of the frame, clip them, leaving one leaf above the fruit stems, and continue to do this throughout the season. The plant trained thus and showing its ripe and ripening fruit, forms a beautiful object, and one tomato grown in this way is worth a dozen as usually cultivated. Last year I had twenty-one plants, from which I gathered an abundance of fruit for table use and canning, for a family of five persons, besides destributing from five to six bushels among my friends. No one need to be afraid of using the knife freely, as there is no danger that the plant will not fruit abundantly ; in my experience the difficulty has been to keep it from fruiting too much.—Rural New-Yorker.

Death of Arthur Tappan.

This venerable and well known citizen died yesterday morning, at New Haven. Mr Tappan retired from business some years ago, but he was long known as one of our most active, and for many years, most successful merchants. He acquired at one time a large fortune, much of which he lost when too old to enter the arena again with younger men. But well known as he was as a merchant, he was far more widely known for his benevolence, and for the generous zeal with which he always advocated and supported any movement for the benefit of his fellow men. He was one of the early abolitionists, and cheerfully took a large share of the obloquy and persecution which was visited upon that despised class in its darkest days.—When Garrison was imprisoned in Baltimore for an article in his paper upon the domestic slave trade, Mr. Tappan paid the fine and released him from jail, and his name, from that time forward, was as notorious and almost as much as much hated at the South as Garrison's own. Like most of the class to which he was known to belong, his whole life gave the lie to the assertion the abolitionists were 'men of one idea,' for there was no charitable work or pious purpose to which he did not give the benefit of his great executive ability and the support of his hearty and untiring devotion. Nor did old age cool his ardor. To the end of his day his interest in good works never flagged, and for him certainly awaits the award : 'Well done, good and faithful servant.' Mr. Tappan was in the eightieth year of his age.—N. Y. Tribune, July 24.

A cause involving the constitutionality of the act requiring practitioners in the Federal courts to take a new oath was argued in the United States District Court at New Orleans, on the 14th inst.—General Banks supporting the affirmative side of the question. No decision had been rendered up to the date of our last advices.

HELMBOLD'S

GENUINE

PREPARATIONS.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED" COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings.

This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the matter of calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for men, women and children.

H

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

For weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion, attended with the following Symptoms:

- Indisposition to Exertion,
- Loss of Memory,
- Weak Nerves,
- Horror of Disease,
- Dimness of Vision,
- Hot Hands,

- Trembling,
- Wakefulness,
- Pain in the Back,
- Flushing of the Body,
- Eruptions of the Face,
- Pallid Countenance,
- Muscular System.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes), soon follow—

FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c.,

in one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

E

In many affections peculiar to Females, the EXTRACT BUCHU is unequaled by any other remedy, and for all complaints incident to the sex, or in the

BLOOD! BLOOD! BLOOD!

Helmbold's

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA,

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the Skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect HELMBOLD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA. It cleanses and renovates the Blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought for, and now, for the first time the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

O

HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH,

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upwards of 30,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basis, Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier ; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon. Being now used to the exclusion of all other Bitters in more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the U. S. government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞They are made of ingredients well known and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strengthening properties to correct the bilious derangement of the system and act like a charm when taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases;—Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Affections, Jaundice, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirit, Sallow Complexion.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity; so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞Ladies who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system. If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters have him send for him. Remember the name and take no other.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical journals, and having been adopted as a standard remedy by the Medical Profession are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXEMPT FROM STAMP DUTY.

THE ATLANTIC CABLE.

PREPARATIONS FOR LAYING IT—INTERESTING DESCRIPTION OF THE CABLE AND APPARATUS.

We have already published many facts in relation to the Atlantic telegraph cable, but the following additional particulars, from a carefully compiled article in the N. Y. World, with be read with interest:

WHO OWNS THE GREAT CABLE.

The cable and all the working stock of the Atlantic Telegraph Company is to be paid for by collections upon the stock shares of the many thousand holders. The British Government is heavily interested in the success of the undertaking, and gives it material and nautical assistance with, probably, a very great subsidy, if it is successfully laid. But no American vessel will assist this year, in the paying-out and portage of the wire, as did the Niagara in 1858. At the same time there are many Americans stock-holders, and an American, Mr. Cyrus W. Field, has been most directly and creditable engaged in stirring up foreign capitalists to undertaking the laying of the cable a second time. The wire will be managed entirely by this company, which will make specified charges for all messages passing over it, and, in course of time, lay other cables.

DEPTH OF THE GREAT TELEGRAPH WIRE.

The present cable will reach from Valencia Harbor, in Ireland, to Hearts Content Bay, Newfoundland, a curvilinear distance of 1,800 miles, but by submarine irregularities will be in water of from 1,500 to 2,500 fathoms.

DESCRIPTION OF THE CABLE.

The present Atlantic telegraph cable is two thousand three hundred nautical miles in length, that is twenty six hundred English or geographical miles. The core or central conductor is composed of seven fine copper wires, laid up or twisted into one strand, and is insulated with Chatterton's compound. Outside of this strand are four distinct layers of gutta percha, each layer being insulated with the same compound which incloses the conductor. Outside this layer are wound eleven strong iron wires, each of which, before it is twisted, is carefully 'woulded' with strands of hemp saturated with the best of Stockholm tar. The structure, therefore, contains no less than twenty-five thousand miles of copper wire, thirty five thousand of iron wire, and more than four hundred thousand miles of hempen strands, making a grand total of four hundred and sixty thousand miles of continuous fabric; which, if knotted together, would reach around the world twenty times.

In its manufacture about seventeen miles have been made daily, and at times its outer covering has been put on at the rate of one hundred and seventy-three miles a day. Every inch of it at all times been kept under a constant test of 'conductivity' and insulation.

The strength of the cable is equal to a bearing strain of seven and three quarter tuns, while its specific gravity is so low that it can be depended on with safety to support eleven miles of its length in water. It has been joined at different places in lengths varying from seven hundred to eight hundred miles.

THE CABLE TANKS.

The cable is stowed in three large tanks on board of the Great Eastern, all of them being of wrought iron and constructed in the most substantial manner, and in outward appearance resembling one of the great gas-ometers at the foot of Forty-second street. The first tank is located in the forward part of the ship, and is 51 feet in diameter. The midship tank is over the boilers, and is 56 feet and six inches in diameter, and the after one is 58 feet in diameter. The first contains a coil of 630 miles; the second, 840 miles; and the third, 830 miles. All the tanks are filled with salt water, and the cable is spliced so that a current of electricity is constantly passing through its entire length. The weight of these tanks and their contents is upwards of 5,000 tuns.

The greatest care has been taken to 'shore' them up from the main deck, and to keep them down by the same process from above. The stanchion and post reach to the keelsons. Over four hundred loads of timber were used in putting in these shores, braces and struts. The tanks themselves are braced with heavy wrought iron tie rods to the sides of the vessel.

	Tuns.
Weight of cable stowed in tanks filled with water,	5,000
Weight of coals,	8,500
Weight of ship and engines,	7,500
Total weight,	21,000

The register tunnage burden of the vessel is 24,000 tuns.

No such weight has ever been carried over a single keel in any human sea.

THE PAYING-OUT MACHINES.

These machines, upon which depends so much of the success in laying down the cable, are of the lightest possible construction, consistent with great strength, and they are made wholly of the finest wrought iron, being improved and extended copies, as far as general principle is involved, of those used on board the Niagara and Agamemnon during the first memorable undertaking. These improvements and modifications have been considerable. They are stronger and much larger, and have six leading wheels, round which the cable passes in deep grooves before reaching the main wheel or drum, from which it passes overboard and is submerged.—Each groove in these six wheels is surrounded by what is known as a jockey-pulley, or a sollid wheel, which tends to keep the cable down in the groove and prevents its over-riding or getting out of place.

The main drum is about seven feet in diameter, and the cable will have three turns around it, with guiding pieces pressing on them at the sides, to keep them from spreading and straining. As the friction of the guiders will be great, duplicates are provided in case of heating, which can be put in gear with the rest of the machinery, and without stopping the paying-out process.

A spare drum has been provided in the event of the one in use breaking down.

The cable will be taken at the start from the forward tank, and when that is relieved of its contents, the next batch will uncoil from the tank amidships, and finally reach the after and last tank; and, as we have stated before, if all works well, but little will be required from the after tank, as it is expected that there will be about 500 miles of cable still remaining on board when the ship arrives on this side of the Atlantic.

The Mexican Empire.

New York, July 28.

The Herald publishes the followins, relative to Mexican affairs: 'Immediately upon the receipt by Maximilian of the news of the death of Lincoln, the surrender of General Lee, and the complete termination of our war, he dispatched to Europe his especial adviser, M. Eloin, chief of cabinet, to advise with Louis Napoleon, king Leapold, of Belgium, and the emperor of Austria, as to what should be done under this change of affairs, the empire of Mexico having been undertaken under the conviction that the United States were permanently disrupted, and that our civil war would last for many years. M. Eloin left Vera Cruz on this mission on the 2nd of May last, passing by way of this city, and now returns by the same route. It was then reported that while there, he had an interview with President Johnson, and that the interview was of a very satisfactory character.—This report was entirely without foundation.

'We have reason to believe that the mission of M. Eloin to Europe has been fruitful of important results to Louis Napolean, and he was instructed by Maximilian to state that the empire could only be established in tranquility and thoroughly pacified, by aid of largely increased forces of foreign troops, and the outlay of much larger sums of money, which must also be furnished from abroad, as it was idle to place any reliance upon revenue in Mexico for some years to come. These reinforcement of troops and necessary funds must be furnished by France, for they could be obtained no where else; and further, that in view of the changed state of affairs in the United States, France and other interested European powers must guarantee his throne from attacks from without; that unless these conditions could be complied with, Maximilian did not choose to stay in Mexico. M. Eloin was instructed to procure the restoration to Maximilian of his rights of succession to the Austrian throne in event of his return from Mexico. This is the only part of the mission of M. Eloin which has been attended with any success, and in this his success has been most complete. Maximilian can now return to Austria, and regain his rights of succession there at any moment, by simply giving up his throne in Mexico.

'We have reason also for belief that the mission of M. Eloin has been productive of the further result that he carries back with him to Mexico, as the advice of Louis Napolean and of king Leapold, that, under all the circumstances, and seeing that it is now evident that the people of Mexico do not desire to have an emperor rule over them, the best plan for Maximilian will be to abdicate at as early a moment as possible, and return to Europe; then the French troops, having nothing more to do, will also return, and so the whole of this disagreeable and unfortunate Mexican business will be ended without any further trouble.'

From Richmond—The Charter Election

New York, July 27.

A Richmond correspondent seys: 'In accordance with the proclamation of Governor Pierpont, the charter election came off to-day, and was conducted with perfect order. The interest of the community was mostly centered in the sheriffalty and the succession to Joseph Mayo as Mayor. To the former J. W. Wright, ex-deputy sheriff, was elected over three competitors, by a plurality of 184 votes, defeating H. Kelleyson, who held office for several successive terms. N. A. Sturdevant was elected mayor over William Taylor, by 614 majority. Mr. Taylor is an old and respected merchant. Mr. Sturdevant is a young lawyer of good standing and acknowledged ability. Both of these newly elected officials entered the rebel army after the passage of the conscription act, and continued to serve until the surrender of General Lee. Judge W. H. Lyons was re-elected to the bench of the hustings court, without opposition. Robert Howard was re-elected clerk of the hustings court by 336 majority over G. L. Christian, a gentleman who has lost a limb in the rebel service. Marmaduke Johnson, an ex-rebel officer, was elected attorney for the circuit court over L. Tazewell, by 896 majority. The aggregate vote polled was about 500 less than in April, 1861, just prior to the so-called ordinance of secession.

Political Situation in Tennessee.

The Nashville correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette writes:

Stirring events have occurred hereabouts since the date of my last letter, and indications point to a temporary lull in the political storm which was brewing in Tennessee. The malcontents, having received no check to their incendiary proceedings, were about to inaugurate a campaign throughout the state which appealed strongly to the inflamitory sentiments, which, like coals in ashes, have been in the breasts of rebel sympathizers, who are numerous as the leaves. It is not too much to say that seven-tenths of the population of this state are disloyal to the government of the United States, and lament sincerely the downfall of the confederacy. Even of the registered voters, under the franchise law, large numbers evince their rebel tendencies by many of those little incidents which show the current of public opinion. For instance, the Gazette, of this city, has almost the exclusive publication of the announcement of candidates, which strings out into nearly half a column. Yet this journal is owned, published and edited by men whose antipathy to the present state government is well known, and who omit no opportunity to make sly hits at measures proposed in its behalf. Of course this is an indirect appeal to the fellings of rebel sympathizers.

The prompt and decided endorsement, by President Johnson, of Governor Brownlow's proclamation and addresses, and the equally unmistakable action of General Thomas, all pointing to a common policy, have had an immediate effect in subduing the tone of popular opposition to the ruling authorities. But the snake is only scotched, not killed.—Remove the constraints which overawe the malcontents and drive them to circumspection, and the scenes of 1861 would be re-enacted. Again would Union men have to leave the country or hide in the brush. Speaking of this matter, a few days since, the adjutant general of the state, remarked to me that he had good reasons for believing that the withdrawal of the military would lead to mob violence, and officials of the government here would run a serious risk of being hung up to the first tree at hand. It is expected that unheard of frauds will be committed at the approaching election of congressmen, as has already been perpetrated in many counties in the registration of voters.—What can be done, however, to prevent these occurrences, will be done. Troops are to be stationed in various parts of the country where troubles are anticipated.

Guerrilla outrages are taking place almost every day, in different sections of the state, especially in portions of western Tennessee. Covering a large extent of Perry, Wayne, and Hardin counties, are barren wastes, almost uninhabited. This extensive tract is infested with a band of some forty secession sympathizers, who have combined to rob, plunder, and murder the defensless loyalists of the rural districts. Only a few days since, they visited Carrollville, dragged an old man from his piazza, where he was sitting after nightfall, and, without a provocation, shot and killed him, seven balls taking effect, any one of the wounds being mortal. Statements of these outrages are received every week at the office of the Secretary of State of Tennessee. In fact law and order are established only in the cities, or in the most populous communities, where bodies of troops are doing duty. East Tennessee is by far the quietest and most orderly portion of the state, though even there live numbers of men who are dangerous to the peace of the country.

It is a strange and significant fact that about one-fourth of the members of the legislature have resigned. In a few cases, the cause has been appointment to offices of honor and trust under the government. But the body of the instances have not resulted from preferment, or hopes of preferment, but more probably from apprehension of persecution or violence.

SHERMAN AT INDIANAPOLIS.

He Declares that he will 'Never, Never Accept Civil Office.'

FELLOW SOLDIERS, AND FELLOW CITIZENS: I have come to Indianapolis to-day more for the pleasure afforded me in seeing my old comrades than to enunciate words of wisdom to the vast throng present on this occasion, to whom it would be impossible for me to make myself heard. You, my comrades, are accustomed to my gestures, and will understand me. You are to go home, and will recount at your peaceful firesides the tales of the war in which you were engaged. The war is over, and we have passed the great crisis which has afflicted all humanity. Other nations have had their civil wars, and now we have had ours, out of which we have come preserved.

It is the destiny of man to move forward. 'Westward the star of Empire takes its way.' When a nation overcomes external danger, it was but little in comparison to overcoming that internal danger that for a time threatened its existence. We have passed through the three great steps of the national ordeal, and have come out stronger than ever. The thought that speedily the time would come when all would stand together on a broad common, and free ground, was a sufficient recompense for the sacrifices that had been made. We of the military branch have fought through the great struggle, and I believe that even our enemies will turn to the northern soldier and thank them for preserving the national unity.

The General spoke in high praise of Governor Morton's services, who had never stopped to count quotas, but would have given every man, woman and child, if it had been necessary, for the Union! He paid a high tribute to the state for her efforts in behalf of the Union cause. Governor Morton had run his career, which was also the career of the men under his command. You were some times ahead of me as I was in the safest place in the rear. He claimed nothing for himself except to direct the men in the manner he he thought best calculated to destroy our enemies. The men had done the execution. But all this would not amount to much had not our friend Grant held the enemy in his grip, while Sherman's army did the bitting.

Now we may return to the walks of civil life, and he claimed for each one of his soldier that he was a more intelligent man than he was when he went into the army. He had learned lessons not to be found in books. Hereafter you will see the laws everywhere obeyed. We must have no more rebellion in this land, and your task will be to see that the laws are obeyed by all, even if some do not approve them, and if they do not we will make them. He hoped that not another life will be shed by the bayonet for two hundred years, and, in that time, being a little crowded, we might need a war to get rid of some of the sulplus population. He did not believe in adding the cold and sterile territory of our north, or the arid or unproductive on the southwest. We were large enough, and we would not give ten cents an acre for such land.

Soldiers, I am about to close, and remember that I shall never, never accept civil office, and never again draw my sword in anger. I have devoted my life to one profession, and in no other capacity will I ever act. His services were always ready upon demand of his country, and until the day of his death it should have them. He accepted the honor of his soldiers, but not for himself. He was simply but one of his brave army. He, like each one had tried to do his duty. In behalf, therefore, of those regiments of his army present, he returned thanks to the people of Indiana for this grand ovation.

At the conclusion of the General's remarks, nine enthusiastic cheers were given for him.

The New Order of Things in Mississippi.

There was an interesting legal case at Vicksburg recently, detailed by a correspondent, which shows that men down there are wonderfully under the influence of the old spirit. A certain doctor had a freedman in his employ. The employer complained that certain work was not done in a certain way. The freedman responded that he had not been instructed to do it in that way. The doctor remarked that if the negro contradicted him he would shoot him. The negro insisted that he had not received the instructions. Thereupon the doctor very mildly shot him dead, putting not one but several bullets through his body.—He also tried to kill the wife of the negro, who made an effort to save her husband—a natural undertaking, but not so regarded by such men as the chivalrous doctor. The murderer was arrested and arraigned before a military tribunal. A writ of habeas corpus was applied for. The bar of Vicksburg assisted in the service of the writ, in order to give it more weight. In the argument it was admitted that the judge who issued the writ had just returned from the rebel army; had lost an arm in the war against the government; had been appointed judge by Provisional Governor Sharkey; that if the writ was granted the doctor would have to be tried under the old code of Mississippi, which excluded negro testimony, and that even if the doctor admitted the act, it was not murder—only man-slaughter at the worst to kill a negro. The case was finally referred to General Howard, of the Freedmen's Bureau, who ordered the writ to be disregarded, and that the accused be tried by a military commission. Thereupon the 'Union men' of Vicksburg cried out against a military despotism, and declared that they were still under military instead of civil rule, notwithstanding the appointment of a Provisional Governor. People will be apt to think, in view of the circumstances, that the people of Mississippi are not yet ripe for civil rule. We wish they were 'ripe,' but the fields do not yet look as if harvest was at hand.—Cin. Gaz.

A Thieving Clerk.

Wallace W. Whittlesey, clerk in the Treasury Department, charged with stealing a hundred and twenty-five $1,000 bonds from the Treasury Department, arrived to day from New York, where he was arrested. The bonds were not registered, and could not be sold. These he burned, but secured the coupons, and they have nearly all been recovered. He resigned his clerkship some months ago, stating that he had realized a fortune by the death of a relative. He went to New York, and lived there extravagantly till arrested. He was registering clerk of certificates of indebtedness, which he was required to deposit in the safe at the close of each day's business. The bonds were kept in this safe, and it is supposed that he abstracted them when depositing his certificates of indebtedness. He made an unsuccessful attempt to escape from the cars on the way here. Secretary Fessenden's last annual report explains fully relative to the loss of these bonds.—Chicago Rep July 26.

Won't do to Pardon.

Some of the Provisional Governors are finding out that it won't do to pardon so indiscriminately, and that recommendations of clemency must be dealt out with a more sparing hand.—Governor Murphy, of Arkansas, says he will recommend no more residents of his state for pardon; that they show by their defiant and insolent conduct that they don't deserve clemency. Of course he alludes to leading rebels, the ones now most clamorous for forgiveness.

In Tennessee, Brownlow knows his man, and grants but few recommendations. He is right. The time has not come for too free use of the pardoning power. The guns of the battle-field have scarcely ceased reverberating, and yet the President is almost besieged in the White House by rebels who have not yet dropped a tear of repentants.—Let us shut down the gates of clemency for a season yet.

From the Pacific.

PORTLAND, Oregon, July 20.

Governor Gibbs and the state officials welcomed Schuyler Colfax and party at Salem yesterday. Speeches were made by the governor and others, and responded to by Mr. Colfax, Lieutenant Governor Boss, and A. D. Richardson, of The New York Tribune. There were large meetings of citizens to welcome the visitors at Oregon City yesterday, and at Portland, to-day.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—The gold and silver coinage of the San Francisco mint during the fiscal year just ended equals $19,000,000.

A telegram from British Columbia states that one mining claim in Cariboo, yielded over $30,006 during the week ending July 9th.

Personal.

Mr Jay Cooke, who has made such a handsome thing out of the government loans, of which he has disposed of the round sum of one thousand two hundred and seventy-four millions, is the owner of Gibra'tar Island, in Put-in-Bay, Lake Erie. There he keeps open house and dispenses a magnificent hospitality. Many clergymen are his guests, and are enabled by his kindness to enjoy a delightful summer vacation without expense to themselves. For several years past Mr. Cooke has been in the habit of supporting a number of missionaries for the evangelization of the heathen in different parts of the world.

THE DIVINE RIGHT OF SLAVERY.—Gen. Rousseau has given an admirable practical reply to the arguments in favor of slavery as a divine institution. He says:

Some of my clerical friends may take an objection to my theology, insisting that the Bible sanctions slavery. Now gentlemen, I must confess that I am much better versed in 'Casey's Tactics,' the Army Regulations, or even in Blackstone and Chitty, though I got rather rusty in the law, than in the good book, but this much I know of the Bible: When the Old and New Testament were delivered to men, chattel slavery existed among all mankind, and every word on the subject of slavery which these books contain goes towards mitigating and lessening the power of the master, and giving some comfort to the slave. And this, too, I know; That wherever Christianity is the ruling religion, slavery has gone down, down, down! And wherever people do not believe in the Bible, but in the Turkish Koran, or in some heathenish superstition, there slavery is still as strong, and universal and deeply fixed, as it was two thousand years ago. Now all your hypocritical rebel parsons, with their texts about Paul and Onesimus, can't get over this little proposition: That Christianity has steadily driven out slavery, and that the Turks still keep it up; and I want to know if the Turks and the Tartars are really better Christians than the French and the English, the Germans and the Americans. Mr. Mallory belongs to a bygone age, somewhat like the mastodons, and Siberian elephants, and other antidiluvian animals.—His opposition to the constitutional amendment will no more stop its ultimate adoption than his baying at the moon can keep that heavenly luminary from shedding its mild rays over the wise alike and the fool. He cannot stop the wheel of progress, which sweeps away old-fashioned ploughs and keelboats, old-fashioned spelling and old fashioned music, old-fashioned monarchies and old-fashioned slavery, which rolls forward locomotives where once stood ox-carts, and draws the electric wires across the ocean.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On last Monday a shocking accident occurred at Spring Lake, in this county. The victim was a Mr. Ringrose, who was employed in the sawmill at that place, while engaged in adjusting a belt on one of the wheels, was caught and dragged into the machinery and instantly crushed to pieces. There was no one near at the time, and he was found a few minutes afterwards by another of the employees of the mill, a frightfully mutilated corpse. He was a returned soldier, and had been at home but a few days when he was thus torn from family and friends, just as his security from death seemed to have become the most perfect. He leaves a wife and seven children to mourn his untimely fate.—Shakopee Argus, July 22nd.

UNION STATE CONVENTION.

A Convention will be held at Ingersoll's Hall in St. Paul on Wednesday, September 6, 1865, representing the electors who have given an unqualified support to the war for the Union, who hold to the doctrines of the Declaration of Independence that "all men are created equal," and "that governments derive their just power from the consent of the governed," and who by their votes placed political control in the State and Nation into the hands of the present Administration, for the purpose of nominating candidates for State officers to be supported at the next general election, and for transacting any other business that may be deemed for the public good.

The popular vote of last fall is taken as the basis of representation—400 entitling to one delegate, and every fraction, if over 200 votes, entitling to one more.

A Soldier Candidate.

We are in receipt of a communication from a commissioned officer in the army, requesting, or rather perhaps granting us the high privilege of publishing a correspondence between some of the commissioned officers of the 5th, 6th, 7th, 9th and 10th regiments, and Colonel Marshall. The substance of the correspondence is that about eighty of the commissioned officers of these regiments "earnestly request" Colonel Marshall to become a candidate for the office of Governor at the forthcoming Union Convention ; that the Colonel dislikes very much to enter the arena of politics, but the hope is entertained that he will forego his own inclinations and allow his brothers in arms to lead him. an unwilling victim, to the altar of gubernatorial honors. The Colonel does not pray that the bitter cup may pass from him, but contents himself by saying "thy will be done" So we suppose that these eighty commissioned officers, representing about one-third of the officers of the military organizations of the State, will present a candidate of their own. We waded through this list of military gentlemen who are so solicitous that Col. Marshall shall be our next Governor, hoping to find at least a partial endorsement of the Colonel by the non-commissioned officers and privates. The most enterprising detective, with quizzing glass in hand, would fail to discover the remotest reflection of the wishes of those persons, who, without position, and almost without pay, have braved the thickest of the fight. It is by no means the rule that the officer represents the choice of his subordinate, and if the privates in these regiments have not been consulted in this matter they should have been ; or, being consulted, if they refuse to co-operate in the request, there can be no unanimity among the military men of these regiments, in reference to the nomination of Colonel Marshall. Until better assurance is furnished us that there is some unanimity among our soldiers both at home and abroad, in favor of the candidate of these eighty commissioned officers, we must respectfully decline the publication of the correspondence. But let us turn for a moment to the civilians of the State, and see what progress may there be expected for the Colonel. We would not detract from the personal merit of that gentleman, because we have no personal acquaintance, but as he has reluctantly entered the political arena, our readers will be greatly obliged if we report progress. The Winona Republican is in favor of his nomination, and so is the Preston Republican. But the St. Paul Press, the leading organ of the State, and heretofore the "buzum" friend of Colonel Marshall, has already avowed that he is not the candidate of the Press, nor would they propose him or any other man. Considering the celerity with which the Press has formerly announced and denounced candidates, we are somewhat at a loss in solving its present action Perhaps the Press considers him unworthy its support. It may be that its former laudations of the Colonel are now turned to execrations, but from charitable motives are not allowed public expression. If this be so, and the Press still maintains its reputation as a model of political purity, we will emulate its virtues, and announce as the Press has already done, that Colonel Marshall is not our candidate.

OUR NEXT GOVERNOR.

As the time for holding the Union State convention approaches, it is necessary that the people cast about them and select some suitable man for the most important position in the gift of the people of this State. Who shall be our next Governor ? Why, the man who gets the most votes at the nominating convention at St. Paul to be sure. But the important inquiry among delegates is, who shall we vote for. Upon this point our personal and political preferences are quite decided, and if we were allowed to make a selection Charles D. Gilfillan of St. Paul would receive any unanimous vote and be called upon to accept the nomination, which would doubtless be done with becoming modesty, but not with a feigned intimation that he dislikes to enter the arena of politics. Mr. Gilfillan is candid to ask frankly the people of our State for gubernatorial honors. He did not, it is true receive a Colonels commission and enter the army, but he has fought long and well the fire in the rear, without any compensation, while Brigadiers were drawing their heavy annual stipend. Mr Gilfillan is a lawyer of fine ability and uncommon rectitude and sobriety. He held the position of Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee from the year 1855 until 1861, during which time the party was brought from an insignificant minority to the strength and vigor of a dominant party which continues to swell its majorities at each succeeding election.

He has been a member of the Legislature from the St. Paul District, succeeding on the Union ticket, notwithstanding its Democratic majority is usually upwards of five hundred. As a statesman competent to discharge the duties incident to the office of Governor, he has not his superior in the State, because from its infancy to the present time he has been prominent as a public adviser, and familar with her history in the past, and her requirements for the future. Mr. Gilfillan is not a military man, but we hardly think that the privates and subordinate officers of the army will go far to support in opposition to him a Colonel who did not obtain his commission by deeds of valor upon the battle field, but was appointed through political favoritism, which oftentimes during this war has been woefully abused.

Indian Frauds Again.

It is feared by some of our exchanges, that the investigation of Indian Affairs, to be held by Mr. Windom, will prove to be a white-washing machine, resulting in an official endorsement of the conduct of Indian Agents. While honest men may fear this result, those who may be the subjects of this investigation doubtless hope Mr. Windom will prove a friend indeed, in this their hour of trial. Of the appointment of this gentleman to the investigation of Indian affairs in this State, the Winona Republican makes the following significant remarks :

"It would have better accomplished the object of Congress if some member of the investigating committee had been assigned to duty in Minnesota, whose connection with the appointment of Indian officials in this State was less marked and recognized than that of Mr. Windom. That there is a certain kind of honor observed among thieves is as true now as when the remark first passed into a proverb."

Of all newspapers of the State the Republican should be the best informed concerning the official integrity of Mr. Windom, on account of the proximity of their habitations. The Republican is published at, and Mr. Windom lives in Winona. They are well acquainted, both having summered and wintered in that city for a consecutive number of years. Mr. Windom's neighbors intimate that there is honor among thieves, and that in his researches after Indian frauds he may retain this proverb and adopt it as a rule to be observed between him and the offenders, many of whom are his appointees, and have done the "fair thing" by him.—Whether there be any cause for this reflection upon Mr. Windom or not, there certainly is occasion for rebuking the fraudulent practices of our public men. From corruption of every description the dominant party must purge itself, or sink under the burden of official abuses. For a time it may thrive, but the miasmac stench of dishonorable proceedings will finally drive its supporters to a more wholesome atmosphere. We trust that if this committee fails to reach any cases of corruption in this State, and to report them according to instructions, another committee will be appointed to investigate this committee and report whether or not, among its rules may be found the maxim that honor is to be observed among thieves.

More Proof.

Long before the expedition of Captain Fisk was organized, a majority of the State press declared it a humbug. We were among those who thought it anything but profitable to join the scheme. It seems that "Ward" who receives his communications at the Press office has become disgusted with the project, and offers his ticket for sale through the Press in the following words :

"For Idaho.—A ticket in Fisk's expedition to Idaho, for which the owner paid $125, will be sold for $50. Address "Ward", Press office.

"Sold and got the tin, and another man taken in" quoth Fisk. Why does not some member of the Press office embrace this opportunity to join this pet scheme of their's when tickets are so "dog cheap' ?

State and County Convention.

It will be seen by the calls which head our columns this week, that a State Convention will be held in St. Paul Sept. 6th, for the purpose of nominating State officers, and that a County Convention will be held at the City Hall on the 26th of August, to select delegates to attend the State Convention. The chairman of the County Committee also requests the towns to meet on the evening of the 24th inst. to select delegates to the County Convention. The business is before the people, and let them not forget that "the people rule."

SEVENTH REGIMENT.

The Seventh Regiment of Minnesota Infantry reached St. Paul on Tuesday last, August 8th, and were entertained by the city authorities with the usual speeches, dinners and greetings rendered to former regiments. The regiment numbers about five hundred men, one hundred of whom were so unwell as not to be able to leave the boat to participate in the reception. This is the regiment which was stationed at Mankato during the Indian trials and executions.

RETURN OF TWO REGIMENTS.

Arrival of the Sixth in the Morning and the Tenth in the Evening.

From St. Paul Press 8th.

The Sixth Minnesota Volunteer Infantry arrived at our levee yesterday morning at six o'clock, on the steamer Brilliant from St. Louis. They could have reached here some time during the night but were telegraphed to lay up, which they did at some point below, coming up in the morning. The firing of cannon and ringing of bell announced their arrival, and crowds of people could be seen at an early hour hastening hither and thither, busily preparing for their reception. At about eight o'clock the military, State authorities, committees, firemen, &c., repaired to the levee for the purpose of escorting them to the Capitol. The regiment had already disembarked and were drawn up in line on Sibley street.

Upon arriving at the Capitol, the regiment was drawn up in line and were welcomed by Mayor Prince and Gov. Miller in brief speeches.

At the conclusion of Gov. Miller's address, Lieut. Col. Grant returned the thanks of the regiment.

The boys were then marched up stairs and ordered to charge upon the refreshments.

The tables were bountifully supplied with everything that the daintiest appetite could crave. Our ladies know how to get up an entertainment of this kind, and on this occasion they were not lacking. The boys appeared to enjoy themselves hugely, and everything passed off in the most pleasant manner possible.

After dinner the regiment was again formed in line, and in the same order proceeded to the Upper Levee where they embarked for the Fort, where they will remain until they are mustered out and paid off, which will be in a few days.

THE TENTH MINNESOTA.

The Tenth Minnesota regiment arrived in our city last evening at 8 o'clock on the steamer Davenport, and was received by the city and State authorities with the usual ceremony, The procession was formed on Sibley street, in the same order as the reception of the Sixth in the morning, and took the same line of march to the Capitol.

When the regiment arrived at the Capitol it was drawn up in mass and was addressed by Mayor Prince and Gov. Miller.

Brevet Brig. Gen. Jennison, who is in command, returned the thanks of his regiment for the very flattering reception which they had received.

The boys were then ordered to march to the tables provided by the ladies in the upper department of the Capitol, which they did quite willingly. After supper the regiment was formed in line and marched to the levee, where the boat was in waiting to take them to the Fort.

Complaint having been made to President Johnson of General Palmer's Kentucky election order, the President telegraphed to the general, "I hope you will see the laws faithfully executed ;" to which the general replied. "I will"

Educational.

School Books.

Soloman has said: "Of making many books there is no end."

The "wise-man" was probably writing prophetically ; and we may therefore look for a continuance of the present difficulty in books. Forty years ago, when Webster's spelling book, and the English reader formed the whole list in that branch of education, there was a scarcity of books, but those we did have were good, because compiled by wise men. The books originated with the compiler. Now school books originate in the cupidity of the publishers, who see a fortune in the business. They find some one who will "get up a set of books," and they depend upon ratting to get them "introduced" into the schools. This is effected in various ways: by hand bill and pamphlet circulation, by presentation of copies to newspaper publishers, who are expected to puff everything, from Barnum's last humbug to the whiskey drank on a trading flat-boat. The editor may be a good judge of these articles, and also of school books, but while one minute is time enough to judge of the former, one month is not long enough to judge of the latter.

But another part of the "ratting" movement is to "exchange new books for old ones," by which a school is supplied with new books throughout. This, of course, reaches but few scholars ; but it is published that this, that, and the other school have "adopted" the series, and few know the cause.

Again, they persuade the Legislature to bind the whole State, Minnesota for instance, for five years to a certain series on the plea of economy, and then we must pay one dollar for a fifty-cent book, as at present, because we are bound.

It might be expected that defective school books would be found in schools under such circumstances. Of that not now. ONE.

Mr. Editor : I noticed in your paper an article signed "A. C. S.," upon the subject of educating. I like the idea put forth by the writer well. He is right. There seems to be, and is, a natural order in the education of a child. Every effort should be put forth to develop the moral faculties and the physical powers. Educate by example as well as precept. I am well aware that too many scholars are allowed to study merely for the sake of preparing to recite their lessons.—They seem to remember phraseology rather than principles. They study the book and not the subject. They seem to have no idea beyond the recitation. The scholar should be taught and encouraged to study the subject and trace it through in all its bearings. In a word, he should be taught to think. In intellectual instruction it is of as much importance how we study as what we study. It is almost safe to say a person is educated when he has learned to study aright.

NEWS FROM THE FRONTIER

The Indian war about to close.

From Sioux City Journal July 29.

THE EXPEDITION.

From the best information we get from the military expedition, we are led to think that its mission is accomplished, and that before this, it has commenced a counter-march. It seems that the command was met at Fort Rice by large numbers of Indians, representing the various tribes which have heretofore been hostile, anxious for peace, and prepared to make treaties. This accomplished, no necessity for further military operations in their country exists, and probable the command will soon return to this place.

After acknowledging themselves conquered, and entering into treaties of amity, nothing further remains to be done according to established usages of civilized warfare. The work of the military is accomplished, and so long as the terms of the treaty are observed, we must regard them as friendly. Still, we must confess to a total lack of confidence in Indian honor, and shall expect a renewal of hostilities as soon as the red skins are able to discover a chance for either advantage or profit to be gained by such a course. This at least, has been the history of past negotiations with them, and we have no reason to hope that they have experienced any permanent change of heart of late.

MATTERS AT SPIRIT LAKE.

Several parties from Spirit Lake and vicinity, have visited our town within the past week. They report crops in that location looking finely and promising a bountiful yield. A number of families have recently located there, and are taking homesteads and preparing for permanent settlement. All things considered, the prospects for the Spirit Lake country are considered more flattering than ever before. On the way to this place, one gentleman saw a drove of elk, numbering fifty or sixty, another saw about a dozen ; but owing to limited time, no delays were made for the purpose of giving chase.

Tennessee Elections.

The Tennessee congressional elections took place on Thursday. Returns thus far received show the election of three unionists—Maynard in the Knoxville district, Stokes in the Chattanooga, and Cooper in the Shelbyville ; and of two oppositionists—Thomas in the Clarksville district, and Campbell in the Nashville. The 1st, 7th, and 8th districts remain to be heard from.

The internal revenue receipts, on Thursday, were in excess of $2,000,-000

STATE NEWS.

Appointed.—Daniel Bassett, Esq. has been sworn in as Postmaster in this city. He has not yet taken possession of his office, but will do so in a few days.

B. F. Baker ; Esq., has received his appointment as Register of the U. S. Land Office, located here, vice Dana F. King, resigned.—Minneapolis Atlas.

Our Population.—From the lists of our Assessor D. R. Barber, Esq., we are led to believe that the population of Minneapolis is not far from 5000 either way. Should the present influx continue, a thousand more will be added this year.—Atlas.

The total population of Hennepin County, excepting Minneapolis, is 12,473. Minneapolis will swell up the number to over 17,000. We think ours will be the banner County in the State for population.—Atlas.

—The Preston Republican publishes the census returns of Fillmore county for 1865. The population of the county is 17,442, being an increase of 3,919 in the past five years, which is something over 28 per cent. of the census of 1860.

—The Mississippi river is now in splendid condition, being a foot higher than at any time during the past three years. It has risen altogether over four feet, and from present indications will go still higher—St. Paul Press Aug. 8th.

—About 200 pardons were granted last week. Over 2,000 applications are yet unacted upon, and the number is being increased at the rate of 100 to 200 daily.

Mr. Gladstone had been defeated at Oxford, and was making a second trial in South Lancashire. The princess Helena, one of Queen Victoria's daughters, is to marry the Prince of Orange. The ravages of the cholera in Egypt are on the decrease.

—All the military posts in southwest Missouri except Lebanon, Springfield, and Granby, have been abandoned ; and civil courts are now held in every county in that section of the state. Other parts of the state, however, remain disquieted. In Lafayette county serious difficulties are apprehended, in consequence of the threatening attitude assumed by the rebels, whose conduct is instigated by the conservatives and copperheads.

—The receipts of the general government for the quarter ending with March last, exclusive of loans, were about $90,000,000—including $65,000,000 from internal revenue and $20,000 from customs ; the expenditures for the same time were $353,000,000. The receipts into the state treasury of Illinois for the month of July last were $706,576—including $463,038 from taxes for 1864, and $240,553 from the Illinois Central

In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly announce the greatest triumph in musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments, with double bellows and two pedals for the feet to operate but the want of the reversed or Exhaustion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated.

Another objection to this method of blowing was that, both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell Within the past two years, instruments constructed on this European plan of 'double blowers," have been manufactured in this country, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an appendage is nearly impossible

Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of tone. We predict for this invention a brilliant future.

THE MELODEON & SCHOOL ORGAN.

For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly. With our increased facilities, we feel warranted in assuring our patrons that their orders will be promptly met, and solicit a continuance of their patronage.

Caution to purchasers.

All our instruments have upon the name board, in full, "Geo. A Prince & Co." When a dealer represents any other instrument as "the same as ours," it is usually a mere attempt to sell an inferior instrument, on which he can make a large profit.

Mr. Scattergood inserts his business card in the Union this week, to which we respectfully commend our readers.

Census of Nicollet.—The St Peter Tribune publishes the returns of Nicollet county. The entire population of the county is 5,019. Oshawa township, in which is included the city of St Peter, numbers 1,662. The city alone numbers about 1,000 inhabitants.

Lost an Eye.—A son of Mr. Brown, living in lower town, about twelve years of age, was kicked in the eye by a colt, and will lose it. The accident took place last Sunday, the colt striking the right eye and utterly destroying it. Dr. Clark was called, and dressed the wound which is doing well.

Anniversary.—The Seventh Anniversary of the Association of Regular Baptists of the Minnesota Valley, will be held in Garden City, commencing on Friday the 15th of September, at 10 o'clock a. m., and will continue over the Sabbath. Important business will engage the body at the opening session.

J. G. Craven, Clerk,
Mankato, Aug 1, 1865.

Drowned.—We are informed that Mr. Dubuisson lost a very valuable horse in the river last Sunday. He was crossing about two miles below town when he came into deep water and the buggy catching in a snag, threw the horse on his side, and being unable to rise on account of deep water was drowned. Mr. Dubuisson succeeded in recovering the buggy.

Appointments.—A special Washington dispatch to the Chicago Tribune says John H Welch has been appointed Register, and Edward W. Hart Receiver of the Winnebago Land Office. Mr Welch is the present register at Winnebago City and has been re-appointed for a new term. Mr. Holley is the present receiver, who will be relieved by Mr. Hart, if the special dispatch proves true.

Navigation.—A steam boat, or at least it would have been a steam boat if it had'nt been a flat boat, named Planet, arrived at our levee on Tuesday last and discharged a freight of over twelve tons. She started from Henderson some four days since with 22 tons of freight, ten of which were left at St. Peter.—She reports the navigation good below Henderson, but above that point to Mankato the bars and snags gave some trouble. The goods were pretty well distributed among our Mankato dealers and those of Garden City.

The freight from St. Paul is one dollar per hundred. The barge will return with down freight.

Arrived.—We are informed that Mr F. Mac Namara, formerly engineer of the Winona and St. Peter Railroad has arrived and is preparing to establish the grade of our streets. He was expecting Hons M. S. Wilkinson and Norton to accompany him, but for some reason they will not arrive for a day or two. This may retard his work some, as it was hoped that Mr. MacNamara would bring his chainbearers with him. We hope the initiatory steps for the improvement in our streets and mending of our ways may not be delayed.

Death of a Soldier.—By a private letter from Logansport, Ind. we learn of the death of Sam. H. Hensley, which occurred on the 28th of July, at the residence of his father near Logansport, by reason of disease contracted in the army. Mr. Hensley was an employee of this office before he entered the army, and was a brother of C. B. Hensley, editor of the Mankato Independent. He enlisted in Company E 9th Minn., and served with it until this summer, when he was discharged for disability, and went home to die. His comrades speak of him very highly, both as a faithful soldier and good-hearted young man; and they, and all who knew him, mourn his death as that of a brother and a friend.

Crops, Rain and River.—In the past week heavy rains have fallen, but until yesterday with little damaging effect to the crops. As we are now, however, in the midst of harvest, the less rain we have the better, and indeed the storm of Wednesday morning must have injured to some extent the harvested crops.

Notwithstanding we have had an unusual [illegible] of rain we can report no substantial improvement in the river. It will rise a few inches in a day and recede as many the next. The St. Paul papers report a heavy rise in the Minnesota, and the departure of boats for Mankato. It is not probable they will [illegible]

Too Bad.—A correspondent to the St. Paul Press from Rice County, after announcing the population of that county to be 10,977, an interest of about fifty per cent over the census of 1860, says that taking into consideration the "Indian Scare" it shows pretty well for Rice County. Considering the fact that this County is fifty miles and more from the nearest Indian massacre of the frontier, and has been as safe from raids as the State of Massachusetts, we should think that Rice had most emphatically begged the question.

Colman's Rural World.—We are in receipt of this new Agricultural and Horticultural Journal—a successor to the old Valley Farmer, so well known throughout the West. It is printed in neat style, and each number contains matters of the highest importance to Farmers, Fruit Growers, and Stock breeders. It has also an ably conducted department devoted to the Family Circle.

This Journal really merits patronage from every farmer in the West. It is published in quarto form, at St Louis, Mo., on the 1st and 15th of each month by the old Editor of the Valley Farmer, Norman J. Colman, Esq., at $2 per annum, to whom subscriptions should be sent. The Journal will be sent from the first of July to the first of January for $1. We think our readers will find it to their interest to subscribe for it.

An Acknowledgement.—The undersigned having circulated a subscription in the village of Mankato, whereby to obtain funds with which to purchase a lot in said village on which to erect a church building for the M. E. Church, feels it a duty—a pleasant one—to inform the Public that the object for which they gave their money is accomplished. Lot one, in block eight, in Warren's Addition, is purchased, paid for, and a Warranty Deed for the same executed to the Trustees of said church, according to her Dicipline in such cases provided. Also, on behalf of said church, as Pastor, I wish to tender grateful acknowledgements to the subscribers, who were not a few—between 70 and 80—who so willingly subscribed and paid towards the above object, and I hope that at no very distant day a building will be erected on the lot, worthy of it and the subscribers to its purchase.

Value of the lot, $500; cash paid for it, $400; cash obtained in Mankato, $300.

THOMAS DAY.

Mankato, Aug. 9th, 1865

Returned.—Lieut. S. D. Parsons, of the 2nd Minnesota regiment has returned to this city, after a service of about four years in the army. He enlisted and was appointed Quartermaster Sergeant of the regiment, and on account of his fitness for the position was soon appointed Quartermaster of the same organization. We also notice the arrival of J. M. Wirt, who enlisted in company E of the 9th regiment, and has until his recent discharge been engaged at the Government hospital, Davenport, Iowa.—Benjamin Doremus, of Garden City, also returned a few days since, having lost an eye at the battle of Guntown. Ben. fought bravely until he lost his eye, and was finally captured in the unfortunate engagement, and taken to the Andersonville prison. Of the particulars of his release we are not informed. A. T Barr, of Shelbyville, formerly of company C 6th Minnesota, but late of the Veteran Reserve Corps, arrived in town Wednesday morning last, having received his discharge from the service. He commences civil again by subscribing for the Union one year. Of course we think it a very propitious beginning.

Census of Blue Earth.—We give below the census of Blue Earth county by towns commencing with Mankato. The town of McPherson is estimated only, but the figures will vary but little from the exact return. The male population predominates in every town but as the return of McPherson is not official we are not able to foot up the difference in the whole county. The Majority of males will not vary much from eleven hundred. Colored people there are ten, of deaf and dumb two, insane one. The colored population of Mankato has doubled in five years, there being one in 1861 and two now.

It will be seen by footing up the totals of the various towns that Blue Earth county has a population in 1865 of 8,883 souls. The census of 1860 gives the same county a population of 4,803, showing an increase of 4,080 inhabitants in the brief space of five years. The ratio of increase in about 85 per cent. and exceeds that of any other border county of the State, and many of the counties which have never been exposed to the outrages of hostile bands of Indians. Blue Earth county is one of the most exposed of border counties, but, notwithstanding the serious obsticles to a speedy settlement, she stands in her ratio of increase far ahead of the most of her sister counties throughout the State. The Winnebago reservation which lies in the heart of the county has not, until last year, been open to settlement, and even then was only offered at a price double, and in many instances treble, that of Government land. Hostile bands of Indians have visited our borders almost yearly, and by their barbarous cruelty have driven thousands from among us, and turned back the vast tide of immigration which seeks a home, but doubts its safety, in the fertile lands of the famous Blue Earth Valley.

The city of Mankato, suffering in common with the frontier settlements in consequence of Indian hostilities, and by the unprecedented drouth which has deprived it of river navigation on the Minnesota, deranging its channels of egress and ingress, and thus interfering with its business relations and prospects, has, notwithstanding the manifold drawbacks and discouragements, shown an invincible disposition to advance in numbers, material wealth, and local importance. Her population in 1860 was less than one thousand, while to day she numbers exclusive of the township 1,973 persons, the number out side the city being 574. The census of Mankato in 1860 was 1,559, but in these figures were included those living in the township and about 200 living at the Agency, which at that time formed a part of Mankato township. Deducting these from the figures of the census and we have barely a thousand as the population of the city five years ago. No better argument than the publication of this statistical record, is needed to show that a rapid growth of Mankato in wealth and population, only awaits the settlement of border difficulties, and the development of the adjacent country.

U. S. 7-30 LOAN.

THIRD SERIES.

$230,000,000.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury the undersigned, the general Subscription Agent for the sale of United States securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three-tenths per cent interest per annum, known as the

7.30 LOAN.

These notes are issued under date of July 15th, 1865, and are payable three years from that time, in currency, or are convertible, at the option of the holder the

U. S. 5-20 Six per cent.

Gold Bearing Bonds!

These bonds are now worth a handsome premium, and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds, from State, County, and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent. per annum, to their value, according to the rate levied on other property. Interest is payable semi-annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker.

The interest at 7.30 per cent amounts to

One cent per day on a $50 note
Two cents " " " $100 "
Ten " " " " $500 "
20 " " " " $1000 "
$1 " " " " $5000 "

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.

The notes of this third series are precisely similar in form and privileges to the Seven-Thirties already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying interest in gold coin at 6 per cent, instead of 7 3-10ths in currency. Subscribers will deduct the interest in currency up to July 15th, at the time when they subscribe.

The delivery of the notes of this third series of the Seven thirties will commence on the 1st of June, and will be made promptly and continnovsly after that date.

The slight change made in the conditions of this THIRD SERIES affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in Gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three-tenths per cent in currency. This is now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the great

THE ONLY LOAN IN MARKET.

POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Less than $230,000,000 of the Loan authorized by Congress are now on the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within sixty days, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other loans

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and private bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders

ARRANDALE & CO., Manf'g Agts.
No. 167 Broadway, New York.

Announce that all of the above list of goods will be sold for One Dollar each.

In consequence of the great stagnation of trade in the manufacturing districts of England, through the war having cut off the supply of cotton, a large quantity of Valuable Jewelry, originally intended for the English market has been sent off for sale in this country, and must be sold at any sacrifice. Under these circumstances, Arrandale & Co., acting as agents for the principal European manufacturers, have resolved upon a great Gift Apportionment to be divided according to the following regulations:

Certificates of the various articles are put into envelopes indiscriminately, sealed up, and when ordered, are taken out without regard to choice, and sent by mail, thus showing no favoritism. On receipt of the certificate, you will see what you are to have, and then it is at your option to send the dollar and take the article or not. Purchasers may thus obtain a gold watch, Diamond Ring, or any set of Jewelry on our list for One Dollar

Send 25 Cents for Certificate.

In all transactions by mail, we shall charge for forwarding the certificates, paying postage and doing the business, 25 cents each, which must be enclosed when the certificate is sent for. Five certificates will be sent for $1, eleven for $2, thirty for $5, sixty-five for $10; one hundred for $15.

What the "Press" Say of Us.

The Lafayette (Ind) Daily Courier, March 18 1865, says: A better selected, more varied or fashionable assortment of jewelry cannot be found on the continent than Arrandale & Co. are now offering. Messrs. Arrandale & Co., occupy a high position in commercial circles as men entirely above the common trickery of trade. Their statements may be implicitly relied upon, both as to the character of their goods and the manner of disposal. Ladies especially, in all parts of the country, are realizing handsome profits as agents, and if any of our fair readers desire to interest themselves in this enterprise they may do so with perfect confidence.

We have inspected, at the office of Arrandale & Co's Agency for European Manufacturing Jewellers, a large assortment of valuable and fashionable jewelry of the newest patterns. We also noticed a large quantity of silver plate and understand that the whole of these newly imported articles are to be disposed of on a novel principle giving great advantage to buyers, and affording extensive employment to agents. We know the firm in question to be very respectable and thoroughly worthy of public confidence, and recommend our friends to read their advertisement.—N. Y. Albion, September 3, 1861.

The British Whig, of Kingston, C. W. says Nov. 26th, 1861; One of our lady subscribers became an agent for Arrandale & Co. and by request brought some twenty articles sent as prizes for her agency, to this office for inspection and without hesitation we can state that each and all of the articles were worth treble the amount of cost to the recipients, and some of them six times.

AGENTS—We want agents in every regiment, and in every town and county in the country, and those acting as such will be allowed ten cents on every certificate ordered by them, provided their remittance amounts to one dollar, also other inducements which can be learned on application. Agents will collect 25 cents for every Certificate, and remit fifteen cents to us, either in cash or postage stamps.

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhoea or seminal weakness Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity; Impediments to Marriage, etc, also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

In an interview of the South Carolina delegation with the President, on Wednesday, Governor Perry gave assurances that his state would be represented in Congress next December; that doubtless, by that time, the state would adopt the constitutional amendment abolishing slavery; and that hereafter Presidential Electors would be chosen in South Carolina by a direct vote of the people. The Governor has issued a proclamation calling a state Convention to meet on the third Monday of September, for the purpose of forming a new constitution. Governor Perry made a remarkable speech at Greenville, South Carolina, on the 3d inst. before having received intelligence of his appointment; and it is expected that an effort will be made to secure his supersedure, on account of his utterances on that occasion.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—A young man, named Wm. B. Delafield, whose parents reside at Staten Island, N. Y., being on a visit to some friends in Carlston Freeborn county, accidentally shot himself with a shot gun on Monday last. While sitting in the wagon, his companion, a young man having stopped at a house near the road side, young Delafield, it is supposed in changing the position of his gun accidently discharged the piece, driving the whole contents into his side. He lived but about two hours after the accident. The body was brought to this place last Thursday and enclosed in a metalic coffin to be sent to his friends in New York. Another sad warning against the inconsiderate or careless use of firearms.—Rochester Post July 29.

—A POPULATION of 100,000 is claimed for Utah and 30,000 for Salt Lake city. Perhaps the last figures are too large, but already it is the most populous, as it is the most beautiful town between St. Louis and San Francisco. During the year ending June 1, Ben Holladay's Overland Express took $1,612,978 67 in gold dust thence to the states—though only a small fraction of the gold goes in by express. Last year a single merchant sold upward of $1,600,000 worth of goods, and paid for freight alone from the Missouri river over $150,000.

NATURAL INQUIRIES.—The day the result of the trial of Mary Harris was announced, the following interesting conversation was overheard:

'Carrie, dear, will you please lend me your revolver? I fear John will not be true to his promise to-night.' 'Why, Emma, I'm so sorry! I've just lent my revolver to Mary, as she has found a beau with ever so much more money than Alfred: but, dear, I can let you have my ivory handled stiletto, with much pleasure.—Boston Traveler.

A friend told us the other day, that he had discovered a perfect dead-shot on bed-bugs, in the simple application of naptha to the "parts affected." He says it will "play them out" at least twenty times quicker than if they had been struck by lightning; this being the case it is certainly a quick and cheap remedy for this buggy plague, and our friend is entitled to a whole hill of thanks for the valuable information.—Shakopee Argus.

THE CENSUS just completed by W. D. Hurlburt, City Assessor of Rochester, gives the following figures:—

First Ward,	1,103
Second "	1,272
Third "	288
Total.	2,663
Of the above there are males,	1,334
Females	1,329

Five more males than females, notwithstanding the draft made by Uncle Samuel upon the male population. In 1860, before any call was made for troops, our city had a population of less than 1,200. Now, in five years time it, has considerable more than doubled, and when "the boys in blue" return the number will exceed 3000—Rochester Post.

—A correspondent of a New York paper estimates the loss of the rebel army during the rebellion at 100,000 killed and died in sereice, and 100,000 permanently disabled; while probably 200,000 others suffered under various degrees of disability. The pecuniary losses of the south by the war are estimated at $9,300,000.

—The great iron-clad Dunderburg was launched at New York on Saturday. She will be ready for service in about six months. This vessel is the largest ship of war in the world. She is 380 feet long, has 66 feet breadth of beam, and 29 feet depth to case-mate deck, and is of 7,000 tons measurement. She will carry four 15-inch Rodman guns and twelve to fourteen 11-inch Dahlgren guns.

On Monday, Mudd, Arnold, O'Laughlin, and Spangler arrived at Fortress Monroe on a steamer from Washington, and were shortly afterwards placed on board the gunboat Florida, which immediately proceeded to sea. Her destination was not made public, but is supposed to be the Dry Tortugas.

—James Gordon Bennett has purchased the ground recently occupied by Barnum's museum, paying Barnum $250,000 therefor. The remainder of the burned district has also been purchased by Mr. Bennett, costing about $200,000 more.

—The receipts from internal revenue for the month of July have been $20,000,000; and it is estimated that $60,000,000 from the same source will be received during the next two months.

—A defalcation of $453,000 has been discovered in the accounts of Mr. Carlton, the Government depositary at Memphis; and the treasury authorities in consequence, have seized the Commercial bank, the president of which is one of Carlton's bondsmen.

—The principle object of Dick Taylor's presence in Washington is to obtain permission to make a visit to Jeff. Davis. Dick had an interview with the President on Thursday, on which occasion no definite answer was given to his application.

It cures all if the directions are strictly followed, or the money will be refunded.

That Cough which you are neglecting may result in fatal Consumption, if some prompt remedy is not used

Why sacrifice your life when your disease can be cured so quickly and at so small a cost?

What is the value of Money when compared to Health?

MORSE'S EXPECTORANT

Is warranted to break up the most troublesome cough in an incredibly short time. There is no remedy that shows more evidence of its merit than this for curing

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Difficulty in Breathing, Asthma, Bronchitis, Laryngitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of patients in the advanced stage of the disease.

Morse's Expectorant is a vegetable anodyne, prepared expressly to meet the constant demand for a safe and efficient remedy for diseases of the

THROAT AND LUNGS,

Diseases of those organs are so prevalent and dangerous that a reliable Medicine is a necessary safeguard in every community. In such a remedy for family use, the absolute absence of danger from accidental overdoses, freedom from poisons, and the adaptation to patients of every age and condition, of either sex, is indispensible. These qualities are most combined in this preperation, and so admirably is it adapted to the cure of all diseases for which it is recommended, that its entire influence is bro't to bear against them, and so perfectly assist nature in its efforts to rid the system of disease, that the most delicate constitution can use it with perfect safety and a fixed certainty that a RELIEF AND A CURE WILL SPEEDILY FOLLOW

As Time—the great developer of Events—advances, these truths becomes wider and better known, and this Medicine has already become a simple necessity, with a growing demand, unprecedented in the history of Medicine—the natural results of its INTRINSIC MERITS.

A single trial is all that is necessary to establish the fact that it is the most efficacious remedy ever offered to suffering humanity.

This medicine is put up in 50, 75 and $1,00 bottles and warranted to contain more and better material than any similar medicine introduced to the public in a medicine.

For sale by Druggists generally. July 1 y

HELMBOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATIONS,

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED" COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings.

This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the matter of calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for men, women and children.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

For weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion, attended with the following Symptoms:

Indisposition to Exertion,	Loss of Power,

Muscular System.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes), soon follow—

FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c.,

In one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

E

In many affections peculiar to Females, the EXTRACT BUCHU is unequaled by any other remedy, and for all complaints incident to the sex, or in the

Helmbold's

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA,

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the Skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect HELMBOLD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA. It cleanses and renovates the Blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought for, and now, for the first time the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

O

HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH,

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upwards of 30,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basis, Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works:

See Dispensatory of the United States.

See Professor DEWEES' valuable works on the Practice of Physic.

THE MURDER OF OUR PRISONERS.

How Capt Henry Wertz Murdered our Prisoners—Vivid Picture of the Great Torture Pen—The Black Hole of Calcutta Outdone—Fiendishness, Profanity and Obscenity of 'Our Southern Brother.'—Infamy never equaled in the History of Man—Gen Winder and His Son on Rotting Yankees—The Testimony of a loyal Georgia Planter.

NEW YORK, Thursday, Aug. 3, 1865.

To The Editor of the Evening Post:

There appears to be a disposition on the part of some of the public press to mitigate the offences and crimes of Maj. Henry Wertz, late the responsible keeper of the stockade at Andersonville, Ga. and to throw upon others the responsibilities that justly attach to those alone who were in immediate command of that prison. Being personally acquainted with most of the officers who were stationed at Andersonville, and knowing much of the treatment of those who were so unfortunate as to have been confined in that pen of horror, I have thought that a condensed statement of how things were managed and prisoners of war were treated there might not be entirely unacceptable to your readers.

I wish to be understood as not desirous to forestall the action or opinion of the commission which is about to investigate this matter, or to add anything to the feeling entertained toward Major Wertz. It is enough for him to rest, now and forever, under an obloquy that no time and no repentance can obliterate; to feel within himself the unenviable pangs which the recollection of his powerless murdered victims will ever arouse, and to know that whatever may be the award of a human tribunal, his punishment is already decreed.

The prison of Andersonville is a stockade of about eighteen feet high, the posts comprising it being sunk in the ground five feet; it originally comprised an area of eighteen acres, but was subsequently enlarged to twenty-seven acres. The enclosure is upon the side of a hill, looking toward the South, at the foot of which is a small brook about five feet wide and as many inches deep, which furnished the water for the use of the prisoners. Within this inclosure were turned the prisoners as they arrived, and left to provide for themselves, there being no shelter, or arbors, or any of protection afforded by trees or otherwise against the burning rays of the southern sun, the furious storms or the freezing winters.

The position was selected by Capt Winder, a son of Gen. John H. Winder, who was sent from Richmond for that purpose in the latter part of 1863, when it was suggested to him by a disinterested but humane spectator of his operations that it would perhaps be better to leave the trees standing within the proposed stockade, as they would afford shade to the prisoners, he replied: 'That was just what he was not going to do; he was going to make a pen for the —— Yankees where they could rot faster than they could be sent there.'

And admirably did he accomplish his mission.

The first commandant of the post was Col. Persons, who was soon succeeded by John H. Winder, with his son as Adjutant, his nephew as commissary and sutler, and Henry Wertz, in immediate command of the prisoners. There was generally stationed there for guard duty from three to six regiments of Infantry, with one company of artillery, having a battery of six pieces, according to the exigencies of the case, the number of prisoners then confined, or the fears entertained of an attempt to set them at liberty by raiding parties of United States troops.

When prisoners were first received it was usual to subject them to a search for money, valuables, etc., which ostensibles were to be restored when they were released from captivity, but which in reality went into the pockets of those who controlled the prison. Notwithstanding a law of the Confederacy expressly prohibited the dealing in 'greenbacks,' yet the initiated, a few whose 'loyalty' was unquestioned, could always obtain for a consideration the greenbacks they required.

The writer of this was the foreman of the last grand jury which was empanneled for Sumner county, Ga., and in the performance of his duties he had to investigate a large number of presentments for dealing in the forbidden currency, which was brought against poor Union men in every instance. Struck by this fact, he resolved to examine, as his position gave him a right to do, into all the circumstances: where the money originally came from, who did the selling of it, indeed the whole modus operandi, and he elicted the fact above stated, how the money was obtained, that the Winders and Wertz were the principals, acting through subordinates, in gathering bushels of plums, in the way of premiums, &c. Meanwhile the prisoners were left to the tender mercies of their jailor and commissary for their food, which might have been improved in quantity at least, if their money had been left in their own possession,

At first it was customary to send a wagon into the stockade every morning at 10 o'clock, loaded with the rations for the day—bacon and corn-bread, nothing else; but as the number of prisoners increased and the greed of gain grew upon the tric above mentioned, the corn-bread was reduced in its quality, being then manufactured of equal proportions of ground field peas and corn, unbolted, unsifted, uncleansed, indeed, from the dirt and trash which peas naturally accumulate; and at last, when the number of prisoners increased to over 37,000, the meat rations per week were reduced to a piece of bacon, for each man, about three inches long and two wide, with one pone of the bread above described per day. Then, also the custom of carrying the prisoners' food into the stockade in wagons was abolished. They drove up to the gates, which were slightly opened, and the scanty food, foul and unhealthy as it was, was thrown inside by the guard, to be scrambled for by the wretched prisoners, the strongest and those nearest the gate getting the largest share, the weak and sickly none.

I have mentioned the same brook which runs through the lower part of the stockade, and which supplied the water for drinking and washing. This brook has its rise in a swamp not far from the prison and at no time, certainly not for a lengthened period, was the water suitable or healthy; but when the fæces and filth, the drainage of the whole camp of prisoners, came to be superadded to the natural unfitness of the water for drinking or clensing purposes, my readers can judge what thirst was assuaged, or fever cooled, or throbbing temples washed, by this floating stream of filth and disease! At any time, under the most rigid hygenic restrictions, it is difficult to maintain health and cleanliness among a large body of men—what do you think was the condition of 37,000 half-naked, half starved men, without any police regulations, under no moral or restraining influences? If the remnant who were finally allowed to pass out of this military Golgotha were not wild beasts, unwashed, befouled devils, no thanks are to be given to Henry Wertz for lack of effort to produce such a consummation.

When it rained, as it does in those climates almost continually during the spring and fall months, the soil within the enclosure was one mass of loblolly, soft mud, at least fifteen inches in depth, through which stalked and staggered the half clad wretches thus confined. The stench from the prison could be perceived for two miles, and farmers living in the neighborhood began to fear for the health of their families.

As a consequence of this, the hospitals—facetious was Wertz in his horrible humanity—were crowded to repletion with the emaciated, starved and diseased men that were trundled into them.

The hospitals were constructed of logs unhewed, the interstices unfilled and open, admitting the rain, without floors, cots, bunks or blankets, filthy and fetid with the festering, putrid bodies of the sick, the dying, and the dead. Words fail, language is impotent to describe, one of these dens of disease and death.—I once mustered the courage, impelled by the earnest entreaties of a northern friend, to enter one of them, to visit one who was tenderly reared, and walked in the best ranks of Connecticut society. I believed I had seen before this what I deemed to be human wretchedness in its worst forms. I thought I could nerve myself to witness mortal agony and wretchedness and destitution, as I had heard it described, without blanching or trembling. But it the condensed horrors of a hundred 'black holes' had been brought before my mind to prepare me for the ordeal, they would have failed to realize the facts as I saw them face to face.

I cannot in a daily paper, read by innocense and virtue, detail what met my sight on the occasion I refer to. I will not polute any page, save the records of the courts that must try the culprit for the crime of torture by disease and filth, with the details of that caravansary of horrible, intentional slaughter. For fear that some may think that I have exagerated, an episode here will, I think, dispel the illusion. Convicted by the horrible fact that was a stench in his nostrils, General Winder, then Commissary General of Prisoners, but having his headquarters at Andersonville, was forced by decency, not humanity, for this he himself asserted, to ask the aid of the presiding elder of the Methodist Church of that circuit to adopt some measures to alleviate the sufferings of the poor inmates of the Andersonville hospital. This gentleman invoked the co-operation of the women of Sumpter county, who responded with clothing and necessaries only, for these alone are allowed, to the amount of four wagon-loads. Upon the day, appointed, four ladies, accompanied by their husbands, went to the prison and sought from the Provost Marshall a pass, to their benefactions to the sick prisoners. It was refused with a curse! The party proceeded to Winder's headquarters, where Henry Wertz was in company with the general. The demand for a pass was repeated. Understand, the ladies were present, and the reason given why the party were there, in accordance with Winder's special request. To their astonishment, they were met with the reply: 'G--d d——n you, have you all turned Yankees here?'

'No, General,' responded the spokesman of the party, 'I am not, as you know, nor are any here present; we have come, as you requested us, through Rev. Mr. D., to bring necessary articles for the Federal hospital, and ask a pass for the purpose of relieveing them.'

'It's a d——n lie! I never gave permission for any thing of the kind!—Be off with you, all of you!'

As if this fearless display of martial valor and gentlemanly bearing was not sufficient, Henry Werts essayed to, and did, eclipse his general in profanity and indecency—and I here assert, that if the lowest sinks of the most abandoned part of your city were gleaned, they could not surpass the ribald vulgarity and finished profanity of this jailor, exhibited in the presence of these refined and 'loyal' ladies.

Shocked, terrified, beaten to the very dust with mortification, the party retired, and, foiled in their efforts to succor the sick or alleviate the tortures of the dying Union soldiers, they gave their loads of clothing to a passing column of Federal prisoners on their way to another place—Millen. They at least had the satisfaction of knowing that some were benefited, even if they had failed in their efforts for those who most needed their assistance.

During the last winter, which was unusually cold for Georgia, when the ice made an inch thick—no shelter, no blankets or clothes, no wood was provided for the wretched inmates of that prison. Squads were permitted, to the number of thirty, to go out under guard daily, for one hour, without axes or any cutting tool, to gather the refused and cotton wood in the forests; and if they out staid their time, they were tried by drum-head court martial, charged with violating their parole, and if found guilty, were hung! I myself saw three bodies hanging who were thus executed. Poor fellows, I thought, God has taken pity on you and given you deliverance from your cruel jailor. When you and he meet, at another judgment-seat, woe if his authority be found insufficient for this taking of your lives, wretched though they be.

My house was the resort, or, I should say, the refuge, of most of the prisoners who made their escape from the stockade, and the tales of starvation and distress which they told, would have melted an iron heart. I must close my hurried account of what I had seen. It is far from full; not one half has been told; by far the most has been kept back from very shame, and in respect to your readers. I have not embelished. The pictures were too rough, the characters too ferlorn for the flowers of rhetoric to bloom in their presence. Broken hearts, crushed spirits, and manhood trampled on, may answer as fit subjects for the romancer's pen, but the horrible reality, so seldom seen, burns its image on the beholder's soul, that no other impressions can efface, and they remain life pictures indeed.

The Assassination Conspirators.

From the New York [illegible]

The United States steamer Florida, Acting Volunteer Commander William Budd in command, from Dry Tortugas the 26th, and Key West the 27th ult., arrived at this port yesterday morning at an early hour.

THE CONSIGNMENT OF THE CONSPIRATORS.

It will be recollected that the Florida was the steamer employed by the government to convey the conspirators (Dr. Mudd, Arnold, Spangler, and O'Laughlin) to the place designated as their sole abode until they shall have expiated their great crime of being concerned in the death of President Lincoln. When these State prisoners were put upon the Florida they were totally ignorant of their destination, but supposed they were to be taken to Albany for incarceration, and they were sadly disappointed when informed that their prison house would be upon the arid wastes of the Dry Tortugas, of which they had undoubtedly heard enough to inspire them with a desire to be sent almost anywhere else upon the footstool. But, on the 25th day of July, when they reached the island, they were rather agreeably surprised to find that all the horrors they had imagined of the spot had been figments of the brain, and had no existence in reality.

THE TORTUGAS,

an island of some 13 acres in extent, has no particular claims to present as being a delightful place of protracted residence, being dry, barren, and sand-covered, with but few trees and less green grass and vegitation; but it is not Hades exactly, nor is it Pandemonium; and the conspirators may congratulate themselves that they have the freedom of its barren heaths and arid sand banks rather than the close, dreary cells of the Albany penitentiary, where the pure sunlight seldom penetrates, and where their fettered limbs would chafe and their hearts beat only against four hard, naked and cheerless stone walls. Fort Jefferson, an enclosure of about seven acres of the island, will be their place of confinement during the greater part of the time; but at intervals the inmates, mostly political prisoners, have the freedom of the entire surface of the island. There are at present five hundred and fifty of these criminals confined at Tortugas, who are well treated, and who, other stories to the contrary notwithstanding, do not wear the ball and chain, except as a punishment for extreme infraction of the military law governing the fort and the neighborhood.—There were but nine persons inmates of the hospital when the Florida left, which is pretty convincing evidence that the prisoners are properly fed, and have the necessary medical and surgical attendance. This is as much as any of the men there confined could expect at the hands of the government, and some would say far more than they actually deserve

THE GARRISON.

The 110th regiment New York volunteers is doing guard duty at Fort Jefferson, Colonel Hamilton of that command being the commandant in charge of the island. The regiment is in a fine state of discipline and those who know the men and their officers can rest assured that there remain few loop-holes or chances for escape of the prisoners committed to their charge. The Colonel has received the political prisoners, and will of course be held responsible for their safe detention.

DR. MUDD,

who is said to have many qualifications, naturally and acquired, for the position and its labors, has been placed in the hospital, where he will hold the place of an assistant surgeon, giving his mind and body something to do, which will aid in passing the tedious hours of his imprisonment, rendering life something more than mere existence. He will be making himself useful to a class with whom his sympathies, which first led him into difficulty, have much in common, and can read, practice his profession and perhaps make himself believe, in time, that he is not serving out a deserved probation of punishment for a heinous offense against the laws of God and man, but living the life he formerly led in Virginia, before he ever saw or heard of J. Wilks Booth, or the southern confederacy.

who has probably had some experience in the line, is to be made a clerk among the prisoners, and will also derive profit from employment and relief from the pang of outraged conscience.

SPANGLER

is to return to his trade as a carpenter, there being plenty of work of that character to be performed on the island, in the way of repairs and erecting new additions to the buildings connected with the fort. He is reported as feeling more cheerful, since learning that he is to have pure air to breathe and plenty to eat, with accompanying manual employment.

will also find some business on the island suited to his mental and physical status, though it may not be as congenial as that usually pursued by the members of the corps dramatique, when at liberty, enjoying the favor of a discriminating public, and playing their part before the footlights of a popular theater. He is also reported to bear his imprisonment very well, and is thankful that he was not sent to Albany.

ASSASSINATION PLOT.

A Plan to Murder the White Laborers on the Acquia Creek Railroad.

The Post's Washington special says the National Intelligencer has a statement that a plot has been discovered among a large number of negro workmen at Acquia Creek to assassinate the white laborers engaged on the railroad there. A company of soldiers arrested and imprisoned all the negroes, capturing their weapons, such as scythes etc. The officers of the road say they know of no reason why such a plot should be gotten up. The Intelligencer says one of the negroes was shot.

NEW YORK, August 6.—The Mercury's Washington special says the rumors of a negro plot at Acquia Creek to murder the white laborers engaged there, turns out to be true. The facts are as follows: Since the railroad from Richmond to Acquia Creek has been placed in the hands of the owners, the company have been repairing that portion lying between the Potomac and Fredericksburg, a boat being used meanwhile, coaches connecting the boat running from this city with that portion of the road in running order. To place the road in order, and repair the wharf and erect necessary buildings, the company have been employing a number of white mechanics and colored laborers. The latter, it is said, have had very bitter and vindictive feelings towards the the whites, but there has been no open outburst. The whites have been, latterly on their guard, apprehensive of trouble, but finally began to suppose their fears unfounded. On Tuesday night last, one of the colored men let out the secret, informing them that the blacks had formed a compact to murder all the whites of the place, and had for that purpose, collected pistols, knives, hatchets, etc. which at a preconcerted signal they were to seize during the night, and each one rush and dispatch his victim. the informant gave names of the principals, and other details, and also told where the arms were. The blacks outnumbering by considerable the whites, the latter sent to Stafford Court House, and informed the commandant of the military of the matter, and on Wednesday a sufficient force was sent down to capture the plotters. Some of the blacks attempted to resist and fought desperately. In the melee of securing them, one of them was shot outright, and two or three received bayonet wounds. The military took in custody forty or fifty of the blacks, and marched them off to a place of security, and also gathered up a motly collection of implements which were found in the places described by the informant. There was considerable excitement during the intervening time between the discovery of the plot and the arrival of the military. Preparations were made by a few whites, in case the negroes attempted to put their plans in execution, to give them a warm reception.

The clerk in charge of the commissary stores packed them on a barge and pushed them out into the stream, but this was done so quietly that the blacks were not aware it was on account of the discovery of the plot; and the arrival of the military was the first intimation they had that their plans had been made known.

DIVORCES.

Their Alarming Frequency and its Cause.

A correspondent of the New York Times is becoming alarmed at the immence number of divorces daily granted in this country, and the ease with which separation from matrimonial bonds is obtained. He moralizes on the subject thus:

This is a bad, ominous sign. It was one of the signs which accompanied the corruption of the Roman empire. The looseness of family ties is one of the worst things which can occur to a country. This is implied in the freedom of divorce. There are thousands of people, intelligent, respectable people, whose doctrines on this subject are perfectly horrible. They hold that if a couple have not perfect affection for each other, or there is some incompatibility in them, they are at perfect liberty to get a divorce. On this subject one would think we were not a Christian people. It is one of the most solemn laws of Christian doctrine, given by Jesus when up on earth, that no divorce should be given except for adultery. And yet our laws, courts and churches are constantly violating this solemn doctrine of Christianity. No divorces were allowed in the primitive ages of mankind. It crept into the Jewish church (said Christ) from the hardness of their hearts. Even New York courts have been obliged to deny the validity of Indiana divorces. The effect of the Indiana laws was to make the State a good harem, in which the bashaws might take and put away their wives at pleasure. I like to say something in favor of sinners if I can, and I am glad to say that South Carolina has one monument to her glory, which will outlive the crime of rebellion. South Carolina courts never granted a divorce. That was reserved for the legislature, and was rarely done. For this defect in our social morals we are largely indebted to the church. The Protestant church has not done its duty on this subject. Who ever heard a sermon from the text, 'Whosoever putteth away his wife and marrieth another committeth adultery.'

Our clergy are sadly deficient in preaching upon the philosophy, practice and duties of the family state. We ought, at least, to preserve the church from the awful demoralization which is creeping into the political system.

On this the Express remarks:

The political system, in our judgment, is not responsible for this license and freedom. It is an incident of the spirit of innovation upon constitutional law which pervades the land. 'Marriage is a contract, and the most solemn of all contracts: and before any judge or jury decides in favor of divorce they ought to be called upon to meet that provision of the constitution which says that 'no State shall pass any law impairing the obligation of contracts.' To annul the act of marriage not only impairs the contract but destroys it.

Chivalry in North Carolina and Female Refinement.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, now traveling through North Carolina, writing from Salisbury, where General Jackson studied law, relates the following instances of female refinement and good treatment of the blacks:

FEMALE REFINEMENT.

The conduct of the women of the southern states, with very few exceptions, has been most atrocious during the whole war. The majority have unsexed themselves, and exhibited a ferocious and savage spirit that is sufficient to disgrace them for all time.

The case in question is a fair exponent of the spirit which prevails in circles that pride themselves upon their standing. Miss Temple Neeley is considered one of the belles in the State.—The family is very wealthy, aristocratic and all that, and stands at the very top in its section. Her mother was flogging a little negro child, when the mother of the child interfered to protect it. Miss Neeley stepped up, and drawing a revolver from her pocket, shot the negro woman dead, firing a second ball into the body. She was arrested and will be tried by a military court. The papers here are defending her, and trying to stir up the old feeling towards the slaves, and excusing her under the black laws of the state.

One other case will serve as an evidence of the refinement among the gentlemen, and the tenderness which adorns female character in this latitude.

A representative of one of the wealthiest families in the place, in the presence of his family, was relating to one of our officers a whipping in which he participated. Said he: 'One of my boys, Bob, had been doing wrong, and I had him tied up and told the overseer to give him a hundred. Bob never made a sound or moved a muscle. I went up to him and asked him why he did not beg. He never said a word, sir. I then had fifty more laid on, and still he kept his mouth shut. Then I took off my coat and whipped him till I got pretty tired, but couldn't get him to beg. Then I was vexed, and laid the whip on till his back was one clot of blood, then stopped again and asked him why he didn't beg. He still would not answer me, and I whipped him till he fainted. You see he thought I would beg for him.'

Here the daughter, one of the most elegant young ladies of the town, remarked, 'Why, Colonel, just think, he wanted pa to beg for him; he thought pa would do his begging!'

No words can add loathing to as plain a statement as that. This same man, a few days before our forces reached the place, had shot one of his negroes in cold blood for a slight offense. To be able to shoot a 'nigger' whenever the fancy strikes one, is a mark of wealth. All cannot afford such pastime. He told the story of the shooting himself, as if he thought it would at once give him standing among our officers.

The Escape of Judah P. Benjamin.

NEW YORK, August 3.—A Havana correspondent gives an account of the escape of Judah P. Benjamin from the ruins of the confederacy. He says Benjamin seperated from Davis early in May, near Washington, Georgia, for the purpose of making his way to Nassau and Havana from some point on the Florida coast. He was to attend to some public business at these ports, and then re-join the President in trans-Mississippi, by way of Matamoras and Texas. He traveled directly south through Georgia and Florida, on horseback, disguised as a farmer in search of land, without exciting or attracting any attention until he reached the lower side of the peninsula of Florida. He was informed that no boats could be found on the eastern coast, and went then to the gulf coast, where, after a month's delay, he succeeded in getting a ship's yawl boat and two men who were willing to risk their lives upon the sea in it. The open boat was about fifteen feet long, in which they coasted the peninsula till they reached one of the keys of Florida reef where they succeeded in procuring a boat some what larger, in which they put to sea to cross the gulf stream, and fortunately reached Bilens, upon the banks, after a passage of 60 hours, on the 10th of July. After an unsuccessful attempt to reach Nassau, in which he was baffled by head winds and heavy weather, he put back to Bilens, and on Friday, the 14th, the sloop foundered, thirty miles from the main land. The vessel went down so rapidly that he, with the crew, had barely time to jump into a skiff in tow of the sloop before she sunk. In this boat, with a light mast, sail, and compass, and only the provision of boiled rice which the negroes had cooked for breakfast—in this leaky and over-loaded boat, and having but one oar—they made for land, and, as the weather was calm, by dint of energetic sculling, they easily reached the lighthouse. In a vessel from that point Benjamin reached Nassau and Havana.

His whole trip had occupied the best part of three months, out of which thirty days has been passed at sea in miserable open boats.

WITHDRAWAL.

Major Ed. H. Smith desires us to announce that he has withdrawn his name from the public, as a candidate for State Treasurer at the forth coming Union Convention. He desires also to return his thanks to those who have suggested, and been friendly to his nomination. We believe there is no other, aspirant for the position in this section of the State.

A Great Work Accomplished.

The third and last series of the United States seven-thirty loan has been sold, and this ends the heaviest negotiation of public securities known in the annals of American history. Jay Cooke & Co. United States agents for the sale of Government bonds have closed out the loan, paid us for our advertisement, and ordered their notice discontinued. It may not be generally known that, after resorting to almost every other expedient for the sale of government securities and not succeeding in negotiating them as fast as money was needed the Treasury Department knowing the efficiency, enterprise and success of Mr. Jay Cooke tried the experiment of placing in the hands of Jay Cooke & Co. the 10 40 loan. Sales of Government securities, under Mr. Cooke's management, began to increase immediately, and in less than two weeks averaged two millions per day. The success of this firm induced the Government to place in their hands the first series of 7 30s which was disposed of in like manner, and the second and third series of the same class of securities, has also been negotiated with wonderful rapidity by the same untiring industry of Mr. Jay Cooke,

We think the Government paid them for their services one eigth of one per cent on the amount negotiated, the expense of advertising, employing agents, exchanges and expressage to be paid by the firm. Immediately upon receiving the agency they put the telegraph and the entire press of the loyal states in motion. Probably not less than two thousand journals have advertised each series of these loans and received liberal publication fees from this firm. Sub-agencies have been established, a great variety of circulars and hand bills have been distributed at their expense. The efforts of Mr. Cooke have been unceasing, and his skill, energies and wisdom taxed to their utmost, and while to his financial ability should the success of these sales be attributed, Mr. Cooke desires to express his hearty thanks to editors and publishers generally for their prompt and liberal assistance in promoting the 7-30 loan. He is a Philadelphia banker and is associated with his brother Henry D. Cooke and H. C. Fannestock, who have ably assisted him in this enterprise.

FOR GOVERNOR.

We notice in the past week that the Chaska Herald, Blue Earth City Advocate, and Wilton News, are in favor of the nomination of Hon. C. D. Gilfillan for Governor. The Rochester Post and Faribault Republican are in favor of Col. Averill, while the journals announced by us last week still hold to the nomination of Colonel Marshall. As these three gentlemen seem to be the only aspirants for that position we may confidently expect that one of them will receive the nomination. We believe there is no dispute regarding the moral or intellectual qualifications of any of these gentlemen, and therefore their fitness or unfitness for the position will hardly form an issue at the nominating convention. We see no other way of deciding the question except upon the personal popularity of the several aspirants. It is to be hoped that the convention will confirm its deliberations to these three gentlemen, as the country will rest assured that either of them will do honor to themselves and the State.

Charlie Scheffer's Letter.

The UNION of the the 28th ult., stated as an item of news that it was rumored that money had been sent to Mankato with a view to influence the delegates of Blue Earth county in favor the renomination of Charlie Scheffer. Whereupon a letter published in the Press from Mr. Scheffer denies the "statement". The Pioneer thinks now it has been denied we should come down like a gentleman and apologise. Others of our worthy contemporaries think the publication was induced simply through our personal enmity toward him, and seem to betray symptoms of righteous indigna- in behalf of Charlie, that we should dare to insinuate a word which might tarnish the political virtue of our State Treasurer. Well the UNION did not state that Mr. Scheffer had sent money here for any purpose, but did say that such was the rumor. Mr. Scheffer in his letter, we presume, intended to say the rumor was false, and not that the statement that such rumor existed was false. Our exchanges take the one and charge us with making a statement, directly accusing Mr. Scheffer with effecting the election of delegates with money. We have no hesitancy in announcing that Mr. Scheffer pronounces the rumor false, but we don't intend, even by implication, to allow the charge of falsity to rest at our door. What we published in reference to the matter was published in good faith.

AN EXPLANATION.

The St. Paul Press of the 16th inst. publises the views of many of the papers of the State, concerning the approaching nomination for Governor. It gives a pretty fair reflection of the choice of the country press which seems to be pretty equally divided between Col. Marshall, C. D. Gilfillan and Col. Averill. But it represents the UNION as serving both "God and Mammon", or as playing upon a harp of more than one string. It quotes a brief article published in the UNION before we took possession of the paper, and another published last week. The former favors the nomination of Col. Marshall, the last gives preference to Hon. C. D. Gilfillan. We take pleasure in informing the Press that the latter article is considered orthodox in this section of the State, and that our predecessor who penned the former article is now a violent Averill man. He seems to have dropped Col. Marshall as if he were too hot to hold. Our only object in writing this article however is to dispel the inference of duplicity which may be drawn on reading the two articles in the Press. That journal didn't understand that the UNION had changed hands, —that's all.

Colored School.

The Board of Education in St. Paul have passed a resolution to provide for a seperate school building for the colored children of that city. They are to enjoy the same public and educational advantages with other children, but will be taught in another building. The wording of the preamble to the resolution was certainly invidious and abnoxious in the extreme to either white or black, but the movement itself based upon the true reasons there for, is hardly to be deprecated, unless to object to a mixing of the races, is in itself a cardinal wrong. If not, the question is one of comity only, and it should be settled upon the rules of social intercourse, and not upon the established laws of political and natural rights and equality.

ATLANTIC CABLE.

The latest news confirms beyond a doubt the reported failure of the attempt to lay the Atlantic Telegraph. The cable parted on the 2nd inst., when twelve hundred miles had been laid, and thus ends the second effort to establish submarine communication between the Old and New Worlds.

The schooner First Fruit, which arrived at Harbour Grace, Newfoundland on the 14th inst., reports that on the 2d day of Aug. as the Great Eastern was paying out the Cable it parted. Where the accident occurred the water is about 12,000 feet deep which caused too great a strain, and thus a great project has for the second time failed of its object, —The 9th regiment has returned to the State and having been duly and publicly received by the citizens of St. Paul are now awaiting payment at Fort Snelling.

—The people of St. Peter have decided to give a basket picnic to returned soldiers on the 6th day of Sept. next. A large booth of green boughs is to be erected near the court house and provided with tables for the occasion.

—Gen. T. F. Meagher the military gentleman who promised to accompany Fisks expedition to the Yellow Stone, went as far as St. Cloud, and returned, thinking the old stage route the more expeditious and comfortable. Fisk and his dupes are left alone in their glory.

—The superintendent of Public instruction has made the August apportionment of the current school fund, which gives Blue Earth county the sum of $1,588,42. The number of scholars to which it is apportioned is 2,522.

—The gubernatorial contest seems to be waxing warm. Some of our republican exchanges have hoisted the names of their particular favorites with a good deal of enthusiasm. Keep cool gentlemen. Save your thunder to fight your enemies with.

—The Owatonna Plaindealer states that the population of that town is 949, being an increase of 60 per cent within eighteen months. It also thinks that it will increase to 1500 in a month or so. That is certainly a very sanguine expectation. It may be that an excursion party of about five hundred persons is about to visit that town.

—The Central Republican of Faribault, mentions an extrodinary growth of corn cultivated by E. P. Mills Esq., It says: It is of the common yellow dent corn variety, planted May 22nd, cut August 5th: length of stalk 12 feet, 3½ inches; width of leaves 5½ inches; number of days from planting 75; average daily growth nearly two inches; contains two ears, upper one 6 feet high.

Mr Mills has more of the same kind, only of a little more upward tendency, and says he will bring another when that is beaten.

An Important Case.

RICHMOND, August, 10.—A Richmond correspondent says: "A very important case will shortly be brought before the United States court, to decide whether slaves held to service after president Lincoln's emancipation proclamation had gone into effect January 1st, 1864, shall not be entitled to remuneration for their labor. Colonel Brown, superintendent of the freedmen's bureau is busy preparing such a case against John Miner Botts, who refuses to pay the wages of a negro servant held up to the time of the surrender of Lee, notwithstanding that the negro could have gone to the union forces, enlisted or labored with the quartermaster's department, and received at least $10 per month. In view of the fact that Mr. Botts received $30,000 from our government for trespass on his property, the claim in his instance is a strong one.

Government Financial Matters.

It is understood that the secretary of the treasury will issue no more greenbacks at present, nor will he ask a loan from internal banks; but, with the receipts from internal revenue and from customs, and the issue of certificates, he will be able to make both ends meet until after the meeting of the next Congress. Agents are here from large cities, advocating the issue of more currency; but the secretary is decidedly opposed to any such measure, or borrowing any more, if he can possibly avoid it. This will prevent sudden fluctuation and expansion of prices, which would inevitably be the result of a further issue of currency.

Atlantic Cable.

The yatch Clara Clarita arrived at North Sydney, Cape Breton, yesterday. She left Port au Basque on Thursday evening, up to which time no news had been received there of the great Eastern. Engineer Everett expresses the opinion that the Atlantic cable project has again proved a failure, while Mr. Mackey, telegraphic superintendent at Cape Race, still has hopes of its success. The attempt of the Clara Clarita to resuscitate the cable across the gulf of St. Lawrence resulted unsuccessfully—the armor, in many places, being utterly destroyed.—The British gunboat Sphinx, of the Atlantic telegraph expedition, arrived at Heart's Content on the 6th instant. On the 27th ultimo, during a strong westerly breeze and head sea, the Sphinx was left behind by the Great Eastern and the gunboat Terrible; and since that time, though taking the proper course, the Sphinx had seen nothing of the other vessels.—Chicago Rep. Aug. 14.

Troop for California.

NEW YORK, August 10.—The 14th United States infantry regulars, nearly 800 strong, leave for California on the 16th. The 3d United States artillery will follow at soon as ready. During the rebellion nearly all the troops on the Pacific coast were called east, and the men now going forward will assist in subduing the Indians. The force now operating against the Indians consists of rebel prisoners, who entered the union rather than be sent south. They have been sent there from time to time, and are now organized into six regiments, doing good service under the old flag.

Swamp Lands.

Governor Miller has received from the Commissioner of the General land Office, the proper certificates conveying the following swamp lands to the State of Minnesota:

These lands lie in the Districts, of Winnebago City, St. Peter, Henderson, Forest city, St. Cloud North Eastern and Taylors Falls.

The governor has applied for the usual patents which will shortly be issued to the State.

STATE NEWS.

We learn that the work of grading the Southern Minnesota Rail Road has commenced. It is expected that there will be two hundred hands at work next week.—The company have abandoned the old route to La Crescent, and are making a new grade across the bottom to a point about three miles below that place, nearly opposite La Crosse.

Messrs. Irving, Burbank & Co. have contracted to finish ten miles of the road ready for the cars by the first of October. The track laying was to commence this week. There is some hope that the company will be able to finish twenty miles of this road this fall if bonds sufficient can be sold to raise the money. Gov. Sherwood is now in New York negotiating the sale of 1,000,000, worth of bonds, which bring about 80 cents on the dollar.—Preston Rep.

The passenger traffic on the Winona and St. Peter Railroad is increasing, so that the present facilities of the road are inadequate to furnish comfortable cars for the accommodation of passengers. The morning train is usually crowded. Another fine passenger car for this road is at La Crosse awaiting transportation. About one half of the passengers on the up boats stop off here.—Winona Rep.

A NATIONAL BANK.—Our business men, and citizens generally, will be pleased to learn that the Bank of Stillwater has been converted into a National Bank with a capital $50,000.

Chas. Scheffer, President; Louis Hospes, Vice President; O. R. Ells, Cashier. We learn that the bills are expected soon, when they will be immediately issued, and the Bank will commence business under the National organization.—Stillwater Messenger.

CRANBERRIES.—We learn from the Tayler Falls Reporter that the prospect is good for a heavy crop of cranberries, unless some disastrous circumstance occurs to prevent it.

EXAMINATION OF STOCKING.—The case of C. C. Stocking who shot Mr. Roberts on the steamer Annie Johnston some days ago, came up before Esquire Mc Elrath yesterday morning. The medical testimony introduced shows Stocking to have been insane at the time the act was committed, but that he has recovered and is now rational. He is very excitable, however, and is liable to be thrown into a similar condition at any time. The Justice did not feel justified in releasing him and he was therefore committed for trial.

We understand that the case will come before Judge Wilkin to-day on a writ of Habeas Corpus. His friends are here, who are desirous of taking him to an asylum in Indiana.—St. Paul Press, August 13.

DRUG STORE.—Drs. Briggs & Lockwood are going to open in this village, one of neatest and most complete Drug Stores in the Southwestern part of our State. Dr. Lockwood is now in the East selecting their stock, and will return we understand, in the course of three weeks. This is a good idea, and we predict those gentlemen will meet with good success in their new enterprise.—Winnebago Homestead.

The Winona County Bank of this city has surrendered its charter, and will soon rank as one of the institutions of the past. Its outstanding circulation will be withdrawn as soon as possible, and redeemed by Messrs. Webster & Lake, its proprietors, who will continue in the private banking buisness the same as in olden times. For a number of years they have not endeavored to extend their circulation, but confined their business mostly to the making of loans and discounts and selling exchange. There is no sounder or more honorable banking house in the State than that of Messrs. Webster & Lake.—Winona Republican Aug 9.

HABEAS CORPUS.—The case of the insane man, C. C. Stocking, came up before Judge Wilkin yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus. A hearing was had, and the request of his friends to take him to an asylum was granted, on their entering into bonds of $1,500 that such would be done.—Press Aug 15.

Tennessee Colored Convention.

Special Dispatch to the Missouri Democrat.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 8.—The convention of colored Tennesseans was called to order by the chairman. Prayer by Rev. Mr. Carter. Resolutions were offered directing that an address be issued to the colored people of Tennessee; also to the loyal white people of Tennessee, and the national congress, in relation to the elective franchise, &c. After discussion the resolution was adopted. Rev. Mr. Lynch made a forcible speech in reference to an article in the Nashville Dispatch, trying to burlesque the convention. General Fisk addressed the convention this evening, and was listened to with deep interest. The proceedings to-day were orderly and harmonious.

NASHVILLE, August 9.—The colored convention to-day passed resolutions urging the erection of school houses and churches, and the use of all means to qualify the race to enjoy all the blessings and privileges connected with civil and religous liberty, and of every lawful means to remove every species of vice which tends to demoralize and destroy a much afflicted people. They appointed a committee of five to inquire and report the amount of land under cultivation by colored men in Tennessee, and the amount of produce raised, &c., to disprove the belief among southern whites, and many north, that negroes are consumers and not producers. Rev. Mr. Lynch made an elaborate, able, spicy and eloquent speech, advocating, for men of his race, the right to vote, hold office, be sworn as witnesses, and in every way be made equal with whites before the law.

What the Union Party has Done.

Lexington, Ky., August 9

It is considered certain that the union paaty have elected five congressmen—Randall, McKee, Smith, Rousseau and Yeamen. We have gained three senators in the Legisltnre,—Lilly, Morrow and Cardwell. We have gained nine representatives in the lower house,—two in Louisville, one in Clinton and Cumberland, one in Wayne, one in Garrard and one each in Estelle, Bath, Fleming and Greenup. We have thus far lost no senator and but two representatives,—one in Franklin and one in Clarke. The race is very close in Nicholas county. If the Green river country has done its duty we have the legislature. No news from the first or third districts. Col. Cowan is defeated for senator in the Boyle district.

Frontier News.

Dispatches from Col. Carnahan, of the 2nd inst, have been received. He was then at Skunk Lake, twenty miles this side of the Sheyenne river. Everything had progressed favorably. A small body of hostile Indians were reported to be posted ten miles north of his camp. The main body are at or near Devil's Lake. Their numbers are unknown.

Dispatches of the 3d have been received from Ft. Wadsworth. Col. Carnahan had passed up on the old expedition trail, going within fifteen or twenty miles of the fort. The last that was heard of the hostile Indians, they were between the big bend of the Mouse river and Dog's Lodge. Major Rose was in hopes Col. Carnahan would be able to get north of them, and thus be enabled to strike their camp before they could escape to Brittish territory.

The Major was preparing to send the surrendered Indians on another Buffalo hunt.

Frontier News.

General Sibley has received dispatches from Fort Wadsworth of the 5th instant. They state that a squaw from the scouts' camp had met and talked talked with three Indians from the upper country. Two of them were brothers of Standing Buffalo, and they were sent down to see whether there was any prospect for peace. They were afraid to come into camp, and had remained concealed for three days.

They said that Standing Buffalo, Wanata, and White Eagle, wanted peace. They are in the vicinity of Mouse river, where there is a large camp of hostile Indians opposed to peace. They are anxious to know what reception they would meet with if they surrendered.

These Indians had seen Col. Carnahan's expedition, and asked the squaw what it meant. She told him it was a war party. They expressed their regret at this and started off immediately, probably to notify the hostile camp. As soon as the squaw told her story, scouts were sent out to find the Indians, but no traces were obtained.

TERRIBLE LAKE DISASTER!

Special Dispatch to the Chicago Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 11.—On Wednesday night, about half-past 8 o'clock, the propeller Pewabic, Capt. George Mc Kay, on her way down from Lake Superior to this port, when abreast of Thunder Bay Island, Lake Huron, about six miles from the light, collided with the propeller Meteor, Capt. Wilson, upward bound, by which the Pewabic was immediately sunk. The bows of the Meteor, which are long and sharp, struck the Pewabic almost at right angles, under the pilot house, opening her to the width of 12 or 15 feet, and cutting her down to the water's edge. There were at least 175 persons on board, including the crew. Within four minutes of the collision the Pewabic sunk, carrying down with her from 75 to 100 persons. The boats were running at the rate of about 12 miles an hour, and the crash was awful. A number were killed by the crashing timbers. But few of the passengers of the Pewabic had time to jump from her decks upon those of the Meteor, ere the wreck of the Pewabic sunk entirely out of sight beneath the seething waters. The sight was terrible and heart rending, as the cries and groans of the unfortunate passengers rose upon the rolling swells of the surging billows. The Meteor remained near where the wreck sunk, until morning, in order to pick up the floating bodies. The Mohawk, passing down, was signalled and promptly came to the rescue. As soon as it was light the boats cruised around among the floating debris to pick up passengers, but so long a time had elapsed that none were found. The Mohawk, with the survivors of the Pewabic came on to this city.

The Meteor is slightly injured, and continued her trip to Lake Superior. The books, papers, etc., of the Pewabic having been lost, it is impossible to give the names of all the passengers on board.

The Attorney General's Opinion.

WASHINGTON, August 10.—The attorney general, in response to an inquiry of President Johnson, whether the person charged with the offense of having assassined the late president should be tried before a military tribunal or a civil court, gave a written opinion, sustaining the former mode of trial. This opinion has been printed. It maintains that a military tribunal exists under and according to the constitution in time of war; that the law of nations constitutes a part of the law of the land, and that the laws of the war constitute the greater part of the law of nations.

The law of nations, which is the result of the the experience and wisdom of ages, has decided that jayhawkers, and banditti, are offenders against the law of nations and of war, and, as such, amenable to military law. constitution has made the laws part of the law of the land. Obedience to the constitution and the law requires that the military should do their whole duty. They must not only meet and fight the enemies of the country, in open battle, but they must kill, or take the secret enemies of the country, and try and execute them according to law. The civil tribunals of the country cannot rightfully interfere with the military in the performance of their high arduous, and perilous, but lawful duties. The attorney general characterizes Booth and his associates as secret, active public enemies, and he concludes with the opinion that "the persons who were charged with the assassination of the president committed the deed as public enemies.

THE AUTOMATIC ORGAN

In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly announce the greatest triumph in musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments, with double bellows, and two pedals for the feet to operate but the want of the reversed or Exhaustion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated.

Another objection to this method of blowing was that, both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell. Within the past two years, instruments constructed on this European plan of "double blowers," have been manufactured in this country, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an appendage is nearly impossible.

Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of tone. We predict for this invention a brilliant future.

THE MELODEON & SCHOOL ORGAN.

For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly. With our increased facilities, we feel warranted in assuring our patrons that their orders will be promptly met, and solicit a continuance of their patronage.

Caution to purchasers.

All our instruments have upon the name board, in full, "Geo. A. Prince & Co." When a dealer represents any other instrument as "the same as ours," it is usually a mere attempt to sell an inferior instrument, on which he can make a large profit.

GRASS FOR SALE.—I have a few acres of grass for sale on the place on which I live, or I will give a share of it to have it cut and put in a stack.

T. PARSONS,

Mankato, Aug 17th 1865.

FOUND.—A gold pen with silver case. The same can be had by calling at this office, and paying for this advertisement.

FOR REGISTER OF DEEDS.—M. B. Haynes of Vernon Centre, is announced as a candidate for the office of Register of Deeds, subject to the decision of the Republican County Convention.

PERSONAL.—Hon M. S. Wilkinson arrived in town last Saturday. It is said that he contemplates building a residence this season, and that lumber for that purpose is now at Henderson.

—There is still a chance to obtain good bargains at the Clothing Emporium of Randall & Smith, as they wish to close out their present stock, at greatly reduced prices, preparatory to putting in a splended stock this fall. Give them a call,

PUMPS.—In our advertising columns will be found the notice of Wilson and Koontz who are manufacturing a good article of pumps which they warrant to work perfectly and not to freeze. We bespeak for them a liberal patronage. See their advertisement.

WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD.—A. T. Williams will sell Butterfields best extra superfine flour at $2,25 per hundred. He is determined not to be undersold. He has also just received a lot of kerosene oil and two cases of canned peaches, and two cases of cove oysters which he offers at the lowest rates.

SALE.—The store on Front street recently occupied by T. Scattergood has been sold by Messrs. Williard & Barney for the sum of one thousand dollars to Messrs. Parsons & Thompson. These gentlemen contemplate putting in a stock of goods at an early day.

BRICK MAKER.—Frank Cheny of Boston is in town surveying the field for the business of brick making next season. There is no better opening in the state for the sale of brick, and we hope Mr. Cheney may succeed in finding a sufficient supply of clay to warrant him in opening the third brickyard.

LAND AGENCY.—We are glad to learn that S. C. Clark, of Garden City, has taken out license to deal in Real Estate. An office of that kind has been very much needed in the south part of this county for some time, and as Mr. Clark is a practical Surveyor and one of our best, and withal a reliable man, we consider this a move in the right direction.

MEETING OF COUNTY BOARD.—The board of County Commissioners will meet at the office of the Register of Deeds, in Mankato on Tuesday the 5th of September 1865 to hear appeals and to equalize the assessments of this county. All persons feeling agrieved are requested to attend. By order

3-w A. HANNA Chairman,

RECEPTION.—A few of our citizens met at the school room on Front street Wednesday evening to appoint a committee to draft and circulate a call for a meeting of the citizens of Mankato, to make the necessary arrangements for a grand soldiers reception. J. C. Wise, Mr. Steins and W. B. Griswold were appointed such committee.

THE LADY'S FRIEND.—"Catching the Butterfly" is the leading steel engraving of the September number of this favorite periodical—and a very pretty picture it is. The steel fashion plate for this number is as handsome as usual, and the sporting dress in it something a little peculiar. We suppose it is the way that the Empress Eugenie and her ladies dress, when on their sporting excursion.

CHURCH DEDICATION.—We previously mentioned that the Presbyterian church dedication would take place on the 20th inst,—next Sunday. It is ascertained, that, owing to unavoidable delays, the church cannot be made ready at that time. The dedication is now announced to take place on Thursday the 7th of September next. It is expected the ministers from abroad will be in attendence and, at the installation of the pastor, Rev Thomas Marshal will take place at the same time.

LOOK FOR LAND.—Several discharged soldiers from the States of Ohio and Indiana are at the Mankato House. They are on a prospecting tour seeking lands west and south of Mankato. They express themselves well satisfied with the "situation" and will doubtless make their homes in the West. Mine host of the Clifton House, also reports several discharged soldiers from Wisconsin who are visiting our city on the same errand.

HORSE RACING.—One of our town ordinances was violated last Tuesday by a bevy of betting men, who tried the bottom of ther favorite steeds within the limits of the corporation. The stake was ten dollars, and the race being over, the winning parties were invited to a hearing before Justice Moreland for running horses contrary to city discipline. The Justice fined two of them five dollars each and costs, thus the ill gotten gain is made to replenish the city treasury. Wouldn't it be a financial stroke to clear the streets every day for a horse race? There's money in it.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.—The Democracy of Blue Earth County met at the City Hall on Saturday last and called Geo. Maxfield Esq to the chair. Geo. Clark was appointed secretary. Sixteen delegates were present. As the meeting was called to send delegates to the State Democratic Convention at St. Paul, the business was soon disposed of. All seemed anxious to decline the flattering compliment of an election, but by dint of pursuasion the following gentlemen were induced to perform the task which promises a feeble return for the outlay: Isaac Marks, D. W. Porter, J. Wiswell and Geo. Culver.

PERSONAL.—Capt W. C. Durkee the son of Dr. Benjamin Durkee of Mankato, arrived in town Tuesday and is stopping at the Clifton House. The Captain holds his commission in a negro regiment at Brownsville, Texas, and is on a furlough for a visit to his friends at this place, and judging from the general anxiety to see him, we should say that friends with him were not like angels visits 'few and far between." The Captain enlisted as a private in Co. E. 9th regiment, and from inherent worth and good luck has reached a credible position in the army.

GIVE IT A TRIAL.—We mean that rare article of double extra winter wheat flour kept for sale by Higgins in the big stone warehouse on Front street. For domestic use our better half—and for that matter the other half too,—pronounces it a splendid article for good housekeepers and still better for those who are not so skilled, because it is impossible to make bad bread of it. Mr. Higgins also keeps a splendid article of spring wheat flour in quantity equal to anything in market. But this is'nt all he keeps. If our neighbors want bran, shorts, corn meal, corn, oats, wheat ground feed potatoes etc, the stone ware house is open early and late for the accommodation of customers. This statement can be verified by calling at his warehouse and seeing for yourselves.

HOOK AND LADDER COMPANY.—A meeting of the Mankato Hook and Ladder company took place according to appointment on Saturday evening last. The business of the meeting was to pass by-laws governing the company, and to fix upon a time for holding the annual meeting. The substance of the by-laws passed are as follows: Any member absenting himself from the meetings of the company without excuse shall be fined 25 cents. For being absent upon the occasion of a fire 50 cents. Leaving the room after roll call and before adjournment without permission, 10 cents. The regular annual meetings will be held on the first Monday of June in each year.

RAPIDAN.—To reach this little town situated in a township of the same name, we travel the Garden City road a distance of nine miles from Mankato, and turning to the left, in three fourths of a mile you reach the village. We understand that quite a number of improvements are making there this season. Messrs Kenworthy & Swan with another gentlemen are building some houses to live in and in the spring will commence the erection of a saw mill. Mr. C. P. Cook is adding to his dwelling and improving and enlarging his nursery preparatory to the fall trade. He will be in the market with every variety of fruit trees and shrubbery, as soon as the transplanting season commences.

LITHOGRAPHS.—Messrs Wise and Clark of Mankato have gone to the expense of lithographing the scene of the execution of the thirty eight Sioux Indians, which took place in this town December 26th, 1865. The picture is executed in four colors from a photograph taken on the spot, and is therefore a perfect representation of the tragic scene. It is in every respect a credit to its proprietors, and should decorate the walls of every dwelling in the west, as a memento of the early struggles of our citizens against the barbarism of the aboriginal tribes, and the execution of a just sentence for heinous crimes. The pictures are large and handsome and when framed will be quite an article of drawing room adornment. Price $1,00 to be had at the Record office. Liberal deduction made to agents.

DRUG STORE.—The new Drug building of Wickersham Brother is fast approaching completion, and goods will commence to move in to-morrow. The building is 20 feet by 50 and begins to present almost a palatial appearence. The front big windows are of large showy dimensions are well calculated for displaying goods. These gentlemen intend not only to do a retail business, but will supply all the country stores as far West as the Rocky Mountains. Orders are even solicited from the Pacific and will be filled with "neatness and dispatch." Dealers in Portland, Oregon should remember that Mankato is much nearer than New York and this advantage should bring them to our market. Of course home patrons will not fail to visit this new western Emporium of Drugs.

SALE EXTRAORDINARY.—H. P. Christenson Brothers have just completed a sale of 22 feet front opposite the store of Randall & Smith, Front street, for the sum of eight hundred dollars. The purchasers are Messrs. Ray & Williams of Garden City. At the rates at which property has advanced since Spring, it will soon be out of sight. The consequence of holding lots on Front street so high will be to drive the business back to second street. In fact a grocery located on second street would take quite a local trade now, because of its convenience to those living near the bluff. But this is a digression. We wished to state that the condition of this sale is that a two story brick store shall be erected on the lot. It is understood that the purchasers have already made arrangements for the brick and will erect in the spring a building eighty feet long 22 feet in width, two stories high.

SERENADED.—Editor Mankato Union:—Last night while Morpheus kept his silent vigils, over all the busy town, we were awakened by "symphonies of sweet sounds," and in the moments of half consciousness between waking and dreaming, it seemed that the representatives of the spheres had descended to bear us upward on the wings of song. Coming to our waking senses we found our angel visitants clothed in the forms of personages who represent the Serenade Band of Mankato, and were discoursing the most soul-melting strains, in the hall of the Clifton House. The happy recipient, for whom this and like previous entertainments are intended is unknown, but the inmates participating in the gratuitous benefits respectfully tender their thanks to those who have so much kindness and "music in their souls," in whose behalf I am Respectfully.

ADDIE L. BALLOU.

SCHOOL MEETING.—A meeting of the voters of Mankato School district was held last week at the school house, to take into consideration, the ways and means of building the long delayed and oft proposed school edifice. The meeting was not characterized with a proper degree of harmony, but after a spirited debate and ventillation of ill temper, the meeting quite unanimously settled upon a proposition to instruct the trustees of the school district to contract for such a building as could be erected this fall, or not contract at all. The disposition seemed to be to build a plain and substantial two story building, but the trustees were not limited to any particular plan. They seemed to be infused with new life and are receiving propositions for the work. Mr. Boardman proposed to build a two story house 40 by 70 feet for $8,500. Another gentlemen proposed to erect a three story building of the same plan of that, proposed by Mr. Shiere, droping some of the ornamental specifications, for ten thousand dollars less fifty.

We still incline to the opinion that a cheaper building should be erected. The proposed plans are yet too large. The Presbyterian church is 36 by 60 feet, and is intended to seat at least 300 grown persons on one floor. It will easily seat 400 children. Allowing one half for aisles, and such other interior plans as will render the building sufficently roomy, and two stories of a building 36 by 60 feet will give ample room for at least 300 scholars, and can be built for six thousand dollars.

THE CENSUS AGAIN.—The Rochester Post claims for that city the distinction of being the largest inland town in the State. Doubtless this is true as the figures verify the statement. But the Post continues its article and makes a comparison of figures between a number of the interior towns of the State making an incorrect statement in reference to Mankato, which places it further down in the list than she rightly belongs. After stating that the population of Faribault is 2,339 including the township, it places Mankato at 2,000 without any explanation as to whether it is the city proper or not. We will therefore publish the population of the most important inland towns with the explanation that as near as we are informed the township is included except in the case of Rochester and perhaps Owatonna.

Rochester	2,663
Mankato	2,547
Faribault	2,339
St. Cloud	2,065
St. Peter	1,602
Chatfield	1,395
Henderson	1,084
Owatonna (city)	949

From the foregoing figures it will be seen that Mankato is second to but one of the interior towns, and that one is Rochester whose growth is mostly stimulated by the Winona railroad which at present terminates there. For that reason Rochester commands more than a local trade, but when the terminus of the road is established at Mankato, as it doubtless will be in less than two years, the tables of the census will be turned, and we trust that Rochester will as willingly yield the palm to us as we now do to that city. It can hardly be said of St. Peter or Henderson that they are inland towns, as navigation in some shape has reached them most of the season, but as they are our neighbors we have included them in the above list. If an abundance of rain vouchsafes to us once more the usual amount of water in the Minnesota river, Mankato may again be classed among the river towns of the State.

ARRANDALE & CO., Manf'g Ag'ts,
No. 167 Broadway, New York.

Announce that all of the above list of goods will be sold for One Dollar each.

In consequence of the great stagnation of trade in the manufacturing districts of England, through the war having cut off the supply of cotton, a large quantity of Valuable Jewelry, originally intended for the English market, has been sent off for sale in this country, and must be sold at any sacrifice. Under these circumstances, Arrandale & Co, acting as agents for the principal European manufacturers, have resolved upon a great Gift Apportionment to be divided according to the following regulations:

Certificates of the various articles are put into envelopes indiscriminately, sealed up, and when ordered, are taken out without regard to choice, and sent by mail, thus showing no favoritism. On receipt of the certificate, you will see what you are to have, and then it is at your option to send the dollar and take the article or not. Purchasers may thus obtain a gold watch, Diamond Ring, or any set of Jewelry on our list for One Dollar.

SEND 25 CENTS FOR CERTIFICATE.

In all transactions by mail, we shall charge for forwarding the certificates, paying postage and doing the business, 25 cents each, which must be enclosed when the certificate is sent for. Five certificates will be sent for $1, eleven for $2, thirty for $5, sixty-five for $10; one hundred for $15.

WHAT THE "PRESS" SAY OF US.

The Lafayette (Ind) Daily Courier, March 18 1865, says: A better selected, more varied or fashionable assortment of jewelry cannot be found on the continent than Arrandale & Co., are now offering. Messrs. Arrandale & Co., occupy a high position in commercial circles as men entirely above the common trickery of trade. Their statements may be implicitly relied upon, both as to the character of their goods and the manner of disposal. Ladies especially, in all parts of the country, are realizing handsome profits as agents, and if any of our fair readers desire to interest themselves in this enterprise they may do so with perfect confidence.

We have inspected, at the office of Arrandale & Co's Agency for European Manufacturing Jewellers, a large assortment of valuable and fashionable jewelry of the newest patterns. We also noticed a large quantity of silver plate and understand that the whole of these newly imported articles are to be disposed of on a novel principle giving great advantage to buyers, and affording extensive employment to agents. We know the firm in question to be very respectable and thoroughly worthy of public confidence, and recommend our friends to read their advertisement.—N. Y. Albion, September 3, 1861.

The British Whig, of Kingston, C. W. says Nov. 26th, 1864; One of our lady subscribers became an agent for Arrandale & Co. and by request brought some twenty articles sent as prizes for her agency, to this office for inspection and without hesitation we can state that each and all of the articles were worth treble the amount of cost to the recipients, and some of them six times.

AGENTS—We want agents in every regiment, and in every town and county in the country, and those acting as such will be allowed ten cents on every certificate ordered by them, provided their remittance amounts to one dollar, also other inducements which can be learned on application. Agents will collect 25 cents for every Certificate, and remit fifteen cents to us, either in cash or postage stamps.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhoea or seminal weakness Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity; Impediments to Marriage, etc., also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

JEFF. DAVIS

A Meeting of his Friends.

NEW YORK, August 1.—The Post contains a report of the proceedings of a private meeting of the friends of Jeff. Davis, held in this city yesterday, to devise means for the fair and full defense of Jeff. and his associates, so that whatever happens, justice may be done. The meeting was held at the rooms of Mr. Carlos Butterfield, who was present. At the suggestion of Mr. Peter T. Cutler, a committee was appointed to raise funds for the object stated, and to adopt other necessary measures. The following gentlemen were named as the committee: Mayor Gunther, Carlos Butterfield, Theodore Martin, E. Douglas, and Mr. Clancy. The mayor was absent, but he sent his regret and assurances of hearty co-operation. Surrogate Tucker, Mr. Brown, and Mr. Livingstone of Mobile, were the speakers. They regarded the failure of the rebellion as but temporary. The spirit that originated it still lives, and, by the assistance of their friends at the north, it can be successful in another way. Mr. Livingston said that Alabama would be represented in Congress by none who were not soul and body in favor of southern independence; that Mrs. Surratt's execution had excited the indignation of the world, and that the government dare not trust Mr. Davis to a trial. Mr. Livingston said that any person who would regard the cause of the south as treasonable would be looked upon as a madman or a fool.

Rumors of Peace.

DES MOINS, Iowa, August 4.

It is reported on good authority that the military expedition against the Indians has accomplished its mission, and is on its return to Sioux City. It was met at Fort Benton by representatives of many tribes, who were anxious for peace and the consummation of a permanent treaty. They acknowledged themselves conquered. If this report is true, the Indian war is at an end for the present. There will probably be no more butting of aboriginal heads against the federal government.

From Richmond.

NEW YORK. August 4.

A Richmond special says: "Every effort is being made to secure a revocation of General Turner's order declaring null and void the late election. The antecedents of each candidate elected are being thoroughly investigated. The result will be the qualification of one or two of the Union officials, and a majority will be declared ineligible, but when the affairs of the freedmen are in a more satisfactory condition, and the people evince a disposition to accept the new order of things without objections, they may be expected to have an opportunity again to exercise the elective franchise.

Disasters.

The steamship Glasgow, which left New York for Liverpool on the 29th ultimo, was burned on the 31st; her passengers and crew were all saved by a passing vessel. The steamer Joseph Pierce exploded her boiler, a few days ago, about twenty miles below Vicksburg, and subsequently burned to the water's edge; six persons were killed, and twenty-eight wounded. The steamer Lillie, having on board 700 bales of cotton, was destroyed by fire, on the Mississippi, on the 31st ultimo; there was no loss of life. The steamer Rover on the Yazoo river, was boarded by robbers, on the 20th of July; the marauders wounded two persons, and carried off $20,000 in money.

The Triumph in Memphis.

The first election under the "Franchise Act" of the late legislature, recently came off in Memphis. It was the Municipal election. It was the majesty of the law, the workingmen, the unflinching Union men of the city against the Rebels and their associates. The Union law and order party, sustaining the State and Federal Governments, triumphed by a majority of 496 votes. Well done Memphis! Well done loyal men! You have stood firm at the very headquarters of treason, in the hot-bed of sedition, where a venal Press bows at the feet of rebel wealth, and where the negro is the standard of loyalty.

Salting Stock and Salting Hay.

There can be no doubt that the animal economy requires salt. The natural and universal desire for it, the wide-spread supply of it by the hand of Providence, and the good effects of its moderate use, demonstrate this. It operates both as a tonic and a gentle laxative, it regulates the stomach and bowels, and gives an edge to the appetite. Stil, animals may take it to excess, and hurt themselves when they get access to it after long deprivation. It is the favorite practice of some farmers to salt their stock regularly once in so many days, giving them always a fixed quantity.—This generally works well. Others prefer to keep a supply always within reach of their cattle, so that they can go and satisfy their natural cravings for it when they choose, reasonably supposing it as safe to do so as to allow stock to drink at pleasure from a running stream. In regard to salting hay at the time of harvest in order to prevent heating and moulding, in case the hay is not thoroughly cured, it is most important not to over-salt, as evil effects may accrue to the stock. Six quarts of salt to the ton, evenly distributed, is sufficient for the greenest, and not too much for the animals. Salt, as commonly thrown upon the hay-mow, falls in lumps and handfulls here and there, so that the stock get too much of it to-day, and too little to-morrow. When they eat to excess, it produces an unnatural thirst, laxness of the bowels, and weakness of the limbs. It is of course safer and better to store away the fodder, well cured, without salt, and let the cattle have daily access to salt troughs under cover in their yards, where they will take only as much as nature requires.

—General Dodge left Fort Leavenworth on the 3rd instant, for Forts Kearney and Laramie. The General has determined to put a stop to the Indian hostilities upon the plains, and is confident, with the forces now under his command, of accomplishing his purpose. The total number of Indians now in the war-path is estimated at 25,000.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD
AGAIN RE-OPENED!

THIS GREAT NATIONAL THOROUGHFARE is again open for

Freghts and Travel.

The Cars and Machinery destroyed are being replaced by New Running Stock, with all recent improvements; and as the bridges and Tracks are again in substantial Condition, the well earned reputation of this Road for Speed, Security and Comfort, will be more than sustained under the re-organization of its business.

In addition to the unequalled attractions of natural scenery heretofore conceded to this route, the recent troubles upon the border have associated numerous points on the road between the Ohio River and Harper's Ferry, with painful but instructive interest.

CONNECTIONS

At the Ohio River, with Cleveland and Pittsburg, Central Ohio, and Marietta and Cincinnati Railroads; and, through them with the whole Railway System of the Northwest, Central West and Southwest. At Harper's Ferry with the Winchester Road. At Washington Junction, with the Washington Branch for Washington City and the Lower Potomac. At Baltimore with seven daily trains for Philadelphia and New York.

TWO DOLLARS additional on Through Tickets to Baltimore or the Northern Cities, give the privilege of visiting Washington City en route—being $3.00 lower than the cost by any other line.

This is the only route route by which passengers can procure through tickets and through checks to Washington City.

It cures all if the directions are strictly followed, or the money will be refunded.

That Cough which you are neglecting may result in fatal Consumption, if some prompt remedy is not used.

Why sacrifice your life when your disease can be cured so quickly and at so small a cost?

What is the value of Money when compared to Health?

MORSE'S EXPECTORANT

Is warranted to break up the most troublesome cough in an incredibly short time. There is no remedy that shows more evidence of its merit than this for curing

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough. Influenza, Difficulty in Breathing, Asthma, Bronchitis, Laryngitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of patients in the advanced stage of the disease.

Morse's Expectorant is a vegetable anodyne, prepared expressly to meet the constant demand for a safe and efficient remedy for diseses of the

THROAT AND LUNGS,

Diseases of those organs are so prevalent and dangerous that a reliable Medicine is a necessary safeguard in every community. In such a remedy for family use, the absolute absence of danger from accidental overdoses, freedom from poisons, and the adaptation to patients of every age and condition, of either sex, is indispensible. These qualities are most combined in this preperation, and so admirably is it adapted to the cure of all diseases for which it is recommended, that its entire influence is brou't to bear against them, and so perfectly assist nature in its efforts to rid the system of disease, that the most delicate constitution can use it with perfect safety and a fixed certainty that a RELEIF AND A CURE WILL SPEEDILY FOLLOW

As Time—the great developor of Events—advances, these truths becomes wider and better known, and this Medicine has already become a simple necessity, with a growing demand, unprecedentd in the history of Medicine—the natural results of its INTRINSIC MERITS.

A single trial is all that is necessary to establish the fact that it is the most efficacious remedy ever offered to suffering humanity.

This medicine is put up in 50, 75 and $1,00 bottles and warranted to contain more and better material than any similar medicine introduced to the public in a medicine.

For sale by Druggists generally. July 1 y

HELMBOLD'S
GENUINE
PREPARATIONS,

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED" COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings.

This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the matter of calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for men, women and children.

H

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

For weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion, attended with the following Symptoms:

Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves, Trembling,
Horror of Disease, Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision, Pain in the Back,
Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin, Eruptions of the Face,
Universal Lassitude, Pallid Countenance,
Muscular System.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes), soon follow—

FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c.,

in one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases."

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

E

In many affections peculiar to Females, the EXTRACT BUCHU is unequaled by any other remedy, and for all complaints incident to the sex, or in the

DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE,

☞ SEE SYMPTOMS ABOVE.

☞ No Family should be without it.

L

Take no Balsam, Mercury, or unpleasant medicine for unpleasant and dangerous diseases.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

AND

IMPROVED ROSE WASH

Cures Secret Diseases

In all their stages little expense, little or no change of diet, no inconvenience, and NO EXPOSURE.

M

USE HELMBOLD'S
EXTRACT BUCHU

For all affections and diseases of these organs, whether EXISTING IN MALE OR FEMALE,

From whatever cause originating, and no matter how long standing. Diseases of these organs require the aid of a diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU
Is the Great Diuretic.

And it is certain to have the desired effect in all diseases for which it is recommended.

B

BLOOD! BLOOD! BLOOD!

Helmbold's

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA,

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the Skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect HELMBOLD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA. It cleanses and renovates the Blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought for, and now, for the first time the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

O

HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH,

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upward of 30,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basis, Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works:

See Dispensatory of the United States.

See Professor Dewees' Valuable Works on the Practice of Physic.

See remarks made by the celebrated Dr. Physic, Phila.

See remarks made by Dr. Ephraim McDowell, a celebrated Physician and Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland, and published in the Transactions of the King and Queen's Journal.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon. Being now used to the exclusion of all other Bitters in more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the U. S. government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞They are made of ingredients well known and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strengthening properties to correct the bilious derangement of the system and act like a charm when taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases;—Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Affections, Jaundice, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirit, Sallow Complexion.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity; so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞Ladies who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system. If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters have him send for him. Remember the name and take no other.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical journals, and having been adopted as a standard remedy by the Medical Profession, are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXEMPT FROM STAMP DUTY.

SPIRIT AND CONDITION OF THE SOUTH

Affairs in Georgia.

A writer from Griffin, says: 'Georgia is far from subjugated. The people are defiant, and threaten to secure control of the state through the convention. The organization of the secesh is perfect and they aim to have a majority in the convention and thus control the Governor. The returned rebel soldiers appear to be all right and disposed well toward the government. It is the citizens that make the trouble.

'General Steadman is co operating with Governor Johnson and is inclined to prompt measures. He says: 'The people are not subjugated yet, and that they must be before good order is established.' '

Virginia.

A CARD FROM CAPT. TYLER.—Captain Robert Tyler, late of the rebel army, and son of ex-President Tyler, publishes a card in the Richmond papers, in which he says: 'It is true, I believe, as a result of the recent struggle, that the entire people of Virginia have accepted the Union and the government of the United States in good faith. The institution of slavery, too, has been extinguished. As matters now stand, I cannot perceive what possible danger to the safety of the Union, or the peace of the country, could be caused by allowing an absolute choice of representatives. There are circumstances in the present state of the general and national policies which make it imperatively necessary, in my opinion, that those citizens who were prominently identified with the cause of the confederacy should exercise the right of political abstinence at this time.' This advice, coming from such a prominent rebel source, causes considerable comment in Richmond.'

COMING TO THEIR SENSES.—The Richmond Republic publishes a letter from 'one of the most distinguished divines in Richmond, and a true southern gentleman' in favor of 'harmonizing the hitherto discordant section,' and adds thereto the following:

'The most enlightened intellects and the warmest well-wishers of Virginia cannot fail to indorse these views. As we heard a late Confederate officer and a distinguished Virginia scholar observe, 'He is the truest friend of the south who is the truest friend of the union.'

'We have information that General Ewell expresses in strong terms his conviction of the duty of every southern citizen to yield a cordial support to the United States government—not in word only, but in deed; and that General Joseph E. Johnson and other high Confederate officers concur emphatically in that conviction.'

DESTRUCTION OF A COTTON FACTORY.—Petersburg, August 3.—The Ettrick cotton factory was destroyed by fire this morning. The fire originated in the packing room.

The Petersburg Express, of yesterday gives a full account of this destructive fire. It says that the Ettrick cotton factory was 'one of the largest and most beautiful mills in the south.' The burning of this factory will entail much suffering on the operatives and their families. Three hundred and fifty mouths were dependent upon it for bread.

North Carolina.

CHARLESTON.—A recent letter says that business is reviving slowly; buildings have been repaired and a number of stores have been opened by northern men; but the testimony is that it will require a long time to restore the former prosperity, until northern men with capital slip in. There is so much pride and feeling against the north that the old set prefer not to prosper rather than be under obligations to the north. A South Carolinian, one of the leading men of the state, said lately: 'He did not even know whether financial aid, if offered by the north, could consistently be accepted by South Carolina. He rather thought not, Nor did he believe that a true South Carolinian would like to sell any of his property to northern parties. State pride forbade it. But South Carolina would go to Europe to raise money there upon the security afforded by her real estate, and thus work out her own destinies.

Mississippi.

REBELLIOUS SPIRIT IN MISSISSIPPI—ROBBERIES AND MURDER.

A gentleman who has just returned from Holmes county, Mississippi, says The Nashville Press of the 2d, gives a dark picture of the condition of affairs there. A former citizen of the county returned there to get a large quanity of cotton which he had stored away. He found on inquiry that one of the most respectable physicians and planters in the neighborhood had confiscated the most part of it—because it was owned by a Yankee, i. e., a union man. An arrest and confinment in prison by the military authority, soon made the thief disgorge part of his stolen property. He still lies in jail. The rest of the cotton, some 60,000 bales, was burned by the citizens as soon as they learned that the owner had come for it. The people there are more violently rebellious than ever. They take the amnesty oath, and then curse the unionists and the government more furiously than ever.

It is a common thing to hear them remark: 'Well, have you taken the vote?' 'Yes and I am a bigger rebel by a long ways than I ever was.' A merchant recently took out over $10,000 worth of goods to one of the adjoining counties. He had hardly opened his goods when he was visited by a small party of citizens disguised, some of whom he recognized as his neighbors, who robbed him of every dollars' worth of goods. The poor merchant went to the nearest post and procured a guard of forty soldiers to arrest the guerrillas. The rebel citizens rallied to the number of over one hundred, bushwhacked our soldiers and forced them to retreat. The bushwhackers then, arrested the merchant, stripped him of his boots and hat, watch and fifteen hundred dollars in money, and then fired fifteen bullets through his body, and left him a mangled, hideous corpse. We apprehend that something severer than an amnesty oath or a franchise oath is needed to punish a population so barbarous and bitterly disloyal as those Mississippi outlaws.

Texas.

COTTON.

Concerning the cotton crop of Texas the New Orleans papers make some interesting statements.

The crop of Texas, added to what is on hand, is estimated at 200,000 bales. The entire stock on hand in the south is estimated at 800,000 bales. Outside of Texas, the growing crop will fall short of half a million of bales. One million and a quarter of bales is the highest estimate given. High prices are predicted on this short supply—prices greatly above the value of any previous year's exports, which, says The Houston Telegraph, ought to enable very many of the planters and merchants to pay their debts in full, or to some extent satisfy their creditors.

Taxing National Securities.

The State of New Hampshire has passed a law placing a tax of twenty-five per cent, upon the income derived from United States securities; and the Legislature of Connecticut has a similar measure before it for consideration. These matters having attracted the attention of the HON. FREEMAN CLARKE, Comptroller of the currency, he has written a letter to a bank officer in Hartford upon the subject, from which we give some extracts:

The law exempting from taxation Government securities is so specific and clear that it cannot be questioned. The bonds were disposed of, and purchased with the provision of law as a part of the contract, that they were to be exempt from taxation, and the country has received an equivalent for such exemption, in the additional price received for the bonds,

Can any one believe that the obligations of the Government would have sold for anything like the price realized, or at any price at all commensurate with their value, if it had been supposed possible that they could be taxed by State laws, directly or indirectly? If your Legislature can impose a tax of fifteen per centum on the income derived from Government securities, it is just as competent for it to impose a tax of fifty or one hundred per cent.

If this action was confined to the two States, the result woul be simply the people of New Hampshire and Connecticut of the privilege of holding or owning Government securities. It is very clear that the States would not get the tax, as the owners would sell the securities to parties out of the State, or go out themselves with the securities.

If, however other Northern States should follow their example, and it should be conceded that they had the right to do so, the credit of the Government and the national currency would be practically destroyed.

I think I am justified in saying there is not the least danger of the proposed act, if it should become a law, being sustained by the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Government loans were effected in times of imminet peril to the nation, on the basis of non-taxation of incomes derived from this source. They could not have been raised unless some extraordinary means had been resorted to. They had the sanction of express law under the constitution. The right of Congress to pass such a law has been affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States, Chief Justice MARSHALL pronouncing the decision; and surely if the Government has a right to borrow at all, it has a right to prescribe the terms on which its loans shall be issued. The New York Tribune, commenting on this attempt to tax incomes derived from Government securities, says:

We are surprised that the Legislature of loyal States like Connecticut and New Hampshire should attempt to tax income from national debt, in defiance of an express stipulation of the Government. They should have left this poor business to the Legislatures of New Jersey and Delaware, (neither of which, we believe, has attempted it.] The Government has power and the will to keep its faith; and any assault upon it only weakens the national credit, thereby increasing public burdens, yet doing no one any good. Let us have no more of this. It is already established, we believe, that the use of Government funds, say as a basis of bank circulation, can be taxed. That ought to suffice.

We think that, upon a careful reconsideration of the matter, the States mentioned will, as soon as practicable, repeal any law they may have passed, in moments of excitement, that comes in conflict with the laws of the United States. We believe there is ample cause, however, to question the justice and expediency of some of the revenue laws of the United States. They need thorough revision and modification, and will unquestionably meet with the earliest consideration of Congress. But, while this may be the case, do not let us attempt to repudiate our sacred obligations, or ignore and trample under foot the plighted faith of the nation.—Winona, Rep.

HORACE GREELY AND THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

Correspondence of the Cincinnati Gazette.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5,—Every year somebody thinks it worth while to start the statement that Horace Greely is going to leave the Tribune--that the stockholders are about to turn him out, or something of that sort. I believe it was Senator Anthony's paper, in Providence, R. I., that first revived the story this time; but it has been repeated and modified, and enlivened with so many varieties of the lie circumstantial, that at last people begin to believe it, Somewhat puzzled, and desirous to know for my personal satisfaction whether there could possibly be any truth in the story which, if true, was of concern to the journalism of the nation, I wrote over to the veteran, inquiring about it. His reply was so characteristic that I am tempted to betray his confidence by printing it,--at the risk of acquiring the unenviable reputation of a betrayer of private cofidence.

NEW YORK, August 4.—FRIEND REID: Thank you for yours of the third. Your inquiries are laughable. The facts are these:

We elect an editor of the Tribune annually by a stock vote(one hundred shares one vote each.) Once, many years ago, two votes were cast against me for editor, none before or since.

I have never heard that any stockholder desired my withdrawal from the Tribune.

I mean to reduce my work on it at the earliest moment, and I have so stated to all who have a right to know. I am overwhelmed with labor. I grow old, and want rest and comfort. My idea is to let some one else take the laboring oar, receive the kicks and cuffs, and let me farm a little, fish some and write when in the spirit. Such is my dream. I hope to realize at least of it during the year 1866; but I may not till some time later. You know how circumstnces control everything.

At present I am writing about an average of two columns per day for the Tribune—too much; I mean to write less whenever I can.

That's all I know about the matter. Perhaps they know more at the Herald office.

Vol. II., I grieve to say, does not get on so fast as it should. I have much other work, a very sick wife, and am not very well myself, and the weather is good for corn and turnips, but bad for history. I hope for improvement in many, if not most respects. Yours.

(Signed) HORACE GREELY.

THE AQUIA CREEK AFFAIR.

False Report of a Negro Insurrection.

Correspondence of the N. Y. Tribune.

The true version of the affair at Aquia Creek, and its results, are substantially as follows: On the afternoon of the 1st inst. an altercation occurred between a white and black laborer, during which the white threatened to beat out the brains of the black, seizing a crowbar at the same moment. The black at once put himself on the defensive, and by threatening language cowed the white, who returned to his gang and resumed his labor. The same evening the whites all joined together and proceeded to the negro quarters, took the negro out and by intimidating him by threats of shooting if he attempted to escape or offer resistance, stripped him of his clothing, formed a circle, and the man with whom he had had the misunderstanding during the day was permitted to beat the negro with a bundle of switches firmly tied together., until the white man ceased his torturing efforts from pure exhaustion. That same night the negroes joined together, and arming themselves with clubs and spades, marched in a body toward the camp of the white laborers, with the avowed intention of avenging the injuries and insults offered their comrade and fellow-laborer. The whites seeing their approach, incontinently fled, and on arriving at a village in the neighborhood called Game Point, circulated the wildest rumors about a negro rising. The negroes observing the flight of the whites, returned to their quarters and to their beds, from which they were aroused about day-light the next morning by the presence and noisy demonstrations of the whites, who had procured the assistance of a company of the 5th Maryland Volunteers from Stafford Court House, led on by Lt. E. C. Lefeber, who immediately began to break in the doors and windows, and to drag the negroes from their beds. The negroes, frightened, leaped from the windows and were shot as they made their appearance One was killed outright, and several severely wounded. The whites were all armed with shot guns. Gen. T. M. Harris, commanding department of South-East Virginia, has the matter under investigation; the white laborers, about 40 in number, all discharged Confederate soldiers, have been arrested, tried and sentenced to service in the chain gang of Fredericksburg for 60 days. The superintendent of the gangs on the railroad, E. H. Thompson, has been sentenced to six months imprisonment for encouraging the whites to these unlawful proceedings. The Lieutenant is to be court martialed, and the negroes have been sent back to their work, confident of protection in their rights and encouragement in their industry.

A Novel Way to Make Money.

We find in an exchange the following announcement:

"A report of the trial of Miss Harris is to be published under the supervision of her attorney, the proceeds of the sale going to the benefit of the young lady herself.

It is not enough that Miss Harris has taken the life of a man, urged thereto by motives of revenge,(in a fit of insanity as a Washington jury have failed to make nine tenths or the people believe) but she is now willing to make a little pecuniary capital from the sale of a prospective pamphlet which will furnish the world with the details of the shooting of her quondam lover, and her trial and acquittal therefor(by a Washington jury.) We suppose Miss Harris has a right, if she chooses, to accept the proceeds from the sale of such pamphlet, nor shall we quarrel with the exhibition she makes of herself in so doing. We cannot but admire the sublime coolness of a lady who can thus speculate in the dead body of a man whose blood still reddens her hands, and who expiated with his life the sin of trifling with her juvenile; refusing to marry where he had expressed affection. Who will envy her though the possession of money thus obtained? "We wonder if Judas enjoyed the silver price of his apostacy, Arnold his Brittish gold, or anybody else, living or dead, the profit derived from the commission of crime, such as murder for instance(defined by a Washington jury to be justifiable homicide.) "Make money, honestly if you can, but, still, make money," is a rule of universal application, and one Miss Harris is not disposed to disregard. A doting wife once lost a husband by drowning, when, after many days, the bloated corpse was brought home, it was full of eels. She carefully preserved the eels, and concluded that the best way was to set him again. Miss Harris will in like manner benefit her purse at the expense of a life dear at least to friends and kindred, the actual difference between her and the thrifty housewife consisting in the fact the body of a man from which the latter extracted eels, met an accidental death, while the dead Burroughs was hurried into another world without a moments warning by the hand of a terribly malignant, exasperated female. If she can eat eels taken from his yet warm and and bleeding body, we wish her joy of such a ghoulish appetite. Although the spectacle might shock delicate nerves as something monstrous and horrible, there is no "law agin it" that we are aware of.—Western R. R. Gazette.

Stupendous Frauds in New York

The failure of the well-known banking house of Morris Ketchum & Co., of New York, together with a knowledge of the stupendous frauds which proceeded and induced that event, has created the most profound sensation in New York city, and indeed in financial circles throughout the country. Judging from the meager glimpses that have thus far been afforded of these frauds, they will turn out, we believe, to be the greatest and most extrodinary that have ever been perpetrated in this country, and they are rivaled by but few in the history of similar crimes in the great centers of population in Europe. The leading facts, so far as known, may be briefly stated. It appears that Mr. Morris, Ketchum, the head of the house thus suddenly involved in bankruptcy and disgrace, retired from the establishment some months since, turning the business over to his sons, who, however, still retained his name in the firm, though he was no longer interested in or responsible for their transaction, Since that time the house is believed to have engaged in very heavy operations in gold, by which it has been a loser to a prodigious amount. In order to make up these losses, Mr. Edwin Ketchum, the most active of the sons of Mr. Morris Ketchum, is reported to have robbed the vaults of the house in which were kept confidential deposits of bonds and other securities belonging to persons not connected with the business. The amount of these robberies is variously estimated at from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000. It is also ascertained that he has forged gold certificates to an enormous amount, giving them as collateral securities for moneys obtained to speculate with; and, in addition thereto, that he has defrauded the house of Charles Graham, who, during a recent illness, confided to young Ketchum the management of his business, to the amount of about $250,000. Both houses have consequently gone under, while alarm has been communicated to every moneyed establishment, not alone in New York, but even in the large cities of the West and many of the frightened individuals who have been spending the dog-days at the fashionable watering places have had their serene enjoyment broken in upon and are now hastening home to supervise closely the condition of their cash-books and bank accounts.

The vast sums of money thus misappropriated by Ketchum appears to have been sunk in the gambling maelstrom of Wall street. It is even suggested that they were lost in putting up the price of gold. But thus far little is known of the precise manner in which the money was squandered, and even the extent of the frauds cannot be ascertained for some time.—Winona Rep.

Movement of Cotton.

The receipts of cotton at New York begin to show a very large increase. The imports of last week amounted to nearly 20,000 bales, and for the month of July were nearly 60,000 bales, which largely exceeds the average rate of receipts for the most active periods of peace. The Shipping List, which is reputed as good authority upon cotton movements, makes the total receipts to July 29,340,015 bales; but a comparison of its own statements for the past month will show an error of about 35,000 bale. Thus the receipts to the 29th ult., have been 307,025 bales. The exports from New York for the same period have been, in round numbers, 32,000 bales; leaving for domestic consumption 275,015 bales for the eleven months. In the year 1859-60, the total amount consumed in the States north of Virginia, was 792,521 bales.

Estimating the price of cotton South at thirty-five cents per pound, the value of the cotton received at New York in June would be about $9,000,000. Should the receipts there continue at this rate, it is clear that we must soon experience a material improvement of business, arising from the sale of goods to the cotton States.

The sum involved in the robberies and forgeries perpetrated by a member of the firm of Morris Ketchum, Sons & Co., of New York, is variously estimaed at from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000. The perpetrator of the crimes has disappeared.

Harry Leslie, the acrobat, came near meeting his death on the 10th inst. He had crossed and recrossed on the rope near the Niagara suspension bridge, and completed one half of the second trip by crossing to the Canada side with a peach basket on each foot. On returning for the last time he essayed a new feat, by placing a bucket of water in a tin frame on his head, and holding a similar bucket in each hand; with the balance-pole. On reaching the middle he slipped and stumbled, causing the three buckets to fall. Still holding the pole, he clung to the rope, struggling to right himself. In a minute or two he succeeded, and reached the American shore with a brisk step, amid cheers and congratulations.

HUMOROUS.

Every plain girl has one consolation: If she is not a pretty young lady, she will, if she lives, be a pretty old one.

—Which is the easiest to spell, Fiddle-de-dee or Fiddle-de-dum? Why the former, because it spells with more e's.

—That was a smart youngster who, hearing his mother remark that she was fond of music' exclaimed, 'Then why don't you buy me a drum?'

—A wag, on being told it was the fashion to dine later and later every day, said, 'I suppose it will end at last in not dining till to-morrow.'

—A private in the army recently sent a letter to his sweetheart, closing with, 'May Heaven cherish and keep you from yours truly John Smith,'.

—'Ah, Charley,' said a little fellow to another, 'we are going to have a cupola on our house.' 'Pooh! that's nothin',' rejoined the other, 'papa's going to get a mortgage on ours.'

—One day the philosopher Bias found himself in the same vessel with a crowd of sorry scoundrels, A tempest came on, and instantly the whole band began to invoke the succor of the gods. 'Be quiet, you wretches!' said the sage; 'if the gods perceive that you are here, we are gone!'

—Saxe, the joker and poet, was once taking a trip in a steamer, when he fell in with a lively young lady, to whom he made himself very agreeable. Of course he made an impression upon the damsel, who said at parting, 'Goodbye, Mr. Saxe, but I fear you'll soon be forgetting me!' 'Ah, miss,' said the inveterate punster, 'if I were not a married man already, you may be sure I'd be for getting you!'

—Charles Lamb was in the habit of wearing a white cravat, and in consequence was sometimes taken for a clergyman. Once, at a dinner table, among a large number of guests, his white cravat caused such a mistake to be made, and he was called on to 'say grace.' Looking up and down the table, he asked, in his inimitable lisping manner, 'Is there no cl-cl-clergyman present?' 'No, Sir,' answered a guest. 'Th-then,' said Lamb, bowing his head, 'let us thank God.'

—An old criminal was once asked what was the first step that led him to ruin, when he answered: 'The first step was cheating a printer out of two years' subscription. When I had done that, the devil had got such a grip on me that I could never shake him off.'

WELL SAID.—Lute Taylor of the Prescott Journal writing to the La Crosse Republican says:

There is one effect of this war which I think is not fully appreciated. It has brought the people nearer to the government. We had come to think the Government was a great way off—that it was a thing for the President, and the Cabinet, and Congress. It protected us, but made few demands upon us. But now, each man realizes that he is an integral portion of the Government. We now know that the Nation is a sort of Mutual Insurance Company—that the 'Stars and Stripes,' are a stock concern, for the Directors have made an assessment and we are all paid in something. Some have given their lives, some their limbs, all have paid more or less of their means. Yes. our Nationality means more than it did, before. The 'Old Flag" is more to us. We have invested in it. Its are fairer to the sight, dearer to the eye than ever before. The father and mother love it more, for their boy died to vindicate its honor. The wife gazes on it with a tearful interest, for her husband bore it into the 'jaws of death,' and another took it when he fell.—The boy, too young to comprehend its significance now, in after years will remember with pride that his father's arm helped to uphold it in the hour of danger. The thousands of boys and young men, who have periled life in its defence, will regard it with lasting devotion, and guard it with jealous care.—Yes, the people are nearer to the Government than before, and in this nearness is their and its safety.

'Broad ribbons of lilly and rose,,

GOING HOME.

Circumstances connected with a long contemplated visit to the "old folks at home," renders it necessary for us to go immediately, and we shall therefore leave on the Saturday morning stage for Quincy, Illinois. We have made arrangements by which the UNION will not suffer during our absence. We hope to resume the chair editorial in about four weeks [ED. UNION.].

A REVIEW OF THE GUBERNATORIAL CONTEST BY THE ST. PAUL PRESS.

The opinions of the press concerning the various candidates for Governor as published in the St. Paul Press were briefly noticed in our issue of last week, but owing to the lateness of the hour we were obliged to forego comment upon the editorial of the Press which accompanied the group of extracts. The article commences in that vein of humility and disinterestedness for which the "organ" is so noted. No one can read it without being impressed with the awful burden of impartiality and lofty patriotism under which the editor must have labored whilst transcribing his ideas. No one can be so blind as not to see that the writer was making an ingenious attempt, under an assumed garb of fairness, to advance the claims of the former [?] editor and proprietor of that paper, Col. Marshall, above that of the other gentlemen named. The political writer of that sheet from the experiences of the past knew that some people kill their friends by kindness, and acting upon this knowledge, the Press has not dared to come out boldly, and put up Marshall as its candidate. It commenced the campaign by attempting to spread the idea, that a military necessity existed that there should be a man of that class nominated for Governor, and did so far succeed before the return of the "boys in blue" in making the people believe that the soldiers would demand the nomination of such a person—a species of demagogism which has rapidly been dispelled by our returned veterans. This military necessity or policy being exploded and ridiculed throughout the State by all sensible men, and by none more heartily than by the boys from the war, we now state that of the three candidates mentioned by the Press Mr. Gilfillan is the only one who during the war, was ever sworn and mustered in as a private soldier, and carried his musket as a private soldier, for which he is entitled to no credit except that he did his duty as a citizen when the Capital of the nation was in danger from an advancing foe already in sight of its dome, just the same perhaps as the other candidates would have done if present at Washington at the time of the attack of General Breckenridge. It may be that the Editors of the Press would have done the same.

Against the candidate of the Press—Col. Marshall we have nothing to say. If he is nominated we will give him our hearty support, but we do protest against the manner in which that paper speaks of the other candidates. Knowing that its direct assaults would redound to the benefit of the person attacked, it seeks to accomplish its ends by innuendoes.

In speaking of Mr. Gilfillan, it says: "He has been an active politician and consistant republican [if we except the so-called union movement in 1861 in which his action was calculated to betray the republican party to the tender mercies of the Pioneer, and its copperhead supporters]." The exception alluded to, occurred in the summer of 1861 after the disastrous battle of Bull Run, when the most active influential men of the republican party throughout the union with all the great and recognized organs of the party in nearly every state, except the St. Paul Press, advocated the policy of suspending party lines, rallying in one mass all the loyal elements of the country for the salvation of the union. After action in accordance with such policy by the republicans of Vermont, New York, Ohio, and some other States, many of the soundest republicans in this State, among whom was Mr. Gilfillan, aided in getting up Union candidates for the express purpose of preventing the copperhead leaders of the democracy from organizing and arraying an element of power against the Government.

The majority of the republican leaders in this State failed to imitate the action of the union men in other States, and to follow the advice of the leading organs of the party, and did not co-operate, and so the Union ticket was withdrawn; the democracy putting up a ticket of State officers upon a disloyal platform.

For the part taken by Mr. Gilfillan in this matter the Press would make its readers beleive that he would or did betray his party. To exhibit the fairness of the Press, we will state that after the Union movement in 1861 of which the Press complains had failed as a State affair, that same paper advocated a union ticket nominated by its friends in a Ramsey County union convention at which time was placed in nomination for the legislature and county officers eleven candidates, five of them being democrats whose claims to an election were strongly advocated by the Press and who rendered its support to them with the exception of Mr. Acker the most radical republican upon the ticket and he was defeated solely through the attacks made upon him through the columns of the Press.

We have cited these incidents in the political history of the State, not for the purpose of disturbing matters of the past, but simply to exhibit to our readers the real motive of the "official paper of the State", in covertly charging party infidelity on one of the candidates whose name will be presented before the Union convention. That gentleman, Mr. Gilfillan, being thoroughly identified with, and heartily laboring for the success of the Republican party from its origin up to this time, long and well known throughout the State as a consistant, zealous, able, member of the party, may with the utmost confidence leave the issue of such a question to the convention soon to assemble.

The Press is printed in the city of St. Paul. It is represented to have in that place nearly one thousand subscribers. Its editors, proprietors, and its candidate Col. Marshall as well as Mr. Gilfillan reside there. The two latter for more than ten years citizens of St. Paul, we await with some interest the decision of the Republicans of Ramsey county between the favorite of "our party organ" and his opponent.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Several communications which have been lying in our drawer for a number of days, we have just found time to examine. A communication from "Sidney" is not published because it has not the full signature of the writer. We shall strictly adhere to the rule that all letters for publication must be accompanied by the name of the writer. "Sidney's" views concerning the theory of the election of officers are good. The people should not suffer a few demagogues to control the nominations of officers. But the only remedy for this is for the citizens of the various towns to appear in force at town caucus, and by a fair vote make their nominations of delegates to the higher assembly. As it is in these meetings only that the perfect command of the people can be heard, if they have a choice, it may have its legitimate force at the highest political assemblage by a judicious action at the primary meetings. It is true that in order to act understandingly the aspirants should be known, and so far as the office of Governor is concerned, we have published those who are most prominent in the field. It is nevertheless well for the people to remember that they are to elect delegates to choose for them and where no instructions can be given them such men only should be selected who have the confidence of the public.

The communication "the war protracted" is received, and would have been published but for its length. We kindly repeat that our paper is not large enough to admit of lengthy disquisitions upon one subject. We are probably as much perplexed as the writer in handling a subject in a given space, and our own anxiety is lest we are occupying space which our patrons would prefer to see filled with current news rather than opinions of our own. It is more difficult to abridge than to expand an article and as we are daily obliged to exercise our powers of abrigement, we must require the same precaution with correspondents. Communications should never exceed two pages of foolscap written always on one side only. One half column is as much as we can usually spare for one subject. With these suggestions will our correspondents begin again and, as the printer says, please "follow copy."

CHANGE—NEW DRESS.

The interest of H. J. Peck in the Shakopee Argus is transferred to his partner M. C. Russell, who will be the sole proprietor and editor. Mr. Russell is competent to publish a first-rate live country paper, and we are pleased to notice that he is able to have the entire ownership of the Argus. He has gone to the extravagance of furnishing the Argus with a new dress, which very much improves its appearance. Fine feathers make fine birds. Well, well, well! It's all we can do, in these times of exhorbitant prices, to furnish wife and baby with dresses, and as they are of course uppermost in our thoughts, the UNION must continue to plod along in its rusty habiliments until it can earn its own new clothes. We hope to inspire it with a little pride, which may prompt it to fresh endeavors to "make a raise" and dress up like its neighbors.

CLAIM AGENCY.

The U. S. Sanitary Commission since the close of the rebellion, has already turned its attention to another field of patriotic beneficence. Under its direction, Army and Navy Claim Agencies, which will attend gratuitously to the collection of the claims of soldiers, and sailors and those who represent them, are being established throughout the United States. The branch societies and all persons who feel an interest in aiding those who are the representatives of our fallen heroes, are requested to give notice of the establishment of these agencies in order that they may receive its gratuitous benefits. John Peller Esq. of St. Paul is the agent for this State to whom the communications of soldiers and those who are entitled to pensions or back pay by virtue of their decease, may be addressed.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

The bob-tail of the g-r-e-a-t democratic war horse has just 38 straggling hairs left. These were fifed into a body by virtue of hard blowing, and met at Ingersoll's Hall, St. Paul, on the 16th inst. The subject of their deliberation was, how to obtain a new growth. The only restorative to be found was the adoption of a column of resolutions, and an adjournment until the 7th of September to watch the result.

CENSUS.

The Chaska Herald says the population of Carver county is 8,704. In 1860 it was 5,106 showing an increase of 3,598 in five years. The population of Chaska is 610, while that of Carver is 431.

The Mantorville Express says the population of Dodge county is 6,221 —The population of Mantorville is 1,264. The per centage of increase is not mentioned.

The population of Freeborn county is 5,678. In 1860 it was 3,360.

The population of Filmore county is 17,599. In 1860 it was 13,562.

The population of Dakota county is 12,418, an increase of 3,325 in five years.

The population of Hastings is 2,487.

Chisago county has a population of 2,175.

GEN. GRANT COMING.

We are gratified to be enabled to announce that Gen. Grant has accepted the invitation to visit our city, which we have previously mentioned had been extended to him. The Northwestern Packet Company have generously placed at his disposal the steamer Itasca, and he will reach our city next Friday.—That he will receive a cordial welcome is beyond question, but steps should be immediately taken to give the HERO of the war an ovation which his gallant services deserve.—St. Paul Press Aug. 22nd.

GEN. SCHENCK'S PLAN.

Gen. Schenck is running a tilt with John Sherman for the United States Senatorship in Ohio, and has laterly made several speeches. He is in favor of negro suffrage, but instead of reaching that end directly, proposes to amend the United States Constitution, making the basis of Congressional representation dependent upon the number of voters.—This will, of course, largely reduce the Southern representation, and he argues that rather than submit to this they will extend the right of suffrage.

Whether the practical result would be as Gen. Schenck anticipates, we are not prepared to say, but it would certainly give rise to a strong negro suffrage party in the South. The eagerness of the "reconstruction" chaps to secure a pardon and a snug office, shows plainly the ruling passion, and they certainly could not be touched in a sorer spot than by the reduction of the number of Congressmen to which they are now entitled.—St. Paul Press.

News in Brief.

The Norfolk (Virginia) Day Book is informed that Messrs. Brown, Underdown & Co., will in a few days, commence the herculean task of raising the iron clad Merrimac, known by some as the Virginia. It will be remembered that she was blown up on the 11th of May, 1862, at the time of the evacuation of Norfolk by the rebel troops.

—The subscriptions of the Washington secessionists for Mrs. Jeff Davis amount to $9,510.

—The Canadian Ministry has given assurance that there is to be no material change in the customs, excise, or stamp duties during the present session of Parliament.

The Colorado Constitutional Convention adjourned on the 12th instant. The constitution framed by it is to be submitted to the people on the third Tuesday of next month.

—No more National Banks are to be authorized, the full amount of currency to be issued having been already allotted.

—There have lately been so many flagrant manifestations of disloyalty at Fayetteville North Carolina, that the military authorities have found it necessary to garrison the place with colored troops.

—The exports of specie from New York on Saturday, amounted to $201,674.

—Governor Bramlette has appointed Mason Brown (Conservative) State Treasury of Kentucky, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr Garrard, late incumbent and Conservative candidate for re election.

RETURN OF EX REBS.—About two hundred men, formerly in the service of the defunct Confederacy, who have been doing duty on the frontier for a year or two past, have been mustered out of the Federal service, and will be forwarded to their homes in the Southern States. They leave this morning.—Press Aug. 23.

— It is stated that Provisional Governor Sharkey, of Mississippi, has not kept the promises he made to the President, and that, in consequence, his removal is not improbable.

—The latest election returns from Kentucky indicate the success of Neale (Union), by one to two thousand majority. The result in the lower house of the Legislature is doubtful, with a probability of a small Union majority.

—The Wertz military commission met on Saturday, organized in secret session, and adjourned till Monday.

—The opinion is expressed in certain quarters that Wertz will not be tried after all, but that he will be allowed to turn state's evidence on the trial of Jeff. Davis, for the purpose of proving that the latter was the original instigator of the barbarities practiced upon Union prisoners.

—During the week ending on Saturday, the Treasury Department redeemed certificates of indebtedness to the amount of $9,000,000, and destroyed $410,600 of mutilated currency.

—Gov. Pierpont has written a letter to the Secretary of War, recommending the withdrawal of colored troops from Virginia, alleging that that they are obnoxious to loyal citizens. Fayette Mc Mullen, who was the bearer of the letter, had an interview with Secretary Stanton on Friday.

JAIL DELIVERY.

From the Winona Republican of Saturday.

On Friday evening, while the keeper of the Jail was engaged in supplying the prisoners with their suppers, the two men recently incarcerated for the robbery of Gernes, on the Northern Belle, succeeded in affecting their escape. It appears that in order to permit the prisoners to eat their suppers with some degree of ease, the handcuff on the right hand of each was unfastened—a proceeding which had been daily practiced, and which was considered perfectly safe at that time of the day. Taking advantage of the circumstances, however, the prisoners, on Friday evening, as stated, suddenly pounced upon the keeper, knocked him down, gaged him, placed the handcuffs so lately taken from their own wrists upon him, dragged him into the now vacant cell, locked the door, and taking the key and the keeper's revolver with them, quietly departed, and have not since been seen. The whole affair was executed almost instantly, and so noiselessly that no alarm was produced.

The unfortunate jailor was permitted to lie in the cell some time before it was discovered what had occurred, and ere he could be rescued from his place of confinement it was found necessary to break open the door with a sledge hammer. This done, the handcuffs had to be taken off with a saw, the key to unlock them having been carried off by the escaped prisoners.

These men are named John Aslop and James R. Williams, and they hail from Michigan. They were committed to jail for the robbery of Charles Gerns, on the steamer Northern Belle, early this week. They are evidently desperate characters, and no effort should be omitted to have them re-arrested. Sheriff King was absent at the time of their escape, in pursuit of one of the Rochester bank robbers.

More Evidence of a Peace with the Sioux

Washington Aug 18.

Telegrams were received from Major Gen. Pope to-day at the Indian Bureau, containing a communication from Gen. Sully, now conducting the Indian expedition in Dakota, announcing that there is no doubt that a permanent peace can now be secured by the Government with the Sioux and Cheyenne tribes on the Upper Missouri river. In endorsing this intelligence and referring it to Secretary Harlan, Gen Pope suggests that no civil or military person in that section resided in by these Indians should be appointed as Commissioners for treating with them.

In addition to the above Gen. Sully remarks that in that quarter the inhabitants are apprehensive that the coming winter will be one of great severity, and it is feared that the troops will suffer even greater than they did last season. All efforts the present season to produce garden vegetables for the use of camp was a failure, by reason of insects.

THE WERTZ TRIAL.

Arraignment of the Prisoner and Adjournment of the Court.

WASHINGTON, August 22.

The motion to quash the charges and specifications against Capt. Wertz made by defendants counsel, was argued principally by Judge Hughes, who contended that they were too general and uncertain, and that the offences charged were cognizable by civil and not military authorities. The commission overruled the motion and the prisoner then pleaded not guilty to the charge against him. Col. Chipman the Judge Advocate, suggested that the prisoner be remanded to the Old Capitol prison and that the court now adjourn. The Court, without a formal vote acquiesced.

Judge Hughes wanted to know to what time court had adjourned.

Col. Chipman replied that he would notify counsel of the re-assembling of the court, and then requested the witnesses in attendance to give information as to where they resided, and instructed them not to leave the city until properly discharged.

Judge Hughes said he would like to be heard.

Col. Chipman replied that under the parliamentary law there could now be no debate.

Maj. Gen. Wallace said the court stands adjourned, consequently there can be no argument.

JUDGE HUGHES—The prisoner having been arraigned, we enter our protest against dismissing the court or an indefinite adjournment. We ask for the discharge of the prisoner or that the court proceed with his trial.

Maj. Gen. Wallace reported that the court had adjourned. During this colloquy the prisoner was removed from the court room by the military guard.

The adjournment without a day having been named for the re-assembling of the court, took the counsel and spectators by surprise. No reason is as yet known why this course is taken, and it is tho't that the charge of conspiracy may be withdrawn.

JEFF. DAVIS.

ALBANY, Aug. 22.

R. H. Gillett, one of the counsel for Jefferson Davis, in a note to the Albany Argus, says Mr. Davis has no more information concerning his trial than others have. In a letter from Mr. Davis dated the 15th inst., to Gillett, he says "I am still ignorant of the charges against me. Your letter gave me the first notice of the indictment." Mr, Davis requests Mr Gillett to have conference with his other counsel so there may be no delay in trial when the time comes.

A direct application to the proper authority asking to be informed, if not improper, when, where, and before what tribunal Mr Davis is to be tried, remains unanswered, because it has not been actually determined by the President.

—Gen. Sibley received yesterday official information of his appointment as Commissioner to effect a treaty of peace with the hostile Indians. The entire Commission consists of Gov. Newton Edwards, of Dakota, Maj. Gen. S. R. Curtiss, Brig. Gen. H. H. Sibley, Edward B. Taylor, Northwestern Superintendent of Indian affairs, of Omaha, A. Gurnsey, of Janesville, Wis,, and Henry W. Reid, of Dubuque, Iowa. Their plan of operations has not yet been determined on. It will be seen by our dispatches that Gen. Sully thinks this is a propitious time to settle the Indian war by a treaty of peace.—Press Aug 20.

PROVOST MARSHAL,—Col. Averill, Assistant Provost Marshal General, having asked to be relieved from duty as soon as the process of mustering out and discharging the remaining Minnesota regiments is completed, Col. Cahill, of the 23d regiment, Convalescent Corps, has been sent to this city to succeed him. The change will probably take place about the 10th proximo,—Press Aug 22.

—Later dispatches state that the assignment of Morris Ketchum covers all his property, worth from $2,000,000 to $2,500,000; that the losses of Graham, exclusive of the forged checks redeemed by him, amount to $137,000; and that the total losses by young Ketchum's operations will not much exceed $4,000,000.

—The banking house of Messrs. Cole, Sumner & Co., of La Crosse, was obliged to close its doors on Thursday, owing to the failure of Morris Ketchum, Son & Co., of New York.

—It is rumored at Fortress Monroe that Jeff Davis will be tried at that point, if proper accommodations can be obtained for the court and witnesses.

THE AUTOMATIC ORGAN

In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly announce the greatest triumph in musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments, with double bellows and two pedals for the feet to operate but the want of the reversed or Exhaustion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated.

Another objection to this method of blowing, was that, both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell. Within the past two years, instruments constructed on this European plan of "double blowers," have been manufactured in this country, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an appendage is nearly impossible.

Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of tone. We predict for this invention a brilliant future.

THE MELODEON & SCHOOL ORGAN.

For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly. With our increased facilities, we feel warranted in assuring our patrons that their orders will be promptly met, and solicit a continuance of their patronage.

BARBACUE.

Pursuant to the call of last week a meeting was held on last Wednesday evening to take the necessary steps for promoting the proposed soldier's reception. Daniel Buck Esq., was called to the chair, and W. B. Griswold appointed secretary. The sentiment of the meeting seemed to be to have a general barbicue, or jubilee, in which soldiers, citizens, and everybody else with their wives and children may participate. In order that the entire country may take an interest in the gathering, it was thought best to appoint committees in every town. It is intended further that all joining counties will participate. The time for the grand gathering will be Thursday September 14th. The following persons are appointed a committee of arrangements:

—The county convention to select delegates to the State convention will meet to-morrow afternoon, at two o'clock at the City Hall.

—Go to Clarke & Porters to buy Boots, Shoes and Leather. Opposite the Levee.

For County Treasurer.—We are authorized to announce the name of Captain J. R. Beatty as a candidate for Treasurer of Blue Earth County, subject to the decision of the Republican county convention.

Personal.—We should have noticed last week the return of Dr. C. E. Putts who has lately been on a professional tour to Blue Earth city and intermediate points. Those desiring anything in the line of dentistry will find him at his office over Johnson's store.

Return those S[illegible].—Some one borrowed a sledge hammer at the shop of Kunselman & Scott. They do not recollect who the person was, but would be glad to have it returned forthwith.

—Oren Thayer who is the balance wheel in our printing establishment, presented us with a splendid plate of honey. His father has eighteen hives, one of which was robbed for our benefit.

From Vernon.—In the storm of last Saturday, the house of Mr Colvin Fleming who resides in the town of Vernon was badly damaged. The roof and the entire upper story was blown off. No injury to the family. Mr. Fleming went to Garden City on monday for assistance in repairing the damage.

Presbyterian Church.—As an item of information to those who wish to rent pews in the Presbyterian Church, we are instructed to say, that no pews will be rented 'till on a given day after the Dedication, due notice of which will be given through the papers and also from the pulpit.

Meeting of County Board.—The board of County Commissioners will meet at the office of the Register of Deeds in Mankato on Tuesday the 5th of September 1865 to hear appeal and to equalize the assessments of this county. All persons feeling agrieved are requested to attend. By order

3 w A. HANNA Chairman,
Mankato, August 18th 1865.

Personal.—We had the pleasure of a call last week from Hon C. D. Gilfillan of St. Paul. He is a man of refined intellect, and we doubt not would make a good governor. In our opinion he stands as good a chance for the nomination for that office as either Averill or Marshall and so far as we can learn the nomination will be given to one of the three.—Owatonna Plaindealer

--Go to Clarke & Porters to buy Boots, Shoes and Leather. Opposite the Levee.

Side Walks.—Wickersham Brother, have completed a nice plank side walk in front of their new drug store and along the entire front of their lots. This walk is built 12 feet wide in conformity to the law, but a petition is being circulated to have the width cut down to ten feet. Whether this be done or not, uniformity is quite essential to convenience and appearence, and we trust that the pride of our citizens will prompt a general overhauling of our sidewalks.

Dancing School.—T. M. Perry, Jr. informs us that he will open a dancing school here in October next. The school will consist of 13 lessons, and be taught by experienced teachers Mr. Perry intends using his band in the school. Mr. Perry is well known as a popular band leader and conductor of dancing, having furnished music in western Minnesota for nine years. We recommend all who desire a correct knowledge of dancing, the movements and styles, to attend this school.

Pic-nic Celebration.—Mr. G. Yates of Garden City writes us that the school of that village will hold a pic-nic celebration on Saturday Sept 2nd. An invitation is extended to all other schools in the county to attend We are requested to give the matter publicity, so that such of the county schools as may desire, may be present. This is a fine opportunity for our citizens to indulge in a little recreation.

—Messrs Strickland & Co., the well known Book Publishers, of Milwaukee, Wis. are about to publish an invaluable little work called "The Justice's Pocket Manual, containing correct forms and instructions for Justices and Constables in this State in any case that can arise before them. It is worth ten times its price to any officer or business man in Minnesota. Send Fifty Cents and your Post Office Address to Strickland & Co., Milwaukee, Wis., and they will mail a copy to you prepaid.

—There is yet a chance to procure anything in the way of Mens and Boys wear, at Greatly Reduced Prices, at the Clothing Emporium of Randall & Smith as they are closing out present Stock, preparatory to putting in Fall and Winter Goods. Give them a call.

A nice lot of 4 Panel Pine Doors, just received, and for Sale by Randall & Smith.

Another Business House.—We notice that Capt. Geo. Clark and a son of Senator Porter are opening a large stock of boots, shoes and leather, in the old store on Front street, next door to Scattergood's late stand. This is the first firm in the city who have undertaken to carry on only one branch of trade. We hope others will lead off in the same direction. The capital of our merchants is invested in so many different kinds of goods that an ample assortment of each is seldom to be found. We have frequently heard this complaint, and indeed have experienced the same difficulty ourselves.

Livery Stable Sale—Mr. Benjamin Pay of Livery stable notoriety has sold out his entire stock to Messrs B. Tuttle and W. H. Zuel, for the sum of $2,450. He desires us to return his thanks to a patronizing public for favor bestowed in the past, and recommends his successors to the favorable considerations of pleasure seekers and others who desire anything in the livery line. Ben says his money will not leave town, but will be invested in some business in Mankato. As a man generally sticks to his money we infer that Ben himself will also remain with us. No necessity of leaving town. There's plenty of "biz" for all.

—Go to Clarke & Porters to buy Boots, Shoes and Leather. Opposite the Levee.

Broom Heads.—We have been shown an ingenious contrivance by which every farmer may make his own broom. It is called a broom head, is made of malleable iron, and takes the place of the wire and twine which holds an ordinary broom together. By following the directions which accompany it, those who have seen it can make their own brooms. One handle and broom head will last a lifetime, and when the straw is worn out it is simply to be removed and new straw put into the head. Messrs. Scott & Stone of Mankato are sole agents, for the sale of this piece of economy for the State of Minnesota. The article is well worth the attention of the public.

Return of Mr. Evans.—Mr E. P. Evans, who was sent south to purchase blood hounds for frontier defence, returned with seven more dogs on Wednesday last. The whole number now obtained is thirteen, but a few more are to be brought up by some of the "boys in blue" who succeeded in capturing them "down in dixie." Mr Evans says that all but one of these dogs have been trained to hunt negroes, but will need a little more schooling for "Ingins." The dogs are now confined at the Clifton House barn, but will probably be sent "to the front" soon.

Keeps a large stock.—At the old stone store formerly White and Marks, now Isaac Marks Esq. may be found at all times and seasons a good supply of dry goods, clothing and groceries, for sale as low as the lowest. Fresh goods come in from below every few days to replenish his stock, and while assortments are usually low at this season of the year, our patrons will remember that Isaac Marks always has a plenty of everything. You can always be suited when there are plenty of goods to choose from. Remember the place, at the store of Isaac Marks where accommodating clerks are always in attendance.

Woolen Mills.—Mr G. A. Brackett of the firm of Easton, Gibson & Co. of Minneapolis, arrived in town this week bringing with him samples of fabrics manufactured at their celebrated woolen mills at Minneapolis. They are pronounced by dealers in woolen goods, to be fully equal to those manufactured in the east. In the sale of their goods and in the purchase of wool, this firm proposes to offer inducements to the trade and to farmers which will not fail to suit the views of the closest buyers.

They have in constant operation thirty looms, of the latest improved machinery, and are buying wool of farmers at better figures than are paid elsewhere and exchange manufactured goods to them for wool at wholesale prices.

Frightful Hailstorm.—We are informed by an eye witness of the the scene, that on last Saturday a most terrific hailstorm passed over the region of country lying back of St. Peter for a distance of twelve miles. The hail of the size of a hens egg descended with such force and in such quantities that hens, turkeys, sheep, calves, cats, and all small animals exposed to its ravages were killed outright.

Growing sorghum and grain was cut down by the acre as if a reaper had passed through the fields. Hay stacks were overturned buildings overthrown, roofs and fences entirely swept off so that not a vestage remained.

Wheat in shocks was scattered in every direction, and completely shelled out, rendering it an entire loss to the owner. The amount of property destroyed is large but cannot at present be estimated. On Monday St. Peter was full of people buying glass and other material to repair damages.

From Jackson.—From a brief interview with Mr J. F. Eddy, a resident of Jackson, who came to Mankato to meet his son W. D. Eddy of the 6th regiment, we learn some particulars concerning the frontier settlers. Jackson is situated on the Des Moines river about 75 miles south west of Mankato. Before the Indian outbreak there was a number of buildings constituting the place, but they are now mostly used for soldiers quarters. The vicinity is neverless fast settling up, and there are now about as many people in the county as when the Indian war broke out. A sawmill erected by Messrs McCormick and Webster of Winnebago city will be running in about two weeks. There is an abundance of timber for building and fencing purposes, and beautiful prairie lies within one or two miles of the river. Indian troubles had broken up the county organization, but it will be established this fall again in time for the fall election. For farming purposes the locality is every thing that could be desired and those seeking homestead lands would do well to visit that point before settling.

State Fair.—The St. Paul Press of the 20th inst. announces that the State Board of Agriculture have decided to hold a State Fair the coming fall at Minneapolis. It desires the press of the State to circulate the information as rapidly as possible. Horace Greeley is expected to be present on the occasion. We are sorry that the arrangement in point of time will conflict with the Blue Earth County fair, which has long since been announced to take place on the 27th and 28th of September. The premium list has already been published, as well as the time and place, yet it may be possible to change the time either of the State or County fair to the first week in October. The attention of our County Board of Agriculture is solicited to these facts, and if it is possible to make a change, and give our citizens an opportunity of attending the State Fair, such an arrangement should be made.

Mankato.—A correspondent of the Mantorville Express has been making a tour of observation westward, and in his report of the Blue Earth country, gives Mankato the following complimentary notice, which in no point transcends the real facts.

"Situated in the heart of the finest farming land in the State, whereon timber, water and prairie prevail in good proportion, Mankato only needs peace and a railroad to give her the first position among the interior towns of the State. Among the public buildings of the place we noticed the new Presbyterian meeting house, a most beautiful edifice built of brick at a cost of $10,000. The ladies have raised four hundred dollars with which to cushion the seats. Preparations are being made to erect a large three-story school house, at a cost of $10,000. One of the finest of landscape views can be obtained from a hill on the southeast side of the town, called Bunker Hill. From this point the observer can see St. Peter, ten miles below, and see beyond Henderson, thirty miles below. Want of room prevents us from prolonging our article, and we reluctantly close."

COMMUNICATION.

Mankato Minn., August 22 1865.

Mr. Editor:

The Mankato Record of the 12th inst. has an editorial on the conduct of the school meeting held at the school house in this place on the 10th inst. in which the editor after speaking of the melee makes use of the following language: "While this was taking place another individual rather dramatically inclined was flourishing a large knife in another part of the house with an artistic effect almost equaling Wilkes Booth's thrilling exit from the theater after the assassination of President Lincoln. On seeing this and learning that Mr. Wise the editor of the Record was busily circulating the report on the street corners, in the bar rooms and groceries that I had used a large bowie knife at the meeting I went immediately to the Record office and stated the facts to Mr. Wise and desired him to do me the justice to recall the statement in the next issue of his paper or if he did not want to do this that he would state the facts as they took place. This the editor of the Record refused to do. I desire therfore through your paper to state the facts, as I am the person referred to by the Record; for the facts in regard to that meeting are bad enough without any exageration. I had no part in the melee at all. I had been engaged in the debate on the resolutions but had some time previous retired and given place to other speakers and had taken my seat by the door and at the time as is my usual habit, I was engaged in whittling a stick with a small pocket knife. I said nothing, did nothing and at no time during the meeting did I recieve any provocation from any one and as I now recollect I rose to my feet during the melee shut my knife and put it in my pocket. As soon as the house became quiet again I resumed whittling with the same knife which was the only knife I had there that evening, and to show the character of the knife in question I will here state that the blade with which I was whittling measures just one inch and three quarters in length. I soon obtained the floor and addressed the meeting and during the time I thus addressed the meeting I had this knife in my hand. I flourished no knife during the meeting. During all this time Mr. Wise was present and saw what took place. I did not have this knife in my hand for the purpose of menacing any one as I had no occasion to do so. These are the facts on which Mr. Wise publishes me to the world as having been armed at a school meeting with a dangerous weapon and menacing those present with the same, and he seeks at the same time to cast peculiar odium upon me by comparing me in this connection to the most brutal and most loathsome character known to American history. I have given the facts just as they took place and the public can judge of the spirit which characterized the editor of the Record when he wrote and published the article in question. Mr. Editor, had the editor of the Record made a direct attack upon me and named me as the person whom he wished to injure I should not have troubled you with this communication. To attempt to vindicate my character from attacks from such a source is something I never do. I have lived in Mankato through the whole period of its existence as a town and my character as a man and a citizen is well known and anything I may say will not add to it and any effort which Mr. Wise may make to injure me will not materially detract from it. But when such a publication is made and it is sent broadcast throughout the land that a school meeting cannot be held in Mankato without persons attending it armed with dangerous weapons and menacing the people with the same, with the intent and purpose of a Wilkes Booth and that too without the shadow of a foundation for the publication, and when the individual thus branded as an assassin and desperado is not named, I think it but just to the public to answer such a publication by a statement of the facts.

I am with much respect your faithful and humble servant.

ARRANDALE & CO., Manf'g Agts.
No. 167 Broadway, New York.

Announce that all of the above list of goods will be sold for One Dollar each.

In consequence of the great stagnation of trade in the manufacturing districts of England, through the war having cut off the supply of cotton, a large quantity of Valuable Jewelry, originally intended for the English market has been sent off for sale in this country, and must be sold at any sacrifice. Under these circumstances, Arrandale & Co., acting as agents for the principal European manufacturers, have resolved upon a great Gift Apportionment to be divided according to the following regulations:

Certificates of the various articles are put into envelopes indiscriminately, sealed up, and when ordered, are taken out without regard to choice, and sent by mail, thus showing no favoritism. On receipt of the certificate, you will see what you are to have, and then it is at your option to send the dollar and take the article or not. Purchasers may thus obtain a gold watch, Diamond Ring, or any set of Jewelry on our list for One Dollar.

Send 25 Cents for Certificate.

In all transactions by mail, we shall charge for forwarding the certificates, paying postage and doing the business, 25 cents each, which must be enclosed when the certificate is sent for. Five certificates will be sent for $1, eleven for $2, thirty for $5, sixty five for $10; one hundred for $15.

What the "Press" Say of Us.

The Lafayette (Ind) Daily Courier, March 18 1865, says: A better selected, more varied or fashionable assortment of jewelry cannot be found on the continent than Arrandale & Co., are now offering. Messrs. Arrandale & Co., occupy a high position in commercial circles as men entirely above the common trickery of trade. Their statements may be implicitly relied upon, both as to the character of their goods and the manner of disposal. Ladies especially, in all parts of the country, are realizing handsome profits as agents, and if any of our fair readers desire to interest themselves in this enterprise they may do so with perfect confidence.

We have inspected, at the office of Arrandale & Co's Agency for European Manufacturing Jewellers, a large assortment of valuable and fashionable jewelry of the newest patterns. We also noticed a large quantity of silver plate and understand that the whole of these newly imported articles are to be disposed of on a novel principle giving great advantage to buyers, and affording extensive employment to agents. We know the firm in question to be very respectable and thoroughly worthy of public confidence, and recommend our friends to read their advertisement.—N. Y. Albion, September 3, 1861.

The British Whig, of Kingston, C. W. says Nov 26th, 1864; One of our lady subscribers became an agent for Arrandale & Co. and by request brought some twenty articles sent as prizes for her agency, to this office for inspection and without hesitation we can state that each and all of the articles were worth treble the amount of cost to the recipients, and some of them six times.

AGENTS—We want agents in every regiment, and in every town and county in the country, and those acting as such will be allowed ten cents on every certificate ordered by them, provided their remittance amounts to one dollar, also other inducements which can be learned on application. Agents will collect 25 cents for every Certificate, and remit fifteen cents to us, either in cash or postage stamps.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhoea, or seminal weakness Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity; Impediments to Marriage, etc, also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post paid, on receipt of six cents, or two post stamps. Address the publishers,

FARM, GARDEN, AND HOUSE.

SWEET GREEN TOMATO PICKLES.

Peel and slice two gallons of green tomatoes, add five table-spoonfuls of ground mustard, three gills of mustard seed, two table-spoonfuls of ground cinnamon, one table-spoonful cloves, one pound of brown sugar, three quarts of vinegar. Boil all together until quite done. If you choose, you may use one spoonful ground and a portion of cinnamon bark. Celery tops improve the flavor. They are excellent.

HOW TO GET RID OF MUSQUITOES.

Musquitoes love beef blood better than they do any that flows in the veins of human kind. Just put a couple of generous pieces of beef on plates near your bed at night, and you will sleep untroubled by those pests. In the morning you will find them full and stupid with beef blood, and the meat sucked as dry as a cork.

WHAT SHALL BE DONE WITH DRY BREAD?

This is becoming a serious question, even to those free and easy housekeepers who in times past have been in the habit of throwing their dry bread to the fowls or pigs. In a large family it is unavoidable, without undue parsimony, to prevent some accumulations of dry bread. Young America is not kept in as good subjection now as it was in the days of our grandmother, and refuses to eat what older ones pass by. Thorough housekeepers have various ways of working up such remains, they tell me, and here are some of them:

Milk Toast.—If the pieces of bread are not too small, toast them nicely, then put some milk over the stove, sufficient to cover the bread. Let it scald and if butter is not over fifteen cents a pound, spread the slices with it and let it boil up gently in the milk. If put in when the milk is cold it will fall to pieces. Salt it slightly.

Bread Pudding.—Cut or pound your bread fine, cover it with sweet milk and set it on the stove, where it will heat gradually. Take it off, put in a little cold milk, an egg, two spoonfuls of sugar, to one of butter, some salt, and any flavoring you like. Bake an hour or more.

Pancakes.—Soak your bread in cold sweet milk until you can mash it fine with a spoon; then put in an egg, some salt, a little soda, and flour enough to make a batter. Bake in the usual way.

Another way: Prepare your bread by chopping, the same as for dressing for a baked fowl. Pour on some boiling water, and let it stand a short time. Then season it with butter, pepper, salt and sage, the same as for dressing. Pack it down in a baking dish, but not where it will burn.

Another way: When you have potatoes to warm up, soak some bread a short time in milk, and when you put your potatoes over the fire, add the milk and bread to them. Stir them well together, and those who have tried them say they are an improvement on potatoes alone. If it is not too late in the season, I send a receipt for COOKING CUCUMBERS.

Peel and slice them as usual; parboil them in sufficient water to cover them. Turn off the water and cover them with milk, (part cream is better,) let it simmer fifteen minutes longer. Season with butter, pepper and salt, and to those who are not suspicious of every new dish, they will be palatable.

Carrying Hay by Hand.

When hay is to be moved but a few rods, it is often more convenient to carry it on two poles, than it is to haul it on a wagon, or cart with a horse. On salt meadows, where the ground is not firm enough to hold up a horse, cocks of hay are often collected in this manner. Two men are able to carry with ease a cock of hay weighing from one hundred to two hundred pounds.

Two smooth poles, seven or eight feet long, with the ends rounded, are used; and if the cocks are not large, two fork handles will serve a good purpose. They are thrust beneath a cock, about thirty inches apart; and the men press their bodies against it to keep it from turning over either way. Other material besides hay may be carried in this manner to good advantage. Sometimes a lot of corn stalks in bundles are all within an arch of twenty rods of the stack bottom. Two men will gather them together with poles quite as soon as they could be loaded on a wagon. If the shocks are securely bound at the tops, the poles may be thrust between them. Otherwise the sheaves may be laid crosswise on the poles. Stocks of unhusked corn and field beans may also be carried in this manner; and nearly every farmer who keeps stock, will often find this a much more convenient way to carry fodder to his animals, than on a fork, when it must be moved to a distance. The same method is extensively applied in carrying water in a barrel, stone, brick, and other building material. Men are much better adapted to carrying materials than to drawing them, and two men will readily carry between them, on poles, a cock of hay weighing two hundred pounds, when it would greatly fatigue them to draw the same cock with a rope around it.

The funiest story of the age is told by a Detroit paper. A lady suspected her husband of improper intimacy with the hired girl. Without informing her husband of her intentions, she sent the girl off, and that night went to sleep in the girl's bed. She hadn't been there long when somebody came and took the other half of the bed. About two hours after the wife rose, intending to reveal the infidelity of her spouse, struck a light, when lo! it was the hired man.

FINKLE & LYON'S

SEWING MACHINES.

These Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do; will Hem, Fell Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tention, or making any adjustment of Machaine whatever!!!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood; and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

These are peculiar facts, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

Please call and examine, or send for Circular.

HELMBOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATIONS.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED" COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings.

This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the matter of calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for men, women and children.

H

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

For weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion, attended with the following Symptoms:

Indisposition to Exertion,	Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory,	Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves,	Trembling,
Horror of Disease,	Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,
Hot Hands,	Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin,	Eruptions of the Face,
Universal Lassitude,	Pallid Countenance,

Muscular System.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes), soon follow—

FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c.,

in one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the Insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

E

In many affections peculiar to Females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, and for all complaints incident to the sex, or in the

DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE,

☞ See Symptoms above.

☞ No Family should be without it.

B

BLOOD! BLOOD! BLOOD!

Helmbold's

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA,

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the Skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect Helmbold's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla. It cleanses and renovates the Blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought for, and now, for the first time the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

O

HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH,

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upward of 30,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basis, Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works:

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon. Being now used to the exclusion of all other Bitters in more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the U. S. government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞They are made of ingredients well known and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strengthening properties to correct the bilious derangement of the system and act like a charm when taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases;—Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Affections, Jaundice, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirit, Sallow Complexion.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity; so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞Ladies who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system. If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters have him send for him. Remember the name and take no other.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical journals, and having been adopted as a standard remedy by the Medical Profession are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Exempt from Stamp Duty.

THE NATIONAL DEBT

The yearly interest on the public debt as it stood on the 31st of July, is, in round figures, one hundred and forty millions of dollars. This is the exact measure of the burden which it lays on the industry and labor of the country. It would perhaps be more satisfactorily understood if the principal of the debt were kept out of sight entirely, since the interest is the only shape in which, for the present, it has a practical bearing.

The payment of the debt is the troublesome idea to most people. They see clearly enough how to pay the interest, but an indefinable mass of something poised over their heads and threatening to fall every moment is the terror associated with the principal. As to any positive and sensible effect on the economy of the country, our national debt in its total mass is of no account whatever. We do not deal with it in the total, but only with that annual portion of it which we are able to pay without imposing a weight of taxes needlessly prejudicial to the general industry. When we get over the requirement of additional expenses for military purposes, we shall add ten millions of dollars to the yearly tax for liquidation, and that will be sufficient to extinguish the debt. For example, if we could stop where we are, with an annual interest of one hundred and forty millions, we should raise one hundred and fifty millions a year, and that would be the hight, breadth, depth and circumference of our burden—not a cent more, now or at any future time, unless we had a new war.

Then, where are we? The estimate of all other expenses of the government for the year ending June 30, 1866, is under fifty millions of dollars. We thus arrive at the comfortable conclusion that a total revenue of two hundred millions a year would be our entire burden if we should keep the debt where it is. With the present rates of taxes, the estimate of receipts for the year ending June 30, 1866, is three hundred and ninety-six millions of dollars. We might, therefore, this day cut down our taxes just one half, and go on our way rejoicing.

There is a supplementary clause to this show, which makes it more than probable that the rate of taxation may be reduced one half within the space of two or three years at farthest. The above estimate of receipts is found on the northern states alone. When the southern states are established in successful labor, the rates can be reduced in the proportion of the increased national income.

On the whole, we feel safe in assuming that we shall settle at a yearly taxation not one dollar above two hundred millions. That is the measure of the entire burden.—N. Y. Evening Post Aug 9th.

MORE OF CAPTAIN WIRZ.

WASHINGTON, August 22.—There seems to be no doubt that the charges and specifications against Wirz will be amended by the prosecution in several important particulars. His counsel will take issue that this cannot be done, the prisoner having already pleaded not guilty to the charge on which he was arraigned yesterday.

Capt. Wirz is a very thin man, about 5 feet 6 inches high, 40 or 45 years of age, with dark skin, whiskers and moustache, and weighs about 135 pounds. He was attired in a black coat and vest, dark brown pants, white shirt and wore a silk hat. During the reading of the charges and specifications he sat with his legs crossed, his hand to his face, and would frequently talk with his counsel. The Richmond Republic says: "For a short time in 1862, Wirz, after returning from a secret mission for the Confederate government to Europe, was placed by General Winder in charge of the Libby, and was subsequently made provost marshall of Manchester. In neither position did he, to our knowledge, attract the particular attention of the public. He was generally accounted a rough, illbred fellow, but quiet; the peer of the majority of Winder's favorites. Those were the days of martial law in Richmond, when Capt. George Washington Alexander of Baltimore, was one of the biggest among us. When Wirz left this vicinity, we lost sight of him entirely until the close of the war, when it turned out that he had been in command at Andersonville. Of Andersonville itself, we in Virginia knew as little during the war as the people of the North, except that we learned from the report of Colonel Thomas P. Turner, who was sent thither to inspect the post, that it was a most insalubrious neighborhood, and that the accommodations of prisoners was abominable. This report of Col. Turner, in which he recommended the removal of the prisoners to Macon, was sent to the war department in May, 1864, and was never heard of afterwards."

CHARGES AGAINST HIM.

First. He is charged with having starved 10,000 prisoners to death.

Second. Of having tortured to death 100 Union prisoners by the slow agonies of the ball and chain.

Third. Of having tortured to death thirty Union prisoners by the cruel torments of the stocks.

Fourth. Of having murdered three hundred Union prisoners for having approached the so called "dead line."

Fifth. Of having murdered fifty Union prisoners by means of the ferocious bloodhounds.

Sixth. On the 8th of July, 1964, he shot to death, with his own pistol, without cause, according to the rules of war, one Union prisoner.

Seventh. He stamped upon and kicked a Union soldier to death on the 20th day of Sept., 1864.

Eighth. By willfully inoculating the Union prisoners with corrupt vaccine matter, one hundred Union prisoners lost their arms, and two hundred died from the effects thereof. This is a most frightful diabolism—we may say in perfect consonance with the infernal spirt of the Southern rebellion.

Ninth. On the 14th of June, 1864, he murdered a Union prisoner in cold blood, by applying his revolver to the body of said prisoner.

Tenth. By his brutal treatment of the prisoners, he tortured many of them into the conditon of maniacs and idiots.

The Atlantic Cable Failure

The cable parted on the 2d of August, at 12:35 p. m., in soundings of two thousand nine hundred yards, latitude 51 25, longitude 32 95, under the following circumstances:

A partial loss of insulation having been discovered on August 2, the ship stopped to pick up six miles of cable, within which, it was supposed, by electrical test, that the fault lay. The cable was passed from the stern to the bows of the ship, for the purpose of recovering it. After getting in, by steam machinery, two miles of cable, the fault being overboard, the cable broke about ten yards on board of the wheel at the bow, being injured by chafing on the stern of the ship. Two previous faults had been discovered in soundings of half a nautical mile and two miles in depth, and had been successfully picked up by the same machinery and the faults cut out. In the first case ten miles, and in the second two and a half miles were hauled in when the cable parted. The grapael was let overboard, with two and a half miles wire rope, the ship being placed as to drift over the line of cable; the cable was hooked after the expiration of several hours. When two thousand and two hundred yards of the wire rope had been hauled in, a swivel in the latter gave way and two thousand six hundred yards of rope was lost—having lifted the cable one thousand and two thousand yards from the ground. A buoy with a flag was moored, with five thousand yards of rope, to mark the place it is in—latitude 5128, longitude 30, 4230.

A second attempt was made to grapple, 7th, of August, and was unsuccessful from the same cause, two yards of rope being hauled in. Another buoy was placed in latitude 51 25.30, longitude 32 50.

A third attempt was made on the 10th of August. The grapael came up with chain foul around the fluke, the bottom covered with ooze. It is believed the grapnel touched the cable a couple of hours after it touched the ground.

The fourth attempt was made on the 11th of August, which also failed, having raised the cable six hundred yards from the bottom. Having now exhausted the stock of rope, and further attempts became impossible.

THE DEFECT BELIEVED TO BE AN OLD ONE

From one of the officers of the Terrible we get the following statement:

When the interruption in the current was discovered, the cable was not on board. The defect was occasioned by the crushing of the wires. It is impossible to say what could have caused this injury, but it is not believed to have been recently done.

The cable sank in one thousand nine hundred and fifty fathoms, and not one thousand as reported by the First Fruit, and was grappled three times, on one occasion being brought to within six hundred fathoms of the surface; but the tremendous strain was too much for the grappling rope, which parted and dropped the cable again. The Great Eastern then returned to England, having buoyed the end of the cable.

FROM THE SOUTH GENERALLY.

Butchery of Negroes.

NEW YORK, August 21.—The Southern Christian Intelligencer of Aug. 5th says:

'If one-tenth part of the reports are true which are coming from all parts of the South thick and fast, a most shocking state of things exists. From localities where there are no national troops come reports that these unfortunate creatures [negroes] are being hunted down like dogs, and dispatched without ceremony. Newspapers in the South are filled with accounts of these brutal murders, which foot up to an aggregate of several hundred deaths per day, which is doubtless only a small portion of the number. An Alabama paper says that this business has become so extensive and common that some planters average that they could manure their land with the dead carcasses of negroes. If negroes can be shot down daily in garrisoned towns, where the authorities are unable to stop this state of things, it is very reasonable to suppose that this brutal work is carried on more extensively where the blacks have no protection. This wholesale murdering of human beings is, we fear, the practical working of a conspiracy to exterminate the colored race, which is revolting to a Christian age.'

The Raleigh Progress of the 16th, 'learns from Colonel Lawrence, commandant of the post at Goldsboro, that six negroes were killed at or near Warsaw, two weeks ago. Their former owner left on the approach of the Union army, the negroes remaining. They went to work and made a crop. The owner returned recently, and ordered them to leave. The negroes refused, and the proprietor of the place, getting some neighbors together with arms, ordered them off again, and on their refusal to go, attacked them, killing six. A company of soldiers was sent from Wilmington, an an investigation will be made, if not already.

FROM FLORIDA.

A correspondent of the Savannah Herald gives an account of affairs in Florida, from which we make an extract:

ENCOURAGING NEWS FROM THE INTERIOR.

Here I met an intelligent and communicative citizen of Florida, from whom I obtained many items of interest. It is generally supposed that Florida has suffered more than she actually has, but the fact is, the interior of the State, to a considerable extent, remains uninjured. The Union forces did much damage at Baldwin, but with almost this single exception, the destruction of property sustained by Florida during the war, is chiefly confined to her sea coast cities, villages and towns, which, after all, leaves her people in a much more heathly and desirable condition than is generally supposed.

From another citizen of the interior of Florida, I ascertained that at the present time there is actually in the state more bacon, sugar, molasses, &c., than has been for a number of years. But little of these commodities left the State during the four years of war just passed, with the exception of what limited amount may have passed through the blockade, which, from all accounts, may be set down as hardly sufficient to be worthy of mention.

THE FEELING AMONG THE PEOPLE.

The beople generally wherever I have had the opportunity to become acquainted with them, I find them cheerful confident and hopeful, as regards the intention of the Government in the future rules and regulations that are to be imposed upon them for their safety guidance and control. They appear to be very well satisfied with the new state of affairs, and sanguine that a Government which once furnished them protection, safety and contentment, will not be slow to do so again to a loyal and law-abiding people, most of whom are in no wise responsible for the breaking up of our country, but who have themselves been hunted and prosecuted by Confederate conscript officers.

The Southern Bishops

Bishop Elliot, (Episcopal) of Georgia, hes writen a letter upon the question of a re-union of the church, which possibly foreshadows the action to be taken at the approaching general convention. He says, after preliminary remarks:

My opinion is, as I have already expressed to Bishop H. Potter, in reply to the letter to which you make allusion in yours, 'that if at the meeting of the General Convention in October, that body was to pass a joint resolution, returning thanks for peace, expressing the hope and desire that it might lead to a re-union of the Dioceses, and appointing a committee of bishops, clergy, and laity to meet a like committee from our council, which sits in November, with full power to conclude an arrangement, there will be no further difficulty.

I cannot now speak authoritatively for anybody, but my opinion is that by this method we can saved much trouble in the future. God knows that I for one desire nothing more heartily than peace, but then it must be peace that is pure, sincere and without hypocrisy. I have been, probably, as earnest a southern man as anybody, and yet I never found any fault with the Church up to the moment of our secession. What has happened since on either side has not arisen from the normal action of our organization, but from extraneour influences which have now partially ceased, and will soon entirely cease.

A Prediction Verified

From the Harrisburg (Pa.) Telegraph.

In 1860, when Jeff, Davis was threatening destruction to the North as the result of secession, he, one day, in animated conversation with Gen. Simon Cameron, exclaimed: 'When the South secedes, such paralysis will fall upon Northern enterprise that the grass will grow in the streets of your northern cities!' The retort was instant; the general replied: 'Mr. Davis, if the Southern States secede, utter ruin will fall on your section. Your slaves will be liberated, and will assist in your destruction. The North will not be ruined, but I will, with my own hands, plant corn in the streets of Charleston, the cradle of treason.' True to his promise in the spring of this year, when General Cameron visited the South, he did plant the corn, hired a soldier to attend to it, and has just received a crop, with the following note from Maj. Gen. Hatch, commanding our forces in Charleston:

Hon. Simon Cameron, Dear Sir:

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 21, 1865—I ship to-day, by Adams Express, four ears of corn, the product of the grain planted by yourself, in the early part of April.

It is poor corn at the best, probably owing to the soil. It has received every care from the gardener at the hospital, whose name is given below.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant, JOHN B. HATCH, Maj Gen.

David Fitz Gibbon, gardener, Orphans' Asylum, Charleston.

We have been presented by the general with an ear of corn, which we will be glad to exhibit to our visitors.

How to Stop a Paper.

You have an undoubted right to stop a newspaper whenever you are disposed, upon payment of arrearages. Do not hesitate to do so on account of any "tenderness" for the feelings of the editor. Don't you suppose he would stop buying sugar of you, or meat, or clothing, or dry goods, if he thought he was not getting his money's worth? and why should you not exercise the same privilege with regard to him or his wares when you get tired of them? And when you discontinue a paper, do so manfully. Don't be so spiteful as to throw it back to the Postmaster with a contemptuous "I don't want it any longer"! and then have "Refused" written upon the margin and then the paper returned to the editor. No gentleman ever stopped a paper in that way no matter if his head was covered with gray hairs that should be honorable. If you do not wish longer to receive a newspaper, write a note to the editor like a man, saying so; and be sure that arrearages are paid. That is the way to stop a newspaper.—Exchange.

SOUTH DOWNS.

The head of the South Down should be small and hornless, the face brown and gray, the lips thin, the space between the eyes and nose narrow, the ears rather wide and well covered with wool, the eye full and bright, the neck of medium length, thin near the head and broader toward the shoulder. The breast should be wide and deep, projecting forward between the fore-legs The shoulders should be on a level with the back, not too wide above, bowing outward from the top to the breast; the ribs come out horizontally from the spine and extend far backward, the last projecting more than the others, the back flat and square, from the shoulder to the setting of the tail; the loin broad and flat, the rump long and broad, the tail set on high and nearly on a level with the spine; the belly should be straight as the back, the legs neither too long nor too short, the fore legs straight from the breast to the foot, not bending in at the knee, and standing far apart both before and behind. The wool should be short, close, curled and fine.

A uniform brown or gray face and legs is the test, required by breeders of purity of blood. A speckled or motiled face is condemned without hesitation as indicating an admixture of foreign blood. —Randall.

—The removal of R. H. Slough, for four years Mayor of Mobile, and the appointment of John Forsyth [Editor of the Advertiser] to that office, turned upon the admission of negro testimony in the Mayor's court; and decides the question for all courts in Alabama. Mayor Slough declined to receive such testimony, and defended his action on the technical objection that negroes being excluded from the courts by the laws of Alabama, without reference to the condition of slavery, and such exclusion not being a part of the "slave code," the proclamation of Gov. Parsons abrogating the slave code did not affect the established rules of evidence. Mr. Forsyth ably combatted this in the columns of the Advertiser, not, however, as a matter of justice to the negro, but as one of policy toward the Federal Government; claiming that the Mayor's defence was founded on a quibble, and that the State should gracefully "yield to the inexorable logic of the situation." This ground was sufficiently progressive to secure the appointment to Mr. Forsyth upon its being decided to make a change.

THE RANK AND FILE.

There seems to be a general feeling throughout our County to liberally distribute the county offices among our soldier friends. They have borne the heat and burden of the day, they have been true to their flag and nationality, they have suffered and sacrificed much in the cause of their country, and they have a right to expect that a nation redeemed and saved by their prowess and valor should not only hold them in grateful remembrance but should give some substantial and veritable proofs of gratitude. So the almost universal sentiment is as our brave soldier boys have represented us well on the field of strife, they can also represent us equally well at home by filling our offices of trust, honor and profit. The present choice then being from among the soldiers in some cases, let us say a word in behalf of the soldiers in the ranks who from pure patriotism have borne to triumph through so many well fought fields the flag of our glorious Republic.

Our choice for nominees to the several county offices should be confined, as far as is consistent with the public good, to private soldiers—the real sufferers by the war. We do not disparage the worth, the true patriotism of the commissioned officer. They have done nobly and well. But the highest type of patriotism, at least the burden of the sacrifices must be accredited to that numerous class, the unselfish rank and file, who, ignoring, and forgetting self rallied to the support of the government at the first call of the war. Many of them gave up remunerative situations, bidding farewell to comfortable homes and cheerfully entering the ranks, accepted a soldier's fare and the small pittance of monthly pay without a murmer, enduring unflinchingly the hardships, fatigues, dangers and prison experiences incident to a common soldiers life. They were content and cared only to do their whole duty and to live to fight for the old flag, knowing full well that the honors, the jubilees of victory are always appropriated by, and given by an unthinking world to the superior officers. All have done nobly who have fought and stood up for our country in danger's hour and we wish not to disparage the claims of any commissioned officer or officers who may be candidates for any county position. Our remarks are very general, and designed only to present the claims of the equally intelligent and deserving soldier of the ranks. But while we should show our gratitude to the soldiers by elevating them to official position it should not be done to the detriment of the people. In other words, while, as beween soldier and civilian, candidates possessing nearly equal merit, we should give our preference to our returned soldiers; yet where there is a marked degree of difference in qualifications as regards capacity, moral or intellectual worth, in that case discarding every other consideration but the public good we should strive to make good the old saying "may the best man win"

THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

The county convention to elect delegates to attend the State convention was held at the City Hall in Mankato on Saturday of last week. The convention was tolerable well attended and everything passed off pleasantly, except there seemed to be some fear on the part of the country delegates, that Mankato would get more than her share of the State delegates.

The following persons were the fortunate ones elected as delegates. Dr. W. W. Clark; Dr. J. W. B. Welcome; Thomas Pugh and C. B. Thurston.

Some feeling prevailed in the Convention in favor of Hon. C. D. Gilfillan for Governor, though the delegates were not instructed. The delegation may be considered sound for either Hon. C. D. Gilfillan or Col. Averill. Little sympathy was expressed for Col Marshall the candidate of the St. Paul Press clique.

CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE.

It is a pity there is not an office for every candidate, as then aspirants for official honor would not have their hours of rest disturbed by too great anxiety lest a more active candidate should step in and secure the nomination. But as this is not in the order of things, our friends must be content with the present arrangement, and give a hearty support to the successful ones.

There is a multiplicity of candidates for the several county offices, embracing abundance of talent, and there need be no trouble in making proper selections, of good and true men—men who can carry with them every Union vote, and who possess every qualification necessary to a faithful discharge of official duty. Let such men be placed in nomination by the convention soon to convene, and it will insure the election of every man on the ticket. We care not whether he be soldier or citizen so that he is competent as well as deserving. This giving a man an office out of pure sympathy, without regard to qualifications, simply because he has served his country well on the field of battle, is about played out. We agree with many that a preference should be shown the soldier, other qualifications being equal, but this working on the sympathy of the people, does not always result in good. Two of the best county offices in the gift of the people, were needlessly sacrificed to the enemy in days past, one from sympathy and the other from mismanagement. We trust the delegates to the County Convention, whoever they may be, will look well to these things, and make such nominations as we shall be proud to support, and triumphantly elect.

—The County Convention for nominating county officers has been called to meet on the 26th inst., and the caucuses on the 23d. STOCK HOGS.—The Ohio Farmer learns that "the buyers of stock hogs in the Miami valley are paying as high as ten dollars per hundred, and farmers hesitate to sell even at this enormous figure. Taking this rate as the guide, fat hogs during the coming season will sell at a figure never heretofore paid in Ohio. We have heard of offers already made to contract at $8 50 gross."

—In the Wirz trial, on thursday, testimony was given by Colonel Gibbs, who commanded the post at Andersonville, and Dr. John C. Bates, a rebel surgeon in that prison. Yesterday, Bates' testimony was continued; and Dr. A. W. Burrows, a union surgeon, who was a prisoner at Andersonville, was also examined. All of the evidence shows that horrible barbarities were inflected upon the inmates of the rebel prisons.

Remarkable Bank Profits.

A Bank in New York is a loser by young Ketchum's swindling operations to the amount of $225,000. Its capital is but 500,000, half of which is thus shown to be annihilated. But, strange to say, the President comes out in a card and announces to public "that its earnings for the last six months largely exceed the amount of forged certificates held." The question is, can such profits as these be the result of legitimate banking business?

The Winona and St. Peter Railroad to be Extended to Mantorville this season.

We are enabled to state, on what may be considered reliable authority, that the iron necessary to complete the Winona and St. Peter Railroad from Rochester to Mantorville has been purchased, and that orders have been received here, from the President of the Company in New York, to commence track laying beyond Rochester at the earliest practicable moment after the arrival of the iron, which is now on the way to this place.

This will prove gratifying intelligence to every business interest in Southern Minnesota, and to no class of our people will it be more gratifying than to the farmers of the southwestern and central counties, who for two years have been virtually deprived of a market for their grain by reason of the low water in our navigable rivers. The extension of the road to Mantorville, distant from Winona about 68 miles, will open a home market to large portions of the fertile counties of Dodge, Waseca, Steel, Goodhue, Rice, Freeborn, and even Blue Earth, such as they have never had hitherto, and will consequently lighten the labor of their inhabitants as well as add their wealth —Winona Republican Aug 23.

—Captains Richard and Jonathan Morgan, men of family and fortune in in the county of Cork, have got into a serious scrape, involving two years' well il served imprisonment, to which they were sentenced recently at the Fermoy sessions. A gentleman of the name of Hunt, when out riding with Lady Louisa Morgan, daughter of the late Earl of Mountcashel, and wife of Captain Richard Morgan, replied to a remark of that lady upon the excellence of his horse's legs, that they were "not so good as her's," meaning as he afterwards explained, as those of the horse she rode. The lady, putting another interpretation on the reply, complained to her husband, who, accompanied by his brother, proceeded, at 3 a. m., to the residence of Mr. Hunt, roused him out of bed, set upon him, and beat him with sticks until he was insensible.

GEN. GRANT'S VISIT TO ST PAUL.

The twenty-sixth day of August is another of the memorable days in the history of St. Paul. Clothed in her holiday attire, resplendent with banners and waving flags, decorated with triumphal arches; her streets garlanded with flowers and evergreens, and thronged with its beautiful women and public spirited men, St. Paul presented its gayest and most attractive features yesterday, on the occasion of welcoming to the metropolis of the Northwest, one of the greatest men of modern times, the hero of the gigantic war for the preservation and perpetuity of our glorious Union, Lieutenant General ULYSSES S. Grant.

There was a general turn out of all classes of our citizens, and at an early hour every avenue leading to the city was filled with vehicles bearing the inhabitants of the adjacent country to the grand demonstration of honor and welcome which a grateful and patriotic people were ready to extend to one of the greatest and best military geniuses of this or any other age.

ARRIVAL OF THE ITASCA.

At nine o'clock in the morning, the spendid steamer Itasca, decorated from deck to top of smoke-stacks, with myriads of flags and banners, festooned with garlands of oaks and evergreens, came in sight. Salvos of artillery announced the fact from the bluffs overlooking the river; the bells pealed forth their welcome from every tower, and thousands of men, women and children thronged to the steamboat landing.

As the steamboat neared the levee, the music of the Dubuque band was responded to by the band of the Second Cavalry and also by the Great Western, which, with the firemen and other civic associations had reached the landing. When, as the boat touched the shore, General Grant was seen standing on the hurricane deck he was greeted with long continued cheers from the multitude on shore. As soon as some degree of quiet was restored, Governor Miller introduced the distinguished visitor, who bowed to the immense throng, as cheer after cheer made the welkin ring.

GEN. GRANT'S SPEECH.

After Mayor Prince concluded his remarks, Gen. Grant, raising his hat and bowing to the people, made the following speech in reply:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is not my habit to make speeches, but I thank you for this very cordial welcome which you have given me to St. Paul.

THE TRIP TO THE FALLS, MINNEHAHA AND THE FORT.

When the procession reached Pleasant street, it was halted according to the programme previously announced, and the Lieut. General and party numbering about twenty carriages in all, headed by the Great Western Band, proceeded on their way to St. Anthony, Minneapolis, and the Fort.

The party were taken first to the residence of Gen. W. D. Washburne on the St Anthony road, where they arrived about 11 o'clock and where the hospitalities of Mr. Washburn were made evident in the sumptuous collation which he had prepared for them. Everything which could tempt the epicure was there in abundance, and an hour was very happily spent in discussion the viands, after which the train was again set in motion.

THE GENERAL KISSES A LADY BY REQUEST.

While the party were at the residence of Mr. Washburne, a lady offered the general a boquet; upon the condition that he should kiss her. He readily acceded to her proposition, took the boquet, and gave her a "smack" without wincing.

A RICH FEAST.

The viands were brought in by the generous ladies of Minneapolis, and a more luxurious repast one could hardly conceive. Everything that could tempt the appetite was there in abundance, and much credit is due the ladies for this pleasant affair After the feast, Miss Hewlitt of New York, a young lady, who is visiting some friends at Minneapolis, favored the party with some music.

After a very pleasent season visiting the beautiful falls of Minnehaha, the party started for Fort Snelling, where they arrived at a quarter before five, salutes are fired as the party approach Some three hundred soldiers are drawn up in line, and as the procession enters the Fort the command "present arms," is given, in which position they remain until it has passed. Upon arriving at the officers' headquarters the Lieutenant General and suit enter, where a supply of wine, cigars, &c., is brought forward, having been furnished by the officers. The commissioned officers at the Fort are then all formally introduced to the General, After a few minutes spent in viewing the beautiful scenery of the valley of the Minnesota, they again enter their carriages and start for home. In passing the guard-house the two Indian Chiefs, Little Six, and Medicine Bottle, who are imprisoned there on the charge of complicity in the massacre of '62, were brought out under a guard of soldiers. As Gen. Grant passed, Col. McLaren gave them to understand that he was the great chief of all the pale faces, and they eyed him with wonder and astonishment. It is nearly six o'clock when we get away from the Fort, and an hour or more is occupied in ferrying the party across the river. We return to St. Paul in good season, and from the indications, we should judge that all enjoyed their trip, notwithstanding the heat and dust, which was almost suffocating.

GEN. GRANT'S SECOND SPEECH.

Gentlemen and Firemen of St. Paul,—

I am just about to leave, after a very pleasant visit to your city and State. I am much obliged to you for the cordial welcome I have received. Good night,

THE TORCH LIGHT PROCESSION.

The firemen who had marched to the International with their torches lighted, now reformed in open order and escorted the party down Jackson street to Fourth, up Fourth to Washington, down Washington to Third, down Third to Jackson, and thence to the levee, where Gen. Grant and his party re-embarked on board the Itaska.

The march through the city was enthusiastic, and cheers ascended from every crossing.

Arriving at the landing, three rousing cheers were given as the boat, decorated with a large number of brilliant Chinese lanterns, pushed out into the stream, and once more descended the Mississippi.

Thus ended this grand demonstration of honor and welcome to an illustrious man, and it was no less worthy of the distinguished guest than creditable to the public spirit of the citizens of St. Paul.

Violent Storm of Wind and Rain.

NEW YORK, Aug, 26.

The Richmond Republic gives this account of a storm in that city:

On Thursday a very violent thunder storm passed over this city about 5 o'clock, accompanied by a tremendous gale of wind, which uprooted trees from the sidewalks, and leveled many of the old walls from 11th, street down to 15th An old wall, part of a house fronting on Main street near the corner of 4th street was blown down, and falling upon the building now in process of erection on the west side of 14th street, between Main and Cary, for Mr. Gardner, knocked down a large portion of the rear wall broke about twenty four of the second story joists, and materially damaged the side walks.

Mr. Joseph Hall, a bricklayer, and two negroes, were at work upon a culvert in the basement at the time of the accident. One of the negroes was caught underneath the falling wall, and instantly killed. Mr. Hall had his collar bone broken and was severely injured in the head by a piece of fallen timber. The other negro was seriously injured about the head and shoulders.

Sinking of the Steamer Ida May

NEW YORK, August 25.—New Orleans papers mention the sinking of the steamer Ida May, from Shreveport for New Orleans, with 550 bales of cotton The passengers were saved.

The Extent of the Ketchum Robberies.

NEW YORK, August 25.—The Post says: "The extent of the abstractions of funds and the forgery of gold checks by Ketchum aggregates $4,200,000."

John Mitchell.

NEW YORK, August 25.—A Fort Monroe correspondent 23d, says: "John Mitchel made his first appearance on the grounds of Fortress Monroe this a. m. Permission was requested from the war department to allow him the privilege of out door exercise, which was promptly granted. Mitchell was attended by an officer of the guard and two sentries. He attracted no attention and spoke very little."

A Republican Victory.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., August 25.—A special charter election for mayor took place to day. John E. Jenkins, republican, was elected by 41 majority.

Arrest of Young Ketchum.

NEW YORK, August 26

Edward B. Ketchum was arrested yesterday afternoon, at a house in West Twentieth street. He has not been out of the city.

He had an interview with many of his friends and victims, and with his father With the latter a reconciliation was effected. He was also visited by his wife at the station house.

He has been about the city frequently during the past fortnight, but has avoided his former friends.

He had about $50,000 when arrested. As yet no complaint has been made against him.

The creditors of Ketchum, Son & Co. will meet here next Monday, to hear a statement of the financial affairs of that firm. The assets are likely to reach to 60 cents on the dollar.

Second Dispatch.

Young Ketchum took lodging at a house on Twentieth street, under the name of Mr. Lawry, of Cincinnati, on the day of his disappearance. He was arrested last evening near this house. The arrest was made by detective officer Gilmore, who had been working up the case with detective M. Dougal, under direction of Superintendent Kennedy and Sergeant Young, of the detective force. Information had been conveyed to the police that young Ketchum could be found in 20th street, and officer Gilmore proceeded thither yesterday p. m. Ketchum was walking homeward. The officer, recognizing him from the description that had been furnished, took him into custody.

He made no resistance whatever. He did not even seem surprised, but, saying it was all right, he accompanied the officer to the police head quarters in Mulberry street, under arrest. Ketchum did not exhibit any concern. He spoke of the subject as the end of a rather wild career, but did not apprehend any unpleasant consequences.

He spoke freely of the manner in which he had lived since his flight. Every day, except the day the disclosures were made, he has been on the street, and has not once been out of New York. During his walks he has often seen persons whom he knew including brokers and others who were involved by his forgesies but he avoided them so that they should not observe him.

On Thursday last Ketchum rode to Central Park, and remained there a considerable time He saw there a number of persons with whom he was acquainted.

After Ketchum was taken to the police headquarters, his father and other members of his family, with officers of one of the banks which had received part of the forged paper, and persons who have been chosen as counsel, were notified of his arrest. In the course of the evening several of them came to see him. He met them all except his father with singular coolness, and spoke with them as though he had been temporarily absent on business. He did not, evidently, consider himslf a criminal.

Persons who called spoke to him with kindness, and none of them showed any disposition whatever to presecute him for his crime.

Ketcham speaks with freedom of his operations. He says that at one time he had property worth six millions of dollars. His losses began with the decline in gold. He says that the amount which was involved in his various transactions was about four millions of dollars. He would have found it easy, he declares, to pay off the indebtedness of two and a half millions. The sum found with him was $48,000.

Fatal Accident—Financial Rumor.

NEW YORK, August 26.—Henry G. Wheaton, counsellor at-law, of this city, was instantly killed yesterday by being run over by a New Haven train near Yorkville. It is supposed he attempted to cross the track as the train was approaching. He was a lawyer of ability, and was well known at the bar here and in Albany as a man of distinguished eloquence. He was for several terms the district attorney for Albany county, and served for several sessions in the state legislature from that county.

There are rumors, more or less general, that the secretary of the treasury contemplates offering to convert a portion of the interest-bearing treasury notes into long bonds. The rumor states the amount at $50,000,000

THE AUTOMATIC ORGAN

In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly announce the greatest triumph in musical instruments of the age During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments, with double bellows and two pedals for the feet to operate but the want of the reversed or Exhaustion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated.

Another objection to this method of blowing was that, both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell Within the past two years, instrumetsn constructed on this European plan of "double blowers," have been manufactured in this country, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an apperdage is nearly impossible

Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of tone. We predict for this invention a brilliant future.

THE MELODEON & SCHOOL ORGAN.

For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly. With our increased facilities, we feel warranted in assuring our patrons that their orders will be promptly met, and solicit a continuance of their patronage.

DEATH OF LIEUT. BUEL.—We understand that letters have been received in town announcing the death of Lieut. E E. Buel, of Co E 9th Regiment, who formerly resided here He died in the Marine Hospital in St. Louis a few days since. When the regiment reached that place Buel was so feeble that he was left at the hospital, but no one imagined that he was dangerously ill. Thus another good soldier and veteran has gone to his rest. We understand that the Lieut was a favorite officer, and gave good satisfaction to his command, by his gallant and soldierly bearing.

WHAT THE "PRESS" SAY OF US

The Lafayette (Ind.) Daily Courier, March 18 1865, says: A better selected, more varied or fashionable assortment of jewelry cannot be found on the continent than Arrandale & Co., are now offering. Messrs. Arrandale & Co, occupy a high position in commercial circles as men entirely above the common trickery of trade. Their statements may be implicitly relied upon, both as to the character of their goods and the manner of disposal. Ladies especially, in all parts of the country, are realizing handsome profits as agents, and if any, of our fair readers desire to interest themselves in this enterprise they may do so with perfect confidence.

We have inspected, at the office of Arrandale & Co's Agency for European Manufacturing Jewellers, a large assortment of valuable and fashionable jewelry of the newest patterns. We also noticed a large quantity of silver plate and understand that the whole of these newly imported articles are to be disposed of on a novel principle giving great advantage to buyers, and affording extensive employment to agents We know the firm in question to be very respectable and thoroughly worthy of public confidence, and recommend our friends to read their advertisement—N. Y. Albion, September 3, 1864.

The British Whig, of Kingston, C. W. says Nov 26th, 1864; One of our lady subscribers became an agent for Arrandale & Co. and by request brought some twenty articles sent as prizes for her agency, to this office for inspection and without hesitation we can state that each and all of the articles were worth treble the amount of cost to the recipients, and some of them six times.

AGENTS—We want agents in every regiment, and in every town and county in the country, and those acting as such will be allowed ten cents on every certificate ordered by them, provided their remittance amounts to one dollar, also other inducements which can be learned on application. Agents will collect 25 cents for every Certificate, and remit fifteen cents to us, either in cash or postage stamps.

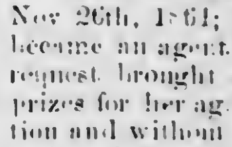
Manhood: How Lost, How Restored.



Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhoea, or seminal weakness Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity; Impediments to Marriage, etc, also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

AGRICULTURAL.

HAVING THINGS HANDY.

Under this head could be comprised many things, but I will only mention a few, and many would probably pursue a different course, but as we are all different in form and manner, so in expression.

In the first place, to have handy stumps, that is loose ones, that when you mow, you may work up to them, and only just get off the machine and move them, and mow on, and when you rake do the same. Then again at plowing and harrowing, such stumps are equally handy.

It is handy to have the mowing machines in the meadow, ready for another year. This is also handy for the manufacturer. We can leave the plows, harrows and horserakes in the field ready for another year. It is not always convenient to draw these things to the barn or shed, and then haul them back to the same field the next year; it is certainly more handy to leave them where next wanted. Now if we only think of these things, we can save many steps by having things handy.—Cor. Ohio Farmer.

TREE PLANTING.

It is an error to manure in the hole, newly planted trees, whether fruit or forest. Make the earth deep, fine and rich from previous manuring and cultivating, but do not use any manure, unless it is the finest loamy compost, at the time of planting. To protect and enrich the roots, you may cover the surface with straw, leaves, or very course manure, to decay gradually. If set in the Spring, you may apply manure liberally in Autumn. If set in Autumn, you may mulch pretty liberally with course manure before the ground is frozen. When trees get a good start, and are making roots and limbs rapidly, we do not know that you could hurt them with manure, lime or ashes in any reasonable quantity. We do know as a general thing that all sorts of trees, vines and shrubs, are wofully neglected and suffer the want of manure.

BEET SUGAR.

We learn from the Prairie Farmer that the very successful experiments that have been made in sugar making from the beet, by Messrs. Gennert, Bro., Chatsworth, Ill., have attracted the attention of some capitalists, who have investigated the matter and a stock company is being rapidly formed for the prosecution of the business. The sugar made last season, some 8000 pounds, has been refined, and furnishes one of the best samples of loaf sugar to be found anywhere. Every experiment necessary to prove that there is no impediment in the way of successfully prosecuting the enterprise, seems to have been made by the Messrs. G.

Bee Forage.—Last season, the writer seeded one half acre to Alsike, or Swedish clover. The season was dry and it blossomed but little. The seed caught good, and the plant endured our cold Wisconsin writer finely—though we had more snow to protect it than we usually have. It is prolific of blossoms, and ~~[illegible]~~ past two weeks, and it bids fair to continue in bloom for at least two weeks longer. Very few bees can be seen on the white clover in the vicinity, but the hum of the busy workers can be constantly heard during the day upon the Alsike. The native and Italian species resort to it alike. Its pleasant perfume can be discerned some rods away.—L. L. Fairchild, in Country Gent.

Toads.—Never kill the toad that frequents your garden. Not by any means remarkable for their beauty, they are nevertheless very useful in destroying insects, particularly those that fly about in the night. Toads feed almost exclusively on insects, and the amount of good they do is immense. If we could always reconcile ourselves to the old adage, 'Handsome is that handsome does,' and conquer our prejudice, we should consider the toad a true friend. A young lady once told us that she "perfectly doated on alligators." It would be much more sensible to fix her young affections on toads.—Ploughman.

THE ATLANTIC CABLE.

Comments of the London Times upon its Failure.

New York, Aug. 22.—The London Times, speaking of the Atlantic cable, says; "No commercial misadventure of modern times has ever excited more wide-spread interest and deep regret than this almost national disaster." It believes the directors are about to take steps to immediately replace the cable that has been lost. The Times further remarks that it would be strange if, after all, the land should beat the sea, and the Russians and Americans should complete the telegraphic wire between London to New York, by way of Siberia and Behring's Strait, before the success of this cable. There can be no question as to the possibility of a land line; but England inclines to the Atlantic route. Both are only a question of time and money. In the too probable event of the Great Eastern returning with a tale of disaster, we might immediately set about improving our cable. It appears to be admitted on all hands that it is capable of improvement.

Revenue Decision.—The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that a policy of insurance, issued by an accident insurance company, which contains a clause covering the cause of death from accidental injury, is to be regarded as a life insurance policy, and is subject to a stamp duty like other insurances companies. And again, whenever a writ subject to stamp duty, but which has been issued unstamped, is afterwards stamped in the manner allowed by law, such stamping relates back to the time when the writ was issued, and makes ab initio. If the writ was issued priod to April 1, 1865, it should be stamped under the provision of section 163 of the date of July 30, 1864. If since the case falls under section 58 of said act, as amended by the act of March 3, 1865.

SEWING MACHINES.

These Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do; will Hem, Fell Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tention, or making any adjustment of Machaine whatever!!!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood; and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

These are peculiar facts, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

Please call and examine, or send for Circular.

THROAT AND LUNGS,

Diseases of those organs are so prevalent and dangerous that a reliable Medicine is a necessary safeguard in every community. In such a remedy for family use, the absolute absence of danger from accidental overdoses, freedom from poisons, and the adaptation to patients of every age and condition, of either sex, is indispensible. These qualities are most combined in this preperation, and so admirably is it adapted to the cure of all diseases for which it is recommended, that its entire influence is bro't to bear against them, and so perfectly assist nature in its efforts to rid the system of disease, that the most delicate constitution can use it with perfect safety and a fixed certainty that a RELEIF AND A CURE WILL SPEEDILY FOLLOW

As Time—the great developer of Events—advances, these truths becomes wider and better known, and this Medicine has already become a simple necessity, with a growing demand, unprecedented in the history of Medicine—the natural results of its INTRINSIC MERITS.

A single trial is all that is necessary to establish the fact that it is the most efficacious remedy ever offered to suffering humanity.

This medicine is put up in 50, 75 and $1,00 bottles and warranted to contain more and better material than any similar medicine introduced to the public in a medicine.

HELMBOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATIONS.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED" COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings.

This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the matter of calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for men, women and children.

H

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

For weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion, attended with the following Symptoms:

Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory, Dificulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves, Trembling,
Horror of Disease, Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision, Pain in the Back,
Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin, Eruptions of the Face,
Universal Lassitude, Pallid Countenance,
Muscular System.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes), soon follow—

FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c.,

In one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

E

In many affections peculiar to Females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, and for all complaints incident to the sex, or in the

BLOOD! BLOOD! BLOOD!

Helmbold's

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA,

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the Skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect Helmbold's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla. It cleanses and renovates the Blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought for, and now, for the first time the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

O

HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH,

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with [illegible] living witnesses, and upwards of [illegible] certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including [illegible] Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basis, Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works.

"High" Life in Newport.

A correspondent writing from Newport, gives the following daily 'order of performance' at that watering place.

FOR LADIES.—Rise late. Breakfast where you sit about a great deal, scan everybody that enters or exists, eat what you can get, and following one of Franklin's golden rules, retire from the table with an appetite, Promenade to the march in Faust, vigorously played by the band. Sit in the corridor and abuse the company. Drive to the beach and bathe, or drive to the beach and not bathe, and wonder how other women can. Return home and wait patiently for the hairdresser. Hairdresser. Grand toilette. Dinner, Ladies in black silk go to the table early to see and not be seen. Ladies en grand tenue wait till the second course, in order to be seen and not see. Very little eating, and a great deal of remarking what other women have on. Promenade to the march in Faust. If you are young and pretty, and have admirers, you begin your flirtations for the day. If you are not young and pretty, but are a coquette, you flirt all the same. If you do the heavy dignity, you sit down in the corridor, learn everybody by heart, and abuse the company. Driving on the avenue, when nobody looks at the sunset everybody continues to look at everybody else. Tea, less eating than at dinner, and more gossip. Retire to emerge in evening custome. Promenade to the march in Faust. Flirtations in their height. A general desire to look at the moon. If you don't indulge in flirtations, you watch others, and thereby acquire a fund of information for the next day's gossip. To bed at midnight.

FOR GENTLEMEN—Rise late and buy a New York paper. Breakfast, read a very little of the newspaper, and look a great deal at the pretty girls opposite. Get an introduction to pretty girls and promenade. Smoke a cigar on the piazza, and talk about the pretty girls and the Saratoga races. Go down to the beach and watch the bathers; ridicule the woman and pronounce them frights. Cigars or billiards, or both, or an equivalent. Another cigar and gossip, Toilette. Dinner. Lounge and watch the ladies. Go in rather late, Gaze unabashed at all the toilettes that were invented for the purpose of attraction Fee the waiter and take what you don't want. Promenade with as many girls as it is possible, Talk an infinite deal of nonsense; invite the prettiest and stillest to drive. Drive and display your horses, or be driven and talk about men that have turn-outs extrodinary; Tea with pretty girl. More nonsense.

Cigars on piazza. More talk about horses in general, pretty women in particular.

Promenade with pretty girls. Flirtations.

Some gentlemen—those who approve of early hours—are up betimes to visit the 'grand moral' men-agerie before referred to. It is also said that the Ocean house proprietors would be bankrupt were it not for the immense receipts taken at what is called 'the bar.'

Such is life at the Ocean house. Of course there are variations from the routine laid down, but the programme given holds good in the majority of cases. It is a fine experience for young people. It is an admirable place to take the down off a girl's bloom. Nowhere can one so rapidly learn the superiority of show over substance. They say that watering-places are matrimonial nests. It may be. They must be if Mrs. Grundy says so. If I was a young women I think I should be seen as little as possible at the Ocean house. If I were a young man I thing I might flirt with young ladies at the Ocean house but marry very few of them. Being a correspondent, of course like Madame de Stael's genius, which has no sex, I am neither the one nor the other. Straws merely show which way the wind-blows.

Anecdote of Joe Lane.

I am an old resident of Oregon and was for many years a constituent of Joe L——, at one time Orgon's greatest politicians. I propose telling the readers of the Drawer one of his electioneering dodges, and how nicely he got caught at it. Uncle Joe was about to make a speech to the unterrified on Long Tom, and stopped at Tom Brown's for dinner, He knew Tom to be a little shaky—in fact, quite inclined to be anti L——, and Uncle Joe determined to bring him over. As soon as he entered the house he commenced his usual tactics: 'Well, God bless you, Mrs. Brown! how do you do and how are the little ones?' After kissing the dirty brood all round, he asks for mother's pipe. 'If there is anything I do like, it is to smoke mother's pipe; it's got some strength into it, and does a fellow some good. By the by, Mrs. Brown, they say Tom is going to vote against me. I hope he won't. He and I have fit Indians together up on Rogue River, and camped out in the mountains, and been good friends and Democrats ever since we came to Oregon.'

Presently dinner is ready, and they have pork and beans, of course. Mrs. Brown is sorry they have nothing better But says Uncle Joe, 'You could not have anything better, bless your soul, we don't have anything half so good in Washington. Why, my friend the President would give half his salary to get such beans as these. Have you got a pint you could spare? I would so like to take them to him for seed!'

'We've got, bushels of them,' said Mrs. Brown.

'Well now, how lucky! If you will do up a pint of them, I will put them in my saddle-bags and take them to the President, and I would not be suprised if it were the means of Tom getting one of the best offices in the State'

So the beans were put up and stowed away in Uncle Joe's saddle-bags. and Tom's vote and influence were made all sure.

In about a week Tom and his wife go up to Eugene, to visit Tom's sister, Mrs. Smith. Uncle Joe had been there, and made a first rate impression. Mrs. Smith tells Mrs Brown, 'What a nice gentleman Square L——, is; so kind and sociable like; and then he thinks so much of smith! Would you believe it, he brought up a pint of beans all the way from Washington, the very kind the President has on his table!'

At this Mrs. Brown begins to smell a very big mice. Says she.

'Mrs. Smith, what kind of beans is them he brought you from Washington.

'Oh, they are nice beans; twice as large as our white ones, with a pinkish eye.'

'I thought so!' says Mrs. Brown.—'May I see them?'

'Certainly,' says Mrs. Smith, 'I have them in a bag with the garden seeds.'

The beans were produced, still tied in a piece of Jane Brown's calico dress.—This produced an explosion. Brown and Smith at once became anti L—— and worked hard to defeat him. Messrs. Brown and Smith were a host in themselves. They canvassed Long Tom and Eugene so thoroughly that Uncle Joe had not a ghost of a chance in those precincts.—Harper's Monthly Magazine.

THE RULING PASSION.—Governor Seymour knows of more ways than one, in politics. It will be remembered that when the democratic convention was held, last year—having ascertained that there was a good deal of dis-affection towards him—he humbly declined re-nomination. The convention sent a committee to him to learn if this was final, and he told them it was his positive intention to retire, and couldn't accept the nomination; but if the convention saw fit to indorse his administration by unanimously tendering him the nomination, he would regard it as a favor. The inference was that he would decline in any event, and the nomination was to be given as a compliment only, and to be returned. The convention fell into the trap, and to its consternation was caught and held. So, yesterday, at the diocesan convention, he tried the same game, and with equal adroitness and success. When the election of general deputies was to take place, he arose, and in his blandest tones, declined the position—for which he was designated upon the printed ballots already in circulation. His private concerns adsorbed his time to such an extent that he must neglect the affairs of the church. The convention did as the other one did, and elected Mr. Seymour. He didn't afterwards decline. That isn't his way. Now it is a fact that many leading men and women in that church deeply regret the placing of a man esteemed as semi-disloyal, in the position of their representative. But while they feel hurt by this action brought about by concerted action on the part of those who feel bound to support Seymour because he's a leading democratic politician—they will labor the more earnestly to correct the evil influence.—Rochester Express, 18th.

The death of Governor Brough—Proclamation of his Successor.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, August 30.—Whereas, our state has been greatly bereaved by the loss of its executive head, his excellency John Brough, late governor of Ohio and

Whereas, It is a fit custom for a people so afflicted, while bowing in all due humanity to this heavy dispensation of Divine Providence, to show all their sense of the affliction by some general recognition of the public value and private worth of the departed which make that loss of such general concern and of such deep feeling, and

Whereas, His singular integrity and fidelity to all public trust, his extrordinary general abilities, and his still more extrordinary capacity for administrative duties and labors in time of trial like this, do especially entitle the memory of Governor Brough to some wide and deep recognition on the part of his fellow-citizens during the solemn pageant of his funeral obsequies;

Now, therefore, The people of the whole state of Ohio are hereby respectfully, but earnestly, requested to cease from their usual avocations and all secular business, to close their several places of business, and to devote the brief time between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 3 o'clock p. m. of Friday, the 1st day of September proximo, to grave and appropriate meditation on this their great calamity; and it is furthermore hereby expressly urged upon all members of the general assembly, and other officers of state who may receive this invitation, and can with convenient attend his funeral, to be present on that most sad occasion.

(Signed) CHARLES ANDERSON,
Governor of Ohio.

International Crickett Match.

TORONTO, C. W., August 29.—The international crickett match was concluded to-day. It was a very close contest, the Americans barely winning as their last man was in. Score: First innings—Canada, 73; Americans, 63. Second innings—Canada, 54. The Americans played throughout with one man short.

Counterfeited National Notes.

Much misapprehension exists in regard to the counterfeiting of the national issues of notes, and we have taken pains to inform ourselves, says The Washington Chronicle, through the proper officers of the treasury, to the end that the public may be correctly informed of the matter.

All the postal and fractional currency both that printed in New York and that printed in the treasury, except the very last issues printed at the treasury, have been counterfeited.

Nearly all the denominations of the so-called 'greenbacks' or 'legal tender' notes printed in New York have been counterfeited or altered to higher denominations, viz.:

Ones—both counterfeited and altered to tens.
Twos—altered to fifties.
Twenties—counterfeited.
Fifties—counterfeited.
One hundred—counterfeited.

None of the notes (except fractional) which have been printed in the Treasury have been counterfeited. The five, six, seven and-three tenths per cent, notes, compound interest notes, &c., have all so far escaped imitation by the counterfeiters. It is only these printed in New York that have been successfully imitated. The currency of the national banks has not yet been counterfeited, notwithstanding the reports to that effect. These notes were designed at the Treasury Department and executed according to the original design. it is believed they, like the five, six, and seven and three-tenths per cent notes, will defy the counterfeiter's skill.

THOUGHT HE WAS GREELEY.—An incident happened a few evenings since at the Catskill Mountain House which is too rich to be lost. Among the company was the venerable and Rev. D. V——, of New York, a gentleman whose dress and address distinguished him as a finished gentleman of the old school of manner, courtly and elegant. He was in the sitting room surrounded by a circle of friends, and strangers also were enjoying the conversation, which was necessarily loud, because the Doctor is unfortunately quite hard of hearing.

An elderly clergyman from down East entered the parlor, and drawing a chair close to Dr. V——. began to propound questions, which he was obliged to repeat at the top of his voice to make the Doctor hear.

'I would be glad to have your views on the probability of the return of the Rebel States to the Union.'

The Doctor replied that 'he thought the President's measures were judicious, and things were working very well.'

'What do you think,' pursued the inquirer, 'of the expediency of negro suffrage?'

The Doctor answered, 'I would not allow any man to vote who had not intelligence, but I would not exclude any man simply on account of his color.'

'I am very glad,' said the old gentleman, 'to hear these views from you, Mr. Greeley.'

'Greeley,' said the Doctor, 'I am not Mr. Greeley!'

Why, are you not Horace Greeley?'

'By no means,' said the Doctor, 'What made you imagine it?'

'Well, I ask your pardon, and must explain. A young man sitting next to me at dinner told me that you were Horace Greeley, and advised me to have a conversation, as he said you were fond of talking with people and expressing your views on public questions. I ask your pardon, sir, but I certainly supposed I was talking to Horace Greeley.'

The amusement of the company was extreme. Strangers and friends joined heartily in the laugh, and none enjoyed it more than the two reverend divines, one of whom had been hoaxed and the other had been mistaken for the politician whose dress and personal appearance were as different from the clergyman's as from any man living—Albany Journal.

'C. O. D.'—The Green Bay Advocate thus explains, in answer to a correspondent the meaning of these cabalistic letters:

'They are not the advertisement of a patent medicine, nor of anybody's bitters. They are simply the result of an idle habit they have down East of requesting us Western people to pay for such little goods as we compliment them by ordering. The letters simply means 'Cheli Out Damquick.' It is mortifying that so large a concern as the American Express Company should spell so badly and use such profanity; but as we are not responsible for public education or morals we can do no more than allude to it.'

STYLE IN WRITING.—If you indulge in long periods; you must be sure to have a snapper at the end. As for the style of writing, if one has anything to say, it drops from him simply and directly, as a stone falls to the ground. There are no two ways about it, but down it comes, and he may stick in the points and stop whenever he can get a chance. New ideas come into this world somewhat like falling meteors, with a flash and an explosion, and, perhaps, somebody's castle roofs perforated. To try to polish the stone in its descent, to give it a peculiar turn, and make it whistle a tune, perchance, would be of no use, if it were possible. Your polished stuff turns out not to be meteoric, but of this earth.

Late News from Texas.

Brevet Major General C. C. Andrews passed through this city yesterday, on his way from northern Texas to his home in Minnesota. He reports everything quiet in that state. Governor Hamilton is everywhere well received, and the most prominent people declare themselves satisfied with the result of the war. Governor Hamilton doesn't think it best to call a convention at any early day. It is his opinion that the welfare of the state will be promoted by proceeding slowly in its reorganization. The negroes are generally at work on the old plantations, in most places being employed with the promise of a share of the crops; in some parts, however, where our military power is not present, the masters are holding them as slaves, and compel them to work as formerly.

Texas is suffering very little from the war. An abundant stock of supplies of every kind is on hand, and there is no danger of want in any section. General Andrews thinks that the cotton crop in Texas will be quite up to the average; in fact, as large as has ever been raised in that state.

Major general H. G. Wright, late in command of the 6th army corps, now commands in the state of Texas. The state is divided up into three disiscict—the east; under General Mower, headquarters at Galveston; the middle, under General Stanley, headquarters at Houston; and the western, under General Steele, headquarterers at San Antonio. Major General Weitzel is in command of the 25th army corps. The cavalry is under General Merritt, who reports directly to General Sheridan, at New Orleans. General Custar had not arrived with his division of cavalry when General Andrews left.—Chicago Rep.

ONCE A CLERK, ALWAYS A CLERK.—Ben. F. Taylor, the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Journal, writes as follows:

"Perhaps I have told you before that there had ought to be a Washington proverb, 'once a clerk, always a clerk,' and here is an illustration. A young man of ambition and talent finished his studies as a physician one day, and with a diploma and knife in his pocket—the latter to open the world with—he looked about him for a place to begin. But then, he wanted a few silver-steel knives and hooks and crooks, possibly a little scammony and gamboge, and a clerkship seemed to offer the surest way of equipment. So he obtained a position in one of the Departments of this city.

"The young doctor was seen to enter a marble hall, and has never come forth; never made his country rounds at a Canterbury gallop: never felt a city patient's pulse in gloves; never decapitated anybody and 'so much for Buckingham!' The young man of burnished locks entered that hall thirty-nine years ago, and there is a middle aged man there now, who has made—he has threads of it in his hair—and who is said to be a missing member of the tribe of Esculapius!

A GOOD JOKE ON SHERMAN.—While marching through Georgia, Gen. Sherman traveled with the left wing under General Slocum. After a long and wearisome march, he one day crossed over to the right wing under Gen. Howard.—While in Gen. Howard's tent, which had just been pitched, the Medical Directors came in, well acquainted with the customs and habits of both. Gen. Sherman sometimes took a "glass," while Gen. Howard was strongly opposed to the indulgence. Knowing this, the medical gentleman, after a short time, wishing to serve his chief without off use to Howard said:

Gen. Sherman, you look weary and ill. If you will come over to my tent, I will give you a Seidlitz Powder, which I think will do you good."

'Thank you,' readily responded Tecumseh, 'I think I will.'

The man of physic departed, and Gen. Howard, who took everything literally, ran to his valise and got a powder, which he mixed and handed to Sherman:

'There is no need to go away for one if that is what you want,' he said, and Sherman, inwardly chagrined, but highly amused, drank the cup manfully, to the mirth of several by-standers, who comprehended the whole magnitude of joke at a glance.

—It was on one of the river steamers, at dinner, that an able matronly lady remarked in the midst of conversation with a grave looking gentleman, on the subject of temperance: "Oh, of all things in the world, I despise whiskey drinkers!" The gentleman dropped his knife and fork in the ardor of his feelings, extended his hand and took hers within his own, and with emotion that threatened tears over the loos of ruined sons, he replied with faltering words:

Madame, I respect your sentiment and the heart that dictates them. I permit no one to go beyond me in despising whiskey-drinking. I have been disgusted on this boat, and I say, what can be more disgusting than to see well-dressed, respectable and virtuous-looking young men step up to the bar of this boat, and without fear of observing eyes, boldly ask for whiskey, when they know there is in that very bar the best old cognac brandy!

—A contemporary says, 'The first printers were Titians.' We never knew that before, but we have seen a good many 'tight uns' within our experience.

Discharge of Mumford.

NEW YORK, August 30.—The case of Peter B. Mumford, broker on Wall street, charged with defrauding Greenleaf, Ferris & Company, of whom he purchased $28,000 in gold, by means of worthless checks, was disposed of this morning, and resulted in the discharge of the defendant. It was shown that his credit at the bank was good, he having deposited on the day the purchase was made $220,000. Indeed, the counsel for the prosecution made the statement in court, and secured the release of Mr. Mumford; who has been confined in a Tombs cell for a week.

A Liquor Law Decision.

BOSTON, August 29.—In the case of the Commonwealth versus Holbrook, which was carried up to the supreme judicial court, on the ground that the defendant had the right to sell liquors under a license from the United States—the court decided that the payment to the United States of a license and a revenue duty or tax does not exempt the defendant from responsibility for violating the laws of the commonwealth.

The Day of Election.

There being some misaprehension as to the time of the State election, we quote from the law:

On the first Tuesday after the first Monday in October, in each and every year, except the year in which the election of the President of the United States occurs, and in that year on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, a general election shall be held in the several election districts of the State, which said election shall be known as the annual election of the State, &c.

The general election this year, therefore, will be on Tuesday, the third day of October—a little less than a month after the nominations were made.

A YANKEE THRASHES FOUR REBELS.—One Howell, brother-in-law of Jeff. Davis, and three other insulting rebels were most soundly thrashed, in the presence of all the guests of the Pulaski House, Savannah, by Capt. Hussy alone, for making indecent and insulting remarks against the President and our flag. Subsequently, another rebel puppy received a similar attention from Capt. Hussy for doubting the ability of one Yankee to whip four rebels. Howell and his badly whipped bullies were then taken to the police station. The Republican says the lesson was sadly needed, as Union men have been uniformly insulted of late there, and the thing was growing unbearable.

BUSINESS COURTESY.—Nothing more certainly marks the gentleman than the observance of a uniform courtesy and kindness in the busines of life. Such a bearing toward all men should be cultivated till it grows to be a habit. Sure, kind words are as abundant, and cost no more than harsh ones. Many a man has robbed himself of success by an austere and haughty manner. Such an address chills those whom interest most attracts, and impairs a confidence that might become almost fond. There is nothing like a quiet, gentlemanly and polite manner in business. Petulence and passion grow worse by indulgence, and unfit their possessor for pleasant intercourse with his fellows. Every gentleman has a right to demand and receive courteous treatment at the hands of those with whom he may deal. He is worse than a boor who purposely and cooly refuses to extend it.

HOT AND COLD.—Dan Marble was once strolling along the wharves in Boston, where he met a tall, gaunt figure, a 'digger' from California, and got into conversation with him.

'Healthy climate, I suppose?'

'Healthy! it ain't anything else.—Why, stranger, there you can choose any climate you like, hot or cold, and that without traveling more than fifteen minutes. Just think of that the next cold morning when you get out of bed. There's a mountain there, with a valley on each side of it, the one hot and the other cold. Well, get on top of this mountain with a double barrel gun, and you can without moving, kill either summer or winter game, just as you will!'

'What! have you ever tried it?

'Tried it! often, and should havedone pretty well, but for one thing. I wanted a dog that could stand both climates. The last dog I had froze off his tail while pintin' on the summer side. He did'nt get entirely out of the winter side, you se—trew as you live.'

Marble sloped.

PENSIONS FOR THE LOSS OF LIMBS.—Several applications have been made to the Commissioner of Pensions, under the mistaken impression that at the last session of Congress the rate of pension for the loss of a limb had been increased. It is officially announced that no such change in the pension law has been made. For the loss of one limb, the army pensioner receives $8 per month if he was a private, non-commissioned officer or musician; $15 if a2nd Lieutenant; $17 if a 1st Lieutenant; $20 if a Captain, $25 if a Major, and $30 if a Lieutenant Colonel or of any higher grade. The same rates, according to rank, are applicable to navy pensions.

Miscellaneous Items.

—Messrs. Baker and Schade returned to the defense of Wirz Tuesday last, and the trial proceeded. Testimony was given by a rebel surgeon who was on duty at Andersonville, two Union soldiers who were prisoners at that place, and a Union surgeon who was on duty at Annapolis. Their evidence was confirmatory of that already given.

—Pardons were granted Tuesday to fifteen rebels,—including A. O. P. Nicholson, General Gideon J. Pillow, and ex-Governor Aiken of South Carolina. More than 8,000 applications for pardon which have been acted upon by the attorney general, are now awaiting the signature of the President.

—The report that the sale of government horses and mules had been stopped is pronounced to be without foundation. It was set afloat by speculators. Some $4,000,000 has already been raised from these sales.

—The trial of Paymaster Webb, before a court martial, at Washington has developed the fact that a gang of sharpers had conspired with certain disbursing officers of the government, to swindle soldiers out of their wages; and that large amounts had been realized by these praries from their nefarious business.

—The order mustering out generals is undergoing revision. The names of Generals Miller and Bragg have been stricken out, and a number of other generals are to be included.

—The military road from Green Bay to Lake Superior will be opened this fall, and a daily line of stages will be run thereon.

—It is expected that two-thirds of the next general assembly of Iowa will be composed of persons who served in the army during the late civil war.

THE MANKATO UNION.

Mankato, Minn., Friday Sept. 8, 1865.

Republican County Convention.

The Union electors of Blue Earth County are requested to meet in delegate convention at the City Hall, in Mankato, on Tuesday, the 26th of September, 1865, for the purpose of placing in nomination one Sheriff, one Register of deeds, one County Treasurer, one Judge of Probate, one Clerk of the Court, one County Surveyor, one County Commissioner for the 1st District to be voted for on the 7th of November next, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

The different towns will be entitled to the following number of delegates:

Mankato,	10	Butternut Valley,	2
South Bend,	5	Medo,	2
Garden City,	5	Lime,	1
Shellyville,	4	Le Ray,	1
Sterling,	4	Jamestown,	1
Judson,	3	Rapidan,	1
Vernon,	3	Ceresco,	1
Mapleton,	3	Danville,	1
McPherson,	2

The several towns will hold their caucuses on Saturday the 23d inst. at 5 o'clock P. M. at the usual places of holding elections.

H. L. GUDE
Chairman County Committee.

Send in Full Delegations.

The county convention which is to meet on Tuesday, the 26th inst., the call for which will be found elsewhere, we trust will be well attended, as there are quite a number of offices to be filled this fall and offices, too, which are important. We hope all the towns in the county will endeavor to send in the full number of delegates they are severally entitled to. It is very bad practice to allow one delgate to cast the vote of an entire delegation, because the one does not always represent the feelings and views of an entire delegation; and especialy because where such a practice is allowed there is very little interest manifested in conventions, and very little enthusiasm over nominees.

This question was brought up by one of our delegates at the late convention, and we regret that it was not put to a vote. We hope the next convention will take hold of this matter, and allow no delegate to act or cast the vote of any one but himself. Every delegate should strive to be on hand, or else send a substitute in his stead from his own town. And, then, with well attended conventions we may reasonably expect our best men will be put in nomination, and by the interchange of sentiments and views of the delegates from all parts of the county, an enthusiasm kindled for the ticket which will augur well for its success at the coming election.

"A Species of Demagoguism."

Under the above caption the St. Paul Press, of the 5th inst., gives us a lecture because, in our last issue but one we editorially ridiculed the nomination of such a military man as Col. Marshall for Governor, and in our last issue claimed that "as our brave soldier boys have represented us so well on the field of strife, they can represent us equally well at home by filling our offices of trust, honor and profit."

These two editorials in the eyes of the Press are glaring inconsistent. Not quite so fast, official organ! If you had not Marshall on the brain so thoroughly, you would have had the honesty to have quoted our entire article, at least that portion of it which qualifies the nomination of soldiers irrespective of qualifications. What we did say in our last issue, and which the Press in its garbled extract did not notice was this; "while, as between soldier and civilian, candidates possessing nearly equal qualifications, we should give our preference to returned soldiers; yet where there is a marked degree of difference in qualifications as regards capacity, moral or intellectual worth, in that case discarding every other consideration but the public good we should strive to make good the old saying "may the best man win."

Now, there is no inconsistency at all between the two articles. We do not consider that there is a marked degree of difference in qualification between C. D. Gilfillan—our preference for Governor, and Col. Marshall, the candidate of the Press, and we consider the former by far the better man of the two. Our reasons for our preference we have given in former articles, and need not repeat them here. It does not follow that because Col. Marshall was Lieut. Col. under Colonel, now Governor Miller, and succeeded him in command, that there is any military necessity, or military law, showing that he should succeed that functionary in the gubernatorial chair. The manner in which Gov. Miller has discharged the duties of his office ought, we think, to satisfy the aspirations of a military man like Marshall, so that we should not have another dose of the same kind lest we be surfeited.

Edward Ketchum in Court.

New York, Sept. 4.

Ketchum the forger was brought before Justice Hogan this morning according to the adjournment last week. When he appeared in court he bore the same careless manner noticed when arrested and he appeared to look with contempt on the court and all in the room. Upon being asked if he was ready to proceed with the examination he replied that he was not, as his counsel was absent from the city, and he would ask an adjournment for two days The case was then adjourned till next Monday. It was intended to have the case presented to the Grand Jury to day, but this adjournment has made a postponement necessary.

Mr. Evans' Report.

A meeting of the commissioners from the several frontier counties was held here last Thursday to dispose of the bloodhound fund placed in the hands of Mr. E. P. Evans, and to hear his report. From that it appears that the funds placed in his hands were as follows:

Blue Earth county	$480
Martin	200
Watonwan	150
By friends in St. Paul	386
By friends in Boston	10
Whole amount,	$1,226

The funds were expended as follows:

Amount paid for 13 dogs	$325 00
Traveling expenses of agent, and transportation and feed for the dogs,	525 25
Salary of agent, 100 days at $2 per day	200 00
Expenses of keeping dogs at Mankato	23 25
	$1070 53
Total amount contributed	$1226 00
Total expenses	1070 53
Surplus	$155 00

The average cost of the dogs, including all expenses, was about $81 35.

The dogs and surplus funds were distributed as follows:

Blue Earth, 6 dorgs and $76 73; Martin, 3 dogs and $61 03; and Watonwan 3 dogs and $17 70.

We understand that all parties who have contributed money for this object are satisfied. Those who have been finding so much fault about enormous expenditure of money and who contributed nothing for the purpose, will do well to keep silent in future.

FOUR YEARS IN SECESSIA.

Geo. & C. W. Sherwood, 118 Lake Street, Chicago, Ill., publish Four Years in Secessia, adventures in and beyond the Union lines, by Junius Henri Brown Special War Correspondent of the New York Tribune. It is sold only by subscription.

This work embraces a great variety of facts, incidents and romance of the war, and contains an intensely interesting account of the Author's adventures and experiences.

The "lights and shadows" of the soldier's life, from scenes in the camp, on the march, among deserted plantations, in daring exploits amid the strife and carnage of the battle field, in the hospital and in loathsome prisons, are vividly portrayed.

Mr. Brown was an eye witness of a wide range of stirring events in the South-West, and while a prisoner, a subject of the most perfidious treatment at the hands of the Rebels.

From this vast field of mighty events and changing incidents, and from that long dreary night of suspense and anguish, which to thousands of his companions brought no ray of morning, he comes forth again to the world, and pictures in burning words, this most eventful era of the world's history.

The sale of the work should be equal to its excellence.

THE AMERICAN CONFLICT.

We desire to call the attention of our readers to this Standard History of the American Rebellion, by Horace Greeley.

In its character and scope it has no competitor among all the histories of the war.

We assure our readers that Mr. Greeley's treatment of the subject is honest, impartial, straitforward and thorough. He permits public men, and political parties, to define their own positions, in speeches, letters and platforms. All of his statements are well fortified with statistical proof, and copious notes; he goes to the root and source, and with a master's hand, traces the growing conflict through the entire period of our national life. His style is vigorous and inspring. In point of typographical execution and beauty of embellishment, it is a work of the very highest order. No intelligent American can afford to be without it. The work is sold only by subscription. Vol. 1 is now ready for delivery by Geo. & C. W. Sherwood, 118 Lake St., Chicago. Ill., and by their Agents. Vol. II., which completes the work, is nearly prepared. We advise our readers to purchase this the best History of the War.

Election on the Seventh of November.

On our outside we published an article which states that the election this fall comes on the 3rd of October. But we find that it is not so.

It will be seen by reference to the act entitled "An Act to amend an act entitled 'An Act to regulate elections in this State,'" passed September 22, 1862, (Extra Session Laws, page 19,) that the general election is to be held "on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November" in each year. The first Tuesday after the first Monday is the seventh, and therefore the day of election.

Postponed.—Capt. Fisk has been obliged to postpone his much-talked-of expedition to Yellow Stone until May next, from force "of circumstances."

A LETTER FROM SIDNEY.

Mr. Editor:—

In your notice to correspondents in last weeks paper, referring to an unpublished article of mine, you say "Sidney's views concerning the theory of electing officers are good. The people should not suffer a few demagogues to control the nomination of officers. But the only remedy for this is for the people to appear in force at the town caucus and by a fair vote make their nominations of delegates to the higher assembly." You say also very truthfully that "It is true that in order to act understandingly the candidates should be known" Just so! That is where the reformation must commence, if we are ever to overthrow the present corrupt system of nominations. The people must refuse to sustain any man as a candidate for nomination who is afraid or ashamed of having his claims scrutinized by the public. Every man's name ought to be advertised in the county paper two or three weeks at least previous to the town caucuses being held. The voters in our respective towns having thus had the opportunity of forming an opinion as to the merits of the different candidates, would turn out to the caucus meetings in much larger numbers than they have generally done. And having had a fair chance to vote on the nominations, they, as good republicans, will be then prepared to acquiesce in the decision arrived at by the county convention, and we shall no longer have the mortification of seeing the nominees of our party defeated at the polls by the nominees of the other party, and inferior men at that. And thus not only is our party defeated, but what is of a great deal more importance, the public are worse served. I hold that it is the glory of our republican form of government that it carries with it a remedy for every evil in the body politic. But the application of the remedy must ever rest with the people themselves. If we have a bad law it is our own fault; we make them. If incompetent or corrupt men hold office it is our own fault; we elected them. But we can never keep out such men while we allow the nominations to be controled by a few political brokers who have their own ends to serve.

There are now things transpiring with reference to our coming elections that are quite encouraging to every one who is really desirous of seeing the people manage their own affairs.

First, as we learn from the last Record, the republicans of Mankato made a successful fight at the town caucus defeating the clique that has so long controled the nominations in that town.

Just here allow me to say that I have no personal quarrel with any of the gentlemen composing the clique alluded to. They have always treated me kindly and courteously. Individually they may be the best of men but just so far as they seek to monopolize political power collectively, they, as a body, are a nuisance. The very angels themselves would be so, if they sought to deprive us of our political rights by corruption and intrigue.

The second ground for encouragement is from the fact that this fall, for the first time, some of the persons seeking a nomination have consented to have the fact made public through the press.

When the matter comes to be better understood no right minded man who is willing to hold office will object to advertise or allow his friends to do so for him. Some candidates think it would look as if they were too eager for office, yet the same parties see no impropriety in asking influential persons for their votes and influence as a personal favor to be repaid in some cases, doubtless, at the expense of the public. The only way that a man ca be honest in politics as in anything else is to start right. Let him just frankly tell the people that he is willing to serve them, if they wish, but if they prefer some one else he will be content.

No office can be a matter of much importance to any man who has energy and brains enough to discharge its duties properly. He can get his living at something else.

SIDNEY.

—A destructive fire occurred at St. Paul, on Tuesday last. The City Hotel, situated on Fourth Street, was entirely consumed. Loss $11,000. The furniture and building was insured for about $7,500.

—In a Chicago street car, the other day, a pale but pretty young woman gave up her seat to a one-legged soldier, and the gracious act led to the recognition of the man as her husband, long mourned as dead. The scene closes with each in the other's arms.

Le Seur Co. Nominations.—At the recent convention of the republicans of Le Seur Co. the following persons were nominated for County officers: For Sheriff, Robert G. Rhodes; for Register of Deeds, George J. Virtue; for Treasurer, Israel Brockman, for Judge of Probate, Wm. Andrews; Clerk of the Court, J. R. Roberts; for Surveyor, B. Abbott; for Coroner, Dr. W. W. Satterlee.

Frost.—The Cataraugus (N. Y.) Freeman, of the 16th, contains the following item:

Cataraugas is not this season entirely recreant to her past reputation. In some localities on Saturday night last, the frost was quite severe. Vines and other tender vegetation were either injured or killed.

The Fond du Lac(Wis.) Press of Thursday, 17th inst., says:

Early risers this morning saw the sidewalks covered with a heavy frost. Considerable damage must have been done to vegetation. This morning it is cold enough for overcoats.

Frost in New York and Wisconsin on August 12th and 17th! What hyperborean countries! Here in Minnesota, August 31st, we have had no signs of frost. Better emigrate, gentlemen, to a country where people can 'grow corn.'

Accident on a Railroad.

Crestline, Ohio, September 1.

A lady about 60 years of age, who is not able to give her name, while probably laboring under abberation of mind, wandered out on the platform of a car on the express train west, on Wednesday night, near Kirby, and fell off. She was not missed, and lay beside the track five hours before discovered. She was taken to Upper Sandusky, and will probably die. She had tickets from New York to St. Paul, and, from a telegram in her possession, it appears that she has a son in the latter place, who is expecting her out. His full name is not given.

Union Meeting Being Held in Virginia.

New York, Sept. 4.

The World's special says the recommendation of the late mass meeting in Richmond that similar meetings should be held throughout the State of Virginia, is being carried out. They have been called in several counties. One was held on Friday at Halifax Court House, and passed resolutions accepting the abolition of slavery as an accomplished fact, pledged their efforts for a full restoration of the Union, and endorsed the reconstruction policy of President Johnson.

A Confident Prediction—Mrs. Mallory Calls on the President.

New York, Sept. 4.

The Post's Washington special says it is confidently predicted that President Johnson will soon issue a proclamation restoring the writ of habeas corpus in the loyal States. The mail service has been restored on every railroad in the State of South Carolina.

Mrs. Mallory, wife of the rebel ex Secretary, has called on the President to endeavor to secure the release of her husband from Fort Pulaski.

On Monday next the Minnesota Central will commence running regular trains from Mendota to Northfield, connecting with St. Paul by the steamer Stella Whipple and with Minneapolis by stages. The steamer will leave St. Paul every morning at 7½ o'clock, and return on the arrival of the evening train at Mendota.

Another Railroad Disaster.

Boston, September 1.—Yesterday afternoon, at 1 o'clock, a stage coach, with a party of twelve ladies and gentlemen, was on its way from Lovell's Corners, South Weymouth, where they all resided, to the beach at Cohasset, the party proposing to stay some days at the latter place. In crossing the South Shore railroad track, at West Hingham where the country road and railroad cross each other obliquely, running almost parallel, the two horses shyed a little at the approach of a freight-train, and one of the coach-wheels caught between the rails and the wooden planking of the crossing. At that moment the cow-catcher struck and shattered the wheel, turning the coach over on Mr. Lovell, killing him instantly. Seven others out of the party were badly injured. One man was thrown from the top of the coach on to the engine-tender, and was not injured. A lady was thrown on the cow-catcher and carried on it till the train stopped, losing one of her eyes, and being in other respects badly injured. Mr. James Wendell was very badly hurt. Mr. M. Holbrook had his head badly injured, and was considered worse this morning. Mr. Austin Poole had his leg shattered and it was amputated. It was thought this morning that he would not live through the day. Mrs. Lovell's lower limbs are paralyzed, she having been injured in the spine. Mrs. Poole is seriously injured. Both of the ladies are in a very critical condition. The others were none of them dangerously injured, although severely bruised and jarred.

Brutal Murder.

New York, Sept. 4.

Last evening a carpenter named Joseph Holt, residing at New Brighton, Staten Island, was shot by two soldiers, and is not expected to recover. The soldiers had been lounging about the place for several days, and last evening got into a dispute with Holt, when they fired two shots from their revolvers, one shot taking effect in Holt's shoulder, and one in his temple. The soldiers then fled into the woods, where it is supposed they are now concealed. Witnesses say Holt, who is an inoffensive man, gave no provocation.

No lands will be sold for less than their appraised value per acre, and the right is reserved to withdraw from market any of the tracts advertised, on the day of sale.

The terms of the sale are such by law, that lands designated "Timber," seventy five per cent. of the purchase money must be paid at the time of sale, while lands denoted "Prairie," only fifteen per cent. of the purchase money will be required. When lands are not especially valuable for timber thereon, the proportion of the purchase money required down is mentioned in the proper column. In each case, the balance of the purchase money can be paid any time thereafter, from time to time, within twenty years, at the option of the purchaser: provided interest in advance at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, on the unpaid balance, is paid to the first day of June, 1866, and annually thereafter.

Purchase money payable in legal tender notes.

Persons purchasing lands upon which other parties have made improvements, will be required to pay the owner of the same the apprised value of improvements, one half to be paid at the time of sale, and the balance within six months thereafter, with interest at seven per cent. per annum.

The offering of said lands will commence at 10 o'clock A. M., at the usual place of holding court, on the day specified, and will proceed in order in which they are advertised, until all are offered. No sale will be kept open longer than one day, and no lands will be sold except at public sale.

THE AUTOMATIC ORGAN

In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly announce the greatest triumph in musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments, with double bellows and two pedals for the feet to operate but the want of the reversed or Exhaustion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated.

Another objection to this method of blowing was that, both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell Within the past two years, instrumetsn constructed on this European plan of "double blowers," have been manufactured in this country, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an appendage is nearly impossible.

Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of tone. We predict for this invention a brilliant future.

THE MELODEON & SCHOOL ORGAN

For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly. With our increased facilities, we feel warranted in assuring our patrons that their orders will be promptly met, and solicit a continuance of their patronage.

Caution to purchasers.

Call and buy a pair of Copper Tipped boots or shoes for boys & girls, they will last longer than any other. Clarke & Porter.

—The News Depot at the post office will be opened from and after to-morrow. The latest papers from the East will be kept for sale.

We notice that Clarke & Porter have just received a large lot of Harness Sole & upper Leather, Calf skins &c., which they are selling off fast at St Paul prices.

—One of our readers wishes us to give the city authorities "h—ll" for not removing a nuisance in the rear of the Mankato House barn. He must excuse us. We don't know what the nuisance is, and moreover we cannot give what rightfully belongs to them.

—Clarke & Porter keeps constantly on hand, Harness & Belt Leather & Rivets.

NEW JEWELRY STORE.—Mr. Heckman has disposed of his stock of jewelry to Messrs. Ridgeway Brothers. We hear them spoken of as good workmen, and industrious in business, and having had occasion to place some work in their hands we can testify as to their skill. They intend to fill up their room with a fine assortment of jewelry this fall. Give them a share of your patronage.

—Go to Wickersham & Laws drug store for Kerosene oil.

RUNAWAY.—A party of citizens were out hunting Tuesday, and their team ran away while one of the party was seated in the carriage. The carriage was overturned, and the whiffletrees and pole broken. The boys hired a farmer with an ox team to bring them to town. The horses were found the next day about a mile from where they started, wound around a tree,–having become entangled in the harness. They had stood about twenty hours without food or water.

—The place to find a good assortment of all kinds of goods at the lowest possible figures is at Marks'

DR. BUTTS.—The Winnebago Homestead last week published a communication which bore rather heavy on the Doctor's former transactions of a domestic nature. There are two sides to a story, generally, and having heard one and only a part of the other, we shall wait a week or two before we give particulars. It has afforded a rich theme for scandal among those who take delight in fending to everybody's business but their own. They would do well to weed their own gardens.

—We are receiving every week and constantly keep on hand a full supply of domestic goods which we are bound to sell at short profits, at Isaac Marks.

STAGE OFFICE REMOVED.—In consequence of the great amount of express business at this point, Mr. Simpson the Express and Stage Agent, has found it necessary to give up the latter agency. The stage office has therefore been removed to the Mankato House, and John McKinney appointed agent. We know John to be a genial good fellow, polite and affable to all. He has been in the employ of the Stage Company for several years, and understands his business well, We welcome him among us, and predict that he will prove a popular agent.

INDIANS.—We have a report to day. Thursday, that six Indians were seen near Good Thunder's ford, about seven miles south-east of Garden City, on Wednesday evening, by a young lady, living near by. The news spread rapidly, and a portion of Capt. Davy's command, with six bloodhounds, were, at last accounts, on the way to the spot where they first seen. This comes to us from different sources, and we have no reason yet to doubt it.

Later—9 o'clock p. m. The story about Indians proves to have been a Canard. No Indians to be seen or heard of.

A few more of those $2,50 boys boots left at Clarke & Porters—also a few pairs of those splendid Kip Boots at $4.50.

THE Seventh Anniversary of the Association of Regular Baptists of the Minnesota Valley will be held at Garden City, commencing on Friday, the 15th of September, at 10 o'clock A. M., and continuing over the Sabbath. Important business will engage the body at the opening session. Introductory sermon by Elder Henry Doescher. Brethren in neighborhoods where there is no church organized are earnestly invited to attend and make known their wants.

J G CRAVEN, clerk.

Mankato Aug 1. 1865,

REFRESHMENT COMMITTEE.—The refreshment committee of the soldiers barbacue met at the City Hall on Thursday evening. It was resolved to solicit contributions of eatables from our citizens, and to carry out this object the town was divided into four wards, with a committee of two in each ward, as follows:

First ward, south of Hickory street—Mrs Wm. Bradley, and Mrs. E. P, Freeman.

Second ward, from Hickory to Main streets.—Miss. Delia Flower and Miss. Josey Parsons.

Third ward from Main to Elm streets—Miss Retta Smith and Miss S. Parrett.

Fourth ward, north of Elm—Mrs. Coulson and Mrs. Prael.

The above committee will wait upon the families of their respective wards, so as to report to an adjourned meeting of the committee on Tuesday evening.

THE BARBACUE.—We are requested to announce that on the 14th inst., the day of the Soldiers Reception, the procession will be formed in front of the Mankato House at 10 A. M. by the marshall, D. H. Tyner, and his aids, and will be led by the Mankato Brass Band.

Soldiers of the war of 1812.
Soldiers of the Mexican war.
Soldiers of the late Rebellion.
Ladies.
Citizens on foot.
Wagons and carriages.
Horsemen.

From Front Street to Wilson's Grove the procession will be under the direction of the Marshals. On arriving at the Grove, there will be music, both instrumental and vocal. The instrumental led by Billings Sibley, and the vocal by Geo. Maxfield.

An address of welcome will be delivered to the returned soldiers by Hon, M. S. Wilkinson after which will follow the barbacue dinner.

A TRIAL OF BLOODHOUNDS.—We understand that parties having charge of the bloodhounds stationed at Vernon, put them on a "scent" last week in order to test them. A citizen started home—distant about two miles,—by a circuitous route, and about two hours after the dogs were let loose, and put upon his track They trailed him without difficulty clear to his house, and the door being open, followed him up stairs. Another person started out on horseback, and rode around on the prairie, and through a drove of horses several times, crossing and re-crossing his trail, and these "curs" about which some of our exchanges feel so bad, had no difficulty in following the trail. These dogs will do to bet on. They will prove good Indian hunters.

COMPLETED.—The finishing stroke was given to the Presbyterian Church on Wednesday, and in the evening it was well lighted, and a large number of our citizens met to enjoy a season of congratulation. The choir were present and favored the company with some good singing. Short speeches were made by Rev. Mr Marshall, Hon. M. S. Wilkinson, Mr. J. G Mix, and Rev. Mr. Ruliffsen. After this had transpired, the audience were asked to aid the Society in liquidating the remaining debt of $2,200. $1.100 was subscribed that evening, and we understand the balance was raised yesterday.

The church was dedicated yesterday, Mr. Marshall preaching the dedicatory sermon. In the evening Mr Marshall was duly installed as pastor.

We have full statistics of the cost of this beautiful edifice, and its furnishing which we shall put into an article next week, not having time this week.

—We would say to the Ladies that we have a nice assortment of dry goods cheap, at Isaac Marks.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.—We are informed that the County Board, at its session yesterday, appointed Prof. E. D. B. Porter, of Mankato, Superintendent of Schools for this county, for the year commencing January 1st 1866. The Professor is one of the best educated men in the State, and will give satisfaction. It is an excellent appointment.

—We have just received from Minneapolis some No. 1 Jeanes also a few pieces of the old-fashion fulled cloth, warranted all pure wool which we will sell cheap. Call at Isaac Marks.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.—We learn that a case of assault and battery took place at Mapleton last week, between a Mrs. Hussey and a Mrs. Myers. A trial before Justice Cornell resulted in consequence. E. P. Freeman, county Attorney, appeared for the prosecution and Francis Beveridge for the defense. After a protracted trial the Justice fined Mrs Hussey $10, and costs, which her husband paid.

REAL ESTATE SALE.--Two lots belonging to George N. Boynton, near the residence of L. C. Harrington, were sold this week to Judge Brown. for $600.

Buck & Freeman sold 150 acres of prairie in Vernon to Lewis Turner for $850.

John G Mix sold 160 acres of prairie in Judson to Richard Roland for $500.

NEW GOODS AT WICKERSHAM & LAWS.—This enterprising firm is bound to keep pace with the wants of the people. They have just received a lot of new perfumery. Sozodont, for cleansing and purifying the teeth, Night Blooming cereus, Pond lilly, pomades fancy soap, all kinds of patent medicines, drugs, paints and paint oils. Give them a chance to see your money, and to get their share of it. They will give good bargains.

Notice.—Publishers of Newspapers will please send one copy of their paper, with rates of advertising to the Advertising Agency of H Seymour Schell & Co. No. 62 Fulton Street New York.

NOTICE.—Several months ago some Welshman left with us a few copies of the Welsh Bible to have rebound. Not knowing his name or post office address, this is to inform him that the books are ready and await his order.

FOR SALE.—A choice three wheel cane mill Also a good pan. Enquire of Wm. L. Wilson Mankato.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—The pews in the Presbyterian Church will be rented on Friday Sept 8th at 3 o'clock P. M. All those who wish to secure a choice seat will please take notice.

THE MANKATO MILLS.—We are requested to announce that in consequence of the spoiling of the flue sheet of Bierbauer & Rockey's flouring mill, at the St. Peter foundry, compelling them to send to Pittsburg for another, the mill will probably not resume operations for about a month yet.

FOR SURVEYOR.—We are requested to announce the name of Stephen Middlebrook as a candidate for the office of Surveyor, subject to the decision of the Republican County Convention.

FOR SIOUX CITY.—General Sibley and party consisting of Brevet Major Gen C C Walcott H. Belland, A. L. Andrews, and E. R. Forman, passed through town Tuesday morning of this week, on their way to Sioux City. From this place they were escorted by a detachment of the Second Cavalry under command of Lieut McGill, of Co H.

FINKLE & LYON'S

SEWING MACHINES.

THESE Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do; will Hem, Fell Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tention, or making any adjustment of Machaine whatever! ! !

They are simple in construction, and easily understood; and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

These are PECULIAR FACTS, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

ARRANDALE & CO., Manf'g Agts.
No. 167 Broadway, New York

Announce that all of the above list of goods will be sold for One Dollar each.

In consequence of the great stagnation of trade in the manufacturing districts of England, through the war having cut off the supply of cotton, a large quantity of Valuable Jewelry, originally intended for the English market has been sent off for sale in this country, and must be sold at any sacrifice. Under these circumstances, Arrandale & Co, acting as agents for the principal European manufacturers, have resolved upon a great Gift Apportionment to be divided according to the following regulations:

..Certificates of the various articles are put in envelopes indiscriminately, sealed up, and when ordered, are taken out without regard to choice, and sent by mail, thus showing no favoritism. On receipt of the certificate, you will see what you are to have, and then it is at your option to send the dollar and take the article or not. Purchasers may thus obtain a gold watch, Diamond Ring, or any set of Jewelry on our list for One Dollar

SEND 25 CENTS FOR CERTIFICATE.

In all transactions by mail, we shall charge for forwarding the certificates, paying postage and doing the business, 25 cents each, which must be enclosed when the certificate is sent for. Five certificates will be sent for $1, eleven for $2, thirty for $5, sixty five for $10; one hundred for $15

WHAT THE "PRESS" SAY OF US.

The Lafayette (Ind) Daily Courier, March 18 1865, says: A better selected, more varied or fashionable assortment of jewelry cannot be found on the continent than Arrandale & Co., are now offering. Messrs. Arrandale & Co, occupy a high position in commercial circles as men entirely above the common trickery of trade. Their statements may be implicitly relied upon, both as to the character of their goods and the manner of disposal. Ladies especially, in all parts of the country, are realizing handsome profits as agents, and if any of our fair readers desire to interest themselves in this enterprise they may do so with perfect confidence.

We have inspected, at the office of Arrandale & Co's Agency for European Manufacturing Jewellers, a large assortment of valuable and fashionable jewelry of the newest patterns. We also noticed a large quantity of silver plate and understand that the whole of these newly imported articles are to be disposed of on a novel principle giving great advantage to buyers, and affording extensive employment to agents We know the firm in question to be very respectable and thoroughly worthy of public confidence, and recommend our friends to read their advertisement —N. Y. Albion, September 3, 1861.

The British Whig, of Kingston, C. W. says Nov 26th, 1861; One of our lady subscribers became an agent for Arrandale & Co. and by request brought some twenty articles sent as prizes for her agency, to this office for inspection and without hesitation we can state that each and all of the articles were worth treble the amount of cost to the recipients, and some of them six times.

AGENTS—We want agents in every regiment, and in every town and county in the country, and those acting as such will be allowed ten cents on every certificate ordered by them, provided their remittance amounts to one dollar, also other inducements which can be learned on application. Agents will collect 25 cents for every Certificate, and remit fifteen cents to us, either in cash or postage stamps.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhoea, or seminal weakness Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity; Impediments to Marriage, etc, also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

ARRANDALE & CO., Manf'g Agts.
No. 167 Broadway, New York.

Announce that all of the above list of goods will be sold for One Dollar each.

In consequence of the great stagnation of trade in the manufacturing districts of England, through the war having cut off the supply of cotton, a large quantity of Valuable Jewelry, originally intended for the English market has been sent off for sale in this country, and must be sold at any sacrifice. Under these circumstances, Arrandale & Co., acting as agents for the principal European manufacturers, have resolved upon a great Gift Apportionment to be divided according to the following regulations:

Certificates of the various articles are put into envelopes indiscriminately, sealed up, and when ordered, are taken out without regard to choice, and sent by mail, thus showing no favoritism. On receipt of the certificate, you will see what you are to have, and then it is at your option to send the dollar and take the article or not. Purchasers may thus obtain a gold watch, Diamond Ring, or any set of Jewelry on our list for One Dollar.

SEND 25 CENTS FOR CERTIFICATE.

In all transactions by mail, we shall charge for forwarding the certificates, paying postage and doing the business, 25 cents each, which must be enclosed when the certificate is sent for. Five certificates will be sent for $1, eleven for $2, thirty for $5, sixty five for $10; one hundred for $15.

WHAT THE "PRESS" SAY OF US.

The Lafayette (Ind) Daily Courier, March 18 1865, says: A better selected, more varied or fashionable assortment of jewelry cannot be found on the continent than Arrandale & Co., are now offering. Messrs. Arrandale & Co., occupy a high position in commercial circles as men entirely above the common trickery of trade. Their statements may be implicitly relied upon, both as to the character of their goods and the manner of disposal. Ladies especially, in all parts of the country, are realizing handsome profits as agents, and if aa, of our fair readers desire to interest themselves in this enterprise they may do so with perfect confidence.

We have inspected, at the office of Arrandale & Co's Agency for European Manufacturing Jewellers, a large assortment of valuable and fashionable jewelry of the newest patterns. We also noticed a large quantity of silver plate and understand that the whole of these newly imported articles are to be disposed of on a novel principle giving great advantage to buyers, and affording extensive employment to agents. We know the firm in question to be very respectable and thoroughly worthy of public confidence, and recommend our friends to read their advertisement —N. Y. Albion, September 3, 1861.

The British Whig, of Kingston, C. W. says Nov. 26th, 1864; One of our lady subscribers became an agent for Arrandale & Co. and by request brought some twenty articles sent as prizes for her agency, to this office for inspection and without hesitation we can state that each and all of the articles were worth treble the amount of cost to the recipients, and some of them six times.

AGENTS—We want agents in every regiment, and in every town and county in the country, and those acting as such will be allowed ten cents on every certificate ordered by them, provided their remittance amounts to one dollar, also other inducements which can be learned on application. Agents will collect 25 cents for every Certificate, and remit fifteen cents to us, either in cash or postage stamps.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhoa or seminal weakness Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity; Impediments to Marriage, etc., also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

FINKLE & LYON'S

SEWING MACHINES.

THESE Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do; will Hem, Fell Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tention, or making any adjustment of Machine whatever!!!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood: and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

These are PECULIAR FACTS, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

FOR THE HEALING OF THE NATIONS

GOOD NEWS TO ALL MANKIND.

THE REMEDY FOUND AT LAST.

It will cure Influenza and Sore Throat.
It will cure Croup every time.
It will cure Asthma and relieve Consumption
It will cure Whooping Cough.
It will cure your Cough
It will prevent Consumption.

It cures all if the directions are strictly followed, or the money will be refunded.

That Cough which you are neglecting may result in fatal Consumption, if some prompt remedy is not used.

Why sacrifice your life when your disease can be cured so quickly and at so small a cost?

What is the value of Money when compared to Health?

MORSE'S EXPECTORANT

Is warranted to break up the most troublesome cough in an incredibly short time. There is no remedy that shows more evidence of its merit than this for curing

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Difficulty in Breathing, Asthma, Bronchitis, Laryngitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of patients in the advanced sts. of the disease.

Morse's Expectorant is a vegetable anodyne, prepared expressly to meet the constant demand for a safe and efficient remedy for diseases of the

THROAT AND LUNGS,

Diseases of those organs are so prevalent and dangerous that a reliable Medicine is a necessary safeguard in every community. In such a remedy for family use, the absolute absence of danger from accidental overdoses, freedom from poisons, and the adaptation to patients of every age and condition, of either sex, is indispensible. These qualities are most combined in this preparation, and so admirably is it adapted to the cure of all diseases for which it is recommended, that its entire influence is bro't to bear against them, and so perfectly assist nature in its efforts to rid the system of disease, that the most delicate constitution can use it with perfect safety and a fixed certainty that a RELEIF AND A CURE WILL SPEEDILY FOLLOW

As Time—the great developer of Events—advances, these truths becomes wider and better known, and this Medicine has already become a simple necessity, with a growing demand, unprecedented in the history of Medicine—the natural results of its INTRINSIC MERITS.

A single trial is all that is necessary to establish the fact that it is the most effiencious remedy ever offered to suffering humanity.

This medicine is put up in 50, 75 and $1,00 bottles and warranted to contain more and better material than any similar medicine introduced to the public in a medicine.

For sale by Druggists generally. July 1 y

HELMBOLD'S

GENUINE

PREPARATIONS.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED" COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings.

This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the matter of calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for men, women and children.

H

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

For weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion, attended with the following Symptoms:

Indisposition to Exertion,	Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory,	Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves,	Trembling,
Horror of Disease,	Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,
Hot Hands,	Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin,	Eruptions of the Face,
Universal Lassitude,	Pallid Countenance;

Muscular System.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes), soon follow—

FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c.,

In one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by these "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

E

In many affections peculiar to Females, the EXTRACT BUCHU is unequaled by any other remedy, and for all complaints incident to the sex, or in the

DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE,

☞ SEE SYMPTOMS ABOVE.

☞ No Family should be without it.

M

USE HELMBOLD'S

EXTRACT BUCHU

For all affections and diseases of these organs, whether EXISTING IN MALE OR FEMALE,

From whatever cause originating, and no matter how long standing. Diseases of these organs require the aid of a diuretic.

Is the Great Diuretic.

And it is certain to have the desired effect in all diseases for which it is recommended.

B

BLOOD! BLOOD! BLOOD!

Helmbold's

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA,

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the Skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect HELMBOLD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA. It cleanses and renovates the Blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the Blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought for, and now, for the first time the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

O

HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH,

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upwards of 30,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basis, Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works:

See Dispensatory of the United States.

See Professor Dewees' valuable works on the Practice of Physic.

See remarks made by the celebrated Dr. PHYSIC, Phila.

See remarks made by Dr. Ephraim McDOWELL, a celebrated Physician and Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland, and published in the Transactions of the King and Queen's Journal.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon. Being now used to the exclusion of all other Bitters in more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the U. S. government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞They are made of ingredients well known and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strengthening properties to correct the bilious derangement of the system and act like a charm when taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases:—Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Affections, Jaundice, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirit, Sallow Complexion.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity; so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞Ladies who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system. If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters have him send for him. Remember the name and take no other.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical journals, and having been adopted as a standard remedy by the Medical Profession are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXEMPT FROM STAMP DUTY.

Reconstruction of Parties.

The recent meeting of several political conventions, and particularly of the democrats of this State at Albany on Wednesday last, may be considered as inaugurating the fall campaign of 1865. The candidates nominated in our own State are of little account; but the programme of the democracy, as laid down in the resolutions adopted at Albany, is of much more moment, as it has doubtless been carefully considered, and is designed as an expression of the feeling of the party toward the administration of President Johnson. Its present condition, however, is not flattering. Since the death of Mr. Douglas the party has had no wise leader, nor do present appearances seem to indicate that one is at hand. Moreover, its course during the war did not reflect credit upon it as a political organization. Throughout it displayed a lack of discipline, sometimes a want of patriotism, and at all times a want of tact. Yet, in spite of itself, it accomplished during this period part of the mission of an oppsition party. For the first two years of the war the Administration received the almost unanimous support of the people, and we all remember how unsatisfactorily military operations dragged along; but after that, when an organized opposition had sprung up, unpatriotic and captious though it appeared to be at times, the Government strained every nerve, and the result was victory. And one of the lessons which the last four years have taught is, that no matter how hard pressed the Government may be, it is indispensible in a free country that the party in power should have the stimulous which accrues from criticism by the party out of power.

Now that the war is ended and the Union is to be reconstructed, it is even more important that there should be a party opposed to the administration as well as one that shall give it unqualified support. Be President Johnson never so wise, and never so thoroughly impressed with a sense of his duty to the country, he is far more likely to accomplish successfully the work before him if watched at every step, than if sustained by all parties unanimously. But which party is to sustain, and which is to oppose, him? This is the political puzzle of the day. The democrats are making a bold push to get possessson of the President and, to a great extent, control his policy; on the other hand, the party which elected him seems irresolute and divided. If not the largest, certainly the most active and earnest of the supporters of Mr. Lincoln and his administration look with surprise, if not with positive dislike, upon the policy which Mr. Johnson has inaugurated for the restoration of the Southern States to the Union. Thus the position of the two great political parties is somewhat anomalous. The republicans hold the offices and control the majority in congress, upon which latter Mr. Johnson must rely to carry on the affairs of the Government for two years to come. Meanwhile, the democratic party give his administration a qualified support, in the hope that, before the close of his term, he will bring back the Southern States to their old relations, and that, by the aid of the votes in those States, it will carry the next presidential election. To the credit of a large portion of the republican party, it must be said that they have a far worthier object in view than the mere retention of power by the organization to which they are attached. They believe that the South cannot be received into the Union with safety without an acknowledgment of equal rights to all men, including the right of suffrage by the negroes. These opinions are held by hundreds of thousands of the supporters of the administration, and if they were sure that President Johnson would persist in a policy which would not recognize these rights, they would at once develop a decided and formidabl opposition to his policy. Thus it is not impossible that relatively to the administration the position of the two great political parties of the country may be changed, though neither may relinquish its cherished opinions.

The cravings of the democratic party to taste the sweets of office is natural enough, but the measures adopted by some of its recent State conventions to gain public favor, not only show a singular lack of wisdom but are very reprehensible. Nearly all of these assemblages have denounced the exemption of the Federal bond and stocks from State and municipal taxation. This is a flagrant wrong, Even if there existed no law for this exemption, the rulings of the Supreme Court would forbid taxing them Aside from this, the time chosen for this assault upon the public credit is inopportune. The war having ended triumphantly, the people are on excellent terms with themselves, and the dispositon to pay every cent of the public debt is universal. The debt is held by the most intelligent, the most influential and the most thrifty of our population, and the slightest hint toward repudiation will deservedly, evoke a storm of indignation from every quarter. Even so bold a confronter of public opinion as Wendell Phillips was compelled to modify his expressions in relation to the debt, and deny what was attributed to him in a recent speech concerning it. No, there is no such word as repudiation in the dictionary of this American people, and whatever party gives cause for suspicion of advocating it, is sure to be left in a hopeless minority on election day. An honest people may repudiate a party, but cannot and will not repudiate its honest debts.

Gen. Shields, formerly from this State has gone to California.

Edwin Booth.

Edwin Booth's return to the stage has already been hinted at. A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune gives these details:

The talented Edwin Booth is soon to re-appear on the stage. At the time of the sad occurrence that drove him to private life, he announced his determination never to come before the public again. Of the most earnest and uncompromising loyalty, and possessing social qualities that had won him many friends, he received the hearty sympathy of the Northern people. Before the close of April his admirers had made arrangements, unknown to Mr. Booth, to bring him upon the stage during the present autumn. He has now joined his brother in-law, Mr. Clarke, of Philadelphia, in the management of the Arch Street Theatre of that city. He will not appear before the audiences of Philadelphia for the present, and it is probable that the design of a testimonial benefit in New York will be carried out. Beyond question the best American actor in the standard drama, Edwin Booth, will receive the rapturous applause of the theatre-going public of this metropolis whenever he consents to appear at the footlights.

Monopolies Responsible.

If we cannot, in this age, do without stock companies, we must at least hold them responsible. If a railway company, by carelessness, or stinginess, kills passengers, the company should be forced to pay damages—to that point we have now got; and the managers should be held personal responsible for the killing, in a trial for manslaughter—thus much further we hope to get, shortly, if the prosecuting attorneys and grand juries in the cases of the Housatonic, Long Island, and Oil Creek railroad killings do their duty.

But there are many other ways in which these monopolists can injure and annoy the public. There is, for instance, the very common case, in which a railroad company promises to run a certain distance in a given time, and does not do it. By these false promises unhappy travellers are left at unforeseen points on a long journey, to wait for sometimes twelve sometimes twenty-four hours, the victims of poor hotels and bad cooking. Valuable time is lost, important business affairs are disarranged, and general inconvenience is suffered. Not only this, but the annoyance is as great, when a railroad company promises to bring business men into town by nine o'clock in the morning and does not get them to the place until ten.

In England a passenger thus detained has just brought suit for damages against the Northwestern Railway Company. He brought the company's time table to show the agreement. The directors replied, in defence, first, that the time announced for the arrival and departure of trains was not guarantied; and secondly, that on the day when the detention occurred the company had on the road a large cheap excursion train! This impudent plea was received as it deserved to be.

The Judge ruled that 'the statement made by the railway company as to their not guarantying the times of the arrival and departure of their trains did not protect them except in cases in which an accident, or circumstances which could not be anticipated, came in the way; that if persons made their arrangements on the faith of the time-tables, and the company departed from them, they were answerable for losses sustained by passengers. The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff for three guineas.' We do not see why 'accidents' should bar a passenger's plea for relief, unless the 'accident' were indeed a 'circumstance which could not be anticipated,' which cannot be said of the majority of those which have recently occurred on American railroads. We hope some one will bring suit here, in a similar manner: In that way railroad companies can be taught to do their duty to the public, whose servants and not masters they are. Of course a verdict of fifteen dollars is not very damaging to a wealthy corporation, but if a whole train full of travellers should untie and put their cases into the hands of an adroit lawyer, as the laborers were led to confide theirs against this city to Mr. T. C. Field, the result might make it prudent for the company to keep its promises thereafter.—Eve Post.

WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH THEM.?—Let the negro be treated as near like other people as possible, according to his conduct rather than his color. If you want his work, hire and pay him; if you desire the products of his labor, buy and pay for them; if he wants your lands or goods, require pay from him. Help him to work, if he is ready; be charitable to the sick or disabled, but teach him that everything good has its price, that he can only obtain what he wants, by paying for it. The lesson is simple, and no one, though a negro, need be long in learning it. Freedom and a chance, these are all the best Government can secure to white or black. Give every one an opportunity, and let his behavior control his fate. If negroes will not work, they must starve or steal, and if they steal, they must be shut up like other thieves. If there are any among them, who fancy they can live without work, they have now entered a school where they will speedily be taught better.—All that is necessary at present, is a frank, cheerful, recognition of the fact, that Slavery has ceased in this country, that the people are FREE! Clear away the wreck of slavery, dispel the lingering fear of a return of it, and we may soon break up our 'Freedman's Bureaus' and all manner of nonsensical devices, and let negroes learn to take care of themselves.—Warren Independent.

Rules for Management of Cows

Never buy a cow of a dairyman, for if he is a good manager he will sell only his poor animals.

To determine which cows are best for keeping, try their milk separately and weigh the butter—for sometimes a cow may give much milk and little butter and vice versa.

Cows should run dry six weeks before calving—if milked closely toward calving, the calves will be poorer.

A cow newly come in should not drink cold water in cold weather, but moderately warm slop. Calves intended for raising, should be taken from the cow within a few days, and they will be less liable to suck when old. Feed them first with new milk for a time, then skim milk, then sour milk, taking care that all changes are gradual, by adding only a portion first; add gradually a little meal.

Calves well fed and taken care of, with a quart or two of meal daily in winter, will be double the size at two years they would have attained by common treatment.

Heifers thus treated may come in at two years old, and will be better than neglected animals at three, and one year of feeding saved.

Hearty eaters are desirable for cows, and they may usually be selected while calves. A dainty calf will be a dainty cow.

Heifers should become accustomed to be freely handled before calving and drawing the teats.

They will then not be difficult to milk—begin gradually, and never startle them.

In milking cows, divide the time nearly as practicable between morning and evening, especially at time of early grass, that the udder may not suffer,

Persons who milk should keep the nails cut short—animals are sometimes hurt with sharp nails, and unjustly charged with restlessness.

Old cows should be fatted at fifteen years. The dairymen, therefore, who has fifteen cows, should raise a heifer calf every year to supply the vacancy—if the herd is thirty cows, he should raise two calves, and so fourth.

Heifers dried up too early after calving, will always run dry about the same time in after years—therefore, be careful to milk closely the first year, until about six weeks before calving.

Spring cows should come in while they are fed on hay, and before they are turned to grass, which will be more likely to prevent caked bag and milk fever.—Annual Register.

THE WAY THEY MAKE BUTTER IN FRANCE.—It is well known that cream may be converted into butter by simply being buried in the ground, but it is not universally known that this method is in common use in Normandy, and some other parts of France. The method is as follows: The cream is placed in a linen bag of moderate thickness which is carefully secured, and placed in a hole in the ground about a foot and a half deep; it is then covered up, and left for twenty-four or twenty-five hours. When taken out, the cream is very hard and only requires beating a short time with a wooden mallet, after which a glass of water is thrown upon it, which causes the butter to separate from the buttermilk. If the quantity of cream intended to be converted into butter is large, it is left more than twenty-five hours in the ground. In winter, when the ground is frozen, the operation is performed in a cellar, the bag being well covered up with sand. Some persons place the bag containing the cream within a second bag, in order to prevent the chance of any taint from the earth. This system saves labor, and is stated to produce a larger amount than by churning, and of excellent quality, and is, moreover, said never to fail.—Journal Society of Arts.

IMPUDENCE.—The war against the great rebellion was prolonged at least two years by aid from northern copperheads, who did not hesitate to avow, in high and low places, their belief in the success of the so called Confederate government. They heaped the most ignominious epithets upon those who were honestly endeavoring to restore the government. No name was too base, no reputation too high for them to blacken and malign with their slanders. When news of a Northern victory was borne over the wires, how contemptuously they sneered. When neighbors or acquaintances went to the war, how cutting the gibes with which they were saluted, and when defeat threw loyal heads in doubt and mourning, how proud they were, how they flaunted their treasonable talk and cursing the government gloated over its prospective downfall. Now when the egg is crushed, how impudently they talk about "our brave boys in blue." With what haste they seek to put themselves on the Union side. They are watching the tide of events hoping that the time will come when they may again strike hands with their southern confreres. What a howl of tender-heartedness went up because Gen. Palmer shut down on the rebels voting in Kentucky. How fearful they were lest his course should damage their cause. After four years of abuse and contempt they are flocking around the returned soldiers, hoping to keep them in the organization that they intend to resurrect from the traitorous grave in which it is now buried. It cannot be done, the soldiers vote with their friends. No man who took part in the third of August pow-wow, who shouted himself hoarse over Vallandingham, who voted the regular copperhead ticket last fall, deserves their suffrages. The county election comes off in the fall. The Union ticket will come out with a soldier as its standard bearer and we hope and trust that it will be successful.

THE SUFFRAGE QUESTION.—We are not fully prepared, says the Wilmington(Del.)Republican, to say that the right of suffrage should be extended to the colored race, but we are convinced that it should be denied to traitors and the aiders and abettors of treason. A man who has voluntarily borne arms against the Government, or willfully and perversely contributed to aid those who were banded together to overthrow it, should never be allowed to vote. We should sooner trust the perpetuity of our institutions in the hands of a loyal black man than in those of such characters. There is more virtue in good intentions than in color, and in times of danger more dependence is to be placed on the former than on the latter. We have no faith in men who instigated rebellion, and would not trust them until they have shown a thorough repentance. Few of them have done this.—After taking the oath of allegiance and professing loyalty, they have evinced a bad spirit, denounced the government and its supporters, and sought to stir up dissension among the people. They are unfit to be voters, much less Governors, congressmen, legislators, magistrates, &c. The Union men should have the legislation of the country in their hands, while the traitors do works meet for repentance.

A NATION OF SMALL FARMERS.—An intelligent American agriculturalist writes from abroad concerning the small farms of Saxony:

'Agriculture is better developed, more science applied, and better results are obtained in Saxony than anywhere I have yet visited. In Prussia, that is, in Mecklenburg, Mark-Brandonburg, Pomerania, Posen, and the province of Prussia; the land is owned in large bodies, the estates averaging 2,000 morgens, or about 1,400 acres; but in Saxony, the tiller of the soil is the owner of the land, hence the farms or tracts are small, for the population is very dense; in fact, Prof. Dr. Renning, the Minister of Agriculture for Saxony, told me, that exclusive of forest, there was just one acre of land for every individual of the population. This one acre, then, must produce the food and clothing for the individual, besides producing plants for commercial purposes. If the land was farmed as it was in the United States, the Saxon must starve; but, fortunately for him, he believed that science could assist him in his agricultural operations, and he willingly accepted the counsels of science and put them into practice. There is an agricultural academy at Tharand, another at Chemnitz, an experimental farm at Pommritz, another at Salzmunder, &c. These schools have accomplished a vast deal of good; have made the farmers intelligible as photography.'

DON'T RUN THE COWS.—Now boys, we have a word to say to you. When we were of your age, we always had to drive the cows to pasture, and bring them too. Sometimes we got a little late, or were anxious to get off to play, or a cow found a good, sweet bit of grass, better than she had found all day in the pasture and would stop to get a bite, and fall behind the rest. That was provoking, and we were apt to give her a pretty severe lesson. In fact, we were guilty of hurrying her up on many occasions. It was wrong, but we little knew how much injury we were inflicting on ourselves, as well as the cows,

Now, it is perfectly well known that overdriving causes the milk to be heated and feverish, especially in hot weather, and this milk is not a healthful article of food, either as milk, or when made into butter or cheese. Cows that are abused, kicked or badly treated, cannot give good milk, and no process of manufacture can make into so good an article of diet as milk that is not injured by such treatment.

Never let the dogs chase the cows. A worriment of this kind not only lessens the quantity but the quality of the milk, and it should be carefully avoided. Dogs are generally a curse among a herd of cattle, and particularly so among milch cows, unless they are trained to drive and tend them as a few of our dogs are.—Plowman.

FIELD WORK.—Preparing the ground and sowing the seed will occupy a portion of the farmer's time during this month. You must not expect to reap a good crop if you sow the grain on land poorly plowed, and the surface left a mass of clods. Farmers who raise much grain will find the grain drill a profitable part of their farm machinery. The smoother the wheat can be sown, after the ground is in good condition, the better it will be. Manure may be applied either before or after plowing the land. Farmers cannot afford to let any of this be wasted. Many varieties of weeds will ripen their seeds this month, if let undisturbed.. This should be prevented by cutting them as soon as they are large enough. In this way, they may be destroyed.

See that the fields are so drained that no water will stand on them: The question is worth considering, whether a judicious system of underdraining will not well repay its cost on your farm. If you decide that it will, this month will be found a good time for the work.

Pick up all loose sticks and stones that are on the meadow, so that there may be no obstructions to the mowers next year. Keep stock of all kinds off the meadows till the grass has attained a good growth.

Model Bank Clerk's Memoranda.

One of our reporters, a few days since picked up, on board a Brooklyn ferryboat, a few closely written pages, torn from a memorandum book. On examination they were found t constitute part of a diary, kept apparently by a New York bank clerk. Thinking that they may be of interest to some of our readers, we have concluded to publish a few extracts from them:

Sunday, August 20th.—Went to church and Sabbath-school all day. In the evening went to M.'s place and lost $900 at faro.—Afterwards went to supper with Anonyma. Claret punch, as usual.

Monday.—Was at the bank early, altho' suffering from a confounded headache.—Why was I such a fool as to mix claret and lager! Told the President I had been occupied since on o'clock in going over some of my books He seemed much pleased at my devotion to business. Borrowed $50 from bank to pay for last night's supper.

Tuesday.—Saw one of our messengers drop a five-cent stamp. Complained of him for carelessness and had him dismissed.—Was thanked by the officers for my fidelity. Had to take another fifty to pay for ring for Anonyma. Went to Olympic with Anonyma afterwards to the Louvre

Wednesday.—Dropped in for a few moments at the Fulton St. Prayer-Meeting, knowing that two of our Directors were to be there. They saw me. Made a few telling remarks about the hideous prevalence of Sabbath breaking among young men.—Directors were visibly affected. Borrowed $725 from bank and paid livery-stable bill.

Thursday.—Drunk again last night—Anonyma's fault though this time, and not mine. Told the President that I had to sit up all night with a dying friend, which made my eyes red. Salary raised to $1,400 for my general faithfulness and good conduct.—Borrowed $400. In the evening went to the Gaieties and the Broadway Garden. Gave Maud a bracelet. Kate got angry and threw a glass of beer at me. Mem.—Not to go to that saloon again. Left saloon at 8:30 and went to weekly prayer meeting.

Friday.—In the evening saw Anonyma, and we had a little difficulty. She wants too much money. Can't and wont give her a thousand dollars tomorrow. Drank rather too much, and smashed the furniture. She'll be awful angry, I'm afraid.

Saturday.—It's all up. Anonyma came down to the bank and demanded that thousand from me. President saw her. Devil of a row. Borrowed $34,000 and took passage for Arabia.—Mrs. Grundy.

NOT THAT KIND OF A CAT.—The Springfield, (Mass.) Union is responsible for the following: The old proverb that circumstances alter cases, had a spicy illustration the other day at a Boston Hotel, and two parties, one from this city, and one from Boston, participated therein. A young man who is the least bit feminine in his appearance, parting his hair in the middle, etc., went to Boston, and while in that city, was taken with a severe fit of colic. The doctor came, felt of the patient's pulse, examined his stomach, and inquired solemnly if his habits were 'regular.' to which the young man, somewhat, surprised, answered in the affirmative. The doctor than cautiously and politely informed his patient that his symptoms manifested some probability of an increase of the census in a short time. The surprise of the cholic-stricken young man, at this singular announcement, was only equalled by that of the doctor on discovering the true sex of his patient 'Circumstances alter cases,'

A COW NURSING YOUNG PIGS.—We learn from the Caledonian Mercury that a rather interesting case of motherly affection has been seen for some time at the home farm at Balgowan, near methven, Pertshire. A cow which had lost her calf, took a fancy to a litter of pigs about two months old, and they in turn became attached to her. For a number of weeks she nursed them tenderly. But as the adopted family consisted of seven members, and the cow had only four teats, the harmony which had existed for a time began to break up, and so quarrelsome did the hitherto happy family became, that the cow had to be removed from her charge. She has now been put to nurse a calf but seems quite dissatisfied with her new charge. She often leaves the calf in the field, and sets out in search of her former family, from which her affections do not seem to have been withdrawn.

—During the conflagration of Barnum's Museum, the whale and the alligators got into a fight, in which the latter were badly whaled. It is probable that the whale took umbrage at certain allegations and pitched into the alligators.

ABOUT SHEEP.—The value of sheep, like that of other animals, depends on the object for which they are kept. If exclusively for wool, then those breeds which will produce the quality in demand, and at the highest price, should be selected. Sheep are capital for furnishing both food and raiment. Where mutton can be easily sold, these breeds which fatten easily, and at early age should be raised. Many of the English breeds have an advantage over others in this respect. As distance from large markets increases, mutton becomes less and less a matter of attention, and wool more and more the main object in rearing sheep. Hence, in the latter case, those breeds which are mainly desirable for their wool-producing properties are to be sought. For this purpose the Merino is probably not excelled by any other breed.

DEAD HEAD.—President Johnson deserves the thanks of the tax-paying public, for abolishing one office—that of navy agent at Washington and remitting its duties to a paymaster, at a saving of some thousands to the Treasury. We hope he may be encouraged to persevere in this course, There are still offices of far greater utility to the holder than to the public, and we hope to see them abolished or razed as rapidly as may be. Congress ought to take the subject in hand next winter, but meantime we trust the President will improve every chance to reduce, if by a little only, the weight of our public burdens. We have to many dead heads, too many of the titled gentry, who with a little brief authority, are feeding vanity and incapacity at the Public crib. Let the sinecures be put by with the quacks, and the necessary offices be filled by those who earned favor by services in the armies of the country and the people will say 'Amen.'—Exchange.

HOW TO PRESERVE ICE.—Put it in a deep dish or jug, cover it with a plate and place the vessel on a pillow stuffed with feathers, and cover the top with another pillow carefully, by these means excluding the external air. Feathers are well known bad conductors of heat, and in consequence the ice is preserved from melting. A gentleman has preserved six pounds of ice eight days.

HE IS GONE.—In one of our courts, lately, a man who was called upon to appear as a witness could not be found. On the judge asking where he was, an elderly gentleman rose up, and with much emphasis said, 'Your honor, he's gone.' 'Gone, gone!' said the judge, 'where is he gone?' 'That I cannot inform you,' replied the communicative gentleman, 'but he's dead.' This is considered the best-guarded answer on record.

CONTROVERSY.—This very good reason for avoiding controversy is taken from Dr. Holmes' 'Autocrat of the Breakfast Table:' 'If a friend attacked my opinion in print, would I reply? Not I. Do you think that I don't understand what my friend the professor, long ago called the hydrostatic paradox of controversy? [illegible] what that means. [illegible] You know if you had a bent tube, [illegible] arm of which was the size of a pipe-stem, and the other big enough to hold the ocean, water would stand in the same hight in the one as the other? Controversy equalizes fools and wise men in the same way and the fools know it.'

MOURNING.—'I mourn for my bleeding country,' said a certain army contractor to Gen. Sheridan. 'So you ought you scoundrel,' replied Sheridan, 'for nobody has bled her more than you have,'

—Recently the wife of one of the city fathers of New Bedford, Mass., presented her husband with three children at a birth. The delighted father took his little daughter, four years of age, to see her new relations. She looked at the diminutive little beings a few minutes, when, turning to her father, she inquired:

"Pa, which one are you going to keep?"

—A correspondent of a Portland paper tells of a little girl, who, attending Sabbath school for the first time, and being asked if she loved the Lord, replied: "Don't know, thir; I haint got nothing agin him."

—A married man who was recently at a whist party, when he proposed to go home, was asked to stay a little longer. "Well," he replied, "perhaps I may as well; my wife is probably already as mad as she can be."

—"Father, did you ever have another wife besides mother?" "No, my boy, what possessed you to ask such a question?" "Because I saw in the old family Bible where you married Anno Domini—and that isn't mother's name."

—A celebrated young wit was asked why he did not marry a young lady to whom he was much attached. 'I know not,' he replied, 'unless it is the very great regard we have for each other.'

—The death of Gov. Brough was caused by the following accident, as stated in the report of his surgeon:

About five or six weeks ago he slightly injured his foot by stepping on a pebble one evening—an injury which he supposed to be simply a sprain or bruise of the foot, and to rest that foot walked about for a week after leaning heavily on a cane, which produced the same condition in his left hand.

The Republican electors of the town of Mankato are requested to meet in town caucus at the City Hall, in Mankato, on Saturday, the 23d inst., at 5 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing ten delegates to attend the County Convention on the 26th inst.

C. H. SLOCUM,
Chairman.

THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

The convention for the nomination of officers for this county will be held next Tuesday. The primary caucuses are called for to morrow. We trust that there will be a good turn out at these meetings, and that men will be elected as delegates who feel enough interest in having the best men nominated to personally attend the convention. There are a number of aspirants for the various positions; in fact, the number is unusually large. There is good material from which to make selections, and any failure to choose men of competence and known ability cannot be attributed to this. It is desirable that the best men should be nominated, in order that the ticket may be successful. And while doing this the convention should not forget that there are some aspirants on the list who are eminently deserving of reward in return for their long services to the party, and to the country. It is but just that they should be remembered, especially if, deserving of reward, they are known to be fully competent to discharge the duties of the office to which they aspire. It may be possible that there are aspirants who, if nominated, would fail to carry the full vote, and thus be defeated on the day of election. A defeat would be disastrous, shameful, to a party so largely in the majority as is the Republican party of this county, and we cannot afford to put such men in nomination. The Democrats know that the only way they can succeed in electing any portion of their ticket is by urging the Republicans to place men in nomination who will fail to get the full party vote. We are glad to observe that good feeling prevails between the aspirants for the different positions, and though we may have a preference as to who we think ought to be nominated, we are confident that when the nominations are made all will unite and work for the ticket, and see that it is elected.

The District Convention.

The call for the assembling of the delegates to this convention has been issued, and will be found elsewhere in this paper. The senator and one representative will come from Le Seur county this fall, and two representatives from Blue Earth. We have heard of no names mentioned in connection with the former positions, in our sister county. For representatives from this county, the names of Hon. L. C. Harrington of Mankato, and John B. Skinner of Garden City, have been very favorably mentioned. We don't know that there are any others, but should there be of course the convention will find it out. These men may have no desire to be nominated, but we believe that the Republican party of this county, with hardly a dissenting voice, would choose them. There are other good and true men, who can ably represent us, in our State Legislature; but for our own part we would like to see these gentlemen nominated:—Mr. Harrington because his renomination would show to all that his constituents fully endorsed the bold and manly position he took in the Legislature last winter, and the determined efforts he made to advocate the interests of this district. He is an excellent legislator, an able business man, and can poll more votes than any other nominee. Mr. Skinner, because he is eminently qualified for the position, is a true-hearted republican, and one of the oldest settlers of the county. For the last eight or ten years, he has fought valiantly in the ranks of the party without fee or reward, and always stands by his party and labors for its interests. He is a true, honest, man of sterling worth.

We trust the convention will give these names a careful consideration, and nominate such men as we can heartily support.

Persons intending to subscribe for the various magazines this fall, will do well to patronize Mr. Slocum. He will furnish them at less than clubs rates including postage.

COL. COLVILLE.

It having been charged by certain papers in this State, of the Democratic persuasion, that Col. Colville was not competent to fill the office of Attorney General, the Red Wing Republican comes out in his defense in the following style:

The public appreciation of the talent of Mr. Cole has been attested by his election and re-election to the important office of Attorney General. He did not need a third election to establish his standing, in the public estimation. But there was one for whom the public felt a deeper interest, and to whom they felt under deeper obligation, on account of valuable services rendered in the hour of the nation's need, and of disabling wounds received in that service, and which will be carried to the grave with him. That one is Col. Wm. Colville. And it is fortunate that the public can consistently recognize that service and in some slight degree repay that obligation in the public election, for Col. Colville is a lawyer, of ability second to no man in the State of Minnesota. At the bar of Red Wing where he has principally practiced in this State, his opinion is received with as much respect as that of any man here, and we are certain that the public service will be in danger of no neglect, or improper administration, by the election of Col. Colville.

New Born Love for the Soldiers.

On Monday the members of the 86th Ill. regiment held their anniversary at Peoria. Col. R. G. Ingersoll, the commandant made a speech, and paid his respects to the men now professing to be the best friends of the soldiers. He said:

"This is not a political meeting and yet I cannot forbear saying a word or two concerning the soldiers' friends. They belong to a party, some of whom (I will not say all) were not your friends when you were fighting the battles of your country. They laughed at your wounds, they sneered at your scars; they mocked the corpses of your comrades; they prophesied your defeat; they hoped for your disgrace; they prayed for your overthrow and death; they despised the cause for which you were battling; they were the allies of your murderers.

"Now you have reached home covered with glory; you are welcomed by the true people of the North, you are radient with success, and the very men of whom I have been speaking crowd around you and say they were your friends. Beware of them all! They do not want to help you; they want you to help them. When they come, tell them you can have no confidence in their sincerity till they bring back the thirty pieces of silver, the price of your blood; tell them to go and follow to the bitter end the example of their illustrious leader."

The News, of Jackson, Mississippi, is eloquent against negro suffrage, as follows:

'We have emancipated the negro, we are determined that he shall be protected in his freedom, receive full and fair compensation for his labor, be protected in his right of property, educate his children if he chooses; but make him our equal—never, never, never, never! That must be done by some enemy more relentless than the unfortunate people of the south have hitherto encountered, either in the field or at Washington. A subdued people may have no rights; but a proud people, though vanquished, cannot aid in their own degradation. That must be done by others'

Now, the people of Massachusetts, Maine, and Vermont are about as proud as any recorded in history, and certainly have as much to be proud of; but they allow negroes to vote on precisely the same terms as white men, and do not appear to be in the least degraded by it. Besides, even in Mississippi a negro is allowed to pray to the common Lord of all, and to aspire to a place in the many mansions of the Universal Father in Heaven just the same as a white man. Will the News kindly explain to us whether the white man of Mississippi is or is not degraded by this form of negro equality?

Major General Slocum—His Nomination for Civil Office—Letter from him on the Subject.

SYRACUSE, September, 13—the following letter of Major General Slocum to John A. Green, Jr., has been furnished by him for publication, because of the publication of other alleged private correspondence. General Green further says that he publishes the letter with a view to set at rest the efforts to injury General Slocum by allegations that he accepted the nomination because of his hostility to the president, growing out of the question of arming the Mississippi militia:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF MISSISSIPPI, }
VICKSBURG, Miss., August 31, 1865 }

MY DEAR SIR: Your favor of the 22d instant has just come to hand. In reply I would state that I am in favor of the principles which appear, thus far, to have governed President Johnson with regard to the southern states; that is, to allow these states to decide who shall, and who shall not, be entitled to the right of suffrage. In other words, I am in favor of returning at the earliest practicable moment to a government of civil law. I believe that the true interest of the country demands a more economical administration of affairs, in order to reduce the national debt, in the substitution of civil for military courts, and a more careful observance of the constitutional rights of states and individuals. If these views are such as will be endorsed by your convention, and if the convention should nominate me for secretary of state, I shall accept the nomination, I am now at a great distance from the scene of action. The only mail by which this communication can reach you before the assembling of the convention leaves here within a few hours.

With this brief statement I leave the matter in your hands, knowing your friendly feelings toward me, and being assured that you will be governed, in some degree at least, by these feelings. If the convention do not adopt the platform you anticipate, I trust you will not press my name.

I am, sir, very respectfully your obedient servant, H. W. SLOCUM.

To John A. Green, Jr., Syracuse, N. Y.

After having read the above, what follows places General Slocum in a rather unenviable position:

From the Syracuse Journal, Sept. 9.

The writer of this received a letter from Gen. Slocum yesterday, after this paper was put to press, which bears date 'Vicksburg, Aug. 27,' which is as late as any thing that could be transmitted thence, by ordinary course of mail, in which he alludes to other propositions to make him a candidate at the ensuing election, and which he unreservedly declines. This letter contains the following passages, declining any tender of a nomination for a civil office, and also an authorization to make his determination on that subject public:

'I received a letter last week from a friend in Syracuse, proposing I should be a candidate for Secretary of State. I replied at once that I could not become a candidate for civil office, while in my present position—and that I was under obligations to remain here at present.

I do not wish to enter politics at present. I can afford to wait. If it becomes necessary, you can say in my behalf, that I will not, under any circumstance, be a candidate this fall.'

We regard this declaration as entirely conclusive of the matter. It is precisely what we should expect him to do in his present situation. It is consistent with all the circumstances which surround him, and with the relations he has borne to the public and to his personal and political friends in this city and country. We do not doubt that it expresses his full determination.

The announcement that Gen. Slocum had permitted the Copperheads to use his name in the formation of their ticket natually enough produced a sensation in this city, where he is so well known and highly esteemed. The first feeling produced was that of utter discredit, but as the plot thickened that gave way to passions of a different sort—those of grief and resentment.

We beg to assure our friends, here and elsewhere, that we are confident that that in this affair Gen. Slocum has not compromised himself. What explanations the Democratic organs will be able to give for their attempted subornation and appropriation of his name and popularity to their purposes, remains to be seen. We have to say, in conclusion, that we have not the slightest belief that Gen. Slocum has under gone any change of political views, or that he will not promptly and unreservedly withdraw his name from the canvass, at the first moment his nomination comes to his knowledge.

—The Winchester, Va., News of the 25th publishes a list showing the many times the Federal and Confederate troops have occupied Winchester since November 9th, 1861, until September 19th, 1864, when Gen. Early was driven up the valley by Sheridan:

Occupied by Union troops	48 times.
Occupied by Reb troops	27 ,,
Total	75 times.

One day occupied by both sides in battle, making 76 times.

Career of the Shenandoah.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—Honolulu dates to Aug. 16 have been received.

The whalers Jas. Murray, Jas. Maxwell and Richmond had arrived from the Arctic—the former under bond, with 150 sailors, comprising crews of vessels burned by the Shenandoah. She left the Arctic about the time the Nile departed for this city, and reports the total captures by the Shenandoah to amount to thirty, of which twenty-six were burned and four bonded. Their names have been heretofore telegraphed.

The Maxwell reports ten whalers escaped without giving their names. The Emily Jordan and Jno. P. West had previouly sailed for the Ochotsk Sea.

The ship Cyclone from Boston had arrived at Honolulu on the 22nd July.

—A special dispatch to the N. Y. Herald says that it is contemplated by the President to entirely withdraw the troops from the South in a short time, leaving the States lately in rebellion to re-organize on a basis of civil government precisely as they stood before the late war, with the exception of slavery. This course is said to have arisen thro' the good sense of the leading Southern men themselves, in accepting the present position of affairs, as disclosed in the interview between President Johnson and a considerable deputation of their leading men at the White House the other day. Thus the late slave State will hardly have a soldier left among them, save such as may be used to garrison the several forts, and those, as in the Northern States, will be retained in active service only for the purpose of meeting any emergency that may arise from the action of foreign powers.—Pioneer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16,—The Tribune's Washington special says some of the original planters are directing attention to the importation of foreigners to conduct their agricultural affairs. One gentleman in Charlotte has introduced 32 foreign laborers who have proved themselves patient, persevering and industrious, but some apprehensions are entertained that the climate so far south will operate unfavorably on their health and power of endurance.

The Atlantic Cable.

HALIFAX, Sept. 15—Lt. Gamble, royal navy of her Majesty's steamship Urgent, in a letter to the Express, says the Urgent passed the localty where the cable buoys are reported to have been placed, and with the best lookout, the officers and men saw none of them. He concludes that that, if the Great Eastern's reckonings were correct, the buoys must have parted from the cable and drifted about the ocean.

—Gen. Sibley, having been assigned by order of the President to another sphere of duty, the command of the military district of Minnesota will, by order of Maj. Gen. Pope, commanding the Department of the Missouri, devolve upon Brevet Maj. Gen. J. M. Corse.

—The St Paul Press states that Ft. Snelling is to be abandoned as a military post. The arms belonging to the General Government, and which have been turned over by the troops which have been mustered out and discharged, are being boxed up preparatory to being forwarded to the Government arsenal at Rock Island. About three thousand Springfield rifles and carbines are now ready to be shipped.

A RICHMOND paper states that Gen. Grant, in response to a communication from Gen. Lee, inclose a copy of a letter which he had written to the federal authorities declaring that, under the terms of the rebel general's surrender, the indictment found against him at Norfolk was an inadmissable proceeding.

MR. JOHN ROBINS for sixty six years a merchant of New York, and formerly one of the most active business men in the country, died a few days since at the age of 86. He left a fortune of $4,000,000 to the children of his brother, Nathan Robins,

Mr. Rice Accepts.

The following is the reply of Mr. Rice to the letter of the Committee informing him of his nomination by the Democratic Convention:

ST. PAUL, Sept 7, 1865.

Gentlemen.—Your communication advising me of my nomination for the office of Governor of the State is received. Having never belonged to any other political organization than the Democratic party—and believing it to be the duty of every loyal citizen to support the reconstruction policy of President Johnson, a policy which promises to reunite the States in a bond of friendship, so that we may again have the undivided strength of the nation in upholding the constitution and the Union, I accept the position assigned me. My past services in aid of the State and its citizens is the only guarantee for the efforts I shall make in case the people shall honor me with an election. Very respectfully yours, HENRY M. RICE.

Mr. Rice has professed to be acting in good faith with the Republican or Union party for several years past. He has been a candidate for a Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate and we understand an active member of the Union League. Whether the assertion in his letter will increase the confidence of either Democrats or Republicans in his political honesty remains to be seen.

AN AQUATIC YOUTH.—There is at Randall's Island, New York, a little fellow aged fifteen, who a short time since swam from his keeper at the House of Refuge. He was followed to New York, where he was found on the Albany boat. Seeing the keeper, he swam to the Troy boat. He was there caught and given charge of the policeman. From him he escaped and swam back to the Albany boat, which he reached as she was leaving the pier. He held on by a stanchion under the guards in front of the paddle, and there he remained twelve hours wet to the skin. While there his head was hit by the paddle and split open. Undaunted, he held on till the boat reached Albany. The telegraphs had notified official there, and in a boat he saw men waiting for him. He took to the water and baffled pursuit for two hours. He was caught, taken back to Randall's Island, and now does a man's work in the shoe shop. He's a smart boy.

Last week a woman named Perkins, wife of a respectable well-to do farmer, near Brantford, U. C., finding herself upon her death bed, sent for a clergyman and confessed that she had at different periods of her life, committed six murders, and all by poison! At first it was imagined that she was delirious, but subsequent inquiry has afforded ample corroboration of the poor wretch's statement. She said that she had a mania for destroying human life, and it was only by the greatest self restraint that she could keep herself from secretly poisoning all persons with whom she was on terms of friendship. She had, however, poisoned four children and two adults, and what makes the matter still more revolting is the fact that two of the former were her own children, and one of the latter her first husband's. The children were murdered in England, and the adults in Canada. She has been married to her second husband for a number of years, and all the time passed for a very respectable, industrious woman. Her appearance, however, was most revolting, and she was in fact, the exact image of what we should imagine one of the weird sisters in 'Macbeth' to have been. She died soon after making the above horrible disclosures.

TOWN CAUCUS.—The call for a Republican town caucus at the City Hall will be found in the UNION of this week.

Candies at Wickersham & Law's Drug Store.

A new lot of Lamp Chimneys at Wickersham & Law's

THE POUND.—The boys did a good business Tuesday night in impounding a large lot of cattle. We suspect they were in want of "change" for the circus, and thus made a "flank movement" to make their "dads" fork over.

Don't fail to call and see the stock of boots, shoes and leather at Clarke & Porter's before buying elsewhere. It costs nothing to look and satisfy yourselves.

Shoemakers can buy all kinds of Leather at Clarke & Porter's

A fine article of Machine Oil at Wickersham & Law's

Hats and Caps and Ladies' Hoods in endless variety at Marks'.

Wanting to close out their present stock of goods at a great deal less than the same can be bought for at the present time at the east For further particulars call on Randall & Smith.

Hats and Caps. Hats and Caps, Hats and Caps for the million. Hats for the ladies and Hats for the babies, Hats and Caps for the girls to adorn their glossy curls, Hats for young men and frolicksome boys that will attract the fair ladies, make a sensation and noise. In fact, we would say to all, including anxious young sparks, if you want a nice Hat just call in at MARKS'.

AN OUTRAGE.—While a colored man, a resident of Le Ray, was in Williams' store in this town one day last week, attending quietly and peacefully to his own business, an individual, who calls himself a white man and who, we blush to announce, has a white skin and is also a resident of Le Ray, approached him and after making threats and swearing that either he or the colored man must leave town, snatched a heavy weight and, threatening to "knock out the brains" of the colored man, was proceeding to carry out his threat when he was prevented by the interference of bystanders who compelled him to desist We hear that there was no excuse for such outrageous conduct on the part of the over sensitive citizen of white descent who left the store threatening vengeance The man is known and if he conducts himself so outrageously again, he will receive the benefit of the law

More White Lead, Putty & Paint Oil at Wickersham & Law's

Go and see "Wickersham & Law's" new Chandiliers.

—WE believe that one of the regulations of the post office department require, that when a mail stage enters a town, it shall first deliver the mail at the post office It has been the custom here to drive past the post office, deliver the passengers and express freight, and deliver mails the last thing. We presume, calling the attention of the agent to this regulation will cause a change to be made.

A few pairs more of those $1 50 Ladies' Shoes at Clarke & Porter's.

Call at Clarke & Porter's for a pair of those $1,75 Boys' Boots.

SEWING MACHINES,—Mr C. H. Slocum, agent for the Florence Sewing Machine, has also received the agency of Grover & Baker's celebrated machines, for Blue Earth, Faribault, Martin, Watonwan and Brown counties, and has them on exhibition at his store. He invites the most critical examination of all his machines, and guarantees that they will do well, all kinds of sewing. Ladies are invited to call and receive instructions how to run these machines. An assortment of machine sewing and embroidery silk for sale The advertisement for these machines will appear next week.

Chicago made boots, the best in the market, at Clarke & Porter's.

Leather of all kinds at Clarke & Porter's.

FOUNDRY AND MACHINE SHOP.—In our advertising columns will be found the advertisement of C W. Barney & Co. They are the proprietors of the new foundry and machine shop located in lower town. They are prepared to make and repair machinery of every kind, also all kinds of Iron and brass castings The proprietors are men of capital, and good business capacity. Their facilities are good, and they are able to fill all orders promptly. This institution, long needed here, should be well patronized. It will prove a great saving in expense to farmers who have heretofore been obliged to go to St. Peter and St Paul to get their reapers repaired.

Now is the time to buy and save money at Clarke & Porter's; they have not marked up their Stock yet.

H KNOX TAYLOR.—One of the best places in St. Paul to buy dry goods is at Taylor's dry goods house. It is situated on Third Street, next door to Burbanks Stage Office. Mr Taylor, years since, gained the reputation of selling the best goods, at the lowest cash price, of any store in St. Paul. Now he has purchased his fall and winter stock before the late advance, and is enabled to keep up his reputation without injury to his business. Our citizens who visit St Paul to purchase goods should not fail to call on Mr Taylor, and patronize him He will give you good bargains, treat you handsomely, and you will go away feeling that you have met with a gentleman of the first water. Read his advertisement elsewhere.

Leather, Boots and Shoes have gone up 50 per cent, as everybody will see, but Clarke & Porter are still selling at reduced prices.

A new lot of Kerosene Oil at Wickersham & Law's

NEW MEAT MARKET.—A new meat market is being erected first door east of the post office.

COMING HOME.—It affords us pleasure to be able to announce that the editor will be at home in time to superintend the editorial department of next weeks UNION. It will be a great relief to us.

MR. WILKINSON'S SPEECH.—We had intended to publish the speech delivered by Hon, M. S. Wilkinson at the barbecue dinner last week, but a press of other business has delayed it until our next issue. It is pronounced by all who heard it as being a masterly effort, and highly creditable to Mr. Wilkinson. It is worthy of a careful perusal.

JOHNSON will in a few days, receive the large stock of goods purchased in the East recently We are informed he has a very fine assortment of dress goods, fancy goods, which he will take pleasure in showing to those who wish to examine. See his advertisement in another column,

Expecting daily the largest and most complete stock of clothing for men and boys, gents furnishing goods, winter caps and buck mittens and gloves, ever brought to this market at Randall & Smith's

Mr J. B. Wiederman will meet the Presbyterian Choir at the church on Saturday evening at 7½ o'clock. All who wish to join the choir and can readily read music, are invited to be present with such singing books as they may have at hand.

ORTON'S great circus performed in this place on Wednesday afternoon and evening of this week. It is one complete humbug.

PREACHING.—Elder G. B. Mullis, of Center, Wisconsin, preached in the City Hall, at half past 7 o'clock last evening, and will continue to preach each evening during this week at the same place. Also, Sunday at 4 P. M.

Capt. J. R. Beatty has authorized us to announce that he has withdrawn his name as a candidate for County Treasurer and favors the nomination of Mr. H. K. Lee.

OUR COUNTY FAIR.—The annual fair for this County will be held at Garden City on Wednesday and Thursday of next week, and we hope that the people throughout the county, by their attendance and contribution, will endeavor to make it a complete success. We are situated in the finest agricultural portion of Minnesota, and our Fairs ought to be equal to any in the State Let every one who can bring any domestic or any other article which will add to the interest of the Fair, and let the farmers bring their choice stock, and by their personal attendance, give it enthusiasm and encouragement. The officers of the Society have labored hard to advance the interest of the Society, and we trust that its complete success will attest to the fruitfulness of their effort

The posters announce a very excellent programme. The fair grounds will be on the square in front of the hotel at that place, and will be enclosed by a strong board fence. Convenient and suitable places for the exhibition of stock, products of the soil, and agricultural implements, have been arranged within. The old barracks will be used in which to display domestic and fancy articles. The race track is being prepared on the rise of ground, just north of the town We understand that a number of "fast nags" will be put on the track to contest for the prize,

THE LADY'S FRIEND.—The October number of this excellent magazine opens with a beautiful steel engraving, "THE WANDERER'S RETURN" The sentiment of this engraving is very touching—the wanderer has come back to the scenes of his youth, and gazes with a heart full of emotion on the church where in childhood he passed so many pleasant and reverential hours. Of the Fashion Plate of this number we need only say that it is equal to any of its predecessors. Ladies tell us that the fashion plates of this magazine are particularly fine. The music is "Minnie Minton, or I'll Meet You in the Morning." (Song and Chorus.) The music alone of this magazine is worth more than the price of the book—did our fair readers ever consider that? Then we have numerous engravings of 'The Corded Corsage.' 'Zuleima Jacket,' 'Patterns for Morning Caps,' 'Riding Habit,' 'Evening Head Dress,' 'Bodice with Basque,' &c. &c. The Literary matter of this number is 'Ronald's Mistake,' 'A Memory,' 'Across the Plains,' by Virginia F Townsend; 'Contrition,' by Annie F. Kent; 'Told by the Sun,' by Beatrice Colonna; 'The Land of Dreams,' by Charles Morris; 'A Dying Child's Request,' 'Only an Episode,' 'Abel Carn's Temptation,' 'Titian Vercelli,' 'The Old Bedquilt,' 'Our Christian Names,' 'Our Darling,' 'Editorials, Receipts, Fashions, &c. &c. Price $2,50 a year; 2 copies $4,00; 8 copies (and one gratis) $16,00 Now is the time to get up clubs for 1866. Specimen numbers for this purpose will be sent for 15 cents. Wheeler & Wilson's celebrated Sewing Machines are furnished as Premiums in certain cases.

AN Illustrated Catalogue, containing full description of style, and testimonials of the most eminent Musicians, as to the superior excellence of our instruments—will be sent free to any address.

THE AUTOMATIC ORGAN

In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly announce the greatest triumph in musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments, with double bellows and two pedals for the feet to operate but the want of the reversed or Exhaustion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated

Another objection to this method of blowing was that, both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell Within the past two years, instruments constructed on this European plan of "double blowers," have been manufactured in this country, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an appendage is nearly impossible.

Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of tone. We predict for this invention a brilliant future.

THE MELODEON & SCHOOL ORGAN

For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly. With our increased facilities, we feel warranted in assuring our patrons that their orders will be promptly met, and solicit a continuance of their patronage.

Caution to purchasers.

All our instruments have upon the name board, in full, "GEO. A PRINCE & CO." When a dealer represents any other instrument as "the same as ours," it is usually a mere attempt to sell an inferior inferior instrument, on which he can make a large profit.

ARRANDALE & CO., Manf'g Agts.
No. 167 Broadway, New York.

Announce that all of the above list of goods will be sold for One Dollar each.

In consequence of the great stagnation of trade in the manufacturing districts of England, through the war having cut off the supply of cotton, a large quantity of Valuable Jewelry, originally intended for the English market, has been sent off for sale in this country, and must be sold at any sacrifice. Under these circumstances, Arrandale & Co, acting as agents for the principal European manufacturers, have resolved upon a great Gift Apportionment to be divided according to the following regulations:

Certificates of the various articles are put into envelopes indiscriminately, sealed up, and when ordered, are taken out without regard to choice, and sent by mail, thus showing no favoritism. On receipt of the certificate, you will see what you are to have, and then it is at your option to send the dollar and take the article or not Purchasers may thus obtain a gold watch, Diamond Ring, or any set of Jewelry on our list for One Dollar.

SEND 25 CENTS FOR CERTIFICATE.

In all transactions by mail, we shall charge for forwarding the certificates, paying postage and doing the business, 25 cents each, which must be enclosed when the certificate is sent for. Five certificates will be sent for $1, eleven for $2, thirty for $5, sixty five for $10; one hundred for $15

WHAT THE "PRESS" SAY OF US.

The Lafayette (Ind) Daily Courier, March 18 1865, says: A better selected, more varied or fashionable assortment of jewelry cannot be found on the continent than Arrandale & Co., are now offering. Messrs. Arrandale & Co, occupy a high position in commercial circles as men entirely above the common trickery of trade. Their statements may be implicitly relied upon, both as to the character of their goods and the manner of disposal. Ladies especially, in all parts of the country, are realizing handsome profits as agents, and if an, of our fair readers desire to interest themselves in this enterprise they may do so with perfect confidence.

We have inspected, at the office of Arrandale & Co's Agency for European Manufacturing Jewellers a large assortment of valuable and fashionable jewelry of the newest patterns. We also noticed a large quantity of silver plate and understand that the whole of these newly imported articles are to be disposed of on a novel principle giving great advantage to buyers, and affording extensive employment to agents We know the firm in question to be very respectable and thoroughly worthy of public confidence, and recommend our friends to read their advertisement.—N. Y. Albion, September 3, 1861.

The British Whig, of Kingston, C. W. says Nov 26th, 1864; One of our lady subscribers became an agent for Arrandale & Co. and by request brought some twenty articles sent as prizes for her agency, to this office for inspection and without hesitation we can state that each and all of the articles were worth treble the amount of cost to the recipients, and some of them six times.

AGENTS—We want agents in every regiment, and in every town and county in the country, and those acting as such will be allowed ten cents on every certificate ordered by them, provided their remittance amounts to one dollar, also other inducements which can be learned on application. Agents will collect 25 cents for every Certificate, and remit fifteen cents to us, either in cash or postage stamps.

Manhood; How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhoea, or seminal weakness Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity; Impediments to Marriage, etc, also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

No lands will be sold for less than their appraised value per acre, and the right is reserved to withdraw from market any of the tracts advertised, on the day of sale.

The terms of the sale are such by law, that lands designated "Timber," seventy five per cent. of the purchase money must be paid at the time of sale, while lands denoted "Prairie," only fifteen per cent. of the purchase money will be required. When lands are not especially valuable for timber thereon, the proportion of the purchase money required down is mentioned in the proper column. In each case, the balance of the purchase money can be paid any time thereafter, from time to time, within twenty years, at the option of the purchaser; provided interest in advance at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, on the unpaid balance is paid to the first day of June, 1866, and annually thereafter.

Purchase money payable in legal tender notes.

Persons purchasing lands upon which other parties have made improvements, will be required to pay the owner of the same the appraised value of improvements, one half to be paid at the time of sale, and the balance within six months thereafter, with interest at seven per cent. per annum.

MORSE'S EXPECTORANT
FOR THE HEALING OF THE NATIONS

GOOD NEWS TO ALL MANKIND.

THE REMEDY FOUND AT LAST.

It will cure Influenza and Sore Throat.
It will cure Croup every time.
It will cure Asthma and relieve Consumption
It will cure Whooping Cough.
It will cure your Cough.
It will prevent Consumption.

It cures all if the directions are strictly followed, or the money will be refunded.

That Cough which you are neglecting may result in fatal Consumption, if some prompt remedy is not used.

Why sacrifice your life when your disease can be cured so quickly and at so small a cost? What is the value of Money when compared to Health?

MORSE'S EXPECTORANT

Is warranted to break up the most troublesome cough in an incredibly short time. There is no remedy that shows more evidence of its merit than this for curing

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Difficulty in Breathing, Asthma, Bronchitis, Laryngitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of patients in the advanced stage of the disease.

Morse's Expectorant is a vegetable anodyne, prepared expressly to meet the constant demand for a safe and efficient remedy for diseases of the

THROAT AND LUNGS,

Diseases of these organs are so prevalent and dangerous that a reliable Medicine is a necessary safeguard in every community. In such a remedy for family use, the absolute absence of danger from accidental overdoses, freedom from poisons, and the adaptation to patients of every age and condition, of either sex, is indispensible. These qualities are most combined in this preperation, and so admirably is it adapted to the cure of all diseases for which it is recommended, that its entire influence is brot to bear against them, and so perfectly assist nature in its efforts to rid the system of disease, that the most delicate constitution can use it with perfect safety and a fixed certainty that a RELEIF AND A CURE WILL SPEEDILY FOLLOW

As Time—the great developer of Events—advances, these truths becomes wider and better known, and this Medicine has already become a simple necessity, with a growing demand, unprecedented in the history of Medicine—the natural results of its INTRINSIC MERITS.

A single trial is all that is necessary to establish the fact that it is the most efficacious remedy ever offered to suffering humanity.

This medicine is put up in 50, 75 and $1,00 bottles and warranted to contain more and better material than any similar medicine introduced to the public in a medicine.

For sale by Druggists generally. July 1 y

HELMBOLD'S

GENUINE

PREPARATIONS.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED" COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings.

This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the matter of calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for men, women and children.

H

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

For weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion, attended with the following Symptoms:

Indisposition to Exertion,	Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory,	Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves,	Trembling,
Horror of Disease,	Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,
Hot Hands,	Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin,	Eruptions of the Face,
Universal Lassitude,	Pallid Countenance,
Muscular System.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes), soon follow—

FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c.,

In one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

E

In many affections peculiar to Females, the EXTRACT BUCHU is unequaled by any other remedy, and for all complaints incident to the sex, or in the

DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE,

☞ SEE SYMPTOMS ABOVE.

☞ No Family should be without it.

L

Take no Balsam, Mercury, or unpleasant medicine for unpleasant and dangerous diseases.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

AND

IMPROVED ROSE WASH

Cures Secret Diseases

In all their stages little expense, little or no change of diet, no inconvenience, and NO EXPOSURE.

M

USE HELMBOLD'S

EXTRACT BUCHU

For all affections and diseases of these organs, whether EXISTING IN MALE OR FEMALE,

From whatever cause originating, and no matter how long standing. Diseases of these organs require the aid of a diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

Is the Great Diuretic.

And it is certain to have the desired effect in all diseases for which it is recommended.

B

BLOOD! BLOOD! BLOOD!

Helmbold's

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA,

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect HELMBOLD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA. It cleanses and renovates the Blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought for, and now, for the first time the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

O

HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH,

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upwards of 30,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basis, Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon. Being now used to the exclusion of all other Bitters in more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the U. S. government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞ They are made of ingredients well-known and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strengthening properties to correct the bilious derangement of the system and act like a charm when taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases;—Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Affections, Jaundice, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirit, Sallow Complexion.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity; so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞ Ladies who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system. If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters have him send for him. Remember the name and take no other.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞ The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical journals, and having been adopted as a standard remedy by the Medical Profession are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXEMPT FROM STAMP DUTY.

THESE Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do; will Hem, Fell Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tention, or making any adjustment of Machaine whatever! ! !

They are simple in construction, and easily understood; and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD

AGAIN RE-OPENED!

THIS GREAT NATIONAL THOROUGHfare is again open for

Freghts and Travel.

The Cars and Machinery destroyed are being replaced by New Running Stock, with all recent improvements; and as the bridges and Tracks are again in substantial Condition, the well-earned reputation of this Road for Speed, Security and Comfort, will be more than sustained under the re-organization of its business.

In addition to the unequalled attractions of natural scenery heretofore conceded to this route, the recent troubles upon the border have associated numerous points on the road between the Ohio River and Harper's Ferry, with painful but instructive interest.

CONNECTIONS

At Baltimore with seven daily trains for Philadelphia and New York.

TWO DOLLARS additional on Through Tickets to Baltimore or the Northern Cities, give the privilege of visiting Washington City en route—being $3.00 lower than the cost by any other line.

This is the only route route by which passengers can procure through tickets and through checks to Washington City.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon. Being now used to the exclusion of all other Bitters in more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the U. S. government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞They are made of ingredients well-known and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strengthening properties to correct the bilious derangement of the system and act like a charm when taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases;—Indigestion ... yspepsia, Liver Affections, Jaundice, L... s of Appetite, Lowness of Spirit, Sallow ... mplexion.

SWAIN'S BOURBO... BITTERS!

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, an... kindred diseases, arising from a disor... red condition of the Stomach, Liver or Bo... els. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity; so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞Ladies who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system. If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters have him send for him. Remember the name and take no other.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical journals, and having been adopted as a standard remedy by the Medical Profession are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXEMPT FROM STAMP DUTY.

MORSE'S EXPECTORANT
FOR THE HEALING OF THE NATIONS

GOOD NEWS TO ALL MANKIND.

THE REMEDY FOUND AT LAST.

It will cure Influenza and Sore Throat.
It will cure Croup every time.
It will cure Asthma and relieve Consumption
It will cure Whooping Cough.
It will cure your Cough.
It will prevent Consumption.

It cures all if the directions are strictly followed, or the money will be refunded.

That Cough which you are neglecting may result in fatal Consumption, if some prompt remedy is not used.

Why sacrifice your life when your disease can be cured so quickly and at so small a cost?

What is the value of Money when compared to Health?

MORSE'S EXPECTORANT

Is warranted to break up the most troublesome cough in an incredibly short time. There is no remedy that shows more evidence of its merit than this for curing

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Difficulty in Breathing, Asthma, Bronchitis, Laryngitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of patients in the advanced stage of the disease.

Morse's Expectorant is a vegetable anodyne, prepared expressly to meet the constant demand for a safe and efficient remedy for diseases of the

THROAT AND LUNGS,

Diseases of those organs are so prevalent and dangerous that a reliable Medicine is a necessary safeguard in every community. In such a remedy for family use, the absolute absence of danger from accidental overdoses, freedom from poisons, and the adaptation to patients of every age and condition, of either sex, is indispensible. These qualities are most combined in this preparation, and so admirably is it adapted to the cure of all diseases for which it is recommended, that its entire influence is brought to bear against them, and so perfectly assist nature in its efforts to rid the system of disease, that the most delicate constitution can use it with perfect safety and a fixed certainty that a RELIEF AND A CURE WILL SPEEDILY FOLLOW

As Time—the great developer of Events—advances, these truths becomes wider and better known, and this Medicine has already become a simple necessity, with a growing demand, unprecedented in the history of Medicine—the natural results of its INTRINSIC MERITS.

A single trial is all that is necessary to establish the fact that it is the most efficacious remedy ever offered to suffering humanity.

This medicine is put up in 50, 75 and $1,00 bottles and warranted to contain more and better material than any similar medicine introduced to the public in a medicine.

For sale by Druggists generally. July 1 y

HELMBOLD'S

GENUINE

PREPARATIONS.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED" COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings.

This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the matter of calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for men, women and children.

H

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

For weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion, attended with the following Symptoms:

Indisposition to Exertion,	Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory,	Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves,	Trembling,
Horror of Disease,	Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,
Hot Hands,	Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin,	Eruptions of the Face,
Universal Lassitude,	Pallid Countenance,

Muscular System.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes), soon follow—

FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c.,

in one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

E

In many affections peculiar to Females, the EXTRACT BUCHU is unequaled by any other remedy, and for all complaints incident to the sex, or in the

DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE,

☞ SEE SYMPTOMS ABOVE.

☞ No Family should be without it.

L

Take no Balsam, Mercury, or unpleasant medicine for unpleasant and dangerous diseases.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

AND

IMPROVED ROSE WASH

Cures Secret Diseases

In all their stages little expense, little or no change of diet, no inconvenience, and NO EXPOSURE.

M

USE HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

For all affections and diseases of these organs, whether

EXISTING IN MALE OR FEMALE,

From whatever cause originating, and no matter how long standing. Diseases of these organs require the aid of a diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

Is the Great Diuretic.

And it is certain to have the desired effect in all diseases for which it is recommended.

B

BLOOD! BLOOD! BLOOD!

Helmbold's

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA,

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect HELMBOLD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA. It cleanses and renovates the Blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought for, and now, for the first time the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

O

HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH,

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upwards of 30,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basis, Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon. Being now used to the exclusion of all other Bitters in more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the U. S. government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞ They are made of ingredients well-known and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strengthening properties to correct the bilious derangement of the system and act like a charm when taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases:—Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Affections, Jaundice, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirit, Sallow Complexion.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity; so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficiency.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞ Ladies who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system. If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters have him send for him. Remember the name and take no other.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞ The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical journals, and having been adopted as a standard remedy by the Medical Profession are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXEMPT FROM STAMP DUTY.

THESE Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do: will Hem, Fell Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tention, or making any adjustment of Machaine whatever!!!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood; and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

These are PECULIAR FACTS, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

A Quixotic Peace Mission.

We don't happen to know just which of the philanthropic quakers, who are said to have recently appropriated the conscience of the Indian Department, is entitled to the credit of originating the Peace Mission to the Sioux Indians, upon which Gens. Sibley and Curtis and Judge Edmunds are now wending their solitary and romantic way on horseback up the picturesque banks of the Missouri, but the scheme affords a happy proof of the aptitude of these snuff-colored and broad-brimmed Siouxphilists for the administration of Indian affairs.

The gentlemn who are sent as envoys plenipotentiary to the court of these Scythian nomads are expected to go to Ft. Rice, which they will reach about the middle of October, whence they are to send summons to the various bands of Sioux from one to five hundred miles distant, and assemble them at the appointed place of rendezvous, in a grand Council of the Dakotas. Now, it would, under the most favorable circumstances, take at least three months to get together the various bands of Sioux scattered over the whole region from the Rocky Mountains to the western boundary of Minnesota, but in the season from October to December, which is set apart for this purpose, when the frosts first cut down the grass, and then winter supervenes with its snows and blasts, traveling through that region is simply impossible for these large bands of Indians, with their inseperable accompaniment of a multitude of women, children and horses. But even suppose the Indians could be induced to leave their earth-imbedded lodges and face the cold blasts for hundreds of miles to the place of rendezvous, such a council as is proposed representing the hostile tribes with their families, must, to have any weight, number from three to six thousand Indians, who must for a week or fortnight be fed by the government. Besides these, for the security of the commissioners, a force of soldiers must accompany them, whose wants must also be supplied. Now we happen to have learned upon good authority that no provision whatever has been made by the government for the feeding of these Indians and troops, and the proposed council is thus twice impossible.

But even if thes insuperable difficulties were obviated, another one scarcely less serious is encountered in the fact that in less than four weeks at farthest it will be too late for cavalry—the only troops available for the service—to move through that country, for the same reason that makes the gathering of the Dakota clans at this season impossible—the want of grass for their horses.

Our correspondent at Sioux City seems to be aware of these obstacles to the success of the proposed peace-mission, and of course the commissioners cannot be considered responsible for the inevitable failure of the Tom Fool's errand on which they are sent by the Indian Department. But the project of sending commissioners, at this season of the year, on a sixty days journey into the Indian country—to gather together the scattered Indian bands, at the beginning of winter, from a region four times as large as Minnesota, and assemble them in council, without any previous preparations for their entertainment, is a beautiful commentary to say the least, on the management of the Indian Office.—St. Paul Press.

An Unromantic Courtship.

Several years ago a young married man left Kilmarnock with his wife and family and settled in America. He prospered in his new home up till a recent period, when his wife was taken ill and died. His family being much increased, he saw he could not get on well without a wife. But he had neither time nor inclination for a regular courtship. So he wrote a letter to one of his youthful comrades here, asking whether any of the lasses who used to be in the "squad" were yet unmarried. A reply to this query was duly forwarded, which informed him that one he had known of old was still a servant maid in the same house—a situation which she had kept some fifteen years. The next mail bro't a letter to this deserving woman, who must long ago have given up all hope of marriage, if old maids have no such expectations. In the letter was an offer of marriage off-hand, which he begged of her to accept, and that so warmly that refusal was thought to be impossible. She accordingly gave up her place, and has just, as a matter of fact, sailed to meet her destined husband.—Ayrshire Express.

Severe Drouth in New England.

From the Boston Traveler.

We have not had so severe a drouth in this section since 1854. The springs are not so low as they were in that year, because until last year we have had a long series of wet years, which have kept the springs well filled. The lower springs have not felt the drouth at all, but may show its effects next year should that be a year of drouth. Grass in the pastures has not suffered so much as in 1854, because they were more heavily sodded in the early part of the season.

After the drouth of 1854, we had a succession of wet years, and the average rainfall has since been considered greater than for thirty years previous. It would not be wonderful if we are now to have a series of years in which the quantity of rain will be less than for the last ten, although its distribution through the season may be such as to produce no dimunition of the crops.

We have had in this part of the country the present year a greater crop of hay than in any year for a quarter of a century, owing to the rains and warm weather of May and June, and the favorable weather for securing the crop in July. All late crops will be very light, and of apples such a scarcity has never been known in the memory of the oldest inhabitants. Orchards which usually produce several hundred bushels, will not furnish enough to supply the family at the homestead.

—In the village of K., West Virginia, lives an eccentric old man known as Uncle Paul, noted for his fondness for natural history. Quite a crowd had collected at the post office, waiting anxiously for the war news. Uncle Paul entertained the crowd by telling the old cat story, how they fought till there was nothing left of them but the tips of their tails, &c. A rough looking specimen of humanity from the country seemed to drink in every word the old man said about the cats. To be even with him he remarked, 'Why Uncle Paul, that's a pretty good story, but its nothing to what I saw yesterday. I was coming down the mountain, and saw near a little brook, a water snake trying to swallow a toad.' 'All right, nothing strange about that,' replied Uncle Paul. 'Just read Nateral histry, and it will tell ye that water snakes live on toads.' 'Yes maybe it will,' said the country gentleman; 'but you see, the snake when I first saw it, had the toad's hind legs in its mouth and the toad squirmed around till it got the snke's tail in its mouth, and in less than a minute they swallowed each other, and you couldent see a sign of either of them.' All enjoyed the joke except Uncle Paul, who left for home saying that it was a lie, and that there was nothing like it in Nateral his'try.

—It has heretofore been stated that Jeff. Davis will be tried before a civil tribunal for treason, probably before the United States court for the Eastern District of Va. Nothing additional has transpired on that subject since the announcement was made. It is a mistake to suppose that Chief Justice Chase has anything to do with the preliminary arrangements any more than he has with the preparation of cases for adjudication before the Supreme Court of the United States. Nor has he expressed, as has been stated, a desire to try the case of the United States against Jeff. Davis, but he will try that as he will all others which may come before him in the course of business.

A Gigantic Railroad Enterprise---What the English Capitalists Contemplate.

From the St Louis Republican, Sept. 16.

Mr. McHenry, Sir Morton Peto and their present party are greater financial magnates, we dare say, than the mass of our readers imagine. They represent no less than $40,000,000, invested in American railway enterprises, and are seriously contemplating a project of investing about $40,000,000 more. Their main interest, it has been elsewhere stated, lies in the Atlantic and Great Western road, 750 miles long, from where it leaves the Erie road to where it connects with the Ohio and Mississippi. Their idea is to make common stock of these three great roads, double-track them all the way from New York to St. Louis, construct a branch to Louisville and another to Chicago, and ballast the whole so securely that a speed can be secured equal to that in practice upon the best European railways. Colossal as this scheme appears to be, it is not only possible that it will some day attain full realization, but highly probable. Both of the gentleman named at the head of this paragraph are in favor of the enterprise, and are already cou-

Financial Exploits in Philadelphia—$100,000 Stolen.--A Philadelphia paper contains an account of the grand financial operations of the conductors of the street cars in the city, who have managed to defraud three companies of funds to the amount of a hundred thousand dollars. The receipts of one road in the city, after the detection of the fauds increased one hundred dollars per day. On this same road it was ascertained that not only had some of the drivers been in the habit of extorting money from the conductors, but that even some of the hostlers and stable boys had been in daily receipt of regular amounts which they extracted from the drivers before the horses would be brought from the stables. The drivers in many cases had been in years past connected with the omnibus system of Philadelphia, and had thus graduated in a school of morality which taught them that the chief end of man was to make money.

Snakey.--A gentleman passing near the corner of Van Buren and Sherman streets, saw a woman standing at the door of one of the little residences in that vicinity, with what seemed to be an unusual mammary development. He stopped to ask a question, and she, putting her hand into her bosom, drew forth the head of a reptile, whose forked tongue and arched neck told of a dangerous neighbor. Slowly she drew forth her protege from his nestling concealment, and wound the slimy thing round her neck. It was a rattlesnake, of the genuine Southern breed, nearly four feet long, with three rattles on his tail, and the poison fangs unabated and envenomed, as in a state of nature. The gentleman drew back modestly, but she exhibited no fear; after fondling with the reptile awhile, she put him back in his hiding place, and told the story of his capture. He was taken in Alabama, by her husband, who has recently returned from the war, and now rivals him in her affections, and one would think dangerously so, as he is undoubtedly a close bosom friend.—Chicago Tribune.

Democratic Prophecies.

A party who can show only broken promises and false prophecies in the past must have a cheek of brass to ask the people to intrust the affairs of Government in its hands. The Democratic party stands exactly in this position. What have been the prophecies?

1. That the South could never be conquered.

The South is conquered.

2. That the Emancipation Proclamation would prolong the war, and make the triumph of the South certain.

Without it the war would not now be ended, and Southern men acknowledge that it was the severest blow their cause received.

3. That the arming of negroes would be fatal to our success.

The addition of 200,000 negroes to the military power of the Government turned the scale in our favor, and allowed 200,000 white men to stay at home.

4. That the negroes would not fight.

On every battle field they displayed good soldierly qualities and fought bravely for a country that has always oppressed them.

5. That our currency would be entirely worthless before the war was over.

It will now buy anything that any Democrat owns, and is sought after with eagerness by that class.

6. That the re-election of Abraham Lincoln would prolong the war four years.

It closed it in six months.

7. That the high toned Southern Chivalry would never submit to Federal rule.

They are crawling like whipped dogs at the very feet of Federal authorities, begging for pardon.

And so forth. The only prophecy they ever made that was fulfilled was, that Abraham Lincoln would not live out his second four years—some of them probably knew whereof they spoke in that matter.

The President's Trials.

For five long hours the masculine crowd swayed and surged in the outer hall adjoining the President's audience room, till it was almost impossible for the President's Secretary and ushers to get through them, whenever it was necessary to pass from one room to another. The ventilation of this apartment is very limited, and the day extremely warm, the atmosphere became almost stifling, and many were compelled to leave, being unable to stand the pressure. So free and easy have these crowds of pardon seekers become, for ninety out of every hundred belong to this class, that some of them smoke pipes and cigars in the President's house till it was found necessary to stop it by putting up notices around the hall that "smoking is postively prohibited.' Some, however, who did not smoke, chew tobacco immensely, and leave such deposits on the hall floor as to disgust cleanly disposed people. This is a sample of the crowds who latterly, on reception days, occupy the chief time of the President. The lady visitors are numerous, and are ushered into a nearly dark room, with no windows, and as hot as an oven, to wait until the President receives them. They are waited on first, and to day occupied the President from two till three o'clock. Shortly after three o'clock the doors were opened, when the mob rushed in promiscuously and crowded around the President so rudely that he was obliged at times to speak sharply to several to bring them to a sense of propriety. A dozen tried to speak to him at once, and some, on being told to go to such a department, or to the Attorney General's office, to inquire about their pardons, did not appear satisfied, and wanted to argue the point with him.

One younger Southerner, with more assurance than judgment, accosted the President with:

'Sir, I've called to see you about my pardon.'

'Have you made your application?' inquired the President.

'No, sir.'

'Well, then, you must make out your application before you call upon me. Make your application first, then call again.'

'But, Mr. President, I want to see you about——'

'I've told you once what to do; pass on if you please.'

'But, sir,' persisted the youth, standing in the way, as if determined not to leave.

The President turned upon his heel, and addressed the next applicant, and the discomfitted youth moved off, grumbling and looking unutterable things. When the names were called of those whose pardons were ready for delivery, one person answered, 'That's my brother's name; I am here to answer for him.' Another one said, 'I come to represent my uncle, and will receive anything for him.' In this way half a dozen would speak at once, and what a crowding and jostling to get near the table where the papers were lying; the scene was so indecorous that the President was compelled several times to rebuke them, to preserve order. The great majority of 'callers' are applicants for pardons. On of upward of one hundred, all waited on between three and four o'clock, only two were office hunters, and they, for a wonder were the most modest of the whole party, and waited till the President was disengaged before diclosing their business.

Prospect of a Decline of Prices in the Dry Goods Markets.

A few weeks since the public were duly notified that there was a sudden and considerable advance in the prices of dry goods. No cause was assigned for this rise except the demand for the goods and their comparative scarcity. This activity of trade has met, it appears, somethings of a reaction, and prices have fallen in consequence. The New York World says of the condition of the market:

The largest month's business of dry goods ever transacted in the metropolis during the thirty days ending September 10, 1865, The city was swept clear of cotton goods, and so importunate and incessant were the orders that the manufacturers have been asking and getting from sixty to one hundred per cent. upon the cost value of the goods. But this was too good to last, and the trade has come to a sudden and unexpected pause. Retailers have discovered that consumers won't stand the enormous advance in cotton goods, as compared with the early summer price, and so they refuse to buy. Prices have receded already, and there may be, and ought to be, a tumble. With an abundance of raw cotton at a moderate price, and the mills all over the country in full blast, there will soon be goods enough and at fair rates, if consumers will hold up a little.

Manufacturers cannot expect to get thirty five cents per yard for prints which cost them only sixteen cents, for more than a month at a time. Consumers do right in "striking" against so enormous a profit,

A Singular Monomania.—A man in Barrington, who has for some time past been suffering strange aberration of mind, a few days since tried to force a stone down his throat, using a stick for that purpose, and the result was that he forced a frightful hole through to the external surface of his neck, causing death. A post mortem examination of the unfortunate man developed the astonishing fact that his stomach and intestines contained one stone 2½ inches long, weighing 1¾ ounces; another stone of irregular shape, 1½ inches in diameter, weighing 1 ounce; another stone 1 inch in diameter of the same weight; a piece of corn cob 2½ inches in length; a wooden handle, such as is used to spin tops, 4½ inches long, and half an inch square at the end; another stick 2½ inches long, and over half an inch wide; and a corn husk 15 inches long, which had been thrust down his throat without chewing. The case was very remarkable.—Providence R. I. Journal.

Outrages on Union Men.

The copperhead press is very busily engaged in endeavoring to make the people believe that the South is most cordially and heartily accepting the situation, or, in other words, that her citizens are unreservedly returning to their allegiance to the Union. Let us see if this is true.

The Tennessee rebels are still busy shooting men down, tying them to trees, whipping them, and serving them with written or verbal notices to leave the state within a given time. The governor has been appealed to, but is powerless to protect the persecuted and outraged people, who, wherever the military arm does not protect them, are liable to all kinds of indignities and to the loss of their lives. Indeed, the governor has received letters, written by rebels, notifying him and other prominent citizens that they have been singled out for assassination. In fact, the state of things has got to be so bad that the governor advises citizens and returned Union soldiers to arm themselves and exterminate every man uttering such threats, together with their apologists and advocates.

In the meantime the United States troops are rapidly withdrawing from the state, leaving the returned rebels to pursue their system of outrage upon loyal men with impunity. Certainly this condition of affairs in a state like Tennessee is not very reassuring for such a speedy reconstruction of the southern states as shall insure genuine and permanent peace.—Rep.

What Can Congress Do?

We will name several things which Congress can do to relieve the nation from the charge of injustice and wrong:

1. It can give the ballot to the freedmen of the District of Columbia.

2. It can make colored men legally competent to testify, and to sue and be sued in all the United States Courts in every Territory and State.

3. It can make him a citizen of the United States, entitled to all the rights and privileges of United States citizenship.

4. It can, by law, define a "Republican form of government," to mean one where all the citizens enjoy an equality of personal rights. Or, in other words, it can ordain the equality of all men before the law.

5. It can refuse to receive back into the Union any seceded State whose constitution disfranchises men on account of race, descent, color or creed.

6. It can assert, in a practical form, the primal principle of a Republican Government—that government must be by the consent of the governed. By adhering to these principles, it can establish justice, promote the common welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to all the people.

In a former communication I spoke of the treatment of unarmed and defenceless people by troops of Wilson's command, But the half has never been and never will be told. AT HOME AGAIN.

A circuit of fifteen hundred miles by stage, river, and rail performed; a month spent in travel and reunion of kindred friends, escaping perils by land and water and the treachery of the iron steed, the dispenser of all good permits us, again to commingle and communicate with the friends of the UNION. We trust that the occasion will not soon arise which will render it necessary for us to be absent for so long a time from business. (Ed Union.)

JOINT CANVASS.

The Republican and Democratic candidates for Governor, W. R. Marshall and H. M. Rice, after a cosiderable misunderstanding have at last agreed to stump the State together. Their appointments for the Mississippi River are announced. We shall notify the public of their appointments in the Minnesota Valley.

OUR TICKET.

We present to our readers the State, County and Legislative ticket complete, which for ability, integrity and respectability is not surpassed by any ticket ever presented, by either party for the suffrages of the people. We are pleased to notice that a more general expresson of the people has been taken this year than was ever known before. Of the State ticket we have already spoken, and confidently hope that the constituancy of the various delegations, will ratify the nominatios by giving the nominees an overwhelming majority throughout the State.

Our county ticket is almost without parallel in point of efficiency, honesty and popularity. The nominee for Sheriff, B. D. Pay, is long known as a stanuch republican, and an active intelligent business man. His intrinsic merit as a gentleman of reliability and promptness will render him more than a match for any man the Democracy may nominate.

Not the slightest imputation of character or qualifications rests upon our worthy candidate for Register of Deeds, Col. B. F. Smith. Always at his post, always gentlemanly and accomodating, having the confidence of the entire community, he may safely be announced as a candidate of the whole people.

The candidate for Treasurer, Mr. H. K. Lee, is a returned soldier who has fairly won his nomination through hardships endured in defence of our national unity. He is a resident of Mankato and is highly esteemed as a gentleman worthy of public trust. If his support is as unanimous at the ballot box as at the convention his election is a forgone conclusion.

Capt. Isaac Taylor is the candidate for Probate Judge. A soldier almost from the commencement of the war, he fought it out on the same line until the rebellion was crushed. From being a lawyer he is all the better fitted for the position. The office is not lucrative, but the people cannot do less than offer this slight tribute to the defender of our flag.

Z. Paddock for District Clerk, C. H. Slocum for Coroner, S. E. Stebbins for Surveyor, and Mr. Elsy for County Commissioner 1st Dist., are all well qualified and well known to the people, whose suffrages will be worthily bestowed upon them at the coming election.

The Legislative nominees consisting of G. W. Stewart for the Senate, Isaac Allen, L. G. Harrington of Mankato, and J. B. Skinner of Garden City for Representatives, are represented to us as tried and substantial citizens of the District. Hon. L. G. Harrington served in the Legislature last winter with great acceptability to the people of this district, and his renomination is an indorsement of his course in the past.

Bolting

A convention for the selection of candidates in the dominant party seldom ever concludes its deliberations without creating dissatisfaction in the minds of either some of the delegates or the people. This frequently arises from the unwillingness of a minority to abide the decision of a bare majority, and sometimes from an alleged breach of good faith among the delegates. In the recent county convention, the Mankato delegation are accused of bolting their instructions from the town caucus. The proof is positive that some of them did, and for such conduct they are certainly reprehensible, and should be remembered by the people of this town. The only justification if any, is that at the convention other circumstances and complications arise which are not anticipated at town caucus. For this reason we have always prefered that towns should select such men as they could trust and leave them uninstructed. If a town promises its vote to a certain candidate, and fails on account of the infidelity of its delegates, the party of that town is held responsible, but if an uninstructed delegate promises his vote, the breach thereof is only a matter between him and the aspiring candidate. While we would persistently demand that our conventions always be conducted in good faith, we are at a loss to know why the party at large should be compelled to suffer at the hands of professed republicans under these circumstances. We have had quite enough soreheads in this county, and it is time that we should drop intestine brawls and try our strength with our enemy. A strong ticket is presented to the people, and nothing but the grossest treachery of union men can defeat it.

GOV. PERRY'S MESSAGE.

The message of Gov. Perry to the constitutional convention of South Carolina is published. He acknowledged the failure of the rebel cause, but while counseling support to the President's reconstruction policy betrays a sentiment of hostility toward the northern union men, and the freemen, of the South. He recommends legislation which will regulate idleness among the blacks and enforce agreements between employer and employee. As involuntary servitude except for crime is abolished by the emancipation proclamation, he virtually recommends the convention to declare idleness or a breach of contract in the freeman a crime and thus upon the slightest provocation the freeman may be subjected to a servitude different from that which existed provious to the war only in point of duration. The Chicago Republican which has been before a supporter of President Johnson's reconstruction policy has been converted to at least a doubt in its successful operation upon reading the Message of Gov. Perry. The public mind as well as the press, tends gradually to the conviction, that the liberality of the President toward the rebellious states will result in nothing but the establishment of State Governments which will upon every occasion insult, bully, and cripple the national Government, and carry out with characteristic bitterness any policy inconsistent with those principals upon which and for which this war was prosecuted by the Government. Upon this message the Republican says.

"We must confess that the document is not calculated to inspire loyal men with confidence in the success of President Johnson's reconstruction policy in the south. There is an undercurrent of ill-concealed hostility to the Union party of the north—the party to which the president owes his election and to which he must look for support. Indeed, the governor, in this document, occasionally breaks out into open denunciation of the principles and measures of the great mass of the supporters of the administration. "They forgot," he says of that party, "that this is a white man's gov-"ernment, and intended for white men "only; and that the supreme court of "the United States has decided that the "negro is not an American citizen un-"der the federal constitution." This raking up of an old and long-buried pro-slavery decision, given at a time when the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of the government were under the control of that slave power which subsequently precipitated the south into rebellion, is sadly out of place. But, coming from a rebel, with the blood of his countrymen scarcely washed from his hands, it is not only in bad taste, but positively insulting to the loyal people of the United States.

He recommends legislation, in view of the abolition of slavery, to prevent the "confussion, idleness, and dissatis-"faction" which "so great and sudden "a change" must produce, and to regu-"late the relative duties of the employ-"er and employee." Those who have read the old black laws of this state—under which slavery could be perpetuated in Illinois to this day, did there exist the colored material of South Carolina as a basis and the inclination of the whites in that state as an incentive to do it—well know what sort of legislation is that which Governor Perry recommends. It is simply a negro code, to be as black in its purpose, as barbarous and inhuman in its practice, as the institution to which it is meant, if possible, to grant a longer lease of life.

—Gen. Grant has gone to Cincinnati.

A SOUTHERNER'S TESTIMONY.

The best evidence of the political condition of the Southern States can be derived from those who reside in that locality and are identified with the South from natural affinities. The statements of a party prejudicial to himself, are not only admissable as legitimate proof in court, but when they stand counter to allegations denying the same, the public at once pronounce them true. If a man candidly admits the commission of an offence, and denies it also, we promptly conclude him guilty. Conflicting statements in reference to the disposition of the southern people toward the general government, constantly greet our ears, and the public are at a loss to decide upon the mass of testimony which teems northward, and in its tendency distracts the public mind. Bearing in mind the foregoing suggestions, we produce a letter from a sotherner who was born in South Carolina, raised in Mississippi, and now resides in New Orleans. Identified from his earliest associations with the South and held there by the ties of nativity, it is natural to conclude that nothing would emanate from his pen derogatory to that section unless sustained by the facts. The letter is from Mr. Thad. McRae and is written to a friend of his, who is also a southerner but now resides in Mankato. It will be noticed that loyal men are at a discount, and that employment to such is steadily refused; that of the many publishing houses in New Orleans, but one expresses any sympathy with the Government. If disloyal capitalists are allowed to monopolize the business of the South and exercise such invidious discriminations in the choice of labor, Unionists must retire from the field and abandon the attempt to antidote the rebellious sentiment which exists at the South. If now employment is refused to the loyalist, we are fast approaching the time when our "boys in blue", will there be treated with the same consideration which characterized their treatment of abolitionists before the outbreak of the rebellion. We extract the following from Mr. McRae's letter:

"Gov. Hamilton of Texas so far has given the people to understand that loyalty is the desideratum of the times and he is not in a hurry to restore the civil power in that state. The people must wait. They must get acquainted with Uncle Sam, learn his ways, and stand "disciplined".

"As to the papers in New Orleans, there is but one loyal among us—the "Tribune" edited and published by negroes. Besides this one, we have the "Times", the "Picayune", the "Delta", the "Crescent", the "South", and the "Star of the South"—all anti-national. Of course they do not openly espouse the cause of the defunct confederacy, but they advocate universal pardon, return of all property to rebels, and some system to make the negroes work. They have much to say against the republicans, open their columns to complaining articles and refuse them to earnest and pungent pens, laud and praise the Southerners, and in short court the rebel good will. My honest conviction is that the resumption of civil rule in the South under the present regime would be a calamity to Union men. Gov. Sharkey of Miss. put in office by appointment all the old state officers of 1864, men elected under rebel domination, elected by rebels, and elected because they were rebels. He did not discriminate between the friends of Government and its enemies. But in their subsequent elections the people did. And the result is that to day the South, in her civil organization, is in the hands of men who have exerted themselves to blood to destroy the Government. Rebels have supported rebels, and Union men, who have stood by the Government through all her perils, are ignored and repudiated. Now this state of things is the consequence of the present plan of reconstruction; it is the work of the President. And the trouble is, that they will not believe at Washington the honest representations of honest patriots. But they lend their ears to such men as Hahn and Sharkey. In my travels I heard nothing but complaints and bitterness, and denunciations, cast upon the Government. And only to day a young man told me that he could not get employment among the merchants here simply because his father was a notorious loyalist. Now until loyalty becomes the sine qua non in business; especially in government business, and till disloyalty is no recomendation for position, or; in other words, till, in reality, "the bottom rail is on the top", the triumph of the Union army will be in vain. Moreover, the Southern rebels are expecting, when readmitted, to form a coalition with the copperheads of the North, and thereby secure the majority in Congress and henceforth rule, and ride, and rob, and bully the nation, just as they did before the war. And multitudes anticipate, by the same means, the abrogation of emancipation, and the revival of slavery, by the "Sovereign States". Our only hope is that Congress will reject the representatives from the South, and bid the President and the South wait till Unionism is appreciated here."

Railroads.

Col. DeGraff is pushing work on the Winona and St. Peter Railroad, preparatory to receiving the iron, which is now daily expected to arrive at this point. The people of Mantorville, and of the country beyond, are rejoicing in anticipation of the early completion of the road to that place.

Workmen are now engaged in grading the St. Paul and Winona railroad, between St. Paul and Hastings. This road is bound to be built.

The bridge across the Minnesota river, on the Minnesota Central, at Fort Snelling has been so far completed that trains are now passing over it. The road will be in running order, next week, from Minneapolis to Northfield.

Work has been resumed on the Main Pacific Railroad, running west from Minneapolis. Thirty miles will be completed within one year from this time.

The Minnesota Valley Railroad will be finished from Mendota to Shakopee this year.

IMPORTANT.

The law of last winter providing for a vote on the constitutional amendment, striking out the word "white," requires the ballot to be cast seperate from the State or County ticket. Voters should bear in mind this fact, and in case the two are printed on the same sheet, clip them apart before depositing them in the box.

The ballot used in favor of the amendment should be printed in this form, "For amendment to Section One, Article Seven," As we are not interested in the vote against the amendment it would be impolitic to announce how it may be successfully opposed.

General Sully's Expedition—Affairs on the frontier.

A correspondent of the St. Paul Press with Gen. Sully's Northwestern Indian Expedition, gives a full report of the movements and results of that column in searching after the hostile Sioux who were reported last spring to have assembled in large force at Devil's Lake, in northern Dakota. Gen. Sully, in all his long march and countermarch, was unable to find a single hostile Indian, or hear of any, and therefore returned to Fort Rice, where he still remained at the date of the letter refered to. The only Minnesota troops in this expedition are Brackett's Batalion, and these, with the rest of Sully's troops, the correspondent says, will probably be detained at Fort Rice to back up the peace commissioners now on their way to that point to effect a treaty with the hostile bands. From this correspondent's letter we also learn that at Fort Bethold there is a large village of friendly Indians, composed of Rees, Grosventres, and Mandans. They live in a compact village of dirt lodges, and appear to have abandoned in a great measure their wandering habits. Their town is surrounded by a strong stockade as a protection against the Sioux, with whom they are continually at war. They have large fields of corn, and appear to be gradually approximating towards a life of industry. Physically they appear to be in advance of most other tribes, but morally, the correspondent says, no Indian tribes have ever sunk lower than they have; and to judge from the limited resorces of information within reach of a traveler, it would appear that they are in the gradual process of extinction. The town numbers about one thousand warriors. Near this village, the expedition discovered a large coal vein, which was found to be on fire, and it had the appearance of having been burning for years. Where it was opened the cinders and ashes were found to be over four feet in thickness, and as the heat drove off the men before they reached the bottom, it is probable that the coal vein is much thicker than this. No outcropping coal was observed in the bluff, but there were indications of coal in nearly all the hills, and it is believed to exist in the neighborhood in large quantities. —Winona Rep. Sept. 23.

COLORED SCHOOLS BURNED.—The southerners and their northern allies complain that the colored people are ignorant, and, therefore, cannot be trusted to vote. This is the last argument that a democrat should use, judging from the past history of a party a great mass of which, especially in the large cities, is composed of illiterate persons. But let that pass. We learn by every paper of the south that the restrictions having been removed which prevented the education of the blacks, almost every negro may be seen with a primer or a spelling-book. But this does not suit the ideas of the so-called chivalry, and they immediately set about putting a stop to it. And the method they choose is in strict accordance with the past character and barbarities of slavery. They set to work in some districts and burn down every colored school-house they can find. This has been done in various places in Tennessee, and the outrages have become so repeated and glaring that General R. W. Johnson, commanding the middle district of Tennessee, has promulgated orders on the subject, and threatens to hereafter visit any parties committing these outrages with military punishment.

The copperheads complain that negroes are too ignorant to be entrusted with the ballot, and when the negroes strive, amid the most disheartening difficulties, to educate themselves, these copperheads burn down their school houses. But this is only of a piece with all the copperhead acts and teachings for the past four years.

STATE NEWS.

Red Wing has about 2361 inhabitants, according to the census.

A MONSTER BEAR KILLED.—Last Tuesday, about three miles south of the Lower Agency, Wm. Mills, the noted hunter and trapper, killed a black bear weighing 510 pounds.—St Peter Adv. Sept. 23.

The Mantorville Express says the grounds for the depot buildings of the Winona and St. Peter railroad at that point have been secured. The buildings to be erected this fall are an Elevator and a Freight Depot, each of about the same size as those at Rochester.

—A RICH and inexhaustable lead of gold and silver bearing quartz has been discovered in St, Louis county in this State, and has created considerable excitement especially in St. Paul. Half-breed scrip has advanced from $3,25 to $12,00 per acre. It is proved to yield thirty dollars of gold to the ton of quartz rock, by a scientific test.—Argus.

The Winona Republican, of the 16th says:

Work has been begun on the telegraph line between this city and Rochester. The citizens of that interior city doubtless think it will be a grand thing, and we hope it will. We hope the people will learn to be patient when the "line's down." We trust the Post and Republican will cultivate meekness, that they may meet with resignation the blessings of their readers, when they are obliged to head their telegraphic column with "No dispatches."

STEAM VS. HORSE POWER.—We learn that a thrashing machine, driven by steam, is in successful operation on Greenwood prairie. "They say" it works to a charm—much superior to the usual mode of operations—the motion being strong and perfectly uniform. The steam power saves the labor of at least three pairs of horses—one team being required to haul water—still, the wood and water constitute an important item in the list of expenditures, which must be set off against the saving in team labor. The steam machine threshes as fast as the grain can be got to it, no matter how hard the "hands" exert themselves. On account of the heavy expense of steam works and the difficulty in many localities of obtaining the necessary fuel and water, the general application of steam to thrashing machines may well be doubted.—Rochester Post.

ST. PAUL AND WINONA RAILROAD—Mr. G. A. F. Morris, contractor on this road informs us that he has now over one hundred men at work, and expects to have two miles of grading completed this week. He would be very glad to get several hundred additional laborers, but there is a great scarcity, owing to the lateness of the season and the number of men required on other roads. Mr. Morris will keep his force employed on the light grading until the ground is frozen, and during the winter can be advantageously employed on the bluffs below the city. Before the opening of spring, measures will be taken to get a sufficient number of laborers from abroad to push the work rapidly, if it becomes evident they cannot be obtained at home. The construction of the several railroads now under way in this State, will require a large number of laboring men for several years to come. An inviting field is open to emigrants, who will be sure of good wages, from which they can save enough in a short time to make good homes within our borders.—Pioneer.

Fatal Accident—Gold, Coal and Peat.

From Pioneer Sept 22.

Yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock, as the down freight train was coming through St. Anthony, a train tender named Andrew Welch, who resides on Fourth street near Sibley, in this city, was terribly mashed between two cars, and so seriously injured that he died in a couple of hours afterward.

Welch was coupling the cars together. One of them was under pretty good headway, and by some means Welch got his body between the buffers. The momentum of the cars almost cut his body in two, just above the hips. He was placed on the cars and brought to this city. Surgical aid was of no avail, however, and he died soon after arriving home.

Welch was about 30 years of age, and leaves a wife and child, in destitute circumstances. He had been employed on the train ever since the train has been in operation, and is said to have been an industrous and intelligent man.

GOLD, COAL AND PEPT.—A correspondent asks:

"Where is the coal we were to have in barges at the St. Paul levee by the 4th of July, 1864? There is nearly fifteen months "grace" over the time, and we have not "seen it." Where is the "peat," Mr. Editor, which caused such glaring caps at the head of the local columns of both papers, and was to "bring Philadelphia to our doors," as the pedlars say, in the matter of fuel? It cannot be that Bass has used it all up.

"And where, lastly, Mr. Editor, is the gold on Lake Superior? Hope Ossian E. Dodge will bring it along (not all of it either) and we shall not have to lower the price of "halfbreed" and also the grade of our "high hopes and slender prospects."

"EUREKA."

Maine.

The Republican triumph in Maine looms up beyond expectation. Gov. Cony's majority is 22,000, being a nett gain of 5,000 over last year. The Republicans have elected every Senator, and 134 Representatives to 17 Democrats. Last year the Democrats had 31. That is the result of the Copperhead attempt in that State to steal the old clothes of the Republican party.

—The stock of cotton on hand at Memphis is estimated at 7,500 bales. Cotton of the new crop is coming in at an average of 100 bales daily.

Freedmens Bureau.

Gen. Howard is making a tour of inspection in Virginia, to examine into the condition of the Freedmen's Bureau in that State. During the next month he contemplates making a complete tour of all the Southern States, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the new relations between the electors are sufficiently established to admit of curtailing the operations of the Bureau. The Freedmen's Bureau was designed by Congress to be a temporary arrangement to adjust difficulties arising between freedmen and their late masters under the new order of affairs, and when it shall be found that these two classes work harmoniously together, the Bureau will cease, and it will be discontinued; and it is understood to be the desire of the President that such inspection as Gen. Howard is entering upon, shall be made to ascertain definitely the actual condition of affairs between freedmen and employers of the South, which will determine whether the Bureau shall be maintained or discontinued.

Democracy in Minnesota.

The Chicago Tribune's Minnesota correspondent speaks thus of Democratic prospects; "Out side of this city [St Paul] there are but nine Democratic papers in the state. Three of these oppose Rice outright, two give him the cold shoulder decidedly, and the rest support the ticket. The Democrats have a quiet little joke over his anti-Mc-Clellan letter of last year. They say the Republicans are most fortunate, for whichever ticket is elected it will be a Republican victory. As they don't feel like laboring for such victories, you can imagine the enthusiasm (!) which prevails in their ranks.

Miscellaneous Items.

From Chicago Rep. Sept. 23.

—One hundred and thirty pardons were announced yesterday,—a large majority of the parties being North Carolinians.

—The Virginian Episcopalians have decided to postpone until the next year the question of union with the general convention.

—The first train from Kansas City, over the Missouri Pacific railroad, reached St. Louis on Thursday night, the trip having occupied twelve hours.

—Fayette McMullen of Virginia, who was formerly a member of the federal and latterly of the rebel congress, has received a pardon.

—The corn crop in central Illinois is immense, and parties in that section are anticipating as low a price this winter as fifteen cents per bushel, in view of which many persons are purchasing stock.

—Reports from Europe in regard to the cholera are alarming. The deaths in Constantinople have reached 2,000 a day. The disease has reappeared at Smyrna, and is committing frightful ravages. The cholera has appeared at Majorca and Port Mahon. In Barcelona the number of deaths average 24 per. day.

—In the trial of Wirz, yesterday, testimony was given by Dr. Hopkins, a rebel surgeon, introduced a report made by him to General Winder, in which he stated the causes of the sickness and mortality among the prisoners, and suggested measures of remedy. The evidence for the prosecution will probably close to-day. Wirz's health is so bad that it is believed he will die before the close of the case.

—A Dublin letter states that the British government evinces much anxiety in regard to the Fenian movement. A letter from the United States to an Irish paper states that the number of Fenians enrolled here on the 1st of last month was 273,581, that the object of the brotherhood is not to free Ireland, but to conquer Canada and devide it among the Irish; and that the movement is sanctioned by the American government and ruled by Secretary Seward,—which statement, of course, will be taken cum grano salis.

No lands will be sold for less than their appraised value per acre, and the right is reserved to withdraw from market any of the tracts advertised, on the day of sale.

The terms of the sale are such by law, that lands designated "Timber," seventy five per cent. of the purchase money must be paid at the time of sale, while lands denoted "Prairie," only fifteen per cent. of the purchase money will be required. When lands are not especially valuable for timber thereon, the proportion of the purchase money required down is mentioned in the proper column. In each case, the balance of the purchase money can be paid any time thereafter, from time to time, within twenty years, at the option of the purchaser; provided interest in advance at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, on the unpaid balance is paid to the first day of June, 1866, and annually thereafter.

Purchase money payable in legal tender notes.

Persons purchasing lands upon which other parties have made improvements, will be required to pay the owner of the same the apprised value of improvements, one half to be paid at the time of sale, and the balance within six months thereafter, with interest at seven per cent. per annum.

The offering of said lands will commence at 10 o'clock A. M., at the usual place of holding court, on the day specified, and will proceed in order in which they are advertised, until all are offered. No sale will be kept open longer than one day, and no lands will be sold except at public sale.

The Republican vote of 1865 was established as the basis of representation for the next two years, every 20 voters or fraction thereof being entitled to one delegate Adjourned.

DISTRICT CONVENTION.—The delegates to the convention of the 17th Legislative District met at Kasota September 27th, and were called to order by O. O. Pitcher Esq. The delegates in attendance were E. H. Smith, B. D. Pay, and O. O. Pitcher of Blue Earth County. and B. R. Laird, W. H. Andrews and W. H. Patten of Le Sueur. The delegates proceeding to business nominated Capt G. W. Stewart for State Senator and Isaac Allen Representative, both of Le Sueur, and L. G. Harrington and J. B. Skinner Representatives, both of Blue Earth County. The convention resolved hereafter to dispense with District Conventions, allowing each county to make its own nominations. This however seems to us quite impracticable as no one is authorized to apportion the legislators between the counties.—Without further business the convention adjourned.

PERSONAL.—We are pleased to announce the return of Mr. C. S. Dunscomb who is in the service of the United States as Paymaster in the Navy. Mr. D. is on furlough of sixty days and will give the citizens of Mankato the benefit of his genial presence for that length of time. It is his intention, however, if possible, to retire from the service and go into business here. He thinks he will take the risk of buying wheat this winter, and we are sure that this announcement will be pleasing to the traders of Mankato and the producers of grain. In the return of Mr. Dunscomb we shall have also an addition to our force of uncompromising, active republicans. These considerations induce us to thrice hail his appearance in Mankato.

A CALL.—Passing up the street yesterday we dropped in to see the Clothing Emporium of Randall & Smith which has just been replenished by a new and large stock of goods. Buying before the recent rise, they are able to sell 15 per cent cheaper than present prices. They invest all their money in clothing, and are thus able to keep a large variety, suitable to the tastes of every customer. It takes but a small amount of money to buy a garment at this store, because they keep cheap as well as a fine quality of goods. Boys can be fitted with an entire suit. Hats for fall and winter of every variety are also to be had at Randall & Smith's.

—A few cases of Boys boots at $21 dollars per case at Clark & Porters.

CHANGES.—Rev. G. C. Tanner, pastor of the Episcopal church of Mankato, has resigned his pastoral charge to accept the position of Rector in the grammar school of the Bishop Seabury Mission at Faribault. The Church will sustain a loss not easily compensated, by the removal of Mr. Tanner. To his persevereing efforts is the church indebted for it's present advancement and success.

During the present year the society has purchased and paid for a building lot, and purchased the brick for the erection of a church 25 by 40 which will be erected early next spring. The best wishes of the press and people of Mankato will accompany Mr. Tanner to his new field of labor.

The Rev. Mr. Day is also absent in attendance upon the Methodist Conference and his stay among us is uncertain. We doubt if the conference will furnish a minister more acceptable to the people of this church than Mr. Day. Owing to his absence the services of the Methodist Church are suspended for the present.

SELLING OFF AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.—In order to make room for their fall and winter goods Messrs. H. P. Christensen and Bros. for the next thirty days, will sell their stock of ladies dress goods, shawls, nubies, hoods, ladies shoes, clothing, woolen shirts, hats and caps, &c., at greatly reduced prices. They are determined to sell, and their figures will be placed so low as to make it an object for persons to buy. 2w.

☞If you want good. and cheap goods, go to H. P. Christensen & Bros. Bargains may be had for thirty days. No humbug, try them and see for yourselves. 2w.

—Childrens copper tiped boots and shoes at Clark & Porters.

COMPLIMENTARY.—We acknowledge the receipt of a complimentary ticket to the State Fair now being held at Minneapolis, and regret exceedingly that we are unable to attend. The editorial fraternity alone can appreciate the difficulty in leaveing an office, for any length of time, when one individual must be the embodiment of proprietor, editor, book-keeper, foreman and collector We must be content to take the report of those of our exchanges which are able to send a special correspondent for that purpose. Trusting that every respect the State Agricultural Society in this enterprise will meet with the success its importance demands.

WHITE CLAY.—Our readers will recollect a notice concerning the discovery of a beautiful specimen of clay almost white, near South Bend which was pronounced superior for pottery purposes. Mr. J. W. Gregg of Chaska who was here in July last took a sample of the clay home with him and burned it with his brick kiln. The result is that the clay turns a light granite color. duplicating that stone almost to perfection. Moulded into brick, it would make very handsome and durable building fronts.

—Call soon at Clark & Proters if you want any of those Chicago made Prairie boots.

SELECT SCHOOL.—The Woodland Seminary opened its fall session on Monday last We are informed by Miss Riggs, the Principal, that the school is in prosperous operation, and that scholars continue to arrive. We know of no school better calculated to impart knowledge successfully than the Woodland Seminary and we bespeak for it a large patronage and continuous prosperity.

SYNOD.—The Presbyterian Synod of Minnesota convened at Chatfield yesterday. The Rev. Mr. Marshall is in attendance, and will not return until the middle of next week He has however provided for services next sabbath, which will take place at the usual hours of worship.

ENLARGEMENT.—We notice that Messrs. Hidden & Hollenbeck are enlargeing their store to meet the wants of their growing trade; also that they have built a nice 12 foot plank walk in front of their store which shows a creditable interest in local improvements.

MITE SOCIETY.—The Methodist Mite Society will be held at City Hall next Wednesday evening. We are requested to say that a pleasant time may be expected.

THE FAIR.—The county fair was held at Garden City, Wednesday and Thursday, but as we go to press on Thursday, we are unable to give a report until next week.

LADIES:—You will find an assortment of good Netting needles for knitting nets, breakfast shawls, and nubias, at Slocum's News Depot.

PERSONAL.—The Winona Republican of last Saturday says that John N. Hall Esq. of Mankato was in that town on business connected with the office of Internal Revenue.

—Sportmen and Trappers will find those long legged Lap sole boots at Clark and Porter.

COMMUNION.—At the communion of the Presbyterian last sabbath fifteen persons were baptised, and six admitted to the church, five by profession of faith and one by letter.

POST OFFICE.—We are informed that Mr Gude has received his commission as Postmaster of Mankato, and will take possession about the first of October.

It is written in plain language for the general reader, and is illustrated with upwards of one hundred engravings, All young married people, or those contemplating marriage, and having the least impediment to married life, should read this book. AN Illustrated Catalogue, containing full description of style, and testimonials of the most eminent Musicians, as to the superior excellence of our instruments—will be sent free to any address.

THE AUTOMATIC ORGAN

In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly announce the greatest triumph in musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments, with double bellows. and two pedals for the feet to operate but the want of the reversed or Exhaustion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich, and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated.

Another objection to this method of blowing was that, both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell Within the past two years, instrumetsn constructed on this European plan of "double blowers," have been manufactured in this country, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an apperdage is nearly impossible.

Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of tone. We predict for this invention a brilliant future.

THE MELODEON & SCHOOL ORGAN.

For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly. With our increased facilities, we feel warranted in assuring our patrons that their orders will be promptly met, and solicit a continuance of their patronage.

ARRANDALE & CO., Manf'g Agts.
No. 167 Broadway, New York.

Announce that all of the above list of goods will be sold for One Dollar each.

In consequence of the great stagnation of trade in the manufacturing districts of England, through the war having cut off the supply of cotton, a large quantity of Valuable Jewelry, originally intended for the English market, has been sent off for sale in this country, and must be sold at any sacrifice. Under these circumstances, Arrandale & Co., acting as agents for the principal European manufacturers, have resolved upon a great Gift Apportionment to be divided according to the following regulations:

Certificates of the various articles are put into envelopes indiscriminately, sealed up, and when ordered, are taken out without regard to choice, and sent by mail, thus showing no favoritism. On receipt of the certificate, you will see what you are to have, and then it is at your option to send the dollar and take the article or not Purchasers may thus obtain a gold watch, Diamond Ring, or any set of Jewelry on our list for One Dollar.

SEND 25 CENTS FOR CERTIFICATE.

In all transactions by mail, we shall charge for forwarding the certificates, paying postage and doing the business, 25 cents each, which must be enclosed when the certificate is sent for. Five certificates will be sent for $1, eleven for $2, thirty for $5, sixty-five for $10; one hundred for $15

WHAT THE "PRESS" SAY OF US.

The Lafayette (Ind) Daily Courier, March 18 1865, says: A better selected, more varied or fashionable assortment of jewelry cannot be found on the continent than Arrandale & Co., are now offering. Messrs. Arrandale & Co., occupy a high position in commercial circles as men entirely above the common trickery of trade. Their statements may be implicitly relied upon, both as to the character of their goods and the manner of disposal. Ladies especially, in all parts of the country, are realizing handsome profits as agents, and if any of our fair readers desire to interest themselves in this enterprise they may do so with perfect confidence.

We have inspected, at the office of Arrandale & Co's Agency for European Manufacturing Jewellers, a large assortment of valuable and fashionable jewelry of the newest patterns. We also noticed a large quantity of silver plate and understand that the whole of these newly imported articles are to be disposed of on a novel principle giving great advantage to buyers, and affording extensive employment to agents We know the firm in question to be very respectable and thoroughly worthy of public confidence, and recommend our friends to read their advertisement.—N. Y. Albion, September 3, 1861.

The British Whig, of Kingston, C. W. says Nov. 26th, 1864; One of our lady subscribers became an agent for Arrandale & Co. and by request brought some twenty articles sent as prizes for her agency, to this office for inspection and without hesitation we can state that each and all of the articles were worth treble the amount of cost to the recipients, and some of them six times.

AGENTS—We want agents in every regiment, and in every town and county in the country, and those acting as such will be allowed ten cents on every certificate ordered by them, provided their remittance amounts to one dollar, also other inducements which can be learned on application. Agents will collect 25 cents for every Certificate, and remit fifteen cents to us, either in cash or postage stamps.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhoea, or seminal weakness Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity; Impediments to Marriage, etc, also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

In each case, the balance of the purchase money can be paid any time thereafter, from time to time, within twenty years, at the option of the purchaser; provided interest in advance at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, on the unpaid balance is paid to the first day of June, 1866, and annually thereafter.

Purchase money payable in legal tender notes.

THROAT AND LUNGS,

Diseases of those organs are so prevalent and dangerous that a reliable Medicine is a necessary safeguard in every community. In such a remedy for family use, the absolute absence of danger from accidental overdoses, freedom from poisons, and the adaptation to patients of every age and condition, of either sex, is indispensible. These qualities are most combined in this preperation, and so admirably is it adapted to the cure of all diseases for which it is recommended, that its entire influence is bro't to bear against them, and so perfectly assist nature in its efforts to rid the system of disease, that the most delicate constitution can use it with perfect safety and a fixed certainty that a RELEIF AND A CURE WILL SPEEDILY FOLLOW

FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c.,

in one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the Skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect HELMBOLD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA. It cleanses and renovates the Blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought for, and now, for the first time the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upwards of 30,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basis, Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works:

See Dispensatory of the United States.

See Professor DEWEES' valuable works on the Practice of Physic.

See remarks made by the celebrated Dr. PHYSIC, Phila.

See remarks made by Dr. EPHRAIM McDOWELL, a celebrated Physician and Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland, and published in the Transactions of the King and Queen's Journal.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon. Being now used to the exclusion of all other Bitters in more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only popular medicine, which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the U. S. government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞They are made of ingredients well-known and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strengthening properties to correct the bilious derangement of the system and act like a charm when taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases;—Indigestion Dyspepsia, Liver Affections, Jaundice, Loss of Appetite Lowness of Spirit, Sallow Complection.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases, arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters has induced me to give them publicity; so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞Ladies who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, unpalatable and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system. If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters have him send for him. Remember the name and take no other.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS!

☞The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical journals, and having been adopted as a standard remedy by the Medical Profession are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXEMPT FROM STAMP DUTY.

FINKLE & LYON'S

SEWING MACHINES.

THESE Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do; will Hem, Fell Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tention, or making any adjustment of Machaine whatever!!!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood; and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

These are PECULIAR FACTS, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

OH!—The following pathetic poem is to be read before breakfast, and just after getting out of bed :

IT'S SO.

BY E. P. HUSTON.

Four years ago,
In the South below,
Traitors did blow,
And strut and crow,
Making a great show,
Saying J. D & Co.
Would let Yankees know
That whether or no,
Out THEY WOULD GO
In a manner not slow ;
For with Lee and "Beau,"
Old Johnston Joe
And others, you know,
They would strike such a blow,
'Gainst the Yankee foe,
That in six months or so,
Abe. Lincoln & Co.
Would much frightened grow,
And be glad to say so.
Did this turn out so?
Most emphatically, NO!
They continued to blow
Their bragadocio
Until six months ago
They began to "go slow,"
For U. S. Grant & Co.
Caused traitors to know
That their "cake was dough,"
And the rest you all know.

Select Miscellany.

Singular Life--Work of a Lunatic.

Has any one noticed the miniature fort at the upper end of Blackwell's Island to the north of the Lunatic Asylum? It is the work of an insane man, who spent half his life upon it. He lost his mind in Mexico, or somewhere else where high privates were in demand, and just escaped being Mr. Armstrong, or Parrott, or Whitworth, by going crazy.

Gunnery was what ailed him—and fortification. As he was found to be quiet, and harmless, obedient to his monomania, they gave him entrenching tools and told him to fortify the island. He took the geographical and geological bearings with the sagacity of a West Pointer, and concluded that any attack upon it would come from the south. So he devised a seacoast battery with bomb-proof, approached by a dike with sluices and gates, and mounting heavy ordinance.

There was never a more patient worker for humanity or patriotism than this poor addle head. Nobody else being insane upon the same point he could get no assistance. All the other monomaniacs had oil on the brain, or poetry or capital punishment, or negro suffrage, and were quite as devoted as he upon their several claims.

So the old soldier, with a heavy sigh and a brave heart, took his single shovel and commenced to build the whole fort by himself. He wheeled barrow after barrow of earth into the sea, tugging from morning till night, until at last he raised a narrow causeway from the main land to a rock at the end of a long sand bar. With pebbles and shells and stones from the river, he walled this causeway until it became permanent. All this was not a month's nor a year's work ; year after year passed over his gray hairs but he kept on wheeling, wheeling. The great city and the great island, required protection, and he was making its ægis. So he went on like the men who threw up the Charleston redoubts, and for fear that he might be too late to his task he left his bed in the asylum altogether and built himself a hut close to his place of labor. Here he slept and dwelt, in the company only of his assuring conscience ; and when at last his path was done, he set to work at his fort.

The result of all these years is before us. His battery is sodded green with parapet, berm, ditch, magazine, revetments, abbattis, and it mounts mock or quaker guns, upon carriages of capital construction, looking from the sound toward Hell Gate, like real arbiters of dominion.

The old lunatic is worn and failing but he is not satisfied. His fort is done but not his whole duty. So he has projected a water battery and sea-wall around the entire island, and means to bring to bear upon it all the knowledge of Vauban and Todleben. When the island is impregnable he will wrap his mantle about him and die at his battery.

For the truth of this story let any one passing up the East river look upon the island tip, and see the old man ditching and building, and the little fort near him bristling with popguns.—Scientific American.

WIRZ.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.

Some very interesting developments were made in the Wirz trial on Thursday. One of Wirz chosen witnesses was identified by a government witness as the wretch who kicked a Union prisoner to death. The detected criminal was arrested. It seems that Wirz's appeal for aid has brought him only about two hundred dollars, so that several of his witnesses, not being able to meet the expense of staying in Washington, have left the city. It also appeared in evidence that Howell Cobb once made a furious speech to the rebel soldiers at Andersonville, in which he encouraged the hanging of prisoners, expressed his opposition to the taking of any prisoners, puffed Wirz as an excellent commander, and said he would hang President Lincoln if he could catch him. A Southern witness, a resident of the neighborhood of Andersonville, described the condition of the stockade as frightful, and said the stench was so great that it was perceptible two miles off. The testimony to the brutality of Gen. Winder was very clear and important, showing his utter heartlessness, and that if his words were to be taken literally, he fully premeditated the death of the prisoners by maltreatment.

HARD ON DEMOCRACY.—Harper's Weekly which was one of the strongest defenders of democracy before the war, speaks thus harshly but truthfully of the corrupt thing. It says: "The national prestige of the Democratic name is gone. The name of Democracy is indissolubly connected with treason, rebellion, and civil war. Under Democratic ascendency the conspiracy was conceived and matured. Under a Democratic Administration it ripened. By Democratic chiefs it was directed. By Democratic politicians it was defended and excused. By a Democratic Convention it was declared triumphant. By Democratic organs and orators, as far as they dare, the theories from which the rebellion sprung are still justified. The Democratic party has forced its best men from its ranks. It has prostituted a noble name to the basest purpose. At some time that name may become respectable, but for the present the American people have had quite enough of "the Democracy."

The Alabama Convention.

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 25.

An ordinance declaring the act of secession null and void was unanimously adopted by the Alabama state convention to-day, after having been debated the entire day.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—A special dispatch to the Chronicle, dated Montgomery, Ala, Sept. 25, says: "No vote has been taken concerning the state debt. It has been referred to a committee, who will report on it in a day or two. Everything is going on most satisfactorily for the cause of the Union."

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—A special, dated Montgomery, Ala., 25th, says: "There has been great excitement in the convention to-day, and spirited speeches between straight-out Union men on one side and the conservatives and secessionists on the other, on the subject of secession, occasioned by the two reports. The majority report declared the so-called ordinance of secession to have been entirely unauthorized, and that it was and is null and void. The minority report was laid upon the table by a vote of 68 to 26. The minority party then amended by calling the act of secession extra-constitutional, which was carried by a vote of 58 to 36. The majority-report party subsequently viewed this as the springing of a new mine upon them by the minority party, and an exciting discussion took place, when the amendment was withdrawn. The minority party then offerred an amendment declaring the ordinance of secession unconstitutional, which was voted down by 50 to 34. The majority report, as originally reported, was then adopted by a unanimous vote of 92, and the ordinance of secession was declared null and void.

A SOLDIER ON COPPERHEADS.—At the anniversary of the 86th Ill., regiment on the 28th of August, Col. R. G. Ingersoll, of Peoria, made a speech, saying among other good things, the following:

This is not a political meeting, and yet I forbear saying a word or two concerning the soldeirs' friends. There are men here in our midst pretending to be your dearest and best friends. They belong to a party, some of whom, (I will not say all) were not your friends when you were fighting the battles of your country. They laughed at your wounds, they sneered at your scars, they mocked the corpses of your comrades, they hoped for your disgrace, they prayed for your overthrow and death, they despised the cause for which you were battling, they were the allies of your murderers.

Now you have reached home covered with glory, you are welcomed by the true people of the North, you are radient with success and the very men of whom I have been speaking crowd around you and say they were your friends. Beware of them all! They do not want to help you, they want you to help them. When they come tell them that you have no faith in their sincerity till they bring back the thirty pieces of silver, the price of your blood ; tell them to go and follow to the bitter end the example of their illustrious leader.

Census of Chicago and Cook county,

We give to-day a tabular statement of the census of Cook county and the city of Chicago, which contains some interesting facts relative to the growth of both. To illustrate the increase in the population of the city, we subjoin the following statement of the population for a series of years:

June 1845	12,088	June 1855	80,000
September 1846	14,169	August 1856	84,113
October 1847	16,859	August 1860	109 260
September 1848	20,023	October 1862	138,186
August, 1849	23,847	October 1864	169,353
August 1850	29,963	July 1864	178,539
December 1853	60,652

The population of the county is 217,309. There are 35,668 persons capable of bearing arms in the city, and 41,304 in the country. There are some curious facts disclosed in the returns, not the least of which is the comparatively large number of persons over 50 years of age and this in a new country. There are in the country 4,842 white males and 3,788 white females between 50 and 60 years of age ; 1,879 white males and 16,083 white females between 60 and 70 ; 485 white males and 501 white females between 70 and 80 ; 95 white males and 84 females between 80 and 90 ; 8 white males and 10 white female between 90 and 100 ; and two white females over one hundred years of age. The total of white males in the country is 110,573. The total of white females is 104,307. The number of colored persons of all ages is, males 1,159, and females 1,213. This is a comparatively small number, and does not agree with the democratic theory that the tendency of the freedmen is to invade the free states in large numbers. As long ago as 1850, we remember that the colored population reached between 700 and 1,000. Now it is but little more than double these figures, and so small in numbers as to be scarcely appreciable in its effects upon the social condition of the people generally.—Chicago Republican.

A Democratic Protest.

Petroleum V. Nasby protests, as a consistent Democrat, against the nomination of soldiers by his party. He writes :

I object to nominatin em fur the follerin reasons :

1. Taint honst. In 1862 I called the soljers "Linkin purps," and the orfisers "shoulderstrapt hirelins," and I meant it.--Tney wuz wagin a cruel and unholy war agin Dimocrisy, they wus redoosin our magorities in the sutheru states at the rate uv sum hundreds per day, and now to nominat em is a flop I'll never make

2. Twon't pay. These fellers sold us out when they took commishuns, they sold out the Ablishnists when they flopt back to us, and what guaranty have we that they wont sell us out the next turn of the wheel? Ef we cood git sum decent wuns, it might do, but, good Lord! the soljers who wood do this wood be lower than we is, which wood bother a man. All the votes that sich men cool controle, we hev alluz owned in fee-simple.

3. Taint justis 2 us original copperheds. We endore the heat and burden uv the day ; we resisted drafts, we dammed taxes, we wuz Fort Fafayeted and Fort Warined, twas us who died in our door-yards. Where wus these orfisers then? All the damage they dun the guvernment was in drawin pay and rashens.

4. The reconstructed dimocrisy uv the South wont like it, and to them, after all, we must look for success.

5. They acknowledged nigger equality by allowing niggers to fight with em.

6. We have gone 2 fur to try the soljer dodge. We opposed the war, we opposed the votin, we opposed the Ablishin in votin pay and supplies, we opposed Aid Society, and laff at Santary Commishns, we opposed drafts at a time when they needed help, and to go back on sich a record is ruther renchin, and I wont do it.

7. Ef we undertake the soljer, we commit ourselvs in paying his penshuns et settry. How would the suthern Dimocrisy like that.

8. Ef we nominate men who served, we disgust the deserters and them ez went to Kanady for the sake of the coz.

Mr Nasby appends the following advice to his party :

We have cappytle enuff in the Nigger.—Let us plant ourselves boldly on sure ground. Let us Resolve that Goddiemity was rite in making the Nigger our slave, tho he made a mistake in plantin in his heevin buzum a cronic desire to run away from his normal condishn. Let us hang out our banner and inscrib on its folds, 'No marryin Niggers!' 'No payin a debt inkurd in a Nigger war!' 'Protect us from Nigger equality!' and sich other precepts ez cum within range uv the Dimekratic intellek, and go in and win.

May the Lord hasten the day.

Fall of Colonel Jacques—A Painful Case

From the Louisville Union Press, Sept 25

The fall of such a man as Colonel Jacques is sufficient to arouse the sorrow of every man who knows the former worth of the gallent Jacques. He was one of the first and most influential of the Methodist denomination in Illinois. When that body established a female educational school in Jacksonville, he was placed in charge of it. He managed it with such talent and success that when a greater educational enterprise was projected, he was transferred to it. He was engaged in this when the rebellion commenced. Colonel Jacques was a man of intense loyalty, of commanding influence and of great oratorical ability. He took the field in behalf of the Union and speedily raised one of the finest regiments that Illinois gave to the service of the nation. It was called the preacher's regiment, on account of the number of preachers enlisted in it. Of this regiment Jacques was made colonel, and he served with great distinction.

During the process of the war, Colonel Jacques had numerous conferences with Bishop Simpson, and both were well satisfied that if a Methodist of proper position in the north could get among the southern Methodists much might be done toward crippling the rebellion. This mission Colonel Jacques undertook, with the approval of Bishop Simpson and of Mr. Lincoln, . Colonel Jacques bravely met the peril, and traveled extensively among the southern Methodists. He returned just before the battle of Chickamauga, and took a conspicuous part in that battle.

Colonel Jacques was the companion of Mr. Gilmore in a visit to Richmond for an interview with Jeff. Davis, in which mission they succeeded. This visit was intended to bring about peace.

The colonel has recently been detailed for breaking up the negro camps, such as Camp Nelson. This is the cause of his presence in Kentucky.

On Friday last Colonel Jacques employed a fellow calling himself Dr. H. G. Miller, to procure an abortion in the case of a Georgia woman. The colonel was present during the tragedy, and was arrested with the female abortionist, at whose house the murder was perpetrated and with Miller, the abortionist, the murderer of innocents. The victim died in about eight hours after Miller commenced his depredation. The whole party was arrested in flagrante delicto and are now in jail, the coroner's inquest having amply confirmed all the suspicions that led to the inference of the police. Mr. Turner, the policeman, saw signs of the outrage in progress, and made his preparations for arresting the guilty parties, in which, as we have said he succeeded. We do not rejoice in iniquity, and we cannot but drop tears of sorrow over the fall of such a man as Colonel Jacques.

Robert E. Lee.

From the Union Press,

The praise, fulsome and disgusting, which streams from the Southern press, and is copied in our papers, of this great traitor, sickens and fills with loathing every loyal mind. If Lee had genius to command an army, was his treason less criminal because of his genius and the magnitude of his effort? Because Brutus had genius was he the less an assassin because of it, and the greatness of his victim? If genius can cover up crime, then the parricidal attempt of the former and the homicide of the later stand justified in history. The blood of the murdered patriots cry with sixteen thousand voices from sixteen thousand graves at Andersonville for vengeance, not upon the head of the instruments—Capt Wirz and General Winder—but upon the heads of the principals—Jefferson Davis and Robert E. Lee. Never during the period of consumation of that great crime—when thousands of soldiers belonging to the armies of the United States were starving, naked and sick unto death, without covering from the cold dews of the night or the burning sun of the day, crowded in great pens of filth like swine for slaughter—never we say, was the voice of him who had more real power in the rebellion than any other man, never was heard the voice of this great patron saint in remonstrance to the treatment of the prisoners whom he had taken in battle were receiving. This man, Lee, flesh, blood, bone and nerves, belonged to the United States Government, yet he not only turned traitor, but led in the desperate attempt to destroy his country, and permitted by his silence thousands of his country's soldiers to be destroyed by the most of horrible of means.

Yet the trustees of Washington College, Virginia, in congratulating themselves that Lee accepts the Presidency of their college, says: 'He presents a new and interesting phase of his grand and heroic character—a character than which no more perfect model exists among living men' 'Let the young men of the country North as well as South, profit not less by his precepts than by his great example.' There, now, did the mind of mortal man ever conceive or the genius of loyalty and patriotism dream of such bare-faced impudence? Truly a teacher par excellence of patriotism and loyalty for the rising generation! Surely his precepts are treason and his example is death! If not so taught our government may die when another Robert E. Lee is found to lead another rebellion.

During the exercise at the breaking of the ground for the commencement of the Lynchburg and Tennessee railroad at Lynchburg, a clergyman solemnly slowly read a manuscript prayer. At its conclusion an old negro man who had been resting with one foot on his spade and his arms on the handle, and looking intently in the chaplains face, straightened himself up and remarked very audibly: "Well, I reckon dats de first time de Lord's eber been writ to on de subjec of railroads."

There is a good deal of excitement in religious circles in New York upon the subject of episcopal clergyman exchanging with ministers of other denominations. Bishop Potter has remonstrated against it in a pastoral letter, but the so-called low-church clergymen continue the practice. On Sunday evening last the Rev. Dr. Storrs, a Congregational minister of Brooklyn, preached in the church of the Rev. Dr. Tyng in sixteenth street, while the Rev. H. W. Beecher sat as one of the congregation in the minister's pew. The subject will no doubt be brought up in the approaching general convention of the Episcopal church.

Negro Suffrage in Colorado.

The election recently held in Colorado has resulted in a complete triumph of the Union party, and the adoption of the new state constitution. The proposition in favor of negro suffrage was defeated. It is claimed, however, that notwithstanding this, the territory is thoroughly loyal, and this fact is proved by the readiness with which it filled its quota of troops, and also by the tenor of public sentiment, as shown in the ordinary elections.

APOLOGETIC.

We trust the readers of the UNION will pardon us for devoting an unusual amount of space in the report of the democratic convention of Blue Earth county, held at the City Hall last Saturday. The Record places us under obligations for numerous lengthly communications, which purport to be detailed recitals of the proceedings of republican town and county conventions, and as we do not wish to be out done in gallantry we have attempted to reciprocate these favors, and occupied a space in our columns quite disproportionate to the importance of the occasion.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES.

The organ of Blue Earth democracy in its last issue informed its readers that the prospects of that party were never more flattering then at the present time, and advised the convention, which was about to meet, to put forward "our best men," and success was easily accomplished. The convention, however could not see the point of "success easily accomplished," and did not nominate "our best men" but placed on the ticket more than half republicans, so that if defeated it would be a republican defeat. They reasoned that it was much easier to defeat republicans on their own ticket than by opposing those regularly nominated. If these republicans consent to run on the democratic ticket their success will be a republican victory accomplished by the democracy. We hardly think this dose will be palatable to the double dyed copperites who declared the war a failure, and volunteers a bevy of fools. As Bill Davis said, "I was opposed to Bob, he is'nt true blue, the d——d republicans, it won't do to trust them." And this is the true sentiment of the larger proportion of Blue Earth democracy. The more respectible and intelligent portion of the democracy took no interest in their party nominations and repeatedly refused to accept even the best offers of the convention. The flattering prospects of which the Record so flippantly spoke were throughly repudiated by the party who consider their candidates as of the devoted few who for party's sake are willing to bear the chagrin of defeat.

A FANTASTIC SOMERSAULT.

Robert Roberts, or as he is more familiarly called. Bob, was a prominent candidate before the republican convention for the nomination of Register of Deeds. He failed to obtain it, first, because he did not receive votes enough, and secondly, it is alleged that if the towns of Mankato and Garden City had obeyed their instructions, he would have received the nomination. If this be true beyond a reasonable doubt, Bob, has every reason to complain of these towns, whose delegates should be held accountable for such repudiation. But did his defeat before the convention necessarily result from the action of those delegates? Mankato was instructed for Bob, while Garden City was simply instructed to oppose Col. Smith. Bob was entitled to the votes of Butternut Valley, South Bend, Judson, and Mankato which amounted to twenty ballots. Twenty-four were necessary to a choice, and if the other delegates had divided on two other candidates the convention would have been at a dead lock and no one could have received the nomination. Or if they had combined upon any one other than Col. Smith, Bob, would have been beaten and he could not have the least ground of complaint. Whatever may have been the cause of his defeat it is unjust to the party and the principles which have given it vitality ever since the rebellion had an existence, to hold it responsible and seek its defeat, when the wrong is properly chargeable to a town delegation.

But Bob's skin is not as the leopards, he can change his spots, and that too for the purpose of beating the regular nominee of a party to which he has professedly adhered for years up to the date of the late democratic convention. To this body of patriots (?) whose watchword has been dishonorable peace, disunion, disgrace, he sells himself in the following catechetical style:

"Are you in favor of negro suffrage?"

"No, sir."

"If you are nominated in the democratic convention, will you vote the entire ticket?"

"I will."

"Will you use your influence to secure the Welsh vote for the entire democratic ticket?"

"I will, sir."

"Will you if elected stand true to the democratic party, and use the influence which attaches to the office against the interest of the republican party and in favor of the democracy?"

"I will."

This is an extraordinary case of sudden conversion and admission upon profession of faith without probation, and upon these credentials Bob was made the nominee of the democratic party for Register of Deeds.

HEAVY ARTILLERY.

The remaining companies of the Minnesota Heavy Artillery, numbering forty-four officers and nine hundred and eighty-one men are on the way from from Nashville to Fort Snelling to be mustered out. At the time of our going to press they probably have arrived at St Paul.

CONVICTED.

Pryor, who has recently been court martialed, for the murder of Stillfox both of whom were soldier on their way from Fort Ridgely to Fort Snelling at the time of the commission of the deed, has been sentenced to be hung at the Fort on next Wednesday the 10th inst,

Since sentence was passed upon him a visit of habeas corpus has been issued to test the jurisdiction of military courts when the civil law prevails, The result is not yet known.

—Hon. C. D Gilfillan of St. Paul who was prominent before the late Union convention as a candidate for the nomination of Governor of this State, was married on the 26th ult at Pennsburg Pa. to Fannie S. daughter of the Rev. Dr. Waage of that place. Mr Gilfillan is still in favor of Union, and this is universally the case with the ladies, to a man.

LITTLE SIX AND MEDICINE BOTTLE.
To be hung Oct. 11th.

These two Indians who were captured and brought to Ft. Snelling last winter have been tried by a military commission on the charge of participating in the murders, massacres and other outrages committed by the Sioux Indians upon the white settlers in Minnesota, The commission found them guilty and submitted their decision to the authorities at Washington for approval. The findings and sentences were approved, and an order for their execution at such time and place as the commander of the Department of the Missouri should direct was received on the 25th ult. Gen. Pope, Department commander, has authorized Brevet Major Generel Corse commanding the District of Minnesota to designate the time and place of the execution. On Saturday last Gen. Corse issued the following order:

SPECIAL ORDERS, NO 202.

1. The sentence of the Military commission in the case of Tah ta-chash namanne, alias Medicine Bottle, and Shakopee, alias Little Six, as published in General Court Martial Orders No. 508, Current Series, War Department, A. G. O., will be carried into execution under the direction of Col. R N McLaren, Second Minnesota Volunteer Cavalry, 1st Sub-District, at Fort Snelling, Minnesota, on Wednesday, the 11th day of October, proximo, between the hours of 12 o'clock meridian, and 3 o'clock, P. M. of said day.

By command of
Brevet Maj. Gen. J M CORSE
Capt. R. C. OLIN, A. A G

—THE Stillwater Messenger says that the tow boat Minnesota took out on Saturday evening last, fourteen large rafts, The recent advance in the price of logs and lumber has given a new impetus to the rafting business, both in the St Croix and the Chippewa. Large quantities of lumber continue to come down the river daily; for this place and points below. The advance does not operate to diminish the demand for lumber, and our dealers are still making heavy sales.

The Chicago Times and St. Louis Republican, democratic paers, denounce Gen. Slocum for his military interference in Mississippi. The Albany Convention adopted a resolution condemning the subordination of the civil to the military rule and by implication the act of Gen Slocum. Yet the Albany Convention nominated Slocum as the representative of their principles, who trampled their platform under his feet by his order in relation to the Mississippi militia.

By order of Governor Wells, a state and congressional election will be held in Louisania on the 6th of Nov.

THE COUNTY FAIR.

The seventh annual fair of the Blue Earth Agricultural Society took place at Garden City on Wednesday and Thursday of last week. Although the exhibition of stock was not so large as desirable, the vegetable kingdom was well represented; and the department in charge of the ladies, displaying articles of their handywork such as paintings, artificial flowers, needle work, &c., reflected much credit upon their taste and skill. Quite a number of "fast nags" were on the premises, exciting some interest, but as no premium was offered for speed, the racing was devoid of system or special attention.

Through some misunderstanding the address of Mr. Buck was not delivered.

As compared with the State Fair ours may be considered a complete success, through there is ample room for improvement.

It is encouraging for the future advancement of the society that its officers can proceed in their labors with the prestege of previous financial success. The premiums and all other expenses of the fair are paid from its proceeds and a small surplus remains.

—Matamoras is being beseiged by the liberals under Gen. Escabedo: The garrison numbers 1,800 men, and the beseiging forces 2,500 or 3,000. The evacuation of Sonora was caused by the insubordination of the Juarist soldiers, who refused to do any further service. The imperial government is engaged in obtaining lands from wealthy proprietors for transfer to immigrants. The French have occupied Acapulco, Alvarez withdrawing.

The State Fair.

Cor. of the Winona Republican.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 28, 1865.

Two days of the seventh annual fair of the Minnsota Agricultural Society have now transpired, and I hasten to give you a few impressions concerning it. As an exhibition of agricultural products, implements, machinery, stock, etc., it is almost a failure. The conveniencies for travel from the best agricultural districts of the State to Minneapolis are too meagre, the work of the farmer is too pressing, to expect much from them in the way of contributions for exhibition. As a cosequence the little that is entered, is chiely from Hennepin and Ramsey connties.

The show of horses is sespectable in point of numbers, and the quality by no means to be despised; and yet, with the exception of half a dozen, I could any day when wheat is coming in plentifully in Winona, select from the teams of farmers, an equal number that would bear favorable comparison with those on exhibition.

Among the cattle, I noticed three bulls and two cows, pure blood Devons, entered by Dwight Hall, of St. Croix county, Wis., that were really fine specimens of that superior breed of cattle, which, by the way, on account of their hardiness, their superiority as working oxen, and fine fattening qualities, render them peculiarly adapted to this country. There were other fine cattle on exhibition, but with few exceptions, they were very ordinary. A few fine wool varieties of sheep that were fair; perhaps a score of swine—all of which, by the way, were really fine specimens—and we exhaust the catalogue of live stock on exhibition at the Fair.

Floral Hall, with the exception of the vegetable department, is hardly more to be commended. There might have been a larger display, but the quality of potatoes, onions, pumpkins, squashes, melons, beets, and indeed, all the vegetables on exhibition, I never saw excelled at any State Fair. But in the exhibition of small grain—the department of husbandry in which our State is acheiving a name and fame throughout the world—three specimens of wheat, two of buckwheat, one of oats and one of timothy seed, comprised, as the auctioneers say, the entire lot. And what is still more surprising, one sample of the wheat was very good No. 1; the second contained some oats, and the third was very foul, with wild buckwheat, arranged probably so that the judges could easily award the first, second and third premiums. Another remarkable fact impressed me, that in a State where for the breadth cultivated, agricultural machinery, particularly reapers and mowers, is used more than anywhere else, not one was on exhibition.—Two or three churns, as many washing machines, and one in which the two were combined, a couple of sewing machines, and the list of machinery is complete.

In the way of fruit, a very few clusters of grapes commence and end the catalouge. Not an apple, pear, plumb or other variety was there visible.

I was pleased to see some really excellent samples of woolen goods, manufactured by Eastman, Gibson & Co., of Minneapolis, who, I learn, have a manufactory so extensive that they are producing one thousand yards of cloth per day.

A very creditable exhibition of pictures from the Photograph gallery of H. A. Smith of Minneapolis, decorated one of the niches of Floral Hall. But if in the extent and quality of the contributions for exhibition, the Fair is not what it should have been, in a pecuniary way it must be a success. It was estimated that on Wednesday, the first day, there were three thousand people on the ground, and to day there were fully six thousand. The grounds are well adapted and arranged for the purposes for which they have been set apart. Neat and commodious buildings, stalls, pens, and all the appliances necessary appliances for convenience and accommodation, are bountifully provided. Nor can I omit, in this brief notice, so important an appendage as the dining hall, a room large enough, I should judge, to seat about four hundred at the table, and so adequate had been the preparation to feed the crowd, that though the first table sat down at 12 o'clock, and so fast as one set had dined another were rushed in to fill the tables again, and so dense was the crowd that I was not able to get in till near 4 o'clock, and even then after some three thousand were fed, I very unexpectedly obtained a good dinner. Possibly nine hours' fasting may have prepared me for very indulgent criticism.

A prominent and very attractive feature of the fair with many is the races. But your correspondent, never having been a member of a jockey club and possessing little taste for exhibitions of that sort, and further believing them evidently out of place as connected with industrial exhibitions, injurious and pernicious in their tendencies, is unable to furnish a report.

The great feature of the Fair, however, and the one that exerted the largest influence in attracting the crowd and that will leave the longest impression, was the address given by Mr. Greely, to-day. It occupied about an hour and a quarter in its delivery, was given extempore, and was replete with sound practical advice and suggestions to the farmers. I have not the time nor you the space to give even an epitome that would do anything like justice to the address.

From the St. Peter Advertiser.

There is no greater satisfaction to St. Peter people, so far as the State Fair is concerned, than to learn that Wright's roan horse "Butcher Boy" has borne off the palm in two straight mile heats, for $100,00 purse. This was on the 27th, at Minneapolis where the Fair was held.

It would be superfluous to more than state that the race in which the roan was entered, was the great and exciting race of the Fair. But four horses were entered; and those, save Wright's roan, supposed to be the fastest in the state.

The only horse that held the roan a "pull," was Gray Eagle, a truly fast horse, but not fast enough to come sqarely up to the roan. Gray Eagle was a St. Peter horse, and was taken to St. Paul to raise that town out of the sporting mire,—it having no "nags" that would do to bet largely on.

—The state department has recently issued a notice, requesting American citizens having claims against foreign governments, originating since 1853. to forward statements thereof to the department without delay. These claims will include those for damage done by the Anglo-rebel cruisers.

—The Erie railroad company has been offered a loan of five million dollars by English capitalists, which will probably be accepted. No proposals have been made for the amalgamation of the Erie interest with that of the Atlantic and Great Western.

—The $90,000 belonging to Mrs. Gen. Ewell, which was libelled by the United States attorney at St. Louis in Januay last, has been ordered by the attorney general to be restored to the legal representatives of the lady.

—The Kentucky delegations in Washington, headed by Gov. Bramlette ask, as necessary to the adoption of the constitutional amendment by the next legislature, the removal of Gen. Palmer from his command, the withdrawal of negro forces, and a greater concentration of troops on the borders of the state.

—Within the last two days, 600 pardons have been granted: and it is announced that the whole number now awaiting consideration will soon be disposed of.

—A life of Mrs. Surratt is being written by Mr. Aiken, one of her counsel.

—The Atchison and Pike's Peak railroad has disposed of one million dollars of its bonds in England, which, with the local subscriptions and the government subsidy, will secure the completion of the line.

—A fire at La Salle, Illinois, on Wednesday night, destroyed the works of the Northern Illinois Coal and Iron company, causing a loss of $75,000 to $100,000. Hopes are entertained of a repair of the damage by the middle of December.

—A Set of good school books for sale at less than half price at the News Depot adjoining the post office. The same as those now in use in public schools.

—A splendid assortment of sheet music, music books, guitars, violin and guitar strings blank books, &c., just received by express at Slocums News Depot.

—Boots, shoes, leather, belting and rivets at Clark & Porters.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—The St. Peter Tribune of the 4th inst. mentions the death of Thomas C. Wright a son of Thomas C. and Lizzie N. Wright of that place. The boy was three years old and playing at a capstan in the street which was employed for the purpose of moving a building, turning it round, when portions of it gave way and fell upon the boy's head killing him instantly.

DEMOCRACY OF MARTIN.—We are informed that a Democratic town meeting was called in the town of Fairmount in Martin county, and responded to by three men. It is also represented that the County Convention was still more slimly attended. Democracy in the county is worth about three per cent, almost as much as Confederate bonds.

—Johnson at No 3 Front Street says he is receiving a heavy stock of goods for the fall trade. This we know to be true as we saw the goods going by. These goods were bought before the rise, and will be sold low. Satisfy yourselves by giving him a call.

MASONIC.—Sir Knight A. T. C. Pierson of St Paul a leading mason visited this place this week on business connected with the Masonic order.

We are informed that on Wednesday he formed a commandery of Knights Templar, Knights of Malta and Knights of the Red Cross. The officers were duly appointed and installed.

RAILROAD LANDS.—Elsewhere will be found a notice of the Minnesota Valley Railroad company, concerning the sale of railroad lands in Brown, Watonwan, Nicollett and Blue Earth counties. It is a matter of congratulation to this county that these lands are offered for sale. Some of the most valuable lands in the county belong to the company. See the advertisement.

COLD WEATHER.—From the late frost we are reminded that the summer is ended, and the sun withdrawing far to the south bids us replace its rays for a time with artificial heat. Stoves must be brought into requisition and we know of no better place to buy parlor, dining room, or cooking stoves than at John Meaghers at the City Hall building. His new stock which is daily arriving includes every variety and will be sold at smaller proffits than any other stoves in town. Iron, nails, sash, glass &c, will be sold on the same terms.

VALUE OF METAL-TIPPED SHOES FOR CHILDREN.—An acquaintance who has three children, informs us that since he commenced buying tipped shoes (one year ago) he has saved the price of new boots for himself.—Commercial Bulletin.

IMMIGRATION.—A resident of Martin Co. informs us that people are swarming into that county, for the purpose of locating under the homestead act. His estimate is that the population of the county has at least doubled this summer. The soil of that county is represented as superior in strength of vegetation to the tier of counties east of it, and those who are emigrating thither will never have occasion to regret it on account of the unproductiveness of the country.

—By your boots and shoes of a regular dealer and have a choice amongst a thousand pair. Clark & Porter is the place.

FRUIT TREES.—Chas. P. Cook advertises this week his nursery productions, such as apple, cherry and ornamental trees, flowering shrubs currant bushes, pie plant and straw berries, &c., This nursery is at Rapidan about nine miles from Mankato, and it is but a pleasant drive to go out and examine his grounds. Now is the time to secure a variety of fruit and ornamental trees, which should utilize and adorn every homestead.

SAD CALAMITY.—Last week Thursday a daughter of Mr Dobie of Sterling who was engaged at a sugar cane mill, caught her fingers between the rollers which drew them in until her entire hand and wrist was crushed to fragments. We understood that Dr. Francis was first called, and deciding that the hand must be amputated, a messenger was dispatched for Dr Clark of Mankato who was then attending the Fair at Garden City. As his instruments were here, the sufferer was obliged to remain without relief until early next morning when the Dr severed the hand above the wrist. The daughter is about twelve years old and doubtless appreciated the measure of her loss.

NEW HALL.—The new public hall being built by Jas. Shoemaker Esq. is nearly completed. The seats which are built of pine, will soon be ready for use, while another coat of plaster and the hanging of his splendid lamps will constitute the finishing touches. It is arranged to accommodate the Lecturer the singer, the tragedian, and every other variety of entertainment and is the largest in the city. As the winter approaches we trust that the citizens of Mankato will be able before the buds blossom again to banquet upon many an intellectual feast within its walls.

—At Randall & Smith, you will find the only complete assortment of hats and caps in town.

SIDEWALKS.—M. T. C. Flower & Son of the Clifton house have let the job of building a twelve foot pavement the entire length of their premises, 88 feet. We are glad to see so much pride exhibited among our business men in this particular. On second street we observe that Wm. Hoer of the American House has built on each side of the hotel a substantial side walk which adds much to the appearance of the premises. Mr. Shoemaker has also built in front of his new hall a sidewalk running from Randall & Smith's to Johnson's Store.

—Clarke & Porter have engaged T Larson and are ready to make a nice Fine sewed boot or shoe.

MORE SETTLERS.—We received a call on Tuesday last from Rev. John Peterson a Swede minister of the Baptist denomination from Carver county in this state. He has just returned from a tour west of Mankato in search of homestead lands. He, together with three other Swedes, located on even sections in the town of Ceresco, and will draw thither next season at least twelve familes from Carver county, in whose behalf these gentlemen are exploring the country. They report themselves well pleased with Blue Earth Valley and will without doubt form the nucleus of a respectable and thrifty settlement of Sweeds.

POST OFFICE.—Mr. L. H. Gude took possession of the post office on Monday last, retaining as his deputy for the present, Mr. B. Sibley. We trust that Mr. Gude will fulfill its duties in a manner that will rebuke the grossly unjust and unscrupulous charges of incapacity which disgraced the columns of the Record last summer. The Record is now willing to give him a fair trial but so long as there was any prospect of giving trouble to the Union party, Mr. Gude was made the vehicle of abuse to gain that end.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—Mr. Chauncey W. Jones of Jo. Davis town Faribault county, met with a severe and painful accident while pitching hay on Wednesday last. He was standing upon a wagon, and while lifting a fork full of hay the rack broke and threw him on to a sharp stake standing in the rack, which penetrated his side, breaking one rib, and passing seven inches inward to the right lung. Dr. Winch of Blue Earth City was called and dressed the wound. It was thought at the time that he could not survive, but at the latest date we learn that he is yet alive with a fair prospect of recovery.

—We clip the following notice of Singers Sewing Machine from the Utica Daily Observer, Sept. 15.:

FIRST PREMIUM.—By reference to the list which we publish elsewhere, it will be seen that the Singer Sewing Machine (both family and manufacturing) carry off the first premiums from the State Fair which closes to day. It is worthy of remark that these machines are rarely seen at fairs and the Singer Co. have not entered into the general scramble for premiums which has characterized the past few years. The agent in this city saw fit, however, to come out on this occasion, in force; and notwithstanding the competition was sharp—the Wheeler & Wilson, Grover & Baker, &c. &c., joining in the contest—it was plain to be seen, when the practical tests were applied that the "plumes" must be handed over to the Singer machines. These celebrated machines can be had of D. Wilcox, Mankato.

PUBLIC SCHOOL.—Another month has passed in which the walls of a school building sufficiently large to meet the necessities of Mankato, might have been erected, and the only tangible evidence of any educational system in Mankato is a log school house of very limited dimensions. Our building committee are terribly slow-coaches to say the least. Perhaps they don't care to encourage immigration through the channels of educational advantages. But we judge that the main difficulty is that if a smaller building were erected, the committee would be at a loss to know how to dispose of the surplus funds. They are now courting bids which will sweep up the whole ten thousand dollars for the building, leaving nothing to furnish it with, and the building is not to be completed till next season. The vote of the school district instructed the committee not to build at all, unless they built such a house as they could finish this fall. The proposals which they now make are in direct violation of their instructions, and a contract made under them would be utterly void, and liable to repudiation by the school district.

SELLING OFF AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.—In order to make room for their fall and winter goods Messrs. H. P. Christensen and Bros. for the next thirty days, will sell their stock of ladies dress goods, shawls, nubies, hoods, ladies shoes, clothing, woolen shirts, hats and caps, &c., at greatly reduced prices. They are determined to sell, and their figures will be placed so low as to make it an object for persons to buy. 2w.

At Slocums' Agency, adjoining the post office, families can get their knitting done quicker and cheaper than they can do it by hand. When stockings can be knit for fifteen cents a pair, and thirty pairs in a day, we imagine the ladies will not do much of their own knitting.

MEETING OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.—The county commissioners of Blue Earth county are hereby notified that a special meeting of the board will be held at the Register of Deeds Office in Mankato, on Saturday, October 14th, 1865, for the transaction of important business. By order of,
ANDREW HANNA,
Chairman,
Mankato, October 6, 1865.

DEPORTMENT.—As the term of District school in this place just closed, the following schollars were found to have excelled in their several classes:

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.—The democracy of Blue Earth County met at the City Hall on Saturday last the 30th inst to nominate county and legislative officers. The meeting was called to order by John C. Wise of the Record who, after performing this little duty, shot out of the hall hat in hand, and streamers flying, and with such velocity that we imagined he was going out to spend the afternoon. As a matter of record however it is but just to say that he did not quite forget his first love, but returned in time to advise Bill. Davis not to make such a clown of himself as the UNION reporter was present and might make a note on't. The chairman whose name we beleive is Walker, no one volunteering, inducted himself to the hickory basket, his peculiar attitude and quiescent meekness reminding us of the lad which Pharioh's daughter found in the bulrushes. The chair did'nt seem to know what he wanted until, after a lengthy pause, some one suggested that he might want a scribe, to record the proceedings. It was therefore moved and carried that he needed a secretary. It was then moved that he should have one if they could procure one. It was then moved and carried that S. F. Barney Esq. act in that capacity. Mr. Barney objected, but in the confusion we could only gather fragments of his remarks, which, however, we believe were to the effect that he was no more fit to be secretary of that convention than he was to practice law before a coroner. Upon further reflection he overcame that inborn characteristic of modesty for which he is already noted, and accepted the flattering compliment.

Thus organized, a committee on credentials reported delegates present from ten of the seventeen towns, the entire delegations numbering twenty-six. Meantime the convention adjourned fifteen minutes, some to take a 'smile," and some to "corkus," while some desired to throw off for a moment the dignified constraint and exalted deportment which pervaded that deliberative body, and join hands in searching for bargains, and determining on the square who should sell or be sold.

The programme was at length arranged and upon convening again, Wm. Hoer was nominated by acclamation for County Treasurer. The convention balloted for sheriff giving Walbridge of Garden City 17 and Dakin of South Bend 4. Dakin is a democratic soldier and Walbridge a republican returned volunteer. At this juncture our friend Davis to whom the convention was greatly indebted for keeping up the general interest and using scriptural terms by way of enforcing his ideas, swore that Dakin had more than four votes and charged the convention with having a nigger concealed in the wood pile. He proposed an adjournment for just five minutes to hunt up that nigger. The convention took a recess, and such a "huntin" for niggers and "smiles" and for candidates we never before witnessed. Assembling again another republican in the person of Bob Roberts was selected for Register of Deeds. For Surveyor Mr. Barney offered the name of Bill Davis who declined because he was no more fit for surveyor than Barney was for a lawyer. A man by the name of Keith who was not present was nominated. Mr. Wiswell was proposed for Probate Judge but declined because he was as unfitted for it as Barney was for a lawyer. J. K. Wilson of Garden City who was absent was saddled with the infliction. Mr. Barney was proposed for Clerk of the Court but deeming himself as well fitted for that position as he is to practice law he wisely declined and J. Q. A. Marsh another absentee was nominated. There being no one present as fit to be Coroner as Barney is to be a lawyer, the convention gratefully acknowledged the superior qualifications of our republican friend John Fricholtz, and by an overwhelming vote declared him their choice. About this time a leakage in the building caused the democracy to flow promiscuously downward, and without ceremony or any tin pans to catch it in, the flavored essence of those "air g r e a t principles was fast oozing away. When the writer left, the chairman and one voter still remained and were engaged in an effort to divide the house on a question of adjournment.

—Trojan or Marseilles and other styles of paper collars at Randall & Smith.

ARRIVED.—Rev. David Tice, who is appointed minister for the Methodist congregation has arrived, and preached his first discorse last sabbath. The indications are that Mr. Tice will prove unusually acceptable to the church. He inserts this week a Church Directory, which we presume means that the public shall not only be advised of the time of service, but that they are also desired to attend.

FIRST PREMIUM.—The Grover & Baker Sewing Machine received a first premium at the State Fair at Minneapolis, triumphing over all other machines, and it deserves a place in the front rank of those excellent institutions. Wherever this machine is exhibited, the same result follows, for it only needs to be tried to be appreciated. C. H. Slocum, of this place is agent for these machines, and we are informed, is doing a good business. His sales have averaged one a week since he received the agency.

THE AUTOMATIC ORGAN

In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly announce the greatest triumph in musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments, with double bellows, and two pedals for the feet to operate but the want of the reversed or Exhaustion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated.

Another objection to this method of blowing was that, both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell. Within the past two years, instruments constructed on this European plan of "double blowers," have been manufactured in this country, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an appendage is nearly impossible.

Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of tone. We predict for this invention a brilliant future.

THE MELODEON & SCHOOL ORGAN.

For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly. With our increased facilities, we feel warranted in assuring our patrons that their orders will be promptly met, and solicit a continuance of their patronage.

Caution to purchasers.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

Tennessee.

If Tennessee and her sister states in rebellion are to be restored to their unconditional sovereignty in the Union, we see no reason why the law may not be kept busy for years to come on all our officers and soldiers who have burned fence rails, destroyed bridges, occupied houses and lands, and assessed rebels within the last four years Of course the legal processes of the sovereign states of Tennessee and Louisiana must be respected in Minnesota and Massachusetts. In that day won't Ben. Butler catch it? Gillmore may yet be sued for all the damage he did to Charleston and Burnside for destroying somebody's cabbage garden in the explosion of a mine before Petersburg.

Investigation of Indian Affairs.

The Hon. A. W. Hubbard has returned from his trip to the Indian Agencies up the river, where he has been taking testimony as one of the Committee of Investigation appointed by Congress. We understand that much important testimony has been taken which may lead to good results. It would be premature for us at this time to speak of the facts thus obtained. But the investigation is to be continued, and the Judge expects to leave in a few days for the Winnebago Agency.—Sioux City Journal.

PERSONAL.

Mr. W. W. Story, the celebrated American sculptor, lately in this country, has returned to Rome, taking with him a commission for a statue of Mr. Everett.

Mr. A. T. Stewart, the rich dry goods merchant, is building a house in the Fifth Avenue, New York, which is to cost $800,000. In order to clear the site, he tore down the famous mansion which Sarsaparilla Townsend built some ten years previous at a cost of about $200,000. Mr. Stewart is married but has no children.

It is but little known that the first anti slavery paper started in the United States was published in East Tennessee. It was called the Emancipator, and published at Greeneville, the home of President Johnson, by Benj. F. Lundy, a Friend in religious faith, and a native of Belmont county, Ohio.

Maj. John Hay, late private secretary of President Lincoln, and now secretary of the United States legation at Paris, has been promoted by President Johnson to the rank of Colonel in the United States volunteers. In order to reconcile his stay abroad with his new dignity at home, the President has been good enough to grant him, as a colonel, a leave of absence of three years, which, no doubt, would be willingly prolonged, in case of Mr. Hay's usefulness at Paris should make his presence there desirable to the government beyond that period.

The Hon. Mr. Grennell, of Iowa, has signified his intention of appearing in Congress, at its next session, in cloth of Iowa manufacture. The wool from which the cloth is to be manufactured was sheared from Mr. Grennell's own sheep It is to be made into cloth and dressed at Davenport. He sent thirteen fleeces, 130 pounds, of wool to the factory to be worked up for the purpose of making the cloth. He says he wishes to wear what is fabricated at home as an argument in favor of protection.

Sharp Shooting.—Rev Mr Mathews, in his book of 'all collections,' tells a story of Governor Morris and Bishop Moore. At a dinner-party Mr Morris, who was about to sail for Europe, said to the Bishop:

'My reverend friend I have just made my will, and I have bequethed to you my whole stock of impudence.'

Bishop Moore replied' 'Sir you are not only very kind, but very generous; you have left me my far the largest portion of your estate.,

Mrs. Moore, the good bishop's wife, immediately added: 'My dear, you have come into possession of your inheritance remarkably soon.'

—The following States vote on negro suffrage this year: Connecticut, special election, Monday, Oct. 2; Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Iowa, at their regular elections. The question was separately voted upon in Colorado, but the result is unknown.

The Nashville Union prophesies that the work of disintegration of the M. E. Church south, commenced at Lexington and Newport, Ky., will continue till the church south will be shorn of a very large portion of its strength, both of clergy and laity.

—It is reported by the freedmen's bureau commissioner in Mississippi that the colored people there are much alarmed at the militia project of Governor Sharkey, and are arming themselves to [illegible] expected workings. He also [illegible] that no confiscatory proceedings have taken place, on account of inability to carry them through.

—The arrest in Prussia of natives of that country who have become American citizens,—for non performance of the military service required by the Prussian law,—continues to be a subject of comment in the papers of that country. A Berlin letter expresses the belief that a convention relieving American [illegible] citizens from military obligations to their native country would receive the sanction of a large majority of the Prussian legislature.

A new locomotive for the Winona & St Peter Railroad came up this morning by the Favorite. She is named the "Mankato," was built at Patterson N. J., and is of the same class as the Rochester and the Owatonna. The company also received 4,000 "chairs," which number will be sufficient to lay about ten miles of track.—Winona Rep.

THIS GREAT NATIONAL THOROUGHfare is again open for

Freghts and Travel.

The Cars and Machinery destroyed are being replaced by New Running Stock, with all recent improvements; and as the bridges and Tracks are again in substantial Condition, the well-earned reputation of this Road for Speed, Security and Comfort, will be more than sustained under the re-organization of its business.

In addition to the unequalled attractions of natural scenery heretofore conceded to this route the recent troubles upon the border have associated numerous points on the road between the Ohio River and Harper's Ferry, with painful but instructive interest.

FOR THE HEALING OF THE NATIONS

GOOD NEWS TO ALL MANKIND.

THE REMEDY FOUND AT LAST.

It will cure Influenza and Sore Throat.
It will cure Croup every time.
It will cure Asthma and relieve Consumption
It will cure Whooping Cough.
It will cure your Cough.
It will prevent Consumption.

It cures all if the directions are strictly followed, or the money will be refunded.

That Cough which you are neglecting may result in fatal Consumption, if some prompt remedy is not used

Why sacrifice your life when your disease can be cured so quickly and at so small a cost?

What is the value of Money when compared to Health?

MORSE'S EXPECTORANT

Is warranted to break up the most troublesome cough in an incredibly short time. There is no remedy that shows more evidence of its merit than this for curing

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Difficulty in Breathing, Asthma, Bronchitis, Laryngitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of patients in the advanced stage of the disease.

Morse's Expectorant is a vegetable anodyne, prepared expressely to meet the constant demand for a safe and efficient remedy for diseases of the

THROAT AND LUNGS,

Diseases of those organs are so prevalent and dangerous that a reliable Medicine is a necessary safeguard in every community. In such a remedy for family use, the absolute absence of danger from accidental overdoses, freedom from poisons, and the adaptation to patients of every age and condition of either sex, is indispensable. These qualities are most combined in this preperation, and so admirably is it adapted to the cure of all diseases for which it is recommended, that its entire influence is bro't to bear against them, and so perfectly assist nature in its efforts to rid the system of disease, that the most delicate constitution can use it with perfect safety and a fixed certainty that a RELEIF AND A CURE WILL SPEEDILY FOLLOW

As Time—the great developor of Events—advances, these truths becomes wider and better known, and this Medicine has already become a simple necessity, with a growing demand, unprecedentd in the history of Medicine—the natural results of its INTRINSIC MERITS.

A single trial is all that is necessary to establish the fact that it is the most efficacious remedy ever offered to suffering humanity.

This medicine is put up in 50,75 and $1,00 bottles and warranted to contain more and better material than any similar medicine introduced to the public in a medicine.

HELMBOLD'S

GENUINE

PREPARATIONS.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED" COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings.

This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the matter of calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for men, women and children.

H

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

For weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion, attended with the following Symptoms:

Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves, Trembling,
Horror of Disease, Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision, Pain in the Back,
Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin, Eruptions of the Face,
Universal Lassitude, Pallid Countenance,
Muscular System.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes), soon follow—

FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c.,

in one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

E

In many affections peculiar to Females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, and for all complaints incident to the sex, or in the

DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE,

BLOOD! BLOOD! BLOOD!

Helmbold's

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA,

For purifying the Blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all scaly Eruptions of the Skin,

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect Helmbold's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla. It cleanses and renovates the Blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy that could be relied on has long been sought for, and now, for the first time the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoction as usually made.

O

HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH,

An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upwards of 30,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, &c. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should stand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basis, Induction for its piller, and Truth alone for its Capital.

L

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—in vacuo—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following works.

The Oath of Loyalty.

The democratic journals have broken ground against the oath passed by congress in July, 1863. The agitation has been commenced by the New York democrats, and will no doubt, be continued by the entire copperhead press of the country. This oath is required of "every "person elected or appointed to any of-"fice of honor or emolument, civil, mili-"tary, or naval, or any other depart-"ment of the public service, except the "president of the United States." It is as follows:

"I solemnly swear that I have never voluntarily borne arms against the United States since I have been a citizen thereof; that I have voluntarily given no aid, countenance, counsel or encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility thereto; that I have neither sought nor accepted, nor attempted to exercise the functions of any office whatever under any authority or pretended authority in hostility to the United States; that I have not yielded a voluntary support to any pretended government, authority, power, or constitution within the United States hostile or inimical thereto; and I do further swear that to the best of my knowledge and ability I will support and defend the constitution of the United States, &c."

The appeal of this oath would render the election of such men as Jeff. Davis, Robert E. Lee, Judah P. Benjamin, P. G. T. Beauregard, John Slidell, James M. Mason, Henry A. Wise, Jubal Early, John C. Breckinridge, Wade Hampton, John S. Mosby and others of that class of men to congress certain. The southern people, conquered but still rebels at heart, admire these men and their principles. If they had their own way they would send no man to congress who had ever been suspected of loyalty to the old flag.

But perhaps the democrats of the north, feeling the need of leading minds to once more carry the party forward to place and power (for it is certain they have a plentiful lack of able men in that party since the rebellion deprived them of their great chiefs,) are anxious to have these men back in their old seats in congress. If it is for this reason that they want the oath of loyalty repealed, it would certainly accomplish the end sought. Their chief aim, however, no doubt, is to make it morally certain that not a man will be elected from the seceded states who is not sure to vote with the democratic party.

One effect of allowing men as those named above to sit in congress, is that it would give the rebels power to control the finances of the government in their own interest, either in the way of payment for damages during the war, or of the assumptions of the rebel debt.

The people must see in all these movements of the democratic party an evident intention to legislate the southern states back into the Union, simply for the purpose of once more getting the party into power, and placing it under the lead of the same men who used their authority to destroy the Union.—Chicago Rep.

Negro Suffrage in Connecticut.

On Monday last a special election was held in Connecticut upon a proposition to amend the constitution so as to extend the right of suffrage to colored persons. The returns so far as received leaves no doubt that the people have rejected the propositions and the enfranchisement of the negro is again postponed. This result was not altogether unexpected. Old prejudices are not overcome in a day. Five years ago the propositions could not have received a hundredth part of the vote it received on Monday. It is a mere question of time. Connecticut has not yet reached that point where she could rise above the old hatred and habits of a past age; but she has progressed amazingly. Negro suffrage has been rejected for the present, just as many other acts, of progress have been rejected when just presented. But its success eventually is certain, and the postponement of justice is only for a very brief time. The failure in Connecticut only indicates the necessity of greater union and labor in other states, and still further proclaims the necessity of a constitutional law establishing a uniform qualification for suffrage; a qualification not founded upon color or property, but upon intelligence.

The people of Connecticut have not been in rebellion, the number of negroes there is comparatively very small; the future strength and stability of the Union do not depend upon the admission of the negro to the privilege of the ballot. But the circumstances are different in the rebel states. There the vast majority of the loyal population is black, and it is a question almost of life and death for the future peace of the country, whether the political power and control in these states be withheld from the loyal and placed exclusively in the hands of the rebels. Connecticut and every other loyal state may decline admitting negros to the right of voting, but that in no way meets the necessity which exists in the south for giving the political power to the only portion of the people who are truly loyal.—Chicago Rep. Oct. 4

South Carolina Convention.

The South Carolina state convention has adjourned, after a session of fifteen days. During its session, it repealed the ordinance of secession, abolished slavery, established equality of taxation and representation in the senate, gave the election of governor and presidential electors to the people, directed that legislative votes should be given viva voce, indorsed President Johnson, made provision for a code for the protection of colored people, appointed a committee to visit the president in behalf of Jeff. Davis, Gov. Magrath, and Mr. Trenholm, nominated James L. Orr for governor, fixed the election for governor and legislature on the 18th of October and the congressional election in Nov., and provided for an extra session of the legislature on the 25th proximo. Gov. Perry it is understood will be sent to the United States Senate.

Political.

OHIO.—Valllandingham is viorously stumping the copperhead district of Ohio for the "democratic" ticket, and giving the stampede hero of Cumberland Gap an energetic support for governor. He is received with more enthusiasm and draws larger crowds in the copperhead counties than any other demagogue they have on the stump. He confines his speeches chiefly to four points. First—Bitter denunciation of free negroes. Second—Repudiation of the national debt. Third—Ardent "support" of President Johnson's scheme of reconstruction. Fourth—The good time coming, when the northern copperheads and southern confederates will be again united and form the "national democracy." This last is in fact the great point of the entire copperhead programme, and Vallandigham speaks out of the abundance of his heart when he dwells upon it with more unction than on any other portion of his speech.

The supporters of the Union ticket in Ohio estimate the probable majority of Gen. Cox at 50,000.

KANSAS.—A convention of colored people, and their friends, of Kansas, is announced to assemble at Leavenworth on the 4th of October next. The objects of the assembling of this convention are to put on foot an organized movement for the purpose of amending the constitution of that state by striking out the word "white" in that instrument, and thereby securing the equality of the colored people at the ballot-box and before the people. The second object is to exert their influence toward securing negro equality in the reconstruction of the southern states, in order to give the balance of power to the Union party of the north, in its efforts to reconstruct the government.

VIRGINIA.—There is likely to be some trouble about the October congressional election in Virginia. The law requires that the commissioners shall be appointed by the court, but there are now no commissioners to appoint them.

As the time for the election of congressmen in Virginia approaches, the canvass increases in interest; especially from the fact that the citizens are awakening to the alternative of electing loyal men or being deprived of representation in the next congress. This is the leading feature of the political speeches now being made throughout that state, and is the strongest argument of the loyal candidates. Very few are now running for congress who can take the oath of qualification of representatives, and several have for this reason withdrawn from the contest. Thus far only one candidate, B L. Barbour, of the third district, announces that he can conscientiously take the test oath. A special meeting was held in Manchester, near Richmond, on Wednesday night last, at which speeches were made by Messrs Ridgeway and Cox, candidates for congress, and Mr. McRae, candidate for the senate. Mr. Cox, admitted his inability to take the oath imposed by congress as a candidate for membership, annouced his withdrawal from the canvass. John W. Syme of Peterburg, "for reasons which it is unnecessary to trouble the public with," declines being longer a candidate for the Petersburg district. Thus is the long list of candidates thinning out.

Alex. H. Stephens.

The Louisville Journal makes the following interesting remarks:

Mr. Stephens, ex Vice President of the ex-confederacy, upon being offered his choice whether to remain in Ft. Layfayette and take his chance of pardon, or leave the country never to return, has, it is said, chosen the former. There may be reasons that we are not aware of for the course pursued by the government towards that distinguished man, but his case seems to be a peculiarly hard one. When so many of the most prominent of the actors in the late rebellion are pardoned and so many paroled, some of them having led armies against the Federal armies, it appears difficult to understand why the eminent Georgian, he who struggled so earnestly and at so much personal and political peril against secession, and who was no doubt more moderate and less unpatriotic in council than any other member of the confederate government, exposing himself thereby to the denunciation and the obloquy of almost the entire Southern press, is kept in prison, having the privilege of escaping from it only by becoming an exile from his country till death.

While we were in Richmond last winter, there was a general report one morning of the death of President Davis, and it was believed. The question of the successorship, of course, excited both interest and anxiety. By the confederate constitution, as by ours, the Vice President would succeed the President, in case of the death of the latter, but there was a declaration of prominent rebels, that Stephens must resign, or be assassinated—that he would not be permitted to fill the Presidential chair. How strange, that one so obnoxious to the master-spirits of the rebellion, for his opposition to their views and purposes, should be treated with apparent harshness by our authorities.

How Wm. L. Yancey Met His Death—A Strange Statement.

From the Nashville Rep. Banner, Sept. 28.

As you enter the cemetery at Montgomery, and turn to the right, you will perceive a colonade of maple trees leading off to a quiet glen. Beyond is a grassy knoll, and to the left you approach a pleasant level of greensward. Here you will be tempted to pause before a plain slab of white marble of the most humble description: "Wm. L. Yancey." His last words were: "Put me out of sight," and it is said that he was constantly muttering, toward his latter end, those lines of Pope:

> "Let me live unseen, unknown,
> And unlamented let me die
> Nor mound, nor monument, nor stone,
> Tell where I lie."

His death was quiet and painless, after a year of acute physical and mental suffering. He was a strict churchman; a man of quiet manners; a handsome declaimer, and a fair scholar. He was never wealthy, and it is understood that he left his family without an independence.

The time has come when the circumstances of his last illness and death, with the occasion which suddenly convulsed a frame from perfect health into a wreck, and a mere shadow, may be mentioned as a historical fact. Wm. L. Yancey came to his end by violence. It was toward the close of the second session of the first Confederate Congress, that he broke from the counsels and influence of Mr. Davis, and became, with Mr. Henry S. Foote, a leader of the opposition. Mr. Sen. Hill, a senator from Georgia, had likewise changed his front and was remarkable for the earnestness, personal interest and persistency with which he sustained the measures of the administration to which his allegiance had been given but late in the day. Mr Yancey, it will be remembered, had returned from an unsuccessful tour to Europe, and was representing Alabama in the Confederate senate.

The question of a navy was under discussion in secret session. The debate ranged beyond parliamentary limits, and Messrs. Yancey and Hill became animated over the abstract doctrines of State rights and the divinity of slavery. High words passed, and finally the lie was given by Mr. Hill. Mr. Yancey leaped forward, and as he aimed a blow at his adversary, was caught in the arms of the latter and violently thrown back over a desk. Mr. Hill is a man of wonderful muscular development, Mr. Yancey was never a very heavy man, though lithe and active. In the fall his spine was injured seriously, and when the bystanders rushed upon the two and dragged the one from the other, the great fire eater lay unconscious upon the floor, with a little trickle of blood oozing from his lips. He was carried to his hotel; a vote of secresy was passed, and the encounter hushed up. No one in Richmond except that body of men knew of the circumstance for six months after. Meanwhile the victim did not recover. He drooped from day to day. He became listless, hopeless and vacant. He was transferred to his own home, where his convulsions ceased a few weeks before his death, which was tranquil and calm.

Attempted Robbery by a Brigadier General.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The Herald's Washington special says that about the middle of last month Gen. Baker received information of a plot at Lynchburg, Va., to rob the Post Quartermaster's safe of a large amount of money it was known to contain. The case was worked up, and has resulted in the arrest and incarceration in the Old Capitol prison last night of Brevet Brigadier General J. C. Briscoe, of the 109th Pennsylvania Volunteers, commanding the post at Lynchburg, and A. W. Lackey, of Worcester, Mass., formerly a sutler at that post.

Gen. Briscoe is an Irishman by birth, and has since been in command of the post at Lynchburg since Lee's surrender. Capt W. A. Alberger, son of Canal Commissioner Alberger, of New York, has been Quartermaster at Lynchburg, and had in charge on the 21st of Sept. $120,000 in greenbacks, besides a large amount of captured gold, and bullion, which had been placed in his charge for safe keeping. Briscoe approached Alberger through Lackey, and proposed to him that, as the war was about to close and none of them had made money out of it, they should make a grand haul in concert, and pocket $50,000 each apiece in a flash. Alberger kept the funds in a safe which formerly belonged to a rebel officer, and this fact was to give color to the charge, which was to be made, that the ex rebel officer, having a duplicate key to the safe, had robbed it. Briscoe was to arrest the Quartermaster, his clerks, and half the people of Lynchburg, to avert suspicion. The General took an impression of the key in wax, and sent it with Lackey to Philadelphia to get the key made. Alberger, ostensibly in the plot, informed the Secretary of War, and two or three of General Baker's officers were sent down to Lynchburg to arrest the guilty parties. These parties saw, through holes in the ceiling of the office General Briscoe come in while the clerks were gone to dinner, saw him unlock the safe with the false key, take out three packages of greenbacks, and load himself down with coin and bullion; to the amount of nearly $150,000, having previously ignited paper and cloth with a view of burning the building. They followed him across the hall of his own office, and burst in on him while counting and arranging the money behind his bolted door. The wax mould and false keys were found upon him, and the proof was indisputable.

Crime by Magnetism—A Curious Charge.

The readers of Hawthorne will remember the fanciful idea of the author in the "House of Seven Gables," whereby young Maule, the carpenter, holds a malign magnetic influence over the beautiful Alice Puncheon. A similar case in real life has occurred in France lately, if the statement of a correspondent of the London Times may be believed.

"An extraordinary and I believe an unprecedented case has just been tried at the Assize Court of the Var. A young man of twenty-four, named Castellan, presented himself at the house of a respectable farmer named Hughes, and pretending to be deaf and dumb, obtained supper and a night's lodging. In the morning he persuaded the farmer's daughter a modest girl of twenty six, to run away with him, and the indictment alleged that he obtained an influence over her entirely by means of magnetism. The moment she came to her senses she was filled with remorse, but whenever he magnetized her she was a mere instrument in his hands, and submitted to whatever he told her. Three doctors of Toulon gave their opinion in accordance with that of Dr. Tardieu, of Paris, and many other medical men of the highest reputation, that it is possible, by means of what is called magnetism to obtain such an influence over a young girl as completely to annihilate her will. Castellan boasted of his magnetic power while standing at the bar, and offered to magnetize the presiding judge. He actually tried to magnetize the Procureur Imperial, and frightened him so much that he angrily ordered the prisoner to lower his eyes. Being found guilty by the jury, he was sentenced to twelve year's imprisonment with hard labor."

Very Trying!

A correspondent writing from Mobile says: While on my way to supper last evening, I walked up the street with an old gentleman who is engaged in the type-setting business, or in tormanizing others who are, and he told me he had just returned from a visit to one of the cemeteries of the city. "I went out there a great many years ago," said he, to help bury a printer, and I remember that his grave was but the tenth one there. Now, instead of ten, I find there are at least ten thousand; and when I looked abroad this evening over that little wilderness of green hillocks, and thought of the many tears and breaking hearts that have been since I stood there at the burial of that poor printer long years ago, it made me feel sadly, and I was tempted to say that I would'nt swear any more."

I replied that the thought was rather a solemn one, and that if it should cause him to break himself of the ugly habit of swearing, his visit to the cemetery would turn out to be the best Sunday evening's work he had ever done.

"Ah," said he, "you have never acted as foreman in a newspaper office, or you would know that a sight of all the grave yards in creation could not break me of that habit. Why sir," he continued, "if there had been a printing office in Heaven, and Lucifer had been the foreman of it, I'll be——if he hadn't fallen a thousand years before he did!"

Facts as to Advertising.

The advertisements in an ordinary number of the London Times exceed £2500; the annual advertising bills of one London firm are said to amount to £40,000; and three others are mentioned who each annually expend £10.000. The expense of advertising the eighth edition of the Encyclopædia Brittanica is said to have been £3000. In great cities nothing is more common than to see large business establishments, which seem to have an immense advantage over all competitors by the wealth, experience and prestige they have acquired drop gradually out of public view, and be succeeded by firms of smaller capital, more energy, and more determination to have the fact that they sell such and such commodities known from one end of the land to the other. In other words, the new establishment advertise; the old die of dignity. The former are ravenous to pass out of obscurity into publicity; the latter believe that their publicity is so obvious that it cannot be obscured. The first understand that they must thrust themselves on public attention or be disregarded; the second, having once obtained public attention, suppose they have arrested it permanently, while, in fact nothing is more characteristic of the world than the ease with which it forgets.—Boston Transcript.

American Board.

The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions commenced their fifty fifth annual meeting at Chicago on Tuesday. The report of the Prudential Committee was read by the Rev. Mr. Treat, of Boston, from which it appears that the entire receipts of the Board for the past year, have been $534,763, 33, of which $440,666,45 has been derived from donations, $76,633 from legacies, and $18,063.45 from miscellaneous sources. Expenditures during the year. $537,004,78. The balance in the treasury at the present time is $1,147, 89. The number of missions under the care of Board is 20; stations 104; out 248; laborers employed, including missionaries, physicians, male and female assistants, native preachers and school teachers, 1,103, numbers of churches 180; church members 23,338—added during the year 1,044.

—It is expected that over $40.000,-000 of the new issue of 5-20's will be taken up with compound-interest notes.

—The rebel General Mahone has been appointed superintendent of the South Side and the Norfolk and Petersburg railroads.

—Ex-Governor Clarke, of Mississippi, who has for some months past been imprisoned at Fort Hulaski, has been set at liberty by order of the president.

—Twenty-five miles of the Atchison and Pike's Peak railroad are now compleated, and the contract for the grading of the next eighty miles is to be let immediately.

—The president is said to be strongly disposed to set aside the Louisiana constitution of 1864 and to appoint a provisional governor; but Governor Wells does not meet with favor in his eys.

—A large number of congressmen have addressed a communication to the secretary of war, requesting the retention in service of the veteran reserve corps. The secretary holds the matter in abeyance until the return of General Grant to Washington.

--Dick Turner, the keeper of the Libby prison, who is to be tried on charge of maltreatment of Union prisoners, has engaged Marmaduke Johnson as his counsel; and strong hopes are expressed by that gentleman of a disproval of the charges against his client.

—The internal revenue receipts for September were $37,939,415.82. For the ninety-six days ending with the 4th instant they amounted to $100,935,-221,04,—a sum greatly in excess of expenditures. The receipts of internal revenue yesterday were $1,465,117.

—No new national banks are being established, except a few in the south. In fact, the bank note circulation of the county is on the decrease, many banks having been required to reduce their circulation, which was far in excess of their capital, to an amount not exceeding 90 per cent of such capital.

—The report that Secretary McCulloch intended to issue additional notes to replace those absorbed in the proposed conversion of compound-interest notes into 5-20's is denied. On the contrary, it is asserted that the conversion measure is the first move of a series designed to secure a financial contraction.

—The report from the agricultural bureau for September states that the injury to the wheat crop is fully as great as was reported in the statement for August; that the quality of the new crop, in many states, is not good; and that the amount of old wheat is smaller than is generally believed.

—The election of delegates to the North Carolina state convention was not an overwhelming Union triumph, as has been reported—many secession candidates having been successful. The convention met at Raleigh on the 2d instant, and organized with Edwin G. Reade, formerly a member of the federal congress, as its president.

--In the agreement between Hiram Sibley and the Russian government, for the establishment of telegraphic communication between Russia and America, the Western Union telegraph company is given exclusive rights for thirty-three years from the time the line is compleated, and the company is allowed 40 per cent. on the net produce of dispatches transmitted by it to and from America.

—Among the ordinances adopted by the Alabama state convention was one ordering an election of state officers on the first Monday in November, and another legalizing the marriage of negroes. A memorial was adopted asking for a general amnesty; also, a resolution requesting the removal of troops from the state. The convention adjourned subject to a call of the president previous to September 1, 1866.

—The latest attempt to enforce a prohibitory liquor law in Massachusetts, through a State constabulary, has come to a stand still on an organized appeal to the United States Supreme Court for its decision as to the right of Massachusetts to exhibit sales by parties holding a United States license. One member of the Suffolk bar has about eighty cases before the United States Supreme Court.

Printer's Mistakes.

During the Mexican war one of the newspapers hurriedly announced an item of news from Mexico, that General Pillow and thirty-seven of his men had been lost in a bottle (battle.) Some other paper informed the public, not long ago, that a man in a brown surtout was yesterday brought before the court on a charge of having stolen a small ox (box) from a lady's work-bag. The stolen property was found in his waistcoat pocket. An English paper once stated that the Russian General Backinoffkosky was found dead with a long word (sword) in his mouth. It was, perhaps, the same paper that in giving a description of a battle between the Poles and Russians, said that the conflict was dreadful, and the enemy were repulsed with great laughter (slaughter) Again: a gentleman was recently brought up to answer the charge of having eaten [beaten] a stage driver for demanding more than his fare.

APPOINTMENTS.

Hon. M. S. Wilkinson, has made appointments to speak upon the issues connected with the fall elections as follows: In Winnebago City, Thursday the 19th inst. at 2 o'clock P. M. In Fairmount, Martin County on Friday the 20th inst, at 2 o'clock P. M. and in Blue Earth City on Saturday the 21st, inst. at 2 o'clock P. M. We are not certain as to what Mr. Wikinson's views are, or what he will counsel the republican voters in reference to negro suffrage. but we trust the people will give him a full hearing, as his acknowledged abilities as a statesman, and his experience as a counselor of the nation entitle his opinions to respectful consideration.

COMMUNICATION.

We are in receipt of a communication from "Occasional" respecting the Union nomination of Col. Smith, for Register of deeds taking strong grounds against the conduct of the instructed delegations of Mankato, and Garden City, and advocating the election of Bob Roberts. We are too crowded to insert it this week, but as another correspont, "Sidney" desires some ventillation of the subject, prehaps "Occasional" will vary his article in order to give Sidney the desired "light" accompanying his own views with the information.

HEAVY ARTILLERY.

This body of men arrived at St. Paul on Wednesday the 4th inst. and received a complimentary ovation from the good people of that city. They are being paid off more promptly than many of the regiments, and will soon be enjoying the immunities of the civilian. Returning soldiers report that there has been much sickness in the regiment, and that all have suffered exceedingly from oppressive heat at Chattanooga. A body of seven thousand negro troops were sent to Chattanooga to replace and perform the duties required of this regiment.

"PETERED OUT."

The Democratic candidate for Governor, Mr. Rice, who has just commenced a canvass of the State with General Marshall, has withdrawn from the field and leaves the General to visit the people, and fill the joint appointments alone. This is a virtual acknowledgement that even H. M. Rice can't save the Democracy. His plea for a release from a further canvass is noticed by the St. Paul Press whose article is copied in another column.

TARDY JUSTICE.

Our up-street cotemporary donning the garb of injured innocence prints tame denials of the motives with which the UNION charged him, in his denunciation of Mr. Gude in his issue of July 8th, concerning his fitness for the post office. "Misrepresentation" "injustice" "duty," &c, are within easy reach of the Record when it becomes necessary to patch up an unfortunate and unsuccessful position. Common sense teaches us that we have not misrepresented the Record when its proprietor and its backers boldly say that no occasion shall be lost to carry dissension into the Repulican ranks. If it intended fairness, it would have recomended, as we did, a fair trial before denouncing him as incompetent, but his act of justice comes with a bad grace so late in the day, when further anathemas are powerless to effect a political end. The Record further says that as we have referred to the matter in a manner intending to do it injustice, he considers it a duty to do us an injustice by saying what be ought to have known and proably did know was false concerning us. Duty compels him to misrepresent us because we misrepresented him. What sort of a "booktionary" does the Record take its creed from? Our signature was never appended to any petition or any other document opposing or recommending the appointment of any man for Postmasted of Mankato. Did'nt you know that Mr. Record? Sorry. Why didn't you come to headquarters and inquire? You'll lose your reputation as a local reporter if you continue to set in your office and jot down your local news from the window.

Presbyterian Synod.

We understand that the Synod of the New School Presbyterians recently held at Chatfield, was of more than common interest. The utmost harmony prevailed in all matters brought before it. On the whole it was regarded as the most interesting session of that ecclesiastical council ever holden in the state. It adjourned after four days session to meet at Stillwater the last Thursday in September 1866. The following resolutions on the state of the country were unanimously adopted.

Resolved. That this Synod with devout hearts and sincere gratitude, returns thanks to Almighty God for the wonders he has wrought, in causing the rebellion to end in the complete overthrow of slavery, and in the establishment of peace throughout our entire national domain.

Resolved. That we can never forget, nor cease to love our brave soldiers, whose patriotism and devotion to their country, have been so nobly exemplified by their achievements in the field. And while they return from fighting their country's battles, we earnestly pray that, as volunteers in the army of the Prince of Peace, they may successfully fight the battles of the Lord.

Resolved. That while we see in the martyrdom of our late President the natural culmination of that system of wickedness that is founded in the anihilation of the dearest rights of man, we will not cease to pray, that our present Chief Magistrate may have for counsellors men whose hearts God has touched, that he may also be filled with wisdom from above that will enable him to discharge his duty fearlessly and faithfully to God and to his country.

Resolved. That inasmuch as the Scriptures declare that "God is no respecter of persons," and that "He hath made of one blood all nations of men," we solemnly avouch our belief in the rights of man as enunciated in the word of God, and reiterated in the Declaration of our National Independence, and for the full enjoyment of those rights we will fearlessly contend. And we do hereby declare. that we cannot regard with any other than feelings of abhorance, any laws, whether enacted by State, or General Government, that deprive of protection, or are calculated to abridge the privileges of, or deny the right of citizenship to any portion of the inhabitants of our land simply because they are week, or of a different color, believing as we do, that any such distinction renders the nation that so legislates, alike unfit for perpetuity, and unworthy of the Blessings of Almighty God.

Communication.

MR. EDITOR:—Having had the enquiry made of me by citizens from our town, and elsewhere, as to how our people in this part of the country feel with reference to the nominations made at the recent convention. I propose, with your premission, to give at least my own views upon the subject, through your paper. Presuming that you are liberal enough to publish them, though they differ from your own. It is certainly better that they should appear in the recognized organ of our party than elsewhere.

In your issue of the 29 of Sept. you say that, "we have had quite enough soreheads in this county, and it is time we should drop intestine brawls and try our strength with our enemy. A strong ticket is presented to the people, and nothing but the grossest treachery of union men can defeat it."

There you fully express my sentiment though I am aware that I may perhaps be classed among the soreheads, for I fully confess that I have, in private and in public done considerable grumbling about the way our nominations have been made in this county ever since it has been a county. And what is more, I do not feel a bit ashamed of having done so. On the contrary I propose to agitate until a remedy is found for the abuses of the system, by allowing the people to manage their own affairs. Let every man feel that it is his duty to surrender his personal preferences to the will of the people, whenever that is constitutionally expressed. I have never yet scratched a name on the regular ticket, and shall dislike exceedingly to have to do so at the coming election, more especially as the voters of this town took more than usual interest in our caucus meeting and knowing, as we did, little or nothing about Mr. Roberts, Col. Smith was almost unanimously the choice of the meeting; and, if he was really the choice of the majority of the people of the county, he will receive at the coming election almost if not quite, the vote of every republican in the town. But on this part of the subject we need more light. It appears from the statements in the last two numbers of the UNION, and from information from other sources that four of the delegates from Garden City who were instructed by their constituents to vote against Col. Smith disregarded their instructions and cast their votes for him; also that four of the delegates from Mankato who had been instructed to vote for Roberts, chose to substitute their own will and vote for Col. Smith. Hence, it is claimed that had not these men been false to their trust Col, Smith would have not received the nomination and therefore that he is not really the nominee of the party, but only of a faction, setting themselves up above the people and if he is defeated at the polls, it will be owing to the gross treachery of the delegates who played false at the convention.

This is the way things look to me from the facts as I understand, but I shall be glad to find that things are not as bad as they look. Perhaps some of the gentlemen concerned will through your columns give some explanations or reasons for the course they pursued that may justify their course, if so, none will be better pleased than he who has thus severely censured them.

Sterling Oct. 9. SIDNEY.

MR. RICE'S "PERSONAL POLICY."

The Pioneer made the sonorous, grudgeon-catching announcement the other day that if Mr. Rice was elected Governor, he would "adopt a policy" that would complete our Railroads in a jiffy, particularly Ned Rice's Railroad, and raise the price of the Railroad lands That man must have been green indeed who did not at once comprehend the bearings of the magnificent swindling project concealed under this catching suggestion. For it was self-evident that the only policy which the State could adopt to aid in the construction of Railroads was to aid the companies to borrow money for that purpose by a loan of its credit in the form of Railroad bonds.

It was, in other words, simply an announcement that if Mr. Rice was elected Governor he was going to use all the influence of his position to revive the stupendous Loan swindle, concocted chiefly by the Rices in 1858, when they induced a Democratic legislature to pass and the people to adopt a constitutional amendment authorizing a loan of the State credit to Edmund Rice and others to the extent of Five Millions of Dollars. Under this law the State bonds amounting to two and a half millions were actually issued to carry out this Rice policy of State aid in the constructions of Railroads, as a result of which the State is now saddled with an indebtedness of $2,500,000—a debt so enormous that escape is sought in practical repudiation from the crushing weight of the burden, while it did not get a solitary mile of Railroad in return.

Either Mr. Rice's proclaimed intention if elected Governor of "adopting a policy" of State aid to Railroads, meant the revival of this disastrous loan scheme or if meant nothing, and as it could by possibility mean nothing else, it followed inevitably to the quick perceptions of the people that the elevation of a man with such wild chimeras in his head would be full of danger and ruin to the prosperity of the State, and hence the Pioneer—alarmed at our premature exposure of Mr Rice's wild and spendthrift schemes for involving the State in new Railroad speculations—now attempts to explain away its candid announcement of his purposes, in the following awkward style:

> "We stated in the editorial referred to by the Press, that if Mr. Rice was elected Governor, he would adopt a policy that would result in the construction of our public works and thus raise our lands to their proper value That policy of course is a PERSONAL POLICY that Mr. Rice has conceived and would carry out if he occupied an official position that would give him a ready hearing with the capitalists of the country."

So ho! it's a "personal policy," is it, "which Mr. Rice has conceived," and he would carry it out if he could only get a popular certificate of character that would enable him to get the ready hearing of capitalists.

Well, we are glad to know, upon such competent authority, that it's "a personal policy" he has in view, for we had already suspected as much. But we may be pardoned for suggesting that if Mr. Rice has on foot any personal schemes or policies relatting to his railroad, Bayfield or other wild land interests, he would have no right—NO RIGHT to use his official position as Governor of Minnesota to carry them out; and the simple fact that by his own confession he desires the office for the sole purpose of carrying out his personal schemes, is a sufficient and conclusive reason why he should not be elected—and the people of Minnesota will, we doubt not, take very good care that he shall not be clothed with a high and responsible official position which he announces his intention beforehand to to prostitute to his personal ends and to the promotion of his "personal policies." —St. Paul Press.

IS THIS A WHITE MAN'S GOVERNMENT.

Among the stale stock-phrases and threadbare common-place of which Mr. Rice's stupid speeches are made up, the one which he relies on as a substitute for a reply to Gen. Marshall's arguments in favor of impartial suffrage, is that barbarous dictum of Judge Taney, long since banished to the outer darkness of rebel perdition, that "this is a white man's government."

This man, who, when a year ago he was bidding for Republican support for the United States Senatorship, announced himself as an advocate of the "largest human liberty," and could "not understand why those who came here from foreign countries, that they might be free, can deny that freedom to others," now plants himself upon the revolting thesis of slavery, that "negroes have no rights which white men are bound to respect." no rights of citizenship or even of legal protection.

Has Mr. Rice learned nothing then in these past four years?

Has that infernal Dred Scott infamy been impaled upon two millions loyal bayonets, and shot through with twenty thousand loyal cannon, to such little purpose that it is not dead yet? Is it not buried deep enough in the graves of 500,000 Union and rebels soldiers, but that the stench of its putrefaction still rises above the ground to offend the nostrils of our christian civilization?

We had supposed that the Democratic party had itself "accepted the extinction of slavery as an accomplished fact," and yet here is its apostate candidate—but yesterday the self-proclaimed apostle of the "largest human liberty"—boldly reviving, through the highways and byways of the free State of Minnesota, the hideous creed of slavery—that this is a government of caste—formed exclusively by white men for white men alone, and contemplating, in its original formation, the exclusion of negroes and men of Indian decent from any share in or protection from the government.

We feel like apologizing to our readers for undertaking, in the year of our Lord 1865, a formal confutation of this obsolete and monstrous doctrine, but as long as these copperhead ghouls presist in tearing the ghastly corpse of that dead chimera from its gloomy sepulchre, we needs must bury it out of sight again. We say, then, that the assertion that this government was formed exclusively by or for white men is as false historcally as it is atrocious morally and politically. Such a barbarous, old-world fantasy never entered the heads of the fathers of the Republic, except to be denounced as a crime. They declared, indeed, as the fundamental axiom, or "self evident truth" of their theory of government, that "all men"—not all white men—but "ALL MEN are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights and that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."—St. Paul Press.

RICE ABANDONS THE JOINT CANVASS

A few days ago the public were regaled with Mr. Rice's ridiculous attempts to squirm out of his arrangement for a joint canvass of the State with Mr. Marshall. Though not without an excellent opinion of himself, he was evidently concious that he should make a sorry figure before the public—and that such a canvass, the first he attempted, would only result in exposing his intellectual weakness—and the utter baselessness of his vast pretensions to ability or statesmanship. Heretofore, by avoiding any special public display of his incapacity, he has managed to conceal from all but his immediate friends how utterly destitute he is of all the qualities of a statesman, and even of the political information with which small minds sometimes supply the lack of wisdom, though those who have watched his public career were long ago satisfied that the man was as shallow as he was dishonest.

But the joint canvass has done the business for him. It has been, on his part, by the confession of his friends, a miserable failure, whereby the only effect he produced was to convince the people he attempted to address, that so weak a cause never had so weak an advocate, and to damage himself irretrievably in public estimation wherever he had the misfortune to be heard.

Discouraged and disgusted by his fiasco, he has finally, as was anticipated, cooked up a paltry excuse for abandoning the joint canvass, as the following telegram, couched in the courteous phrase of his too charitable opponent, will show:

> WINONA, Oct. 9th 1865
> Editors Press.
> Please announce that I will speak next week at Northfield Wednesday; Faribault Thursday; and Owatonna Friday. Mr. Rice is recalled to St Paul on important Railroad business. We both regret this necessity, as the canvass, thus far has been every way pleasant.
> WM. R. MARSHALL.

That "Railroad Business" is a very convenient pretext for getting out of a bad scrape. All we know about it is, that several bets were recently made, that Rice would invent some excuse for backing out of the joint canvass, before he had been a week away—and that the bets are won. Gen. Marshall was too much for him. He surrenders at discretion, and is sent home a prisoner. St. Paul Press.

THE GARDEN IN AUTUMN.—In our calculations for autumn work, we should not neglect the garden. The winter vegtables are to be secured; the fruit-trees, raspberry, blackberry, currant and gooseberry bushes and grape vines set in order for spring, and mulched with manure. Fine cut straw or forest-tree leaves are needed on the strawberries. When all is cleaned up nicely and in shape, put a good dressing of rotten manure, and plow or spade your gardens. It kills a great many weeds, and advances the garden work in the spring

If you want very early vegetables, it is a good plan to prepare the beds in the fall, and with some kinds sow the seeds just as the ground freezes. Many vegetables that are not in the cellar are kept the best in bins of earth—a sandy loam is best. These bins can be made along the sides of the cellar, the front being laid up with brick or stone. Cabbages are best set out of doors. A good way is to sink a barrel or box in a dry part of the garden, or set it nearly on the surface and bank up around it. If set in the ground, and a good one used, cabbages will keep very good, as it is a sort of diminutive cellar, kept just at the freezing point, and it is easy of access at all times. A still easier and quicker way, and one that we have found as handy and certain as any we ever tried, is to pull the cabbage and set the heads down on the fresh earth—that is, exactly reverse their position. The large leaves on the outside of the head will fall around the center, and together with the snows, furnish a fine protection. As the cabbage is entirely on the top of the ground, it is easy to get in mid-winter.

STATE NEWS.

The Faribault Republican says: A. Blodgett, from 6½ acres of wheat, 12 bushels of seed, thrashed 222½ bushels, machine measure, of clean wheat, fit for market, and it weighed 68 lbs. to the bushel, making by weight 254 bushels of No. 1 wheat, or 40 bushels to the acre of marketable wheat. It was the variety known as Sea wheat. Can anybody beat it?

The Wabashaw Herald says the farmers in that vicinity are harvesting their Sorgom and Imphee. Mr. Davis has eight acres of imphee which is yielding about 150 gallons per acre. He also has eight acres of sorgho which he estimates will yield 200 gallons to the acre.

The first frost of the season made its appearance at Faribault on the morning of the 2d inst.

Rev. Chas Griswold of St Charles leaves his home in this county, to day, for St. Cloud, where he has been stationed for the coming year as pastor of the Methodist church, in that place. Mr. Griswold is one of the oldest residents of Winona county, and enjoys the respect and confidence of all who know him. Last winter he creditably represented this county in the Legislature, and during the summer, he acted in the capacity of Chaplain in the army.—Winona Rep. Oct. 3

PROVOST MARSHAL'S OFFICE CLOSED.—Capt. Geo. H. Keith concluded his labors as Provost Marshal of the First District, on Saturday last. and closed his office. We understand he will again become a citizen of Minneapolis.—Atlas Oct. 4th.

GOING ON.—We are informed that grading on the railroad west of this point is to be commenced immediately, and completed to Owatonna or at least as far as practicable before the setting in of winter. The track will probably be laid early next season, which will connect us with St. Paul as well as the Eastern world.—Manterville Express

STRANGERS.—We have never before noticed so many strange faces in Shakopee, as at present. Since it has become certain that the Railroad will be completed to this point this fall, our town has been the scene of much bustle and excitement; comers and goers are numerous and scores of people anxious to become residents of the place that find it impossible to get houses; every house, room and garret. is full to overflowing; and could builders be obtained at any price, many more new buildings would be put under way in addition to the many that have already been completed, we expect next season will see more building and improvements generally than any three years since the financial crisis of 1856-7.—Shakopee Argus.

PERSONAL.—We are pleased to welcome home, our friend and, to be, senior editor, Col. L. L. Baxter, of the Heavy Artillery. Col. B., we are happy to say, is in good spirits. and although he has been quite unwell of late, is now in reasonable health, and with a few weeks stay in our salubrious climate will be himself again, and his numerous friends in this county will be pleased to learn that he intends making his permanent residence in Shakopee, where he will resume the practice of law as of old.—Shakopee Argus.

No lands will be sold for less than their appraised value per acre, and the right is reserved to withdraw from market any of the tracts advertised, on the day of sale.

The terms of the sale are such by law, that lands designated "Timber," seventy five per cent, of the purchase money must be paid at the time of sale, while lands denoted "Prairie," only fifteen per cent of the purchase money will be required. When lands are not especially valuable for timber thereon, the proportion of the purchase money required down is mentioned in the proper column. In each case, the balance of the purchase money can be paid any time thereafter, from time to time, within twenty years, at the option of the purchaser: provided interest in advance at the rate of seven per cent per annum, on the unpaid balance is paid to the first day of June, 1866, and annually thereafter.

Purchase money payable in legal tender notes.

Persons purchasing lands upon which other parties have made improvements, will be required to pay the owner of the same the appraised value of improvements, one half to be paid at the time of sale, and the balance with in six months thereafter, with interest at seven per cent. per annum.

The offering of said lands will commence at 10 o'clock A. M.. at the usual place of holding court, on the day specified, and will proceed in order in which they are advertised, until all are offered. No sale will be kept open longer than one day, and no lands will be sold except at public sale.
